This was just before the great episode which was to lead to the capture of the citadel. Never did a man work so indefatigably as Wolfe. He asked no man's counsel; self-reliant, dauntless, and thorough, he strove day after day to discover the weak spot in his enemy's armour. At last he found it at a point still known as Wolfe's Cove. At a risk appalling to contemplate, he led three thousand men up the face of a cliff and on the Plains of Abraham, where he awaited Montcalm and his army, only to conquer it when it did come. And it was a victory made nobler by the conquerer's own blood. Both generals fell in the encounter. "Wolfe gave England an Empire at the cost of his life. . . . Wolfe in his short life had done more for England than any soldier, except Clive, since Marlborough; his brilliant soldiership was manifest almost from the very hour that he received his commission." Not only was James Wolfe a great soldier, but he was a great Englishman. "His virtues were as high above the spirit of the age as his military abilities, his insight, his energy, his grip, were beyond those of commanders whose opportunities were greater." He is a national hero, whose death will be well worth commemorating next month.

EVERYBODY SHOULD VISIT CANADA'S GREATEST EXHIBITION.

BEST CIVIC GOVERNMENT FROM UNPAID ALDERMEN

Those Who Serve Citizens Truest are Those Who are Content With Honour of Election.

Montreal, Aug. 28.—Thursday session of the League of American Municipalities was productive of several interesting papers on civic government which have a bearing on Montreal.

The four hundred delegates, who are keen municipal men, have found the streets dark at night, badly paved, and the sidewalks poor.

Louis Betz, of St. Paul, in the course of his speech laid great emphasis upon the necessity in municipal government for men who are willing the honour in their appointment as to serve their city without pay, recognizing nothing but responsibility and aldermen, and serving in that capacity, with the sole object of doing the best they can in the interests of the city as a whole.

"That," said he, "is the secret of the superior municipal administrations of Europe. We have not enough men of that type over here."

He also urged that there was a pressing need of more intelligence to be displayed on the part of those who go to the poll, and that in order to create this it was essential to be more thoroughly awake to the public conscience

Toronto's form of municipal government has been several times mentioned with commendation by the delegates. The convention closed Friday.

Trading on a good name and deceiving the public is what imitators of the well-known "D. & L." Menthol Plasters are doing. Dont be fooled. Insist on the genuine, "The D. & L."

Woodstock Losing One Of Its Prominent Citizens

Mr. A. P. Gibbon, Who is Moving to Peterborough to Conduct a Business College, Has Taken Active Part in Promoting Welfare of Woodstock—A Review of His Work.

PETERBOROUGH'S GAIN

The Woodstock Sentinel-Review refers in the following article to Mr. A. P. Gibbon, who is establishing a Business College in Peterborough:

In the columns of yesterday's Sentinel-Review appeared the news of Mr. A. P. Gibbon's intended removal from the city. That Mr. Gibbon's departure will be regretted by the people of Woodstock goes without saying. Very few citizens have in so quiet a way taken the interest in public affairs, civic, mercantile and religious, that has been evinced by Mr. Gibbon.

For some time past he has been the efficient principal of the Woodstock Business College. Eight years ago he joined the teaching staff as junior commercial teacher which position he held one year, prior to being appointed senior commercial teacher. For the last five years he has been principal of the Business College, an institution which under his guidance has grown in usefulness and importance in no small measure. The many pupils of the school will learn with regret of Mr. Gibbon's intended removal from the city. Outside of educational matters, Mr. Gibbon took a leading interest in numerous other municipal affairs. He was an alderman, and among the city fathers, his opinion on all matters relative to civic institutions and legislation was regarded as shrewd and practical. He made it his business to keep in touch with everything undertaken by the city authorities, and ever lent a ready hand to his share of the work whether in council or on committee.

Mr. Gibbon's departure will mean much to the best interests of the Temperance Federation in which organization he was a leading spirit, holding for some time past the office of secretary. His efforts in connection with the advancement of the temperance cause have won for him many friends among the party, where his lively interest will be much missed.

The North Oxford Prohibition Association was another local institution in which Mr. Gibbon figured as an officer, being secretary-treasurer. In Lodge circles Mr. Gibbon was also prominent to a marked degree. Besides being an officer of King Solomon's Lodge, No. 43, A.F., and A.M. he was a member of the Woodmen of the World, both of which fraternal bodies will miss him.

As treasurer of the Y. M. C. A. his undertakings in connection with the new building have been by no means small. He was also a member of the Dundas St. Methodist Church Quarterly Official Board, and assistant superintendent of the Sunday School, besides being teacher of the Bible Class in that Church.

In addition to these numerous officers, Mr. Gibbon is the auditor for more than one stock company in the city.

Mr. Gibbon has disposed of his interest as principal of the Woodstock Business College to Mr. M. J. Brophy, who will be at the head of the institution during the ensuing term. Peterborough will in all probability be the future residence of Mr. Gibbon, to which place he intends moving on Monday next, with the object in view of the establishment there of another Business College. He has already secured options on several desirable sites, at present available in Peterborough, and it is entirely likely will sometime in the not distant future erect a college. Miss Bessie Ross, a short hand instructor of the Woodstock Business College accompanies Mr. Gibbon to Peterborough, there to accept a similar position in the proposed new college. Best wishes for every success follow Mr. Gibbon to Peterborough.

ROMEO AND JULIET IN MOVING PICTURES

As an instance of the great interest taken by the public in good motion pictures it might be noted that during the afternoon show at the Crystal yesterday a large number of patrons of the place asked to see the Leopard Queen, a picture that had drawn large audiences during Wednesday and Thursday. As these customers were evidently disappointed to find the picture had been shipped to Toronto, Mr. Edwards, the proprietor, sent to the G. T. R. station and succeeded just in the nick of time in getting the films before they left. Thus the audience, by his trouble and courtesy, were enabled to enjoy this really marvellous picture. Next week the Crystal will show that grand old Shakespearean drama, "Romeo and Juliet." It takes two entire reels of two thousand feet of film, beautifully coloured, to show this picture. The patrons of the Crystal certainly have got a treat in store for Monday next.

FOR A CHORUS GIRL

Suicide of Heir to Earldom Said to Have Resulted From the Opposition of Family to Courtship

London, Aug. 28.—Despite the insistence of the family that Lord Eliot, 23, the eldest son of, and heir of the Earl of St. Germains, accidentally killed himself while examining a shotgun yesterday, the coroner's jury today returned a verdict of suicide, caused by temporary insanity brought on by the enervating climate of Egypt, where he had been serving in the army and from which he recently returned. Lord Eliot was an officer in the famous Coldstream Guards, and had been stationed at Khartoum.

Some believe, however, that his disappointment in love had something to do with his suicide. He was desparately in love with Miss Estelle Christy, known as "The Perfect Chorus Girl." He met her while she was a member of Miss Edna May's company in London and proposed to her. His titled family bitterly opposed the match, and though he had his heart set on the marriage, he agreed to call it off at his family's demand.

AN ENGLISH AVIATOR WINS

HENRY FARMAN

Bethany Aviation Field, Rheims, Aug. 28.—Henry Farman, the English aviator, a dark horse in the aviation contests, in a bi-plane of his own design, yesterday broke the world's record for duration of flight and distance in a heavier than air machine and won the Grand Prix De La Champagne—the endurance test—by a remarkable flight officially recorded as 180 kilometres (111.78 miles) in three hours, 4 minutes, 56 2-5 seconds, although he actually covered an extra ten kilometres and remained in the air ten minutes after 7:30 o'clock this evening, the hour that the timekeepers under the rules ceased to keep a record of the flight.

FIRED VOLLEY INTO BALLOON

And Three Were Killed by Russian Soldiers.

Berlin, August 27.—An astounding outrage has been perpetrated on a party of balloonists by the Russian guards who opened fire on it. The balloon was forced to descend immediately, three of the aeronauts being killed outright, and the remaining one seriously injured. An even more amazing feature of the case lies in a later message to the effect that the balloon was still over German territory when the fatal shots were fired.

A WEAK STOMACH BRINGS MISERY

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Restore Despondent Sufferers to Health.

Nothing is so distressing as a weak stomach—the victims of this trouble suffer from indigestion, biliousness, dizziness and frequent headaches. Nothing good agrees with them—meal time is a time of misery; not a time of pleasure. Relief from this suffering can be found through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—they never fail to make the weak stomach strong; to banish the distressing headaches; biliousness and dizziness. Mrs. C. S. Steeves, of Hillsboro, N. B., is one of the many who have been cured through the use of these pills. She says:—"I suffered very much from stomach trouble and would often leave the table without tasting food. I got no relief worth speaking of till I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They gradually restored my health and strength and now I am as well as ever I was. I would earnestly recommend them to all those who suffer as I did."

It is the blood—bad blood—that is the cause of nine-tenths of the ailments from which both men and women suffer. The blood is the life giving fluid of the body. When the blood is bad it is bound to poisor some part of the human system and thus it is that rheumatism, kidney trouble, indigestion, headaches and backaches and most of other troubles make their appearance. Dr Williams' Pink Pills cure all these troubles—and they cure them thoroughly—simply because they fill the veins with rich red blood. The genuine Pills bearing the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" are sold by all dealers in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

LOST BIG SUM IN RAILWAY CAR

Rome, Aug. 28.—In a carriage which he was cleaning at the station at Benevento, in Italy, an employee has found a fortune in banknotes. They were in a cashbox, and were handed over to the stationmaster. It was seen on examination that the total value of the notes was 1,700,000 lire (about £68,000.) So far nothing has been discovered to throw any light on the ownership of the money. It appears that the carriage in which it was found had come from the southern districts ravaged by the great earthquake, and one theory is that the notes may have been the spoil of thieves.

W. H. Lowrie Again Elected High Chief Ranger Of I.O.F.

Conclusion of the 13th Session of High Court at Smith's Falls—A Successful Convention—250 Delegates Present—Were Entertained by Local Lodge.

OFFICERS FOR COMING YEAR

The 13th session of the High Court for Eastern Ontario of the I. O. F. was concluded last night after two days spent in meetings in Smith's Falls. About 250 delegates were present and everything passed off in a most harmonious manner. The local lodge entertained the visitors handsomely, one of the trips being up the Rideau River and Lakes. This was very much enjoyed, as the visitors had a chance of seeing some of the rugged scenery of Eastern Ontario. The Supreme Chief Ranger, E. G. Stevenson, of Toronto, was present yesterday, and gave an address. He received an enthusiastic reception.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

H. C. R.—W. H. Lowrie, Russell, Ont.
H. V. C. R.—A. Smith, Alexandria.
H. S.—G. L. Dickenson, Manotick.
H. P. Dr. Simmons, Frankfort.
H. C.—H. O. Pratt, Ottawa.
Auditor—T. H. Rowan, Ottawa.
Mr. Lumley, Kingston.
H. A.—Rev. N. H. McGillivray, Cornwall, Ont
H. J. S.—Capt. J. E. DeHertle, Perth.
H. O.—Mrs. Helen M. Saunders, Smith's Falls.
H. S. W.—Dr. Metcalf, Vankleek Hill
H. J. W.—J. W. McIlroy, Carp, Ont.
H. S. V.—Thos. Leneaton, Kingston.
H. J. B.—W. H. Deners, Carleton Place.
H. M.—A. R. Walker, Belleville.
H. M.—J. B. St. Laurent, Ottawa.

Picton was chosen as the place where the next session will be held.

TROUBLE FOR BULL DOG

Too Careful in Guarding Home Against Unfriendly Visitors.

A bull dog belonging to an East City resident, one of the mechanical staff of the Examiner, is highly prized by its owner for the watchfulness it displays during the small hours of the night when humanity is supposed to be recuperating for the next day's toil. But a few nights ago it went a few steps too far, when following its canine instincts it gave chase to what it supposed to be a cat. Around the garden, dodging among the current bushes and grape vines it easily followed the fleeing quadruped. The latter sought the darkness of the cellar only to be cornered and worried to death.

Since the morning after, the owner of the house has shown a tendency to shun his domicile and takes his dinner down town and is very loth to remain indoors. His wife has enjoyed the recent fine weather under the orchard trees, and the poor bulldog is busy dodging boots, stove lids and other household paraphernalia. The faithful dog was over assiduous that awful night for his owner found on the cellar floor the next morning the remains of a—well, a s——k.

WOMEN ARRESTED

Two Taken in Victoria Park Last Night—In Court To-day.

Electa Armstrong and Carrie Legros a young girl of nineteen were charged at the police court this morning with being common prostitutes, and Archie Armstrong, husband of Electa Armstrong was charged with having no peaceable means of maintaining himself, but living by improper devices. All three prisoners pleaded not guilty and were remanded until Tuesday next. The young girl was arrested in Victoria Park last evening by P. C. Newhall. Armstrong and his wife were also arrested last night by P. C's Newhall and McGinty. The children of Armstrong were sent to the shelter where they will be cared for.

7 SISTERS FARMERS

They Need No Men to do the Hardest Work and no Mortgage.

Selinsgrove, Pa., Aug. 28.—Seven unmarried daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Fetter recently inherited their parents' homestead, a 120-acre farm in Penns township, Snyder County, and in receiving it came by just what the neighbours and all their friends thought justly belonged to them; but no person imagined that the mantle of doing all the work on the property also would fall to their lot. However, these seven daughters of this thrifty German family have won for themselves unique distinction. They have taken over the deed with all the farm duties generally the portion of male agriculturists. No men assist them.

Ranging in age from fifty-three to twenty-four years, these energetic women are unique among Keystone State patrons of husbandry. Miss Lydia is the oldest, and in respect of age the others descend in this order: Mary, Tillie, Sarah, Emma, Hattie, and Maggie. Physicians never stop at the Fetter homestead. Headaches and colds are unknown there, and not one of the women can remember ever having been sick in her life.

IMPORTANT FACTS

"A quart of milk is practically equal to a pound of beef in food value."

Professor Dean, of the Ontario Agricultural College. "The composition of wheat is higher in protein and heat of combustion than any other cereal prepared for human food."

Results of analysis by Bureau of Chemistry, U. S. Dept. of Agriculture.

ORANGE MEAT is simply the whole wheat berry, steam cooked, mixed with malt, flaked and toasted. This process develops in each wheat berry the highest percentage of grape sugars. It converts the starches into a form most easily digested and assimilated.

ORANGE MEAT and milk is a perfect food.

WILL PROBATED

The Late Alfred L. Davis Left $39,000 in Stocks and Life Insurance.

The Surrogate Court this morning granted papers of administration in the estate of Alfred Lawrence Davis, late president of the Imperial Guarantee and Accident Company, who died June 14. The principal part of the estate consists of 1,500 shares in the company of which the deceased was president, which are valued at $37,500. Life insurance and personalty bring the estate up to $39,841. The widow, Emma Jane Davis, receives $1,000 and one-half of the residue, the brothers and sisters receiving the remainder of the estate.

Stolen On Market While Purchase was Being Made.

Somebody kindly walked away with a lady's umbrella which she had momentarily placed against one of the tables at the market. Having made a purchase she had to open her purse and disburdened her hands for a moment. In that time some one "pinched" it and the lady has since been unable to find any clue to the person who relieved her. There are more ways of losing an umbrella than lending it.

12,000 MILES TO WED

Manila Man Knew Bride Only by Letters.

Attica, Ind., Aug. 28.—Attracted by the personality of a Hoosier maiden, as revealed through her letters, Carlos Chase De Selms, secretary to Governor-General Forbes, of the Philippine Islands, has arrived in this city, having travelled over 12,000 miles to marry a girl whom he had never seen. The prospective bride is Miss Irene Gass, one of the most popular leaders of the younger society of the city.

The wedding is the culmination of a most interesting romance, which has extended over two years. Mr. De Selms has a brother, who conducts a jewellery shop and school of watchmaking here. Miss Gass has been his stenographer, and it was through joking references to her in the letter which she wrote from her employer that the brother in Manila first heard of her.

Unknown to the elder brother, a correspondence sprung up between them, and not until the young man from Manila arrived, ostensibly to visit him, but in reality to claim his bride, did he awaken to the fact that he had unwittingly been an emissary of Cupid.

KICKED BY HORSE

Accident to Little Daughter of Alderman Morgan.

Gracie Morgan, the little daughter of Alderman Morgan, Mark street, met with a painful accident the other day. The child is visiting with some friends in Emily. She was playing in a field where some horses were. Unthinkingly in play, she grabbed a horse by the hind leg. The animal became frightened and kicked the little girl. It is not known as yet whether or not she has been seriously hurt.

ence, he declared, and consult Science healers.

According to Farlow the probable property value of Science churches is $10,000,000. The new Boston church cost more than $1,500,000, and the First Church Scientist in New York cost more than $100,000.

The big church publishing house adjoining the Boston temple, issues five regular publications, monthly, weekly and daily. The new Christian Science Monitor, a daily newspaper, is already declared to have the largest paid subscription list of any daily newspaper in the world.

Farlow said he did not know the number of healing practitioners, but he thought there were several hundred.

The number of sold copies of Mrs. Eddy's book, "Science and Health," is not known, Farlow said, because Mrs. Eddy decided to discontinue publishing statistics of that sort. He thought the sale may have been more than 250,000 copies.

WESTERNER WINS GOVERNOR GENERAL'S CUP AT OTTAWA

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—The chief features of the D. R. A. meeting, which closed yesterday, were the win again of a western man of the Governor-General's Cup, the success of the Ontario marksmen, who captured 13 out of the 18 principal prizes, and the high scores throughout the competition.

The finish of the Governor-General's Cup was most exciting. Sgt. McInnes of the Alberta Mounted Rifles and Pte. Bibby, a young shot from the 77th Regiment (Wentworth) had been shooting a neck-and-neck race, frequently tieing, and all along making the result doubtful. A great crowd gathered as the marksmen drew near the close of the thousand yards. At the end McInnes had only one shot to go to beat Bibby. He did so with a bullseye. His score was 198, Bibby's 194.

Sgt. McInnes is the first man to win the Governor-General's Cup twice, he being the winner in 1907. A western man, Capt. McHarg of Vancouver, won it last year.

Ontario's list of prizes includes the Walker Cup, Harold L. Borden Cup, Coates' Trophy, Gordon Highlanders' Trophy, Lansdowne Cup, Kirkpatrick Cup, London Merchants' Cup, Gillespie Cup, the Grand Aggregate Gold Medal, N. R. A. Silver Medal, and N. R. A. Bronze Medal. Six of these went to the 10th Royal Grenadiers, Toronto, and three to the 13th Regiment, Hamilton.

Hon. Charles Murphy presented the prizes yesterday afternoon, and in doing so, said that as a young Minister, he could make no promises for increasing the size of the ranges, but was in favor of doing so. The increased number of competitors this year has rendered an enlargement of the ranges necessary.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Catherine Griffith, an English writer, has been arrested as a shoplifter in New York.

Albert McKinn of Tamworth, jumped off a load of hay and had his leg at the ankle broken in two places.

For the murder of Mitra Hewke at Sandilands on the night of March 3, Mike Pidhoney, a foreigner, was hanged at Winnipeg yesterday.

The loss by the destruction by fire of the Strathcona Hotel at Niagara-on-the-Lake is placed at $53,000, including $15,000 on guests' property.

The royal palace at Peterhof, Russia, has been thoroughly disinfected as a result of an army officer coming down with the Asiatic cholera while on duty there.

Five coal miners were killed and twelve others seriously injured in the naval colliery at Rhondda, Wales, through the falling of an elevator cage. The connecting rod broke.

The accidental discharge of a rifle in the hands of Orval, the young son of Albert James, a Woodville blacksmith, inflicted on him a severe wound. The bullet penetrated the groin.

Joseph Miron of Hull, was whirled round in a shaft in the paper mill of the E. B. Eddy Co., Hull, until his clothes were all torn from his back. The shaft then threw him headlong onto a cement floor. No bones were broken.

Suddenly bolting away from a trained nurse in whose care she had been placed, Miss Edna Schaeffer, aged 25, a Philadelphia school teacher, ran to the bridge which spans Ranecocas, N.S., Creek, and jumped to death.

A. O. F. Officers.

Sarnia, Aug. 28.—The following officers were elected at the High Court meeting of the A. O. F.:

H. C. R., John Young, Hamilton; H. S. C. R., E. Ramsey, Montreal; H. C. Treasurer, H. C. Wilson, Toronto; C. M. S., L. Secord, Brantford; Permanent Secretary, W. Williams, Toronto; H. C. S. B., W. H. Woodstock, Toronto; H. C. J. W., A. Webber, Winnipeg; H. C. S. B., C. C. Wightman, Toronto; H. C. J. B., M. A. Saunders, Sarnia; H. C. Auditor, F. Abbott, Meaford; Laws and Relief Committee, W. J. Vale, Toronto; H. S. Chick, Toronto; J. J. Haygarth, Hamilton; W. Mills, Ingersoll; W. Richards, London.

Tragedy of Child-Lovers.

New York, Aug. 28.—The quarrel of two youthful Brooklyn lovers, Frank Williamson and Florence Wood, each 17 years of age, ended suddenly last night, when Williamson, sitting at the girl's feet on the verandah of her home on Decatur street, pulled a revolver from his hip pocket and fired, first at her, and then at himself. The first shot went into the girl's head, near the ear, and the second bullet penetrated his own temple. The two were taken unconscious to an hospital.

Steamer Adrift in Current.

Brockville, Aug. 28.—Shortly after entering the Narrows yesterday afternoon an eccentric strap in the engine-room of the steamer America snapped. She floated to a point near Fernbank, but no excitement prevailed, although she was crowded with nearly 500 passengers.

The mishap occurred in one of the most dangerous spots on the river, but there was no wind blowing and the boat managed to keep clear of the shoals.

Asquith Rents a Castle.

London, Aug. 28.—Premier Asquith has rented Lympne Castle, near Hythe, in Kent, for the remainder of the summer and the autumn, and it is there that he, with Mrs. Asquith and their children, will make his home for a number of weeks to come. Lympne Castle stands on a lofty cliff, with an outlook over the English Channel.

Alderman Insolvent.

Montreal, Aug. 28.—None of the seven aldermen examined yesterday before the Royal Commissioners, being part of the majority who have supported Ald. Giroux in the city council, would admit that they had received any advantage for their support.

Ald. Gauy, Labresque, Major, Mercier, Turner, Nault and Gadbois all denied they had known that the aldermen were making large profits in the city's paving contracts or that their votes had been influenced in any way.

For his trouble, expenses, loss of time, etc., entailed in going from the city to St. Helen's Island via the ferry, Ald. Cousens charged and received $100 in cash, and wanted $25 at first, according to his own testimony before the commission yesterday afternoon. It was paid by one Dubois, who was building a miniature railway.

English Aviator Wins.

Bethany Aviation Field, Rheims, Aug. 28.—Henry Farman, the English aviator, a dark horse in the aviation contests, in a bi-plane of his own design, yesterday broke the world's record for duration of flight and distance in a heavier than air machine and won the Grand Prix De La Champagne—the endurance test—by a remarkable flight officially recorded as 180 kilometres (111.78 miles) in three hours 4 minutes 56 2-5 seconds, although he actually covered an extra ten kilometres and remained in the air ten minutes after 7.30 o'clock this evening, the hour that the timekeepers under the rules ceased to keep a record of the flight.

Morse Back on the Job.

New York, Aug. 28.—That Charles W. Morse, the financier, recently was released from the Tombs Prison under $125,000 bail, has begun his efforts to rehabilitate his fallen fortunes was indicated to-day by the announcement that he has purchased a majority of the claims outstanding against the Metropolitan Steamship Co., which amount to $1,357,012.

Mr. Morse, who testified a month or two ago that he was absolutely without funds or property, said that the money to buy in the claims was obtained from the Morse Security Co., of Bath, Me., which concern was organized to back Mr. Morse in his attempts to re-establish himself and to save the property which he had developed before the crash of 1907. It is proposed to reorganize the Metropolitan Line by the formation of a new company.

George Manville Fenn Dead.

London, Aug. 28.—The death was announced here yesterday of George Manville Fenn, the novelist. He was born in 1831.

Boys of the present, and thousands of men who were boys not so many years ago, will deplore the death of Manville Fenn. His books for juveniles were notable for the atmosphere of probability, his heroes acted and talked as real boys might do, and were not the paragons that most authors create. Neither did he have to go far afield for scenes of interest or derring-do—many of his most absorbing tales finding their locale in good old Merrie England. He was a favorite contributor to The Boys' Own Paper and other such publications.

Still Want Canadian Shingles.

Vancouver, Aug. 28.—An advance of 20 cents per thousand in the duty on shingles entering the United States, making the tariff now 50 cents, has not by any means shut out of the States the product. The British Columbia Shingle Mills business shows no dropping.

Big Trees in Danger.

Yosemite, Calif., Aug. 28.—A forest fire at the entrance to the Yosemite Valley threatens destruction of the Big Tree Grove, known as the Merced group, one of the world's famous collections of gigantics.

PIMPLES, BLACKHEADS, ECZEMA, SALT RHEUM

These disfiguring skin diseases are caused by impure blood, which becomes disordered through Imperfect Digestion, Torpid Liver, or Inactive Kidneys. The pores of the skin close up, poisonous accumulations which should be eliminated are retained, and weaken and putrify the blood. Ferrozone has a specific action on blood impurities and drives them quickly from the system. It stimulates the Kidneys and Liver to healthy action, neutralizes Uric acid, keeps the pores of the skin open, and destroys germs. Ferrozone is a specific for every form of skin disease, and is used with astonishing success the world over. It acts directly on the blood, freeing it of the foul matter that breaks out in such painful and distressing blemishes. There are no unpleasant after-effects from Ferrozone, which does not depress the heart, and is free from Mercury, Potash, and harmful drugs. By using Ferrozone you have the BEST treatment for Skin Diseases and Blood Disorders. No doctor can prescribe anything better, probably nothing so good. Price 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50. Sold everywhere by druggists.

"For five years my face was disfigured by raw, bleeding eruptions that resisted all treatment. Three Kingston doctors did their best for me, but failed. I used Ferrozone and was perfectly cured." Mary Shanly, Pittsburg, Ont.

FERROZONE CURES

Says She's Orville Wright Wife.

Portland, Ore., Aug. 28.—A woman here asserts that she is the wife of Orville Wright, the famous aeroplanist. She is supporting her son, Lester, by doing day work and nursing, and says she has heard from Wright, and has his promise to arrange for the education of the boy, who is 11 years old. The girl, who says Orville Wright married her in October, 1897, was Ada Miller, of Central City, Neb. To-day she is Mrs. J. R. Carson.

"I was only 15 when Orville married me," said Mrs. Carson. Both our parents opposed the marriage. A year later Lester was born. Then Orville left me, and his uncle told me he was dead. When I came west nine years ago I met J. R. Carson, a boyhood friend, and we were married in Vancouver. Carson and I separated, and he is now in Wyoming."

Will Operate on Harriman.

New York, Aug. 28.—Conflicting stories continue to circulate as to the ailment from which E. H. Harriman is suffering.

The arrival at Arden to-day of two tanks of oxygen and a small collapsible hospital cot was responsible for serious conjectures, but all that could be learned from the residence was that Mr. Harriman was sitting on the porch conversing with workmen. Later, an auto with three strangers arrived and rushed past the guard of newspapermen at the gate. The pressmen are on the watch day and night, intercepting everybody they can.

$25,000 Stolen From Strong Box.

Prince Rupert, Aug. 28.—With her strong-box broken into and a package containing $25,000 missing, being the pay roll designed for the canneries on the Bass River, the Boscowitz steamship Deniz arrived early yesterday morning from Port Essington. She anchored in the harbor to prevent anyone leaving the ship.

Search seemed to implicate several of the crew, including the steward, fireman, and Chinese cooks, money being hidden in mattresses, loaves of bread, and various places. All but $2,500 were recovered, and the suspects are in jail.

Strike-Breakers Quite Work.

Pittsburg, Aug. 28.—Imported men, numbering 200, quit work yesterday at the Pressed Steel Car Co., McKee's Rocks, and in a body marched to the bank of the Ohio River, where they will camp until the company has paid them for their work. The men alleged they were given poor food, subjected to cruel treatment and that they were forced to work when they wanted to quit.

C. N. R. Loses Case.

Bracebridge, Aug. 28.—After fighting in the courts against the Canadian Northern Railway for four years, J. J. Beaumont, who owns a 1,000-acre farm on the Muskoka River, four miles from here, has secured an order from the Railway Commission that the material used by the railway for filling in Coulter's Narrows was to be removed by April next.

Boy Drowns.

Cayuga, Ont., Aug. 28.—Yesterday afternoon Norman, the five-year-old son of Mrs. Thomas McDonald, while playing on a dock used by the Imperial Plaster Co., slipped into water about five feet deep and was drowned. His hat was noticed floating on the water.

Wells to Be Lieut.-Governor.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 28.—Hon. W. C. Wells will be the next Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, according to advices received yesterday.

Mr. Wells was Commissioner of Lands and Works in the Dunsmuir and Prior Governments from 1901 to 1905.

Highwaymen Foiled.

Berlin, Aug. 28.—A daring attempt at a hold-up took place Thursday night about midnight. John Hessenauer was driving in a buggy with two young ladies, when two men came out from behind some trees, and one got in front of the horse, and the other, standing outside the buggy, pointed a revolver at Hessenauer and demanded his money.

Hessenauer whipped up the horse and drove on.

Body Burned in Rubbish Heap.

Soperton, Ga., Aug. 28.—After killing one man and seriously wounding two others in the posse which was chasing him, E. Clark, a negro convict, serving a life sentence in the chain gang for murder, was killed at sunrise yesterday. His body was burned on a rubbish heap.

Big Coal Docks Planned.

Port Arthur, Aug. 28.—T. W. McDermot, of Ottawa, representing Ottawa and American capitalists, is asking the city for assistance in locating a big coal dock plant to cater to the western trade. He states $50,000 would be expended in construction.

Sold Liquor to Indians.

Brockville, Aug. 28.—The police arrested three Indians filled with firewater. They were fined $9 each, and J. Cronin, who supplied them with the liquor, was sentenced to three months' imprisonment in default of a fine of $50.

Daily Train Service.

Port Arthur, Aug. 28.—Gen. Manager McLeod, of the Canadian Northern, states that the daily passenger train will be kept in service on the line between here and Winnipeg all winter, six days a week, at any rate.

BERESFORD STILL KEEPS SILENT

Refuses to Make Any Statement Until Tuesday.

WILL VISIT FALLS SUNDAY

Famous British Admiral, Who Is in Canada to Open Toronto Exhibition, Reaches That City To-Day—Goes For Pleasure Trip on Gooderham Yacht—Wants to Know More of Canada.

Toronto, Aug. 28.—Lord Charles Beresford will arrive Sunday quietly at Niagara Falls, accompanied by several prominent men and his private secretary, Hon. W. Carlton.

Immediately after his arrival in Toronto by special train from Montreal this afternoon, the ex-commander of the Channel fleet will board George H. Gooderham's yacht, Oriole II., and will be the guest of Mr. Gooderham until they return to the city on Monday morning. Others of the party will be W. K. George and M. H. Irish. The yacht will head for Niagara and will anchor there until Monday morning, when she will return to Toronto.

On Monday afternoon about 4 o'clock, Mayor Oliver will pay Lord Beresford a call in his official capacity, and later the city council will tender the admiral an address. On Monday evening he will be entertained privately by Toronto friends.

Toronto's National Exhibition will be ceremoniously opened at 2 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon.

Lord Charles will go out to the Exhibition grounds at 12.30, and take a jaunt around on a brief inspection of the various attractions at the grounds prior to touching the button at 3 o'clock, which will set the great fair humming for two weeks.

Although the admiral was greeted by a number of reporters as soon as he reached Quebec yesterday, he displayed devotion to naval ethics.

Having came to Canada especially in acceptance of an invitation to open the Toronto Exhibition, he gently but firmly declined to be interviewed.

"The pith of my views which I came to Canada to circulate will be given in my reply to the president's address at the Exhibition," said Admiral Beresford, explaining that to do otherwise would be discourteous to the Exhibition management.

His Lordship is accompanied by Earl Dudley Carlton, a great grandson of Lord Dorchester, Ex-Governor-General of Canada, and valets. His program for his Canadian visit is by no means decided.

"I had a little time to spare and this invitation came most opportunely," he said. "I also wished to know something more of Canada and the Canadians, whom I like for their wide-awake energy."

He has not yet decided to visit the far west, but he will spend a day at least in the Cobalt country. He will also speak in Montreal on his way home. His intention is to be back in England early in October, for the great banquet that will be held in commemoration of the Battle of Trafalgar.

Mayor Hopewell, of Ottawa, will be in Toronto to-day, to personally tender an invitation to Sir Charles to visit the capital during fair week.

Safe-Breaker Arrested.

Toronto, Aug. 28.—Albert Walmsley, a noted crook, was arrested by Detectives Mackie and McKinney on Yonge street in front of Scholes' Hotel, about 9 o'clock last night. The warrant was issued over a year ago, and was sent from Blythe. It charges Walmsley with breaking open the safe of a bank and helping himself to $1,000.

Accused is a smooth-looking young man and has been arrested in Canada and the United States several times for picking pockets.

The New Commandant.

Kingston, Aug. 28.—On Oct. 12 the term of Col. E. T. Taylor as commandant of the Royal Military College will expire. It is his intention to obtain leave before that date in order that he may visit friends before sailing for England.

His place at the college will be taken by Lieut.-Col. Crowe, of the Royal Field Artillery, who is a graduate of the staff college, and who entered the artillery in 1883.

Child Smothers.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 28.—Viola Parks, a five-year-old girl, met a shocking death while playing at hide-and-seek in her home near Clark's Lake.

The little one used an old-fashioned trunk which was up in the attic to hide in. The lid locked itself when the child lowered it over her head, and she was smothered to death.

The mother is almost insane from shock.

Longshoremen's Headquarters.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 28.—It is now practically certain the headquarters of the International Longshoremen's Association will go from Detroit to Buffalo. With headquarters in Buffalo the officers will be much more closely in touch with the Canadian organization, which has now grown to large proportions.

A C.P.R. TRAIN HITS A BUGGY

One Youth Is Killed and One Injured at Level Crossing.

COULD NOT SEE THE TRAIN

Three Young Men in a Buggy at Streetsville Are Cut Down by Swiftly Moving Train—Thomas Gaunt Is Killed and Fred Swithenbank Fractures Skull—Another One Escapes.

Toronto, Aug. 28.—The level and unprotected crossing has claimed another victim.

While driving over the level crossing out of Streetsville Thomas Gaunt, aged 21, and only son of John Gaunt of that town, was instantly killed by the C. P. R. Chicago flyer. In the rig with him were Fred Swithenbank, 17-year-old son of John Swithenbank, who received a severe fracture of the skull, and John Ward, also of Streetsville, who escaped.

The horse was almost cut to pieces and the rig was smashed into kindling wood.

By dropping out of the back of the buggy when the train was only ten feet away, Ward escaped.

The young men had hitched up Mr. Gaunt's horse and were enjoying a drive. They did not hear the train coming, and some people say that the whistle did not blow.

Before reaching the crossing the train sweeps around a sharp curve. At the junction of the track and the road is an orchard, which shuts out the view. The train was travelling at a high speed, and before the young men could realize was on top of them.

The engine struck the rig about the front wheel and Gaunt was carried down the track with the buggy and horse, while Smithenbank was thrown to one side of the track. The injured boy was brought on the train to Toronto and taken to St. Michael's Hospital, where he was still unconscious early this morning and very low. The body of young Gaunt was removed to the home of his father.

The deceased was boss weaver and Swithenbank an employe of the Oriental Textiles, Ltd., of Streetsville. John Gaunt formerly lived at West Toronto.

Coroner Lawson, of Brampton, was notified.

To Improve Detroit Channel.

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—The United States has applied for permission to carry on extensive works on the Canadian side of the Detroit River for the purpose of deepening and straightening the channel in the vicinity of the Bois Blanc Island.

The work would require an expenditure of about two million dollars. The traffic of the United States vessels is particularly heavy at this point, which is near the Lime Kiln Crossing, where the United States has already spent a couple of million dollars in works on the channel on the Canadian side.

The application has been referred to the waterways commissioners, but it is practically certain that it will be granted.

Rebuilding of Tudhope Works.

Orillia, Aug. 28.—J. B. Tudhope, M. M.P., head of Tudhope & Co., whose carriage works were destroyed last Saturday, gave emphatic denial last night to a report that the firm would remove its factory to Winnipeg.

"We have no such intention," he said. "Winnipeg would be no good for manufacturing in our line. Whether we will rebuild in Orillia is not yet decided, however, and will not be for a few days. We have received a number of invitations from other towns and, while sentiment would have us stay, still it's a matter of business."

Wireless In Fiji Islands.

Sydney, N.S.W., Aug. 28.—Delegates representing the Colonial Office and the Federal Government are conferring at Fiji with the high commissioner of the Western Pacific regarding the installation of wireless telegraphy throughout the Pacific Islands and on the administration of the British possessions in Oceania.

It is understood that the Commonwealth desires to acquire increased status of control in the British Islands in the Pacific, making Australia the seat of administration.

Dynamite Kills Two.

Cornwall, Aug. 28.—Near Dickinson Centre, N. Y., while they were engaged in blasting rock in a field, Melvin Wood, a prosperous farmer, was working with an assistant, named William McClure, clearing up some land, when a charge of dynamite exploded. Both were killed.

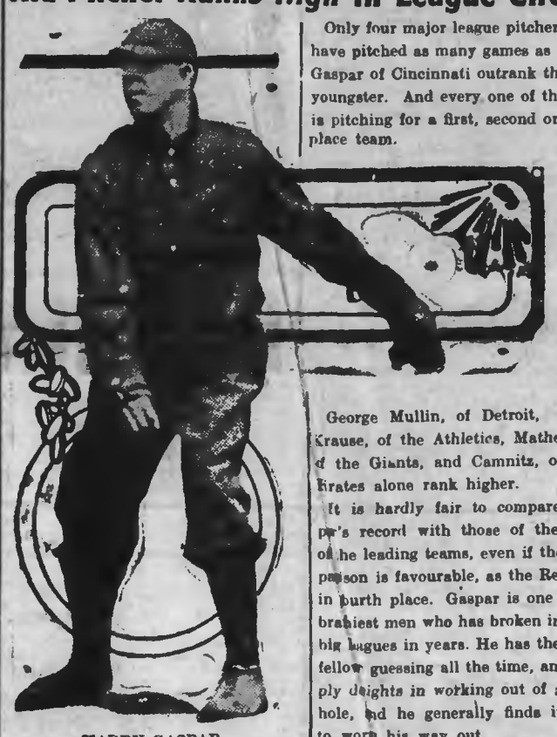
Kid Pitcher Ranks High In League Circles



HARRY GASPAR.

Only four major league pitchers who have pitched as many games as Harry Gaspar of Cincinnati outrank the Red youngster. And every one of the four is pitching for a first, second or third place team.

George Mullin, of Detroit, Harry Krause, of the Athletics, Mathewson, of the Giants, and Camnitz, of the Brates alone rank higher.

It is hardly fair to compare Gaspar's record with those of the stars of the leading teams, even if the comparison is favourable, as the Reds are in fourth place. Gaspar is one of the brainiest men who has broken into the big lagues in years. He has the other fellow guessing all the time, and simply delights in working out of a tight hole, and he generally finds it easy to work his way out.

NEW IRON MAN FOR NEW YORK

"Dutch" KLAWITTER.

Shreveport, La., Aug. 27.—The New York National League team seems to like "Iron Men." They had McGinnity and then Durham and now "Iron Man" Klawitter, of the Shreveport team has been purchased.

Albert A. Klawitter, better known as "Dutch" Klawitter, is the pick of the Texas League right handed pitchers. He will leave here for his big league try out September 6.

Klawitter is said by baseball men to be even better than Bob Harmon, the Shreveport youngster sold to Breshahan for the Cardinals. He is a utility man, at home at any place on the diamond.

Klawitter won his name of "Iron Man" by pitching three double headers within 30 days, winning five of the six games.

AN OUTFIELDER OF SOME CLASS

REBEL OAKES.

Last season Rebel Oakes was a sensation on the Pacific Coast. He was an outfielder on the Los Angeles team when Clarke Griffith secured him.

That the fiery leader of the Reds was in right when he got Oakes has been verified, for up to the time he was knocked out for three hours as the result of a collision with Second Baseman Alterman of Brooklyn, he was hitting at a .320 clip.

Oakes is one of the five grand youngsters picked up by Griffith last fall, the others being Bob Bescher, who leads the league in base stealing; Dick Hoblitzell, the first baseman; Dick Egan, the second base wonder and Harry Gasper, the kid pitcher who came from the Waterloo Central association club and has been up with the leading pitchers of the National all season.

NIFTY LOOKING FRONT PIECE, EH? BEAUTY OUT FOR WORLD'S RECORD

SAN FRANCISCO.

Isn't he a beauty?

According to the expressed opinion of Ed. Geers, dean of drivers, a horse with such a head is the horse to buy. Intelligence, kindness, honesty are all there.

A woman would call hom a "perfect love of a horse."

Just keep your eye on this fellow. He's trailing around the grand circuit with his off eye on that mark of 2.02¼—the stallion trotting record for a mile, hung out by Cresceus at Columbus, O., in 1901.

San Francisco has taken one whirl at the figure, but a cool wind prevented him lowering it. Horsemen believe the year will witness the lowering of the time-honoured figure and that San Francisco is the stallion with a chance to lower it.

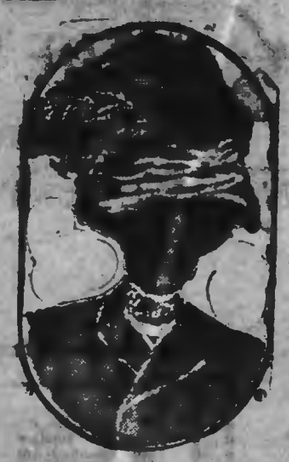
THE NEW COSSACK HAT AND HOW MAMIE IS GOING TO BE RIGHT IN STYLE THIS FALL

1.—So this is the new Cossack Hat that they're all raving about. It's pretty, but so is the price Forty dollars for that mountain of millinery! Not for mine! Let's see how we can be stylish this Autumn without living on cheese and crackers as an aid to our little pile.

2.—That old muff is about the shape of the Cossack's brain protector.

3.—It might do with a little disguising, and it is certainly becoming to my particular style of beauty. Quite high enough, too, to be freakish, and that's the thing nowadays.

4.—A bird and a feather and a bunch of ribbon and ——



5.—If any Cossack dares to pass me without saluting I'll report him to the Colonel! How's this for a fair-sized bluff for the new fall hat?

DIES AT CHEMONG AFTER HAVING HAD A FIGHT

take that kind of language from anyone," he had said in relating the circumstances. He told Mr. Long also that on Monday night Fred Jopling had stopped him on the way home from the pavilion and had very roughly treated him.

County Constable Archie Moore was investigating the case last night and empanelling a jury for this morning's inquest. When seen by the reporters in regard to the matter he declined to talk at first, but on being pressed stated that no complaint of assault had been made to him. He had been going into the case he said, and it seemed to him that the parties making the assault had waited for Bollard on his way home from the dance, and had sprung out at him from the trees. Further than that he had nothing to say.

Heard the Noise

The Examiner saw Mr. Jas. Long, near whose place the affair occurred. Mr. Long had retired for the night, and although he heard the noise did not investigate and knew nothing of the affair, save what his son had told him afterwards.

Mr. Hartshorn was suggested as a person who might be able to give some information as to the encounter, but when the reporters called at his cottage he declined to discuss the affair at all. "I have absolutely nothing for publication," he said emphatically.

Mr. W. C. McPherson, of Toronto, brother-in-law of the deceased, was interviewed and his version of the affair was much as has been already given, i.e., that Arthur had been assaulted by some of the young men of the village while coming home from the pavilion in company with two others. He could throw no light upon the incidents leading up to the encounter.

Doctors Refuse to Talk.

Drs. Scott and Greer, when asked for a statement in regard to the affair, refused to give any information whatever in regard to the matter. They would be called as witnesses at the inquest, they stated and would not give any information as to the injuries or the cause of death until that time.

Miss Ada Minns, when seen by the reporters, also refused to discuss the affair, and would give no information whatever in regard to the alleged assault

The circumstances in the case were reported to Coroner Dr Gray, and on hearing some of the particulars that official instructed Constable Moore to empanel a jury and decided to hold an inquest this morning.

Mr. Bollard, the boy's father, was in Toronto, and word was sent to him when it was seen that he was in a most serious condition Mr. Pollard came to Peterborough on the 7.15 C. P. R. train and was taken to Chemong in an automobile.

His grief, when he saw his son, was pitiable. A few minutes after his arrival he broke out into hysterical sobbing that could be heard for some distance, breaking down entirely, and he had to be assisted outside on to the verandah, where he revived. Mrs. Bollard and her daughter, Mrs. W. E. McPherson, of Toronto, were equally affected.

The family rented Mr. Myles Henry's summer residence, "Jubilee Cottage," for the balance of the season a couple of weeks ago and had been having an enjoyable time at the park. Young Bollard was very well known to the Chemong residents, and was evidently most popular with them as they speak of him in terms of the highest praise. The sad affair has cast a deep shadow over the Park and people are saying that they do not care now how soon they go home. Last night little groups here and there could be seen discussing the affair in whispers, and there is general gloom.

The Inquest.

The only evidence heard at the inquest which was opened by Coroner Dr. Gray at Belleghem's undertaking establishment this morning was from Dr. Scott, the physician who had been attending Bollard. He refused to make any statement as to the cause of death, although he described the symptoms fully. After hearing his evidence the inquest was adjourned until Monday night

The Coroner's Jury consisted of the following: Thomas Edgar, Nelson Blewett, Robtert Scott, Herbert Scott, Robert Telford, John Archer, William Faul, Alex. McGregor, Joseph Archer, Jas. Young, Sam Stinson, Edward Archer, Thomas Graham and Robert Bell.

Warden R. N. Scott was chosen as the foreman of the jury and after viewing the body returned to hear Dr. Scott's evidence.

Dr Scott, sworn, testified that he was a physician, practising in Peterborough, and that he had been called to attend the late Arthur Bollard at Chemong Park. He had gone out about four o'clock on Thursday afternoon, and had found the deceased in bed at "Jubilee Cottage." The witness had made some inquiries, and had found that the patient had been taken suddenly ill at eight o'clock that morning, with vomiting, diarrhoea, and cramps. Witness found him suffering very much and he complained of pains in his abdomen. He also stated that he had been hurt in the lower part of the abdomen, and asked the doctor to examine the part. There was some congestion in the parts but no swelling or particular discolouring The witness took his temperature and found it to be 101:3-5, about three degrees above the normal, and his pulse in his wrist running as high as 144, about twice the normal. He had examined his heart and found no lesion there. The witness had gone over the patient carefully, and had found no evidence of any other trouble. He then administered a hypodermic of morphine, which gave the patient considerable relief. He had found that he had been vomiting frequently since morning.

Dr. Scott called on Bollard again about five o'clock the same afternoon, and he seemed more comfortable then. He was in a toxinic condition, that is, poisons had been formed in the system as indicated by the high temperature and the blood in the stools, accompanied by an offensive odour.

On Friday morning at 7.30 o'clock, Dr Scott received word that the patient's feet and nose were cold, and that he had been delirious through the night. He went out at once and found Bollard in a very depressed condition. He was convinced when he saw him that he couldn't recover. He couldn't find the pulse in his wrist at all and his temperature was 102:3-5. The witness telephoned for Dr. Greer to come out and the two administered all the restoratives and stimulants possible. Dr. Scott returned about 2 o'clock in company with Dr. Halliday and found Bollard dying. He passed away at 3.30 o'clock without regaining consciousness.

The witness preferred not to make a statement of the cause of death without a postmortem being conducted Bollard's forehead was bruised in spots, but there were no other marks of violence except what he had mentioned. The symptoms would indicate acute inflammatory affection or toxinic affection. The abdomen was flat and there was no bloating of the bowels, which would indicate that the trouble was inside those organs. The witness stated that he never had a case like it before.

To Mr. D. O'Connell, who was present, presumably in the interests of some of the parties interested, witness said that when he first saw Bollard he did not think that he was going to die, and that he did not think that the patient thought so at that time.

Dr. Scott was chosen to perform the postmortem, and was given authority by the jury to select an assistant.

The inquest was then adjourned to meet at 7.30 o'clock on Monday night, in the County Council chambers.

County Crown Attorney Wood, asked by the Examiner if any arrests would possibly be made, declined to make a statement.

WHEN STEARNS AWOKE.

By Frank H. Williams

Otto Stearns was known to his associates as an unimpassioned, very self-contained orchestra director. Stearns was a wonderful musician, everyone said, although no one had known him to give any particular evidence of his powers. He conducted the orchestra at matinees and other times when the first director felt unable or unwilling to assume the task.

Weimer, a close friend of Stearns, was wont to declare that at heart the latter was fiery and impassioned—that he would be the grandest director that world had ever seen if something would only happen to awaken him. No one else, however, held this belief.

On a particularly hot, sultry afternoon, the orchestra was giving one of the last concerts of the season. It was an unusually important concert, as representatives of a city which intended to engage the band for a series of performances were in attendance. Stearns was conducting the musicians, owing to the fact that the conductor was ill. He was unusually lifeless, even for himself, and Weimer, in an intermission, snorted, in "Wake up! Wake up!" he whispered, fiercely, to his friend. "Can't you see those fellows are getting disgusted with the playing? Wake up, man!"

Stearns shook his head wearily and turned back to his stand and cavertly glanced at a letter. Weimert saw this action and it clinched his idea that some girl was the cause of Stearn's lethargy. Suddenly an idea flashe linto Weimert's head. He hastily left his seat and walked off the stage. In a moment or so he returned, a confident smile on his face.

"Watch Stearns during this next piece," Weimert whispered to the man next to him in the orchestra.

The following number was a wonderfully fiery selection, but the orchestra, depressed by Stearn's dull direction, dragged along wearily. Then, something remarkable happened. Weimert, who was closely watching Stearns, saw the latter's head go up with a new gesture. His body too a more virile, energetic pose New life seemed to flow into him He became animated, alive, awake—and with power and confidence fairly drey from power and confidence fairly drew from the ondering musicians the passionate note of te score Stearns had become another man. All that he formerly lacked he now had, and Weimert as he played manfully, observed Stearns with the gloating eye of a victor.

The number came to a magnificent crashing close, that started thunders of applause from the meager audience. The day was won, Weimert saw as he glanced at the other city's representatives. There was no longer any doubt but that they would engage the orchestra. Then Weimert turned to the man beside him.

"See," he said, as he started to place his instrument in its case. "See, I was right. It was a girl—that one who has been hanging around here for some days. She wrote a letter to Stearns some time ago, turning him down. Since then she has regretted that action. The letter Stearns looked at this afternoon was her old one. I put two and two together and had her show herself at the door where Stearns could see her. He used to be a great director, but when the girl turned him down, he broke up. Then, when he saw her again, he made the music talk to her—to win her back. See, they are together—it is all right."

THE POET

By Stuart B. Stone

The Peot wore long, reddish, lion-mane hair, which he would not have combed for a field of cloth of gold. His eyes were the slate of the sky when the rain falls and they looked always and everlasting miles and miles past you. One could stand up close and see the very dreams in them. He ewas dreadfully absentminded and often walked down to his work at the gas house with his gray slouch hat sitting wide before.

The Pedagog parted her straight black hair in the middle and talked unfailingly through her nose. She wore extremely thick spectacles and for all the fashion magazines and for all the silk-and-satin show windows, she would never know how to dress. Which, as everyone knows, is the one unpardonable sin for the woman.

They used to sit for hours and hours without talking. The Poet would hold the Pedagog's cold, bloodless hand in his slim, tapering one, and, if they did choose to talk, it was of transcendentalism or the Odyssey. The conversation would not have been in telligible to you or to me. But the Poet and the Pedagog called it soul-converse and were happy, very happy.

The wedding was a quiet affair. It was performed by a priest of some mystic, long-named cult, and the Poet bought a straw hat for the occasion. Afterward he bit off half the brim in absent-minded perturbation. The Pedagog wore a combination of green and grey, very much like the ladies in the 13 cent chromes you may buy reduced on Friday. Nevertheless they babbled of affinity and the stars of love—oh, so tremendously happy!

Finally, with things in apple-pie order, the Pedagog prepared their first warm meal ,and the Peot, with a sigh of dreamy comfort, sat down to partake thereof.

The Peot sniffed his high-bred nose. "There is something burning, love," he warned.

The lady investigated and reported nothing ablaze. The Poet picked up a dumpling thing and sniffed again. "Ah, my earth-divinity," he sighed, "it is strange new food you have prepared. What is it?"

The Pedagog arched her classic brow. "Don't jest, Bartholomew. You konw well it is a biscuit."

The Peot tapped the lemon tinted thing. It gave off a sound like oaken planking. A "biscuit!" he cried. "My mother did not make them so!"

The Pedagog frowned ominously. The Peot sniffed again, then strode to the window and admitted a gust of air. He was very delicate and very irasoible. "I die!" he cried. "My ethereal soul revolts at the saffron, rock-like mess! I rebel!"

"Mess!" echoed the Pedagog. "Rebel! You pampered shadow of a man! You bunch of nerves and temperament! You"—

The Poet turned in shrill rage. "If these are biscuits, take them—eat them—disinfect them!" He picked the dumpling things from the plate and hurled them in ungovernable passion at the Pedagog. The Pedagog, with shrill taunting, hurled them back. The air was filled with flying biscuits. Candlesticks, gas mantles, vases of old Austria fell to the floor and smashed. A particular heavy, soggy dimpling-biscuit struck a bronze Cupid, which tumbled. The figure raised just four drops of bright red blood as it whizzed past the lady's temple.

"I die," she cried, "I die a martyr to poetic temperamental infirmities!" She closed her eyes and would have toppled to the floor had not the poet, biscuit in hand rushed forward.

"No, no!" he exclaimed ;"please don't die, Eugenia! I've called you earth-divinity, star-being, love-goddess—and dreamed that anything he dessa—nd dreamed that anything he given for the short time that he was in site of the land in the old rotha dess—and dreamed that anything you touched woul dturn ambrosia—and I was wrong. You are just the sweetest little woman in the world—and of course your biscuits are—just—well"

The Pedagog opened her blue eyes. "And you are not a soulmate, but just a man," she sighed happily. "Just a plain, awkward, hot-headed, dear, sweet man!"

"Yes, love," nodded the Poet; and the lady arousing, he gathered the 13 saffron biscuits and ate them every one.

FATALITY AT RACES

Three Separate Smash Ups—One Driver Killed—Haunted by Scene of the Disaster, Young Girl Jumps from 3 Storey Window.

WAS STILL SLEEPING

Brighton Beach, Aug. 30.—The record for the first nine hours of the 24-hour automobile race on the new speedrome track was one driver killed, one very badly injured, another painfully burned and a policeman crippled, having had both legs smashed. The injuries resulted from three separate smash-ups.

Haunted and unnerved by the ever-recurring picture of the fatal disaster that she had witnessed only a few hours before, and while the scene was again vivid in her mind during her sleep, Miss Gertrude White, 20 years old, of No. 4 Manhattan street, rose from her bed and plunged through a third storey window. An hour later she died in the J. Hood Wright Hospital, muttering something about automobiles.

SEEKING TREASURE

American Syndicate With Diving Apparatus After Lost Fortune of Captain Kidd.

Halifax, N.S., Aug. 30.—Another attempt to recover the treasure of Captain Kidd, which is supposed to be hidden on Oak Island in Mahone Bay, will be started next week by a party of New York men who are here. H. L. Bowdoin and M. V. Andrews are the leaders of the treasure-seekers, and with them are several others who have at previous times searched for the treasure, so that they will not be without experience in their hunt. A large quantity of apparatus to be used in the search has also arrived.

In discussing the treasure-seekers' method of operation, Mr. Bowdoin said:

"If there is anything in the old records which we possess we will get the treasure. We are going after it from an engineering standpoint, and have with us several new inventions in the way of diving apparatus that will make the task easy. We have a diving suit in which the man can go down 500 feet—a thing which has never been tried by any other person except myself. I expect to have the treasure inside of two weeks, and if we cannot get it in a month it will be because there is no gold there."

TO-NIGHT

Don't forget the Moonlight Excursion to-night under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A. A good programme on board. The steamer Otonabee leaves Wolfe street wharf at 8, Street Car wharf at 8:30. Bay tickets at the wharf from members of the committee. 1d50.

GOING TO PERTH

Brockville Trip for 57th Regiment Has Been Cancelled.

The trip of the 57th Regiment to Brockville on Labour Day has been cancelled on account of outbreak of typhoid fever there. The regiment will instead go to Perth for the holiday and the men are assured of just as good a time as if the original programme was carried out. A meeting of the officers was held on Saturday night when the above decision was arrived at.

Perth is a very pretty town of 6,000 or 7,000 people, and one of the features of the trip will be a sail down the little canal to the Rideau.

The weekly drill will be held to-night and all the men who wish to go next Saturday on the trip are requested to turn out to-night.

No treatment is so well suited for this purpose and none is so entirely satisfactory.

LIVES LOST, HOMES DESTROYED BY HEAVY FLOODS IN MEXICO

Several Hundred Persons Drowned and Property Loss Amounts to Millions—Canadian Firm of Mackenzie and Mann are Heavy Losers—Four Days of Rain Precipitates Torrent.

Monterey, Mexico, Aug. 30.—Several hundred lives lost by drowning, thousands homeless and a property loss of millions, is the result of a terrible flood which swept over this district between one and two o'clock Sunday morning.

The swollen Santa Catrina River, due to the continued fall of rain for the past 72 hours, swept everything before it and hardly a vestige is left of what was a few days ago, a conglomeration of small huts swarming with families belonging to the poorer classes.

The flood reached its crest between one and three o'clock Saturday morning. Many families were swept to death with hardly a chance for their lives.

Victims were swept from their houses, on the tops of which many had sought shelter.

The losses are estimated at from seven to twelve million dollars.

Monterey smelter, one of the largest in Mexico, suffered loss variously estimated at from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000.

The Monterey steel plant, the only plant of its kind in the republic, which cost $10,000,000, is reported to have been damaged to the extent of from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000.

The electric light and street railway system of Monterey, modern in every respect and constructed about three years ago by a Canadian company in which MacKenzie and Mann, are heavily interested, was damaged to the extent of approximately $1,500,000.

The Monterey water and sewerage system suffered a loss estimated at $1,000,000 or more.

In addition is the loss resulting from annihilation of approximately 5,000 huts and some structures of more pretentious appearance.

Both the electric light and street railway systems and the waterworks and drainage systems were dominated by Canadian capitalists and their loss will be keenly felt.

Many vehicles yesterday were busy carrying the effects of residents to high ground. This is especially true of American families, many of whom reside at downtown hotels. The police, rural and soldiers played a prominent part Saturday night and yesterday, guarding and caring for the city.

There is fear that a food famine will soon come. Not a train has entered the city of Monterey either from the north or south for the last 72 hours.

While semi-official reports state that up to noon yesterday 400 bodies have been recovered, there has thus far been no attempt to bury the dead. They are being placed along the banks of the river on the higher ground where they await identification. The bodies are guarded by soldiers, who escort searcher for missing friends or relatives. It is thought some arrangement will be made to-day to inter the dead.

FARMAN CARRIED PASSENGERS IN HIS AEROPLANE FOR 10 MINS.

Bethany Aviation Field, Rheims, Aug. 30.—A twilight vision of Paulhan's graceful monoplane, like a great white bird soaring above the plain so high that it seemed to rise above the distant hills and the fleeting "golden flier" as the Curtiss machine has been dubbed, smashing another world's record in the prix de la Vitesse were the closing glories of aviation week.

Curtiss only missed winning the lap speed contest from Bleriot by a small margin. He captured second place in that event which was over the full circuit of ten kilometres, or 6.21 miles, raising his total money winnings to 38,000 francs, besides the international cup, which goes to the Aero Club of America.

An accident removed Bleriot from yesterday's three lap speed contest.

The rudder suddenly failed to respond and the machine turned completely over three times, landing with such force that the petrol tank burst and catching fire from the hot motor, enveloped the machine and pilot in flames. Before Bleriot could extricate himself he was burned about the face and hands.

The prix de la altitude 10,000 francs, to be awarded the aeronlanist attaining the highest altitude, was won by Latham, who reached a height of 155 metres (about 490 feet). Farman was second with 110 metres, Paulhan third and Rougier fourth.

The passenger contest was won by Farman. With two passengers he made the circuit of the course in 10 minutes, 30 seconds, and with one passenger, 9 minutes, 52 4-5 seconds. Lefebvre with one passenger completed the lap in 11 minutes, 20 4-5 secs.

The lap speed contest went to Bleriot, who covered the ten kilometres in 7 min., 47 4-5 secs.

The international cup of aviation, known also as the Gorman-Bennett trophy, was won yesterday by Glenn H. Curtiss, the American aviator, in the fastest aerial journey of 20 kilometres (12.42) miles), ever achieved by man. His time, 15 min. 30 3-5 secs., was only 5 3-5 seconds faster than that made by Bleriot over the same course. The other two pilots who represented France, Latham and Lefebvre, finished respectively in 17 min. 47 3-5 sec. Cockburn, the Englishman, ran into a haystack as he was manoeuvring for the start.

Henry Farman, the English aviator, added to his laurels by carrying two passengers around the course.

STREET CAR OVERTURNED IN BUSY STREET IN CHICAGO

Examiner Special.

Chicago, Ills., Aug. 30.—One man was fatally injured, fifteen persons were seriously injured, and the lives of many were imperilled to-day, when an Ogden Avenue car at Washtena avenue and 12th street, running at a very rapid speed, ran from the track and overturned. The panic stricken passengers had to be taken from the car through the windows. The car narrowly missed a collision with a passing 14th Street car, which would have resulted in death to many. L. H. Goodman, No. 756 Kedsia avenue is the man fatally injured. The motorman was unable to slacken the speed of his car as he approached the curve at the corner.

Peterborough Young Man Now An Engineer On The G.T.R.

The Grand Trunk officials in Lindsay have been short of engineers for the past few weeks, owing to the grain rush, and as a result a number of young men who have been engaged as firemen for the past three years have been called upon to write an examination for the purpose of becoming engineers.

In order to receive engineers' papers it is necessary for them to write the rules and pass an examination on the engine and air-brakes.

A number of the men have been writing their examinations during the past week and the following have been successful and are now full-fledged engineers: Messrs. E. Parcells, G. Harris, D. O'Brien, G. Holland, S. Cherry, F. Varcoe, J. Bathgate, H. and D. Elliott.

Mr. W. Culross, travelling engineer of Allandale, is the instructor on the engine and airbrake, while Mr. J. J. Irwin, trainmaster, instructs the men on the transportation rules.—Lindsay Warder.

Mr. D. O'Brien belongs to Peterborough, and his many friends here will be pleased to hear of his advancement. The Messrs. Elliott mentioned in the list of successful engineers are nephews of Mr. T. Elliott, McDonnel street.

Sequel To Story Of Big Fish Lost Near Jubilee Point Last Week

Examiner Special.

Jubilee Point, Aug. 30.—The sequel to the story of the Tunge that Doc. Armstrong and Lou Dobbin lost near Jubilee a few days ago has been supplied by Billie Thompson, one of the best known guides in the Rice Lake waters. He was pulling a couple of American fishermen up the east channel near the light house when they saw a fish leap from the water and continue to remain near the surface. They drew near and noticed that it had a set of hooks in its mouth and one of the men put an oar under the water near its head, raised it and drew out a piece of line. He started to drag the fish towards the boat, but it struggled and darted here and there until the line broke at the sinker. The men were acquainted with the story of the big fish lost and immediately recognized this as the one in question. They brought the line to Jubilee and expressed their regret that it was not the spoon and hook. The spoon was a No. 9 Delaney that Mrs. Armstrong would not have sold because of the fact that she had frequently made many good catches with it.

THE INFALLIBLE TORONTO NEWS

Lord Charles Beresford deserves all the praise that a man of brave deeds should be awarded, but is it not going just a little too far for the Toronto News to snatch laurels from a deceased brother of Lord Charles, in order to add to the chaplet that already encircles his brow? In Saturday's issue of the News, under the glowing headline, "Beresford Won Victoria Cross," is given a full description of Lord William Beresford's gallant exploit in carrying off a wounded trooper in face of the enemy, at the time of the Zulu war in South Africa. It is strange, almost inconceivable in fact, that this episode in Lord William Beresford's career should not have been known to a newspaper that usually poses as an infallible oracle on the matters of mundane interest that it handles.

WHY IT COSTS MORE TO LIVE.

(Montreal Witness.)

When Mr. Goschen reduced the interest on Consols by a sixth, he practically said: "I offer you two and a half sovereigns interest in place of three sovereigns, because, owing to the fall of prices, the purchasing power of fifty shillings is to-day greater than was three pounds." Since then, however, there has been a marked change, and to-day it is gold which is "depreciating," and prices, in consequence, are rising very fast. The entire price level, according to Mr. Sauerbeck's Index Numbers, printed in a recent issue of the "Times," has risen twenty-five per cent. within the past ten years, but instead of ascribing any of this to the obvious prevailing cause, the enlarged gold supply, twenty other guesses are made at the reason. A Chicago bank, for instance, the other day, sent out a circular to a number of business firms soliciting their opinions as to the cause of the rise, and the replies generally attribute the phenomenon to the growing scarcity of raw materials and to increase in wages. Monopoly control over supplies is also given as an important factor in the upward movement of prices, but the enlarged gold supply, which makes gold which is the standard of the value of money, less valuable, and therefore makes every commodity worth more money, seems to left out of the reckoning altogether. Doubtless, monopoly has in some notable cases affected prices, but, according to the Washington Bureau of Labour, farm products have risen thirty-three per cent. since 1899, and most of these are marketed under competitive conditions. In the same period it is calculated that fuel and light, which are subject to monopolistic influences, have risen no more than twenty-five per cent. It may be, as has been often suggested that "psychological impulses in times of prosperity acting through agencies of credit, are largely responsible for the recurrence of this well-known phenomenon." Psychological influences, no doubt, act momentarily on uncertain conditions; but in this case there is a substantial and continuous cause quite adequate to the effect. According to the best authority, during the past ten years, the rise in the level of all commodities in England has been 25 per cent., and that on this side, as measured by the United States Bureau of Labour, the rise has been from 101.7 for 1899, to 122.8 for 1908, or nearly twenty-one per cent. while Bradstreet's price figures are 8.5039 for August 1, 1909, as compared with 5.7019 for July 1, 1896, showing a rise of forty-nine per cent. This has become a most serious matter to people with small, fixed incomes, and the future holds out small hope of any recession.

CIVIC PUBLICITY.

(Ottawa Citizen)

The League of American Municipalities, in session in Montreal, is agreed that the problem of civic government is one of the most vital questios of the age. President Cook, of East St., Louis, in his opening address pointed out that the population of cities in the United States and Canada directly, of course, affected by civic government totalled thirty millions. It is as essential that these thirty millions be rightly governed as that the country as a whole have a well-balanced national administration.

President Cook has his own idea of the steps necessary to improve municipal government where it needs it. He says: "My own experience has convinced me that the first step towards exalting our municipal conditions to a higher level is to take the public into the government's confidence. There is only one way to do that, and the greatest publicity should be recommended in all proceedings. There should be nothing withheld. The people should be apprised of all that is being done, why it is being done, and how it is being done."

The declaration of President Cook is a tribute to the value of the honest newspaper. The president, however, assumes that mere publicity will bring about reform, that all that is necessary is to lay the facts before the people. The latter, presumably, will see that things are righted or kept straight. This is flattering to the sense of public morality and public spirit but, unfortunately, the presumption is rarely justified. Usually the public, so keen on the detection of crime or the righting of wrong when the individual is the sufferer, will stand patiently by and allow the community as a whole to be plundered or mismanaged. The newspaper whose policy is to serve the best interests of the people, has frequently a difficult task in arousing public feeling without incurring the resentment of a certain number in every locality, who profess a dislike to muck raking of any kind, and who are apparently content to allow things to drift along rather than bestir themselves and do their bounden duty as good citizens.

It may be in a measure true that newspapers are to blame for the lethargy of the public on vital questions. Exaggerated reports and sensational featuring of news of comparatively trivial import have tended to blunten public appreciation of the importance and significance of facts which, under any other circumstances, would provoke widespread indignation. President Cook might have added weight to his statement by pointing out the necessity of a safe and sane newspaper in the stimulation of public interest for the public good.

DARE YOU EAT HEARTILY?

Or Is Every Good Meal Followed By Discomfort?

Be certain are we that "Little Digesters" will cure Indigestion every time—for every person—for YOU—that we will give you your money back without a word if they fail.

You can enjoy a good, hearty meal of wholesome food three times a day, if you take a tablet after each meal.

Read how "Little Digesters" cured Mr. Thody.

"For two years I suffered with Indigestion, and obtained no relief from anything I took, including several prescriptions from prominent physicians. Every meal was followed by acute pain until I feared to eat, consequently became run down for lack of nourishment. "Little Digesters" were recommended to me by a friend and I tried them with remarkable results, two boxes completely curing me. It is three months since I took any, and I have not suffered a pain, no matter how heartily I eat. I would certainly recommend them to anybody suffering with Indigestion." (Signed) R. THODY.

141 Yorkville Ave., Toronto.
June 12, 1909.

"Little Digesters" can be had from your druggist or by mail from Coleman Medicine Co., for 25 cents a box. 26

A BLACKLISTED MAN GOT INTO TROUBLE

Was Fined Ten Dollars in Police Court This Morning—Was Drunk on Saturday.

Another blacklisted man was fined ten dollars for a violation of the liquor license act, at the police court this morning. He pleaded guilty to having been drunk on Saturday afternoon. When put in the box to state where he had got the whiskey he replied that a man by the name of Billy Turner had given it to him. Turner, he said, left on the afternoon train for Winnipeg. He couldn't say whether Turner knew he was blacklisted or not. This is the prisoner's second offence. He was fined ten dollars to be paid forthwith or thirty days in gaol. He hadn't the money, so he was taken down to his cell.

A young man was fined two dollars and costs amounting to $5.75 for being drunk and disorderly on Saturday afternoon. He pleaded guilty and paid his fine forthwith.

POST CARD COLUMN

Editor Post Card Column.

Peterborough, Aug. 3, '09.

Sir,—I would ask "Member" whether the Club intend to pay the gentleman who cuts the grass, etc., for them, or whether, as last season, he will have to take charge of the property of the members before he can get his money?

Yours, etc.,
W. A. BAILEY.

Editor Post Card Column.

Sir,—In regard to W. A. Bailey's reply in issue of Friday, I should like to point out a few things for his guidance. About the Warkworth fiasco, "'E dunno where 'e are," and as to the details "teaching the young generation to be ill-mannered "I'd leave him to be the judge as "fools step in where angels fear to tread." What I desired to point out to him was the fact that the "dough" ought first to be shelled out 'ere he has the privilege to comment on the finances or anything else pertaining to the club. This he wisely ignores. Might I further suggest to him that "silence is golden." If he don't see it that way, then he might obey the behests of the old song and make himself scarce. A good sport, and "one who is always in form," should never reckon the cost of said sport in cold, mercenary terms:

Poor Bill, a cricketing did go,
When August days were waning;
Enjoyed himself while there, but lo!
He did come home complaining.
It was not that the game was slow,
Nor that the day was raining,
But just the fact that funds were low,
His pockets they'd been draining.
Alas! that cricket thus should be
A game that's rather costly,
But this, poor Bill, as you will see
Depends on others, mostly.
The one who pays his share always
Is not the one who "hollers,"
But mostly just the one who stays
And holds on to his dollars.

A MEMBER.

HAD ENJOYABLE OUTING AT ORILLIA

Annual Excursion of Auburn Woollen Mills Held on Saturday.

The annual excursion of the Auburn Woollen Co. was held on Saturday to Orillia, and was one of the most enjoyable outings that has taken place this summer. The employees, with a large number of their friends, left here by special train in the morning, ariving at Orillia after two hours and a half ride. The committee in charge cannot speak too highly of the kind and obliging manner of the conductor and train crew.

At Orillia the excursionists gathered in the park, where they were extended a most cordial reception, a baseball match between the married and single men was played, resulting in the latter winning by 4-2. The Auburn employees' baseball team also played a friendly game with Orillia, resulting in a victory for the home team by the score of 10-8.

The following races were run off:

Girls' race, 12 and under—1st, W. Kemp; 2nd, P. Kemp; 3rd, F. Lillie.

Boys' race, under 14.—1st, J. Kemp, 2nd, W. Thompson.

Married ladies race—1st, Mrs. Lillie; 2nd, Mrs. Trollope.

Young mens race, 100 yards—1st, W. Flannery; 2nd, E. Wesley.

Committee men's race — 1st, S. Brown; 2nd, J. Kemp.

Young ladies race, 50 yards—G. O'Heron; 2nd, L. Brown.

Shoe race, boys—1st, W. Thompson; 2nd, G. Bain; 3rd, S. Davidson.

Shoe race, girls—1st, F. Lillie; 2nd, W. Kemp; 3rd, P. Kemp.

Boys race, 12 and under—G. McGrath; 2nd, R. Carter; 3rd, S. Davidson.

Hop-step-and-jump—1st, E. Kendry; 2nd, E. Mesley.

Young ladies' race, open—1st, L. Brown; 2nd, G. O'Heron.

Swimming race, boys up to 16, 50 yards, 25 yards to boat in the lake, then turn and swim 25 yards—1st, V. Davidson; 2nd, J. Brumble.

A BICYCLE STOLEN

Some time after 8 o'clock on Saturday evening a bicycle was taken from in front of the Review Office. It was of Massey-Harris make, and had two steps on the rear wheel. Any person finding or seeing same please notify the Review office.

System Poisoning CONSTIPATION

Do not be satisfied with temporary relief—Cleanse the system and make cure lasting with DR CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Constipation begins with the bowels but it does not end there.

You must also consider the way it affects the liver, the kidneys, the digestive system and in fact the whole human body.

Headaches, backaches, aching limbs, indigestion, biliousness, kidney derangements, and the most serious diseases imaginable, often have their beginning with constipation of the bowels.

There is one treatment which has a direct and combined effect on the bowels, the liver and the kidneys and gets these organs into good working order in remarkably quick time, and that is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

They afford relief quickly but they do more than that. They positively cure constipation and insure lasting regularity of the bowels by setting the liver right.

Policeman Peter C. Morris, 19 Wascana Ave., Toronto, Ont., states:

"I was troubled for years with habitual constipation and have spent considerable in so-called remedies and can gladly say that I have been completely cured by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and shall be pleased to personally recommend them to any person who wishes to interview me."

It scarcely seems wise to trifle with medicines which merely afford temporary relief, when by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, you not only get prompt relief but also a thorough cleansing of the whole excretory system and lasting benefits by the restoration of the health and activity of the liver.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Notices of Births, Marriages and Deaths, 25 cents each insertion in either the Daily or Weekly Examiner.

Gladly Testify to the Great Value of "Fruit-a-tives."

Hon. Senator Costigan (member of the Cabinets of five Premiers of Canada), says:—"Fruit-a-tives is the only medicine I ever took that did me any good for Constipation."

Mrs. J. R. Flock (widow of one of the most prominent physicians in London), writes:—"I was a constant martyr to Stomach Weakness all my life and no physician could cure me, but Fruit-a-tives gave me endless relief and I strongly recommend this medicine."

Mr. James Dingwall (Superintendent of St. Andrew's Sunday School in Williamstown, Ont., for nine years) states: "I am now over eighty years old, and I can strongly recommend Fruit-a-tives for Bladder and Kidney Trouble and Chronic Constipation."

Mr. H. Marchessault (High Constable of Quebec), testifies:—"I suffered for ten years with Severe Pain in the Back. Nothing did me any good until I tried Fruit-a-tives."

Mr. W. J. McComb (the leading merchant of Trenton, Ont.), writes:—"I was a martyr to Headaches—consulted doctors—wore glasses — without the slightest relief. Then I took Fruit-a-tives and this remedy cured me."

This is the kind of evidence that convinces. Dealers everywhere have "Fruit-a-tives." 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c Sent postpaid on receipt of price. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

PASTOR RUSSELL SPEAKS ABOUT THE FUTURE LIFE

THE SPIRITUAL AND NATURAL BRANCHES OF CHOSEN.

If Ye Be Christ's Then Are Ye Abraham's Seed and Heirs (Galatians iii, 29) Is Text Taken by Pastor Charles T. Russell—Destruction of Wicked Has Been Perverted to Mean Their Everlasting Torture.

Watertown, N.Y., Aug. 29.—The issues of life, death and a hereafter are all in the hand or power of the Lord. He took counsel of none of us, and holds himself fully responsible, declaring that all of his purposes shall be accomplished, and that his Word that has gone forth shall not return to him void, but shall accomplish that which he pleases (Isaiah lv. 10, 11).

He owed us nothing in the beginning, and will be under no obligations to us in the end. We are his debtors for all that is profitable or enjoyable. He is a rich King and Father and is able and willing to do exceedingly abundantly for us, his creatures—more than we could have asked or thought.

But he has his own way for doing this, which, in the end, will be seen to be the best way. "His ways are in clouds and darkness," writes the prophet; and the poet answers, yea,

"God moves in a mysterious way
His wonders to perform."

Eternal life is "the gift of God" for all of his creatures who will take it on his terms; and for all others he declares, "The wages of sin is death"—the blotting out of life. And who cannot see that this arrangement to destroy all who will not use life in accord with the Divine will, is really a mercy? To perpetuate life opposed to his will and law of righteousness would be a disgrace to God and an injury to the holy as well as to the unholy. God gave our race life in Adam, but, as he had foreseen, they lost it by disobedience and came under the penalty—death. As he purposed before the foundation of the world, he in due time sent his Son to be "The Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world." As such Jesus died, "the just for the unjust," "tasting death for every man" (Hebrews ii, 9). This glorious purpose God set forth to Father Abraham in his oath-bound covenant, of which the Apostle writes in Hebrews vi, 13-20.

The context shows distinctly that the Apostles and the early Church drew comfort from the Oath-Bound Covenant, and clearly implies that this same comfort belongs to every true Christian down to the end of this age—to every member of the Body of Christ. The Apostle's words imply that God's promise and oath were intended more for us than for Abraham—more for our comfort than for his.

Note the Apostles' words: "That by two immutable things (two unalterable things), in which it was impossible for God to lie, we (the Gospel Church) might have a strong consolation, (we) who have fled for refuge (to Christ), to lay hold upon the hope set before us."

Doubtless Abraham and all of his family, Israel after the flesh, drew a certain amount of blessing and encouragement from this Covenant or promise and the oath of the Almighty, which doubly sealed it, which gave double assurance of its certainty of accomplishment; but the Apostle intimates in the words quoted, that God's special design in giving that Covenant and in binding it solemnly with an oath, was to encourage Spiritual Israel—to give us a firm foundation for faith.

God well knew that, although 3,000 years from his own standpoint would be but a brief space, "as a watch in the night," nevertheless to us the time would appear long, and the strain upon faith would be severe; hence the positive statement and the still more deliberate oath that bound it. We cannot but wonder at such condescension upon the part of the great Creator—that he would stoop to his fallen creatures and, above all, that he should condescend to give his oath on the subject.

Our Lord Jesus was the great heir of the Abrahamic promise, and the faithful of his consecrated people of this Gospel Age are declared to be his joint-heirs in that promise, which is not yet fulfilled. For its fulfillment, not only the Church is waiting, as the Bride or fellow-members of the Body of Christ, to be participants with the Lord in the glories implied in the promise, but additionally, the whole creation (the entire human family) is groaning and travailing in pain together waiting for the great fulfillment of that oath-bound promise or covenant (Romans viii, 19-23).

Those who follow the Apostle's argument and realize that we as Christians are still waiting for the fulfillment of this promise, will be anxious to know what are the terms of this Covenant which is the hope of the world, the hope of the Church, and the object of so much solicitude and care on the part of God, in that he would promise and then back his word with an oath. We answer that every Christian should know what this promise is, since it lies at the very foundation of every Christian hope.

How can this hope be an anchor to our soul in all the storms and trials and difficulties of life, in all the opposition of the world, the flesh and the Adversary, if we do not know what the hope is, if we have not even recognized the promise upon which this hope is based?

This is the pitiable condition of many of God's true children; for they are merely babes in Christ, using the milk of the Word. They have need of the strong meat of God's promises, as the Apostle speaks of it, that they may be "strong in the Lord and the power of his might;" that they might have on the whole armor of God—helmet, breastplate, sandals, sword and shield—and be able to quench the fiery darts of the Wicked One; able also to help the weaker ones in this day when the Adversary is assaulting the Word of God, the citadel of the truth with various insane arguments on the lances and mouths of those who profess to be ministers of the Word.

Need I quote the promise, the one so repeatedly referred to in the apostolic writings, the one which is the basis or anchorage for our souls?

The Apostle Paul referred to this very promise, declaring that the Seed of Abraham mentioned therein is Christ. All Christians agree to this, although they have not distinctly and properly associated it with the declarations of the promise. But the Apostle makes clear to us that in saying that Christ is the Seed of Abraham, he had in mind not only the Lord Jesus as the Head of the Body, the Head of the Christ, but also the over-coming saints of this Gospel Age as the Body of Christ. This he distinctly states in many places, for instance, Galatians iii, 16-29. Here he declares the matter expressly, saying: "If ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's Seed, and heirs according to the promise."

"The Seed of Abraham" is the Gospel Church, with her Head, the Lord Jesus; as the Apostle states again, saying: "We, brethren, as Isaac was (typified by Isaac) are the children of promise" (Galatians iv, 28). It follows that the Seed of Abraham mentioned in the promise is not complete and will not be until the full close of this Gospel Age—the harvest time of which we believe we are now in.

But what a wonderful thought is involved in this plain interpretation of the Divine Word! It is big with hope for Spiritual Israel, the Spiritual Seed, and no less, it means a blessing for the natural seed, fleshly Israel, and ultimately the millennial blessings to all the families of the earth. Let us examine these three hopes: The hopes for these three classes centre in this great Oath-Bound Covenant. Let us thus obtain what the Apostle tells us was the Lord's intention for us, namely, strong consolation—strong encouragement.

All through the prophecies the Lord foretold the sufferings of Christ and the glories that should follow; nevertheless the glories to follow have been granted much more space in the Divine Revelation than the sufferings of the present time. The implication suggested by the Apostle is that when the glories of the future shall be realized, the trials and sufferings and difficulties of the present time will be found not worthy to be compared; but those glories and blessings have been veiled from our mental vision, and instead a great pall hangs over the future in the minds of many of the Lord's people.

Many of us have learned to distort the simple language of God's Word in such a manner as to cause us anguish and distress. For instance, "destroy," "perish," "die," "second death," "everlasting destruction," etc., terms used by the Lord to represent the ultimate, complete annihilation of those who will not come into harmony with him after a full opportunity is granted them, are interpreted to mean the reverse of what they say—life, preservation in torture, etc.

It is high time, dear friends, that we should learn that God's Book is not the foundation of these horrible nightmares—which have afflicted us, and which in the past hindered many of us from a proper love and reverence of our Creator. It is high time that we should take the explanation which the Apostle gives us of this matter and of all the errors which assail poor humanity respecting the future. He says: "The god of this world has blinded the minds of them that believe not, lest the glorious light of the goodness of God, as it shines in the face of Jesus Christ our Lord, should shine into their hearts" (II. Corinthians iv. 4). We cannot here and now discuss this subject, but have provided in the hands of the ushers, some free pamphlets on "What Say the Scriptures About Hell?" Should the supply prove insufficient drop me a postal-card and I will cheerfully send from Brooklyn what will satisfy both your head and your heart.

Now, what hope and interest has the Church of Christ in this promise made to Abraham? To us belongs the very cream of the promise, "the riches of God's grace." The promise implies the greatness of the Seed of Abraham, which Seed is Christ and the overcoming Church. This greatness is so wonderful as to be almost beyond human comprehension. The overcomers of this Gospel Age who "make their calling and election sure" in Christ, are to be joint-heirs with him in the glorious Millennial Kingdom which is to be God's agency or channel for bringing about the promised blessings—the blessings of all the families of the earth.

The great blessings of forgiveness of sins which are past, and even the blessing of being awakened from the sleep of death, would profit mankind but little, if the arrangements of that future time—the Millennial Age—were not on such a scale as to permit a thorough recovery from present mental, moral and physical weaknesses. Hence we are rejoiced to learn that in that time Satan will be bound, every evil influence and every unfavorable condition will be brought under restraint, and the favor of God through the knowledge of God will be turned upon the people—"The knowledge of the Lord shall fill the whole earth as the waters cover the great deep." Blessings, aye, favor upon favor, blessing upon blessing, is the Lord's arrangement and provision. All shall know him from the least unto the greatest, and none shall need to say to his neighbor or his brother, "Know thou the Lord?" (Isaiah xi, 9; Jeremiah xxxi, 34).

The prophets spoke repeatedly of these blessings due to the world in the future. Mark how Joel tells that, as during this Gospel Age, the Lord pours out his spirit upon his servants and hand-maidens, so after these days, in the Millennial Age, he will pour out his spirit upon all flesh. There will be world-wide blessing through the knowledge of the Truth. Mark how Moses, the prophet, spoke of these coming blessings, and told how God would raise up a greater lawgiver than himself, a greater Teacher, a better Mediator, and, under the better Covenant of the Truth would bring his kings world-wide. Mark again how he represents the atonement for the sins of the whole world in God's Atonement Day arrangement: Mark again how he typifically foretold the blessings of the Millennial Age, representing it in Israel's "Year of Jubilee," in which every man went free and every possession was returned to its original ownership, thus representing the blessings of the future, man's release from the servitude of sin and Satan, and the return to him of all that was lost through Adam. Isaiah, Jeremiah, Hosea, Micah, have spoken of these coming times, so that the Apostle Peter, pointing to the future, could truthfully declare that the coming times of restitution of all things have been spoken by the mouth of all the holy prophets since the world began (Acts iii. 19-21).

The second class to be blessed under this Abrahamic Covenant is fleshly Israel. We are not forgetting that the Jews were a stiff-necked and rebellious people; that they slew the prophets and stoned the Lord's ministers and caused the crucifixion of our Redeemer. Nevertheless, the Scriptures clearly hold forth that after they have had a period of chastisement, which they have been undergoing as a nation since our Lord's crucifixion, and after Spiritual Israel shall have been glorified in the Kingdom, then a blessing from the Lord will come upon natural Israel; they shall be saved or recovered from their blindness, and, as the Prophet declares, they shall look upon him whom they have pierced and shall mourn for him—because the eyes of their understanding shall be opened. We rejoice, too, that the promise is clear and distinct that the Lord will pour upon them the "spirit of prayer and of supplication" (Zechariah xii, 10). See also Romans xi, 25-23.

But if God is to have mercy upon the natural Israelite, whom he declares to have been stiff-necked and hard-hearted and rebellious, would it surprise us that the Divine, benevolent intention should be to bless others than the Jews—others who had not in the past the favors and privileges of this favored nation, and whose course, therefore, was less in opposition to the light? It should not surprise us. And so we find in this great Oath-Bound Covenant a blessing for all nations—all peoples.

"We make God's love too narrow
By false standards of our own."

Do not misapprehend us. We are not teaching that heathen and imbeciles and the unregenerate in general shall be taken to heaven, where they would be utterly out of harmony with their surroundings and require to be converted and to be taught. Such an inconsistent view we leave to those who are now claiming that the heathen will be saved in their ignorance. We stand by the Word of God that there is no present salvation without faith in Christ Jesus, and that the heathen and the imbeciles have neither part nor lot in the salvation of the present time. We stand by the Scriptures which say that salvation at the present time is only for the little flock, who, through much tribulation, shall enter the Kingdom. We stand by the Scriptures which say that this Kingdom class now being developed is the Seed of Abraham under the Lord, their Head, their Elder Brother, the Bridegroom.

The period in which opportunity will be granted to man is in the Scriptures termed the Day of Judgment—a thousand-year day, the Millennial Day. It will be a day of trial, a day of testing, a day of proving the world to see whether, with a full knowledge of God and of righteousness, which he requires, they will choose righteousness in preference to sin, choose life in preference to the Second Death.

Thank God for that wonderful judgment, the trial day for the world, secured for all through the precious blood of Christ. "When the judgments of the Lord are abroad in the earth, the inhabitants of the world will learn righteousness" (Isaiah xxvi, 9).

First English Prima Donna.

The distinguished vocalist, Madame Kirkby Lunn, who recently sang eight songs to a delighted audience of about one hundred and eighty invalid men and women at the Royal Hospital for Incurables, Putney Heath, has many claims to distinction. She was the first artiste of British origin and trained in England to achieve a prominent position at Covent Garden in the Grand Season, and at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York. Madame Kirkby, who is a native of Manchester, and was trained under Signor Visetti at the Royal College of Music, tells the story of the little girl who was very cowardly. Her father finding that sympathy only increased this unfortunate tendency, decided to have a serious talk with his little daughter on the subject of foolish fears. "Papa," she said, at the close of his lecture, "when you see a cow, ain't you 'fraid?" "No, certainly not, Evelyn." "When you see a dog, ain't you 'fraid?" "No," with emphasis. "Ain't you 'fraid when it thunders?" "No," with loud laughter. "Oh, you silly child!" "Papa," said Evelyn, solemnly, 'is it true that you ain't 'fraid of nothin' in the world but mamma?"

"Jarvey" and the "Hard Men."

In a witty after-dinner speech, Lord O'Brien, who has just kept his sixty-seventh birthday, once related a story against himself. When he was Attorney-General he hired a Hackney car at Sligo, for a drive, after a wearisome day in court. He mounted the car beside the driver, and the "jarvey," believing the Attorney-General to be inside the vehicle, remarked: "That's a hard man inside." "Yes," said Lord O'Brien, "I believe he is a man with an indifferent reputation." At the journey's end the "jarvey" received a gold coin from his lordship. The surprised and delighted man, looking first at the coin and then at the Attorney-General, said: "Well, after all, the 'divil' isn't as black as he's painted."

Transparent Diamonds.

Transparent diamonds have been manufactured by the aid of electric furnaces. The largest, however, yet produced by these means is only one-fortieth of an inch in diameter.

An Arbitrary Classification.

"Do you think every patriot has a more or less clearly defined ambition to hold public office?"

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum. "As a rule, patriots may be divided into two classes—the appointed and the disappointed."—Washington Star.

The young, unspoiled human animal has a liking for sugar just as it has for sunlight, for fresh air, for play, for paddling in the surf and plunging in the stream or for food when it is hungry and sleep when it is tired and, subject, of course, to reasonable limitations, as wholesome as any of the others. This is precisely what our specialists in children's diseases and broad minded family physicians have been urging for decades past, and it would be safe to say that, next to the banishment of starchy foods, gruels and paps from the nursery and the substitution of pure, sweet milk, few things have done more to increase the vigor and happiness of modern children and to cut down our disgraceful infant mortality than the free and intelligent use in the nursery of sweet fruits, preserves, sugar, taffy and butterscotch.—Woods Hutchinson in Success Magazine.

NO EVIDENCE THAT HE WAS A VAGRANT

Frank Hamilton was Again Remanded—He Pleaded Not Guilty.

Frank Hamilton came up before Magistrate Dumble at the police court this morning, charged with being a vagrant. He pleaded not guilty but the case had to be again adjourned, the father of the young man, who is the principal witness being sick and unable to come.

Mr. Joseph Stewart was called. He said that he knew the prisoner. His father complained to him that he owed seventeen weeks' board. He would come home drunk and create quite a disorder.

Mr. Finch Miller could only corroborate what Mr. Stewart had said. He did not know of his own knowledge of the young man's indigence.

HAS BEEN APPOINTED MANAGER AT LINDSAY

Mr. A. O. Sawyer, who, until the going out of business of Mr. J. C. Sutcliffe, in this city, three years ago, was manager of the store here, and who, since then has been connected with a store in Bracebridge, has been appointed manager of Mr. Sutcliffe's store in Lindsay. Mr. Sawyer commences his new duties on Wednesday, the first of September.

Mrs. Sawyer and Misses Mabel and Ella, who have been spending the summer at Lake Rosseau, will join Mr. Sawyer about the fifteenth.

CONSTIPATION AND HEADACHE

Mrs. E. Morrow, Bracebridge, Ont., writes—"For years I was troubled almost constantly with constipation and never got anything to do me the lasting good that has been obtained from Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Not only have they cured constipation but have also entirely cured the headaches from which I used to suffer terribly and have improved my health in every way."

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

OPENING IN TORONTO.

To-night marke the opening of three of the Toronto playhouses, each with a splendid attraction. "The Gay Musician," Julian Edward's comic opera that was presented during the middle of last season will be seen at the Grand. At the Princess, Victor Moore is playing "Kid Burns" in Geo. M. Cohan's successful musical comedy, The Talk of New York. This effort, by Cohan, has been a big success since its initial appearance last season. Practically every song is a hit. Eddie Foy in "Mr. Hamlet of Broadway" is the attraction at the Princes, and as a comedian is distinctly by himself. This musical travesty is a Shubert production, and has been carried out into detail with elaborate scenic and choral effects. There are many song hits in these three offerings.

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC

The fall term of the Peterborough Conservatory of Music will reopen on Wednesday, September 1st, with largely increased faculty in all branches. Intending students should register at once so as to derive the full benefit of the year's course.

WORK FOR YOURSELF

Work for yourself. Don't do your best to please some boss or foreman or superintendent or president. That's a hireling trick. Do your best because you cannot afford to do less; because you owe it to your self-respect. Merit your own esteem. Dig for it. Do your own fault-finding with your work. You know it best. You can see the flaws quicker than any one else. Don't hide them. Talk about them if you must talk about your work. Let others discover the merits, if they exist. Shut your ears to praise. Why should you be pleased that your work finds favour in the eyes of others? Who are you working for anyway, the other fellow or yourself? Stick to that point of view. That way freedom lies, for no man who works for himself is dependent. Make your employer dependent upon you. That will put you beyond the reach of dyspeptic caprice. Men who are afraid of their jobs are plenty; men who idealise their work are mighty scarce, and all the arrogance in the world cannot change the man who works for himself into a trembling wretch.

INQUEST WILL BE OPENED AT COURT HOUSE TO-NIGHT

Sixteen or Seventeen Witnesses Have Been Summonsed—Coroner Gray Will Call the Inquest at 7.30 o'clock—a Matter of Wide Interest.

BOLLARD SHOWED GRIT

The inquest into the death of the late Arthur Bollard will be held this evening at 7.30 o'clock in the Court House, Coroner Gray presiding. County Crown Attorney Wood will conduct the examining of the witnesses who have been summoned to the number of sixteen or seventeen. The Coroner stated to the Examiner that Fred Jopling was one of the number, but it has been learned from Dr. Morgan, who is attending him, that he will not likely be fit to be present. Blood poisoning, from a cut in his right hand, has spread into the arm. Word was sent to Chief Grassete, of Toronto, to locate Herbert Marks, who is also summoned. Others are Messrs. Gordon Long, Victor Tully, Cullen, and Harry Jopling, and Miss Ada Minns.

Dr. Scott and Dr. Greer completed Saturday afternoon their post mortem examination over the body of the late Arthur Bollard. Dr. Scott will present the report to the coroner's jury this evening at 7.30 o'clock, and in all probability Dr. Greer will be called as a witness to corroborate the report.

Anything of the nature of the doctors' finding cannot be learned until to-night.

The parents of the deceased with Mr. and Mrs. McPherson returned to Toronto on Saturday at noon, and the remains were sent on to the city yesterday morning in charge of Mr. Donald Shook, who was an intimate friend of young Bollard.

The funeral will be held to-day from the family residence on Berkley street. Several floral contributions were sent from friends and relatives in Peterborough along with the sincere sympathy of all in this district to the sorrow-stricken family.

Regarding the occurrence from which young Bollard's death is alleged to have resulted there has been practically nothing new learned and nothing authentic. Rumours here and there, varying according to the imagination of the person who started them floating, have been passed around, but nothing authentic may be expected until the evidence is received this evening.

Mr. D. H. Burritt, one of the oldest cottagers at Chemong, has stated that as a result of the Bollard fatality it is the intention of the cottagers to form a protective association and keep rowdies out of the park altogether.

No arrests have been made yet, but County Constable Archie Moore has served several witnesses with subpoenses.

When the inquest opens this evening. Mr. A. Bollard, father of the deceased, will be represented by one of the city's leading lawyers, and the inquiry will be thorough. One of the chief witnesses will be the young man, Marks, of Toronto, who it is alleged, tried to get to young Bollard's aid during the disturbance, but who, it is stated, was forcibly prevented from doing so by some of those who sided with the other young men.

Mr. D. O'Connell will act in behalf of one of the parties connected with the case.

A gentleman from Bridgenorth, speaking to the Examiner to-day, stated that young Bollard previous to the night of the fray was in the best of health as far as he could see, and he knew the young man quite intimately, but after that night he gradually declined without speaking of the affair to his people until his failing strength showed itself in spite of his will. This exhibition of endurance or course was prompted by a desire not to cause his mother and his sister any worry. He appeared in the park the next day trying to bear up and succeeded until he was compelled to give in and a doctor was called. From that time he sank rapidly, surrendering to what was the inevitable.

GOWGANDA SUFFERING FROM "KNOCKING" BUT STUFF IS THERE

Belief That Only a few Pockets of Silver can be Found is the Result of a few "Wildcats" and is Entirely Enormous.

RECENT BIG STRIKE

Gowganda, Ont., Aug. 30.—Gowganda is at present suffering from an all-round series of knocking, both verbal and printed, superinduced by the indiscriminate boosting and booming and cheap, patent medicine style of advertising that the camp received last winter. And now, because legions of the claims that were staked—blanketed—in the deep snows of January and February, are only acknowledged to be worthless, a majority of the public assumes that the whole district is practically barren of mineral, and that, at best, the silver deposits known to exist are only surface showings and pockets.

GIVE CAMP A CHANCE

This is a hasty and unfair conclusion. Every mining district has its "wildcats," and just as long as a man delves for the precious metals and human nature continues to remain as it is, just so long will a certain class of prospector continue to stake country rock, blithely committing perjury in the recorder's office, in order to secure the claims, trusting afterwards to either find mineral in place and to dispose of their rocky 40-acre blocks as bona-fide prospects; or, well, in the other event to palm them off on some sucker.

CAN'T ALL MAKE GOOD

In Gowganda, hundreds of such claims exist, and they are scattered over a great stretch of country. Had they all made good, this would be the greatest silver-mining camp on earth, and the much-sought-for metal would ere this have been in danger of becoming a drug on the market.

COMPARED TO COBALT

Forty-six working mines—only a small portion of them shippers—have made Cobalt the producer of one-tenth of the world's total silver output. It only takes a few good properties to make a camp; and given transportation facilities equal to those of the older place there is good reason to believe that with the mines already taking out ore, and with the stimulus to further development and production that railway communication would give (it would greatly lessen the cost of operating), maligned Gowganda would make good.

A BIG STRIKE

Cobalt has had a run of strikes of more or less importance this summer; but not since the discovery of Gowganda has such a sensational find been in this district, as the recent strike near Miller Lake. This discovery on Col. Morrison's property is of the utmost significance to the entire camp, to say nothing of the Miller Lake section.

Yesterday was the day announced for the uncovering of the vein for public gaze, and your correspondent after a four-mile tramp by devious trails through the bush, at length emerged at the Morrison property. Numerous other visitors were there—most of them mining engineers and those interested in properties in this section of the country.

TEN COMMANDMENTS WERE NEVER BROKEN?

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Will you grant a little space re important topics, which just now attract some local attention?

Last Saturday night's speaker at the open air meeting, corner of George and Brock streets, asserted that no person ever kept the commandments, and that it is not possible to keep them, etc.

While admitting that the carnal heart is not and cannot be subject to God's moral law, I think that attention should be directed to the inspired Word before giving credence to such a drastic statement. That word does not say yea and nay upon any subject—but yea, and amen. Tradition and clerical interpretation often make Scripture appear to clash with Scripture, but studying to let it be its own interpretor, we find most beautiful harmony.

Let us see! "Sin is transgression of God's law," I. St. John, 3-4; Matt. 1:21 declares that "Jesus shall save his people from their sins"; (not in their sins.)

Claiming to know and love God, while disobeying His commandments, is called in Scripture falsehood. (See I. John, 2-3-4.)

Enoch walked with God three hundred years, and was translated to heaven. (Gen. 5:24.) So Enoch, also Elijah, must have kept the ten commandments; otherwise he would have been a sinner; and no sin can enter there.

Inspiration declares: "Abraham kept my statutes, my commandments, and my laws," (Gen. 26:5.)

In Eccl. 12:13, we read: "Fear God and keep His commandments, for this is the whole duty of man." Now, it seems to the writer very like an indictment against Scripture, and its author to claim that impossibilities and duty are synonymous!

Coming closer, Jesus says: "If thou wilt enter into life, keep the commandments," (Matt. 19:17.) But, plainer stilll, the declaretion that even prayer is an abomination, when Gods law is ignored. (See Prov. 28:9.)

Just preceding Christ's second coming a scene reveals a Company, of whom it is particularly stated that they are keeping God's commandments, (See Rev. 14:14); the connection shows that they will be translated. If said speaker enters the pearly gate it is by way of God's commandments, as Rev. 22:14 indicates, not that there is any salvation in good works, for salvation comes through Christ, but one truly converted or born again" loves righteouaness and hates iniquity; right doing being outgrowth or fruit of Christian character. The sweet singer of Israel says: "All His commandments are righteousness." The moral law being basis of God's Government is to be the standard or criterion in final assize. (See Rom. 2:12-13, and James 1:25. It is a law of liberty for whoever obeys, it is not under its penalty or curse, (which is eternal death, Ezc. 18:4, not life) but is under the grace, which means mercy, extended through Christ for past sin.

Thus, in about a dozen counts, one assertion alone is condemned by God's Word. The latter gives the following caution: "To the law and to the testimony, if they speak not according to this word there is no light in them." Isa. 8:20.

In the foregoing, endeavour is made to displace all assertion and tradition by the Word of God, which endureth forever, and by which we can know the truth.

Yours truly and respectfully,

UNSECTARIAN.

CRUELTIES OF OLD SLAVE TRADE STILL PREVAIL IN THE CONJO

Sir A. Conan Doyle, in the course of a letter on the inactivity of England in regard to the reported attrocities in the Congo, writes:

Our guilt of national acquescentce is only second to that of the gang of cosmopolitan scoundrels who have been actively concerned in turning all Central Africa into a huge slave State with such attendant horrors as even the dark story of the slave trade has never shown. In the slave trade the victim was of market value, and to that extent was protected from death or mutilation. In this case the State is the owner of all, so that if one be dismembered or shot another is always available.

As I write, my study table is covered with photographs of these unhappy people. They bear the marks of the tortures they have endured. Some have their feet lopped off, some their hands. One is a child, surprisingly beautiful and intelligent even by European standards. His arm has been hacked off. Another with his right foot and left hand missing stares before him with a strange, thoughtful puzzled face. These are the people whom "in the name of Almighty God" we guaranteed. Under each of the mutilated frames might, in all truth, be printed "I was guaranteed by you."

The dreadful story is a commonplace now. It is impossible to deny any part of it. Its authenticity comes from many sources, from missionary reports, Swedish, Belgian and American, as well as British, from official Consular despatches, from the report of the Belgian Commission of 1905, from the memoirs of returned officers, above all from the incorruptible evidence of the kodak. The story, I say, is a commonplace, but it has been a commonplace for at least 14 years for those who chose to read the evidence. When is something going to be done?

Last year the business was taken over by Belgium. There were hopes that methods would be changed. But they have not been changed. M. Renkin, the Colonial Minister of Belgium, has frankly said that they would not be changed. He has gone out to the Congo to report. But he is himself an ex-concessionaire who has been a fervent defender of the system in the Parliament. As well send Rockfeller to report on the Standard Oil abuses! Are we children to be deluded by such devices as these? Do we not know the course which events will take? M. Renkin will return about Christmas. Six more months will have been gained for squeezing the country. Then he must not be hurried in his report—six months more for that. Then there is the legislation. Time must be allowed for that. Then legislation must be gradually enforced; and so on and on through the time-honoured round. And all the time more mutilations, more murders, more extortions, in order that a rich King may be richer and a few companies pay 300 per cent. If we wait for any practical result from M. Renkin's visit then we wait, with our eyes open, for at least three more years of this orgie of blood, lust and greed.

What should be done? The first thing is in a single comprehensive state paper to lay before every civilized Power the evidence which calls for action, and to ask them to convene a European conference for the purpose of taking from Belgium a trust which has been so dreadfully abused, and making such fresh arrangements, either by an international government or by a partition of the State amongst its neighbors, as may give some assurance of just and honest treatment to these unhappy natives.

ANOTHER SOUTH-ENDER ASKS FOR COUNCIL'S ACTION RE AYLMER ST.

Peterborough, Aug. 30, '09.
To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—Will you kindly allow me space in your paper to bring to memory to our City Council and Mayor for to se if we could not get Aylmer street opened up to Lansdowne street. A short time ago there was a deputation waited upon the Council, and they told them then that they had no money, but that they intended bringing a by-law for the purpose of raising enough money for to use in the extension of streets and to build the Smith street bridge. Now, sir, it duns in my old head that on the 28th of July, just a month ago, we, the ratepayers, cast our little vote in favour of this by-law, but from that day to this we have heard nothing about the extensions of Aylmer street. What do they intend doing with this money, put sidewalks like what was mentioned in your paper a few nights ago on places like the south side of Charlotte street, where, on the north side, they have a good concrete walk. I think if we had a councilman like Alderman Turner, at the south end, we might hear a little more about street extensions, not putting sidewalks where they are not needed. For a year or two the residents on Charlotte street have not got to creep through a hole in the fence or trespass on another man's property for to get out. I noticed in your paper that the South end could blow about being the manufacturing end of the city, and we have two new churches and a fine big school, but to get to these, as I said before, we have to trespass on another man's property, who takes the kind pains to go with his hammer and nails and wire on a Sunday morning to fix up the places to make it as bad as he can for the southender to get out to church or work on Monday morning, and then to watch people coming down this way to go to the show grounds or driving, have to turn back or play pig—root through where they can. It would mean quite a lot to our Fair, also, if Aylmer street was opened up.

Now, sir, I think it is high time that our City Council and Mayor would wake up, and let us see that our little time that we spent going to the poll on the 28th of July, voting for these by-laws, was not lost in vain. I think, sir, that is all I need say on this subject. Thanking you for the space in your paper, I remain,

Yours,
SOUTHENDER.

Caught by a Sudden Sneeze That Loosened His New False Grinders.

It was a rather sad accident that befel a Peterborough man who is engaged near the mouth of the Otonabee river on the new lighthouse. A few days ago he came up to the city and procured a set of teeth, which he had adjusted in his mouth snugly and comfortably. He started back to the lake, but met with an accident on the boat which set him back to his initial condition. He was enjoying the sail down the river and when about at Smithson's he sneesed a "sneeze" that shook his entire frame and incidentally loosened his new set of teeth, which shot out over the side of the boat, hit the water with a splash and disappeared beneath the dark surface. It was a situation that was not exactly pleasant, but there was nothing to it but to bear the loss as complacently as possible

WATCH MARS HIDING BEHIND THE MOON

An interesting sight will be visible in the heavens next Wednesday night when the occultation of the planet Mars and the moon will occur. About 9 o'clock Mars, which is visible now as a very bright star near the moon will be seen to disappear behind the moon, re-appearing at a few minutes before ten. If the night is not cloudy, this phenomenon will be plainly visible, as Mars is so bright.

The planet Mars is at present at almost its shortest distance from the earth. Twice in every 17 years, the respective orbits of the earth and Mars bring them, comparatively speaking, close together, only 40 million miles away.

F.J. GOSELIN SECURES VALISE CONTAINING $18,000 WHICH HE LOST IN MONTREAL LAST MONTH

Extraordinary Tale of Sleuth Work By Montreal Officers For a Peterborough Man Who Could Not Remember a Single Clue—Was Drugged in Strange Manner

RESTORED TO HAPPINESS

The Montreal Herald contained the following story of a Peterborough man in its Saturday issue:

The happiest man in Montreal yesterday was Mr. F. J. Goselin, cattle dealer, of 45 Crescent street, Peterborough.

Exactly a month ago Mr. Goselin was in Montreal and lost a valise containing bonds and other papers worth $18,000. Last night he experienced the pleasure of having the valise returned to him intact, not a paper missing.

The story is an extraordinary one in several respects. It has the merit of being absolutely true, and incidentally it reflects the highest possible credit upon two members of the detective force of this city—Detective Gervais and Mr. Lafiamme, secretary of the detective office.

Was Pilgrim to St. Annes

On July 20th last, Mr. Goselin, who is a man of considerable wealth, and who is well known from Chicago to Three Rivers, left his home in Peterborough for a pilgrimage to St. Anne de Beaupre. He travelled on a special pilgrimage train from Peterborough, and carried with him two valises, one containing clothing, and the other the bonds and papers, worth $18,000, which he required for certain business he intended to transact on the same trip.

He intended to stop off for a little while in Montreal, and when the train reached Montreal Junction, hearing the conductor shout out the name of the station, he mistook it for Montreal, and got out, the train leaving him on the platform before he found out his mistake.

He came on to Montreal from Montreal Junction, and after dining toook a drive round the city. It seems pretty well established that he was drugged by someone, for when he awoke the next morning he was in a strange room, on a strange bed, and his coat, vest, hat and valise containing the bonds, which he had carried round with him for safety, not caring to leave it anywhere, missing. He found that his trouser pockets had been rifled and that he had been robbed of $110 in cash he had on him the night before. He made his way to a friend in the city and obtained a loan of cash, which he was easily able to do, his credit being good for a big amount. His memory clouded by the effects of the drug, he could give no information to the detectives as to his movements.

It was not until he stated that he was on his way to Ste. Anne de Beaupre on a special train that Detective Gervais and Secretary Lafiamme, who took charge of the case, were able to ascertain that he must have left the train at Montreal Junction, knowing that on such a train he could not have come into the city either by the Windsor or Place Viger hotels.

Hardly Any Clue

They told him they would do their best and he left for home, returning later with the information, gleaned from an acquaintance who had been on the same train, that he had left it at Montreal Junction.

He gave the detectives the number of a cabman whom, he said, he had engaged to take him for a drive on the night in question. They investigated, and ascertained that he must have been mistaken in the number. They surmised that it was probably some number near the one he had given, however, and instituted a systematic investigation along the line of this trifling clue, with the result that they found a cabman who was able to tell them of a certain quarrel two fellow-cabmen had had on the night in question in regard to a certain passenger, one cabman accusing the other of trying to take his fare away from him.

Securing the names of these two cabmen, they pursued the trail carefully, and gleaned other details which led them to the discovery that one of these two cabmen had driven to the house of J. F. Minta, 37 St. Genevieve street, with a passenger on the night in question. The two cabmen were sought out, one after the other, and eventually they drove with the same cabman to the Minta home last night, with the result that the valise was recovered intact.

Thought He Would Come Back

It appears that Mr. Goselin's bag had been kept there for him on the expectation that he would return and claim it. The people, who are honest folk, did not know his name, and they were entirely ignorant of the value of the documents in the bag, which they had not, has a matter of fact, opened since he left it there.

Mr. Goselin had returned to Montreal two or three times during the month to ascertain if the detectives had any news for him, and when he learned last night that they recovered his lost property intact he was overwhelmed with pleasure.

At his own request the detective department took his valise into its keeping last night; and this morning he secured his property and left for Peterborough, the happiest and most grateful man that could be found.

WITH THE MANY VISITORS

Examiner Special.

Rice Lake, Aug. 30.—Have you ever been at a ball game when the home team has run along to the seventh innings, without being able to hit the visitors' pitcher, while they have run up a score of four or five runs, and all the fans are blue. Lips are as tightly closed as clam shells and quietness reigns as supreme as during the Sunday noon hour in the vicinity of Roseneath. Then in the glorious seventh the favourites begin to pick out the good ones, and with two innings to play they are only one run behind. If you have ever experienced the hope that rises in the throng of hearts united as one for the home team, then you have an idea of how the "bunch" around the lake are beginning to feel towards the prospects for good fishing. It is no secret that up to the middle of last week the sport has been very discouraging. The still fishing was not so bad but the 'lunge have been very reserved, showing an utter disclination to go after the trawl. Lately, however, the sport has picked up splendidly, and there is every prospect that from now until the close of the tourist season there will be some good catches made.

On Saturday Mr. Hellems, at Jubilee, got four that averaged from 7 to 16 pounds. Ald. Egan of Rochester, got the same number, his largest weighing 14 pounds, and others have beeen equally successful. Mrs. (Dr.) Armstrong, of Oshawa, got a 10-pounder Saturday morning.

The colony at Jubilee was decreased on Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. Egan and son and Mr. D. Greenburg, of Rochester, returning home, and today Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong left for Oshawa, and Mr. A. Belcher, of Rochester, concluded his three weeks' stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen and family, Rubidge street, Peterborough, went home on Saturday after spending the week at the Anglers' Cottage.

A party from Jubilee went over to Harwood on Friday evening with Mr. G. Packenham, of Peterborough, in his launch. Their return had a dampening effect on every one as the lake was rolling high, and as the boat cut through the waves it tossed up a spray that drenched everyone of the occupants. The trip was a thriller, but was enjoyed despite the ducking.

The Jubilee ball team tried to get a ball game on with the Hamilton Co. employees, of Peterborough, on Thursday when they came down on their annual picnic. There was nothing doing, however, the trip having brought on an attack of something that looked like cold feet.

Hastings can now boast of twelve gasoline launches. The first to ply on the Trent waters was a 22-foot Sylvester, owned by Mr. F. Clarry, of this place, who bought same seven years ago. In fact this was the first gasoline launch between Trenton and Peterborough on the Trent waters. Then a year later Mr. J. J. English purchased a neat little Sylvester craft, and Mr Charles Plant followed the next year with a 22-footer. Since then, however, Mr. G. P. Walsh, Mr. J. F. Mack, Mr. S. Parks, Mr H. Lambert, Mr George Leyland, Mr. C. R. Fowlds, Mr. Jack Welsh, Mr. Douglas Simpson and Mr. Joe Lynch have all purchased fast boats. There is no finer stretch of navigation for gasoline launches than in and around this place. Healey's Falls, fourteen miles down the river, affords a beautiful sail and with Rice Lake six miles up, boat owners have all the navigation desirable.

Dr. E. King and family, of Toronto, are at Hastings for the month of August at their summer home.

Miss Evelyn Johnson, of Skibbereen, Ireland, has returned to her home, after spending a year with her cousin, Mrs. L. F. Clarry, Hastings.

Dr. Berry, wife and family, of Port Perry, are spending a few days as guests at Mr. C. R. Fowld's cottage on Hastings.

Miss Hurley, of Peterborough, has been staying with her sister, Mrs. Dr. Coughlan at the latters cottage on Ellen's Isle.

The Misses Cahill, of Peterborough, spent the past week at Trentic, Mr. J. J. English's summer cottage.

Miss Mallory, of Cobourg, is visiting with Miss May Huycke at Sunny Brae

Mrs. W. M. Fowlds is visiting her parents in Petrolea for a few weeks.

Mrs. J. H. McClelland, spent a week with her sister, Mrs. Bottum, in Bobcaygeon.

All the hotels and boarding houses at Hastings are well filled with tourists, a large number of whom are from the Southern states.

On Friday last the Presbyterian baseball team of Millbrook ran an excursion to Hastings in Wedlock's launch and played a friendly game with the Methodist team of that town, the latter being victorious by a score of 13 to 1. It is the intention of the Hastings baseball team to run an excursion to Millbrook in the near future. The boat will carry passengers to Hales' Bridge from which place rigs will convey them to Millbrook, six miles distant.

Mr. Jones, wife and daughter, of Toronto, are guests at Idyl Wyld.

Mr. John Stinson and Miss Stinson, of Toronto, and Mr. Patterson and family and Mrs. Talbot, of Peterborough, are at Idyl Wyld.

Prof. Montgomery, of Toronto University, made a trip to Keene, where he visited the Indian mounds and secured some relics to take back to the city. He enjoyed a pleasant holiday in the district.

Miss Daisy Sawers, of Toronto, is spending her vacation with Peterborough friends.

Mrs. Fred Stennett of Toronto, is staying with Peterborough friends.

Following a week's cruise around Lakes Simcoe and Couchiching in his steam yacht, Water Witch, Dr. Hamilton, of Toronto, with a party of friends, made the trip down through the Kawartha Lakes, enjoying a pleasant seven days' cruise in the beautiful stretches of water. Between Beaverton and Rice Lake the party passed through twenty-five locks, ten lakes and five rivers.

On Sunday, Sept. 5, Rev. C. H. Coon of Mark Street, Peterborough, will preach at 10.30 a.m., and 7 p.m.

Monday a lawn social will be held on the beautiful grounds at Lilac Lodge. An interesting programme of sports, including baseball match, canoe races, double and single; ladies' and gentlemen; tub, and 100 yard race for boys, sack and potato races, etc. Valuable prises will be offered.

Dinner from 4.30 to 8 p.m., after which the following gentlemen will address the gathering: Rev. Messrs. Coon, Skene, Black, Newton, and Johnston (pastor), and Col. Denison, of Galveston, Texas. Music by Alderville Brass Band in native costume. Canteen on the grounds.

A Corn Roast.

The guests at Jubilee enjoyed a corn roast on Friday evening, which brought other visitors around and a very delightful evening was spent. Roast corn and light refreshments were served, following which a programme of speeches and songs of impromptu nature was offered. A feature was an address by Johnston Paudash, of Hiawatha. He gave a glowing story of the history of his tribe, and entertained the visitors by sketches of Indian lore, connected with different parts of the lake familiar to the tourists. Johnston made a big "hit."

NEW SEMAPHORE

At the Diamond was Operated for First Time Saturday Night.

The new semaphore at the intersection of the Grand Trunk and C.P.R. lines was used the first time on Saturday nght at midnight, or to be exact on Sunday morning at 12:01. There are three boards, one for the C.P.R. line, one for the Port Hope and one for Belleville line. Engines must pass the semaphore if the board is against them. There are outside semaphores at a distance from the diamond, the latter apparently the outer wall and the new boards the inner wall to prevent accidents. According to the new rules the board is away from the track which it is supposed to guard.

REV. DUNKLY ILL

Services at Hiawatha Being Taken By His Son.

Examiner Special.

Hiawatha, Ont., Aug. 30.—A basket social was held here last Tuesday evening on the lawn of the church. A good crowd attended and had a very pleasant evening.

Owing to the illness of our minister, Mr. Dunkly, his son, Mr. Albert Dunkly, very ably took his place on Sunday last. We trust that Mr. Dunkly will soon be among us again.

Misses Lenora and Marguerite Kylie were the guests of their uncle, Mr. J. Kylie, last week.

Miss Mabel Kylie spent a few days with her sister, in Peterborough, last week.

A FILTHY CONDITION

Many a man, otherwise scrupulously clean, is dandruff dirty. The small, persistent germs of dandruff working all day as well as night are constantly throwing off the small white dandruff scales which, falling on the shoulders of a coat, give it a filthy appearance which is repulsive to the friends of the victim.

Many men allow this condition to exist because they believe there is no cure for dandruff; they have tried various so-called cures with unsatisfactory results, and naturally condemn all.

The famous prescription called Parisian Sage is put up in America, but only by the Giroux Mfg. Co., of Buffalo, N.Y., and Port Erie, Ont. It is for sale in Peterborough by Wm. Madill, who guarantees it to cure dandruff in two weeks, or money back.

Parisian Sage is guaranteed to do more; it will make short, thin hair grow long, lustrous and luxuriant; it will stop hair from falling out; it will cure all diseases of the scalp. Wm. Madill guarantees it — every bottle of it. The price is only 50 cents, and if you want to stop the filthy dandruff flakes from lodging on your coat and disgusting your friends, get a bottle at once.

ALL BUT ONE TOOTH CRUSHED FROM MOUTH

An Elevator Forced Man's Face Against The Bar.

Toronto, Aug. 28.—Being under the impression that the elevator in the building at 496 Wellington street west was coming up, Louis Garbovits, 46 Agnes street, put his head into the shaft to make sure. The elevator was coming down, however, and, as a result, Garbovits' head was forced against a bar, and every tooth in his head save one was knocked out. He is forty-six years old.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Three new cruisers will be built for the Japanese navy.

The fine barn of J. Service of Oakland Centre was struck by lightning Sunday morning and burned.

Emigrants to Canada during the first seven months of the year were 88,923 and to the United States 99,443.

By the upsetting of a tally-ho at Victoria, B.C., six tourists were seriously hurt out of 19 who were upset.

A carelessly tossed cigarette exploded 700 pounds of dynamite at Key West, Fla., and killed twelve men.

Burglars broke into Byers' drug-store at Delhi and the Lasallette post-office during Saturday night, getting only a few dollars.

On and after Sept. 1, the display of beer, liquor and free lunch signs by Michigan hotel proprietors is prohibited by state law.

John C. Latham of New York, who died recently, bequeathed $10,000 to his stenographer and $25,000 for distribution among his employes.

John Purcell, aged 32, is under arrest at Niagara Falls, N.Y., as a suspect in the murder of 17-year-old Anna Schumacher at Rochester, Aug. 2.

It is claimed that Wall Street's havoc on health is enriching doctors who have specially developed to treat sicceente brought on by the mad hunt for money.

George Graham, who escaped from the Carlisle, Pa., jail Friday, was shot and killed by a Harrisburg policeman in attempting to escape from a house where he had been hiding.

Two persons are dead and a score were injured, six dangerously, as the result of a head-on collision between a heavily-loaded Wabash passenger train, No. 51, and a freight train near Glenwood, Mo.

As part of the elaborate functions attendant on the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the corporation of St. Louis, next October, it is planned to have a great ball at which the men and women will wear the costumes or rather likeness of the costumes in vogue when the city was born.

Heroic Wireless Operator.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 30.—Geo. C. Eccles, wireless operator on the wrecked steamer Ohio, which was wrecked off the Alaskan coast early Friday, went below with the purser to search for the quartermaster and steerage passenger when the ship started to sink, according to a wireless message received yesterday morning. He returned to his station after the search and began sending a message when the vessel made the plunge that carried it to the bottom.

Eccles was seen to leap from the wireless station, striking on his head, and it is thought that he then rolled into the water.

Eccles secured a place at Sunitna, Alaska, a short time before the Ohio sailed and had handed in his resignation, but as the company was short of wireless operators he consented to make one more trip before leaving the service of the company. He was born in Almonte, Ont.

His early messages for assistance brought the vessels that rescued the others.

Harriman Getting Better.

Arden, N.Y., Aug. 30.—"Mr. Harriman is better. You may say that Mrs. Harriman and all of us are very happy over the steady improvement in his health since he came to Arden House," said Rev. J. Holmes McGuiness, E. H. Harriman's personal chaplain, after dining with the Harriman family yesterday.

A Cleveland despatch says that Dr. Crile, the specialist summoned in haste on Friday, has wired that Mr. Harriman's condition is not serious and that an operation would not hasten nor give added assurance of his ultimate recovery. The nature of Mr. Harriman's illness is not mentioned.

Jacob Schieff, the New York banker, who conferred with Harriman Saturday, said: "Mr. Harriman is a well man."

Wrights Sue Curtiss.

Corning, N.Y., Aug. 30.—Papers were served Friday in Hammondsport, N.Y., upon Mrs. Glenn R. Curtiss and L. B. Masson, secretary-treasurer of the Herring Curtiss Aeroplane Co., by a deputy marshal in behalf of the Wright Brothers of Dayton, Ohio, who are bringing suit for alleged infringement on their aeroplane patents. The papers are returnable in the U. S. District Court in New York on Oct. 20.

HEAVY COLDS

During the census year in United States there were nearly seventy-seven thousand deaths due to pneumonia, and although consumption leads this by 62,000, pneumonia is responsible for more deaths than diphtheria, scarlet fever, smallpox, and cancer combined. The trouble is that people are too careless about colds—let them run on—grow bigger every day—finally old pneumonia steps in.

The very best thing to keep handy in every household is Nerviline, which you can depend on for curing colds. It affords certain relief and a quick cure. It has more potency, greater penetrating and curative power than any other liniment.

Nerviline Not Only Prevents, It Quickly Cures

When a cold is starting, give the chest and throat a vigorous hand rubbing with Nerviline, gargle the throat with Nerviline, and take a good stiff dose in hot water, you'll be surprised how fast the cold will disappear. Of course the chest should be protected by a Nerviline Porous Plaster, which will absorb all congestion and inflammation. You won't need to fear pneumonia, Grippe, Bronchitis, or cold of any kind if you keep Nerviline handy.

RECEPTION TO BERESFORD.

Toronto Plans a Big Informal Function To-day.

Toronto, Aug. 30.—Geo. B. Goodeham's yacht, Oriole II., which conveyed Lord Beresford to Niagara leaving Saturday afternoon, soon after the distinguished visitors arrival from Montreal, anchored off the R.C.Y.C. quarters at the island about 9 o'clock last night. Those on board were the admiral, his secretary, Hon. Dudley Carlton, Geo. H. Gooderham, W. K. George and Mark Irish. The party did not land, but Commodore Marlatt and other prominent club members visited the yacht.

The admiral, so it is said, justified his reputation as a genial, whole-souled sailor with no mean gifts as a raconteur. He was delighted with the lake voyage, entering into the speed of the trip with a hearty zest.

The civic welcome to Admiral Sir Charles Beresford at the City Hall this afternoon will be of an informal character, and, as such, will probably appeal much more to the bluff "Condor Charlie" than would stiff and severe formality.

In conversation on Saturday at Montreal with Sir George Drummond, Lord Charles said:

"I am not here to attack my own Government. That would be bad taste. Neither would you appreciate it, but I do say that in the years past our naval questions were beyond politics, but now naval officers pandor to politicians."

The admiral advocated the construction of cruisers, as against Dreadnoughts, to keep open the trade routes of the colonies.

Knights Come to Toronto.

Toronto, Aug. 30.—The Chapter General of America of the Order of Knights of St. John and Malta will hold their annual convention in this city on the 6th of September. About 200 delegates representing fourteen states and the Dominion of Canada will be in attendance. Reservation for the grand officers and delegates have been made at the leading hotels, and the headquarters will either be located at the Queen's or the Prince George. The first of the delegates to arrive will be the New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware and Connecticut knights, who are arriving by Lehigh Valley and Grand Trunk early next Sunday morning, and will be followed during the day by those from the western and southern states. The meetings of the chapter general are purely business ones, all parading and entertaining being prohibited by constitutional enactment. The local officers of the commanderies will meet the incoming trains and look after the reception and comfort of the visiting knights. The sessions will last three days, and be held in the chapter rooms of Beaver Commandry.

Lord Rosebery Wobbles.

New York, Aug. 30.—W. T. Stead cables The American from London, Eng.: The political sensation of the week has been the announcement that Lord Rosebery, formerly the Liberal Prime Minister, has promised to address a public meeting at Glasgow to protest against the budget.

The publication of this report was speedily followed by a telegram from Lord Rosebery, which read:

"The report is premature at any rate."

I should not be surprised if this episode brings Rosebery's political career to a somewhat ignominious close. Lord Rosebery has always hated the new budget because of the land taxes. As he is a great landlord himself, he shares to the full the landlord's hatred of taxation, but he also hated the "death duties" as much and yet consented to remain as Prime Minister while his Cabinet passed the hated impost.

Lloyd-George Censured.

London, Aug. 30.—Mr. Lloyd-George is leaving no stone unturned in his efforts to obtain support for his proposals. During the week he has given interviews to two Opposition papers, a proceeding which in itself is an extraordinary proceeding for a British Minister of his rank. To a Liberal paper he gave a copy of an important memorandum before a single member of the House of Commons could see it. This was so opposed to all traditions of Parliament that the Speaker of the House, who was appealed to, administered a grave rebuke to the Chancellor of the Exchequer, describing his conduct as a "regrettable occurrence."

Seeking Divorces.

Ottawa, Aug. 30.—Notice is given of application for divorce at the coming session by the following: Arthur E. Tero of Toronto, from Adelaide Viola Tero; by John Albert Green of Cutross, Bruce County, Ont., from Sarah Emily Green; Jessie M. Maxwell of Port Arthur, from Robert William Maxwell; John Grenfell Kingston; Mrs. Clara B. Holden, Toronto, from C. L. Holden, Chicago; Frederick J. G. McArthur, Winnipeg, from Mary A. McArthur, Forden, Sask.; Geo. R. Bittonshaw, Bowmanville, from Rosina M. M. Bittonshaw, Toronto; Hope E. M. Drinkle, from John C. Drinkle, Saskatoon.

Final D.R.A. Results.

Ottawa, Aug. 30.—The following results in the D.R.A. matches are announced: Steward's jewel match, won by Sergt. English, 38th Regt., 213; running man match, Capt. H. Complin, 23rd Regt., 94; Gen. Lake match, 55 shots in 45 seconds at figure of man 500 yards distant, 220, won by Corpl. A. Rutherford, F.O.R., 25.

Negro Knights Quell Riot.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 30.—Swinging their swords above the heads of the belligerents and declaring that unless the trouble ceased they would use them, a company of negro Knights of Pythias prevented what promised to be a race riot, during a parade of the supreme lodge of the negro Knights of Pythias.

The trouble began when W. S Jarbot, a laundryman, accompanied by his wife, drove through the parade of 5,000 negro knights.

Rival to Mauretania.

London, Aug. 30.—The builders of the Mauretania have begun the construction of a 30,000 ton steamship for the Cunard Company. She is expected to be faster than the Mauretania. The new vessel will have a length of 600 feet and a beam of 70 feet.

Orillia to Loan $50,000.

Orillia, Aug. 30.—The Tudhope factory will rebuild here, the Town Council offering a loan of $50,000, repayable in 20 years at $3,500 a year. There is no doubt the ratepayers will endorse the offer.

Sermon at Ball Game.

Minneapolis, Aug. 30.—A precedent in professional Sunday baseball was established yesterday by the holding of religious services as a prelude to the game between Minneapolis and Kansas City.

Have Well-Known Crook.

Toronto, Aug. 30.—Lieut. R. A. Stenton of the Detroit police department and Provincial Detective Chas. Mahaney of Windsor, Ont., arrived in Toronto yesterday from California with an alleged diamond thief, swindler and generally smooth crook, in the person of "Fritsy" (Frank) Behin, alias Frank Chapman. They are taking him to Chatham on a charge of stealing a satchel containing $1,575 and some drafts from a passenger of the Sovereign Bank on December 1, 1908.

The robbery occurred on a Michigan Central train at Tilbury. The bank messenger had been in the habit of carrying his money down to Fletcher in a satchel and on this occasion the grip was "switched" and another put in its place.

One Killed In Wreck.

Capac, Mich., Aug. 30.—Rushing along at a rate of 60 miles an hour the Grand Trunk express, running from Chicago to Port Huron, collided with the rear end of a work train at 1 o'clock yesterday morning. The fireman, John Brush, of Battle Creek, was instantly killed and three others were injured.

The accident occurred without warning. Brush attempted to jump, but was pinned between the cab and boiler of his locomotive. James McCaren, engineer, also tried to jump, but was caught in the wreckage and loses a leg.

The other two injured were John Sturman, fireman on the engine on the work train, and D. H. Rathman, engineer.

Shooting Ends Row.

St. John, N.B., Aug. 30.—A shooting affray occurred yesterday afternoon in McDonald's camp, near Plaster Rock, on the line of the G.T.P., when Samuel Polley, an Italian boss, shot James Gorman, an Englishman, in the abdomen. Three doctors decided to operate with slight hopes of success.

The men, who had been drinking, got into an altercation and fought. Gorman got the better of the Italian, and the latter, retreating towards the bunk house, got a 32-calibre revolver and fired. Polley made no attempt to escape.

Russia's Mimic German War.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 30.—War manoeuvres on a vast scale on the plains between Gatchina and Narva have occupied the Czar and the leading Russian generals the past week. The area of operations is located within a three days' infantry march of St. Petersburg and the entire scheme was remarkable for political candor.

The strategic advisers of the Czar started on the assumption that Russia was at war with Germany before the navy had been sufficiently reconstructed to defend even the upper coasts of the Gulf of Finland. German warships were assumed to have convoyed transports to Narva, where they had disembarked an invading army within a hundred miles of the capital.

Local Option Mass Meeting.

Hespeler, Aug. 30.—The Hespeler Citizens' League in the interests of local option held an open air meeting yesterday afternoon. Two lorrys served as a platform for the speakers. The teachers and scholars of the different Sunday schools, about 500 in number, paraded to the grounds, the children carrying small flags with the words "Save the Boys," "Save the Girls," and "Vote for Us." They were headed by the Salvation Band of Guelph. The speakers were: Rev. Dr. Eby, S. Berr, J. Parkin, Rev. J. Wilson, and J. H. Christman.

Judge's Offer to Prisoner.

St. John, N.B., Aug. 30.—George Morissis, who was found guilty of selling Free Speech, an obscene publication, was sentenced by Judge Forbes to three months in jail and a fine of $300. He intimated that if prisoner would assist the authorities in the suppression of the paper he would commute the sentence.

Bank Clerk Drowns.

Vancouver, B.C., Aug. 30.—Charles O'Shaughnessy, aged 21, ledgerkeeper in the Bank of Commerce, was drowned Saturday afternoon at English Bay. He dived from the float and it is supposed suffered a cramp, for he sank from sight. His parents live in Ireland.

Just the Man For the Stunt.

Summit, N.J., Aug. 30.—Antonio Sylva, a laborer employed by John J. McGrath, sat on a limb and sawed it off between himself and the tree. He fell thirty feet and landed on his head. But he has the kind of a head that goes with that kind of a trick and he wasn't much hurt.

ABSTAINERS HIT OFTEN

By defeating the Strathconas at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon by 7 runs to 1, the T.A.S. took another step towards annexing the City League silverware.

Despite the rain which fell previous to the game, the contest was witnessed by a goodly attendance.

The game itself was good in spots, but lacked ginger all the way. The Straths, who were minus "Pete" Weatherston and "Bab" Kendry, the big half of their infield, once more treated the audience to three different and distinct airship ascensions in the same afternoon. "Ab" Quinlan, who was on the mound for the Abstainers, twirled his best game of the season, allowing the Straths only two measly singles. He was master of the situation at all times, and for eight innings, not a player on the opposition got beyond the half way house.

Three-fingered Gorham performed on the hillock for the Straths, and his work was good enough to win an ordinary game had his support been anything worth while. He was touched up for seven safeties, three of which were of a very fluky order, and were for the most part well scattered.

Both sides were retired in order in the first innings.

In the T.A.S. part of the second M. O'Brien singled over short, stole second and was sacrificed to third by Quinlan. Craig dropped Doherty's fly back of short allowing O'Brien to score, Doherty making second. McFadden hit safely, Doherty recording. Gorham hit W. O'Brien. Derocher flew out to Heaslip, and Callaghan skied out to Craig.

In the third the T.A.S. got two more. Cahill got life on Heaslip's misplay, and went to third on a passed ball. Flaherty out Gorham to Heaslip. M. O'Brien was safe when Curtis booted his grounder, Cahill scoring. Quinlan singled, advancing O'Brien to third, but he was out a minute later, Gorham catching him asleep off the bag. Gorham threw to catch Quinlan off second, but Curtis let the sphere get away from him Sheridan picked it up and threw wild to third, Quinlan crossing the plate Doherty flew out to Shaw.

Everything went along smooth till the T.A.S. portion of the sixth which Doherty unlocked with a single. McFadden hit to Ray, who threw low to first and every one was safe. W. O'Brien drove one at Gorham, who threw to Heaslip, who was asleep about a yard off the base and the cushions were all occupied. Craig fumbled Derocher's grounder allowing Doherty to score. Callaghan drove out a scratch hit through short scoring McFadden and O'Brien. Cahill flew out to Ray. Flaherty grounded out, Gorham to Heaslip, and O'Brien died, Ray to Heaslip. Three runs.

Both sides then were retired in order till the Straths' half of the ninth Shaw bunted, and McFadden fell over the ball, and the runner was safe. He stole second. Craig bunted to Quinlan, who threw wide to catch Shaw at third, and the Strath captain went over for the only run. Craig tried to score from first on the over throw but was caught about three feet from the plate on a good throw by Cahill Heaslip was safe on Cahill's misplay. He stole second, but Sheridan flew out to Doherty. Ray fanned and the game was over.

Sparks from Saildom

Quinlan pitched another great game.

It's the West Ends next Saturday.

The Straths don't seem to be able to settle down even for one game.

The absence of Kendry and Weatherston put the red and white team at a big disadvantage.

McFadden's work behind the plate is improving every game.

Ray did some nice work on the bases.

Doherty has the making of a good gardener. He fields his position well, in addition to being good with the willow.

What the Straths most need is a little more "pep." They are absolutely without ginger.

Jack Oldham calls the West Ends to down the leaders next Saturday.

EXHIBITION NUMBER

Special Issue of the Canadian Sportsman Profusely Illustrated.

The Canadian Sportsman has issued a grand Special Canadian National Exhibition number. It is dated August 27th, consists of 32 pages with innumerable half-tone illustrations, interesting stories and articles by celebrated writers and a vast amount of miscellaneous matters. Among the articles of special notes is one "Dammer Moose," by that celebrated writer, Douglas Clinch. It is a tale of New Brunswick, and is decidedly interesting. A story by the editor, H. J. P. Good, is entitled, "A Horse, A Man and a Girl." Then there is a history of The Pacer from the beginning, an interesting article on The Thoroughbreds of England by one of England's most famous turf writers, Mr. A. W. Coaten, and articles on the Revival of Racing, Royal Winners of Classics, Royalty and the St. Leger, Billiards All the Year Round, and many other subjects of sporting interest. Altogether it is doubtful if a better sporting paper has ever been issued on this continent.

HOCKEY TEAM MAKES STRIKE OF SILVER

News has been received in the city that the Haileybury Hockey team have struck silver in Gow Ganda. The members of the team have formed a chartered company and own 18 properties. Several of them have recently arrived at the mine after spending some months in Ottawa and other places.

HAMILTON TIGERS READY FOR SEASON

Hamilton, Aug. 30.—W. H. Seymour retired from the Presidency of the Tigers' Athletic Club Saturday evening at the annual meeting, and was presented with a diamond ring and a vote of thanks in recognition of his services.

The following officers were elected: W. H. Ballard and W. G. Moore, Honorary Patrons; Adam Zimmerman, Honorary President; H. L. Frost, Honorary Vice-President; Dr. W. G. Thompson, President; M. S. Long, Vice-President; Hugh Murray, Secretary; Wm. L. Agnew, Treasurer; H. L. Lazier, Manager senior team; Captain Roy Moodie, Hardy Awrey, Russell T. Kelly and the officers compose the Executive Committee. R. L. Gilmour and J. W. Brown, Auditors.

Receipts foro the past year were $12,016.57, expenditures $10,099.51 and a balance of $1,917.06. Of this $1,600 was voted to the permanent grounds fund, which was started three years ago, and now totals $4,719.80. The Tigers expect to repeat their success of last year on the gridiron this fall and to carry off at least two Dominion championships. A committee will be appointed to confer with other athletic clubs in the city to arrange for the organization of a Hamilton Amateur Athletic Association, and it is probable this scheme will bear fruit in a couple of months. The intention is to secure commodious and central grounds and erect a clubhouse. A site has been chosen, but no offer has been made for it yet.

JIMMY AND THE GO-CART

Look out for Jimmy Reynolds and his go-cart on Wednesday next. Jimmy has bet $150 to $300 that he will walk from Toronto to Port Hope, 66 miles, in 14¼ hours, and push a cart ahead of him. He is 58 years of age, but feels young enough to make the trip.

A NEW LIVERY MAN ON CHAMBERS STREET

Last week Mr. Morris O'Brien disposed of his livery business on Chambers street to Mr. Merton Storey, son of Mr. Jas. A. Storey, Weller street. The new proprietor took possession this morning and is determined to carry on an up-to-date livery. Mr. Storey is well and favourably known in the city, and the public may feel confident that they will receive every satisfaction from him in his line. See advertisement in another column.

Ketchel And Langford In A Ten Round Mill Next Friday

It is regretted that Stanley Ketchel and Sam Langford, the greatest of the modern school, will not have it out to a finish, but as they are to fight in New York, there will be no chance. The bout is scheduled for ten rounds, but in the opinion of those who know things pugilistic, the limit will be reached with both men on their feet and hitting a fast pace. Both know the long distance game and know it well, and in a contest of such short duration there is certain to be some milling that will set the bugs who see the affair afire.

The battle which is down for decision next Friday undoubtedly will be attended by the greatest crowd that has swarmed the ringside of a New York club since the Horton law went into effect several years ago. The calibre of the men makes this certain, for Ketchel is a champion and a real one, while many are of the opinion that Langford would have worn the crown long ago had it not been for his colour.

No that the meeting is certain, a comparison of the two men is not out of line. That it is hard to "dope" them is due mostly because of Langford's style of fighting. The Boston negro has the ability to change his style to jibe with the way his opponent is milling, while Ketchel's way of battling is more in the set line.

Therefore it is plain that Langford's line of slugging will depend entirely on what Ketchel may do, and for this reason the result of the bout most entirely lies in how effective his style will be against that which the negro may adopt in the ring.

T.A.S. And Park Street Tied For The League Championship

By defeating the Strathconas the T. A. S. are now tied with Park Street for the championship of the league. and have one more game with the West Ends, which, if won, will give the Obstainers the first position in the league. Should the West Ends win but the T. A .S. will be tied with Park Street and another game will be necessary to settle the question. There is just a possibility that Quinlan and his "Russets" may take a little fall on Saturday. Lou Dobson will be behind the bat and Kirn will be pitching. The "Kid from the Collegiate," as he has been named, has given the T. A. S. a close game on two former occasions, and is good to duplicate his past work. Jim Davidson says the West Ends will all be back and will do their best to dig a ditch for the T. A. S. to stumble into in their eagerness to clinch the silverware. The T. A. S. were never better, and from McFadden out to centre field are putting up a fine article of ball. The West Ends will have Carton back, and Minorgan, who has been holidaying in Europe. They are determined to make a strong opposition to the winning streak the T. A. S. are showing, and may take a win from them. From the fact that this is now the deciding game of the year and may be the last in the league there is already all kinds of interest. Kirn, it may be stated, is some pitcher, and many will no doubt take this opportunity of seeing him perform.

Ben Simpson May Not Be Seen In Rugby Togs This Season

Mr. Ben. Simpson, of the famed Hamilton Tigers' half-back division, is not very keen to get back into the game this year. He is visiting in Peterborough and when asked by an Examiner reporter to-day about turning out with the Hamilton team he stated that he had not thought of it yet and he would not turn out unless it came to a "pinch" and his services were absolutely required. He looks for a sort of upheaval of the team in the matter of players and expects to see considerable new blood. Ben. is of the opinion that the old guard, including himself, has become stale and new blood will put mroe vim and energy into the work. Tope is to be married soon and will likely retire and several other changes are spoken of. Simpson is beginning to think of retiring from the game in which he has distingiushed himself, and upon which he has brought honour by the gentlemanly tactics that have always characterized his play. Dunnoulin, Ballard, and now Simpson, are three that have helped to make the name Tiger dreaded in the arena of Rugby. and have helped to bring fame to the Bay city as the home of the classiest gridiron warriors that ever donned the mudstained togs.

THE PRIZE WINNERS IN FISHING CONTEST

The Brinton Football Club held a fishing contest on Saturday afternoon which proved decidedly interesting. The contest was held along the bank just above the locks. A large number were present. The first prize, a landing net, donated by M. C. Banks, was won by Mr. D. Webb. The second, a box of cigars, donated by Mr. Alex. Elliott, was won by Mr. W. Farr, and the third, a pipe, was won by Mr. D. Monk.

The prizes were awarded according to best catches made by the contestants.

OBITUARY.

MRS. R. J. WINCH

As briefly announced on Saturday, the death occurred at the family residence 266 Stewart street, of Mrs. Agnes Winch, wife of Mr. R. J. Winch, of this city.

Mrs. Winch had been in poor health for some weeks, but the end came unexpectedly, and on Saturday morning early she passed peacefully away.

The deceased was a laughter of the late John Fife, of Otonabee township, one of the pioneers of the country. She was married to Mr. Winch in 1856 and lived for two years in Peterborough, and then in Cobourg for thirty-two years, returning to this city in 1890, and being a resident continuously until her death.

On the 7th of February, 1906, Mr. and Mrs. Winch celebrated their golden wedding, and were the recipients of many congratulations and tokens of friendship and esteem at that time. The deceased lady was of a kind, gentle, and hospitable nature, who unostentatiously did much in a charitable way, and many will long bless her memory. She was a life-long Methodist and attended the George St. Methodist Church.

A family of seven children, two sons, Mr. C. H. Winch, of Montreal, and Mr. R. V. Winch, of Vancouver; and five daughters, Mrs. Pentland, of this city; Mrs. Geo. B. Bower, of Vancouver; Mrs. F. W. G. Johnson, of Montreal; Mrs. H. H. Bradburn, of Winnipeg, and Miss May E. Winch, of Vancouver, survive her. In addition to these, one brother, Mr. James H. Fife, and one sister, Miss Rebecca Fife, of Otonabee, together with her bereaved husband mourn her loss.

The funeral is announced to take place on Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock. The interment will take place in Little Lake cemetery.

GEORGE MITCHELL

The many friends of Mr. George Mitchell, formerly of Peterborough, and son of the late —— Mitchell will regret to learn of his death on the 20th inst. at Winnipeg. Mr. Mitchell moved to the West about 20 years ago. He had been very successful as a builder and contractor. Last year he took a trip abroad for his health, but had been failing since February last. During the two months preceding his death he gradually sank and for some weeks prior to his death his attending physician held out no hopes for his recovery. Heart trouble was the immediate cause.

He leaves a wife and daughter to mourn his loss. Mrs. Mitchell, (nee Miss Millie Armstrong) is a daughter of the late Jas. Armstrong, of Cavan, and a sister of Mr. W. H. Armstrong, Weller street.

Mrs. Mitchell and daughter, Olive, will have the deepest sympathy of their friends in this district. Mr. Mitchell was one of Peterborough's most popular young men during his residence here.

Mr. Mitchell left his family satisfactorily provided for, and they are at present residing with Mrs. Mitchell's sister, Mrs. F. Walsh, in Winnipeg.

AGNES M. PATTERSON

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Patterson, Kirk street, will sympathise with them in the loss of their infant daughter, Agnes Morrison, whose death occurred on Saturday evening about 9 o'clock.

The funeral was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock, and interment was made in Little Lake cemetery.

WEDDING BELLS

JOHNSTON—WHITNEY.

A very quiet wedding took place at McLeod Street Methodist parsonage, Ottawa, last week, when Miss Isabel Sweetland Whitney, second daughter of the late Philip and Mrs. Whitney, 355 Slater street, was united in marriage to Mr. George A. Johnston, of the Interior Department, by Rev. R. G. Peever. The wedding, owing to the recent death of the bride's father, was very quiet and was performed in the presents were received from their timate friends. The bride was attended by Miss A. Pratt, and Miss J. Sutherland.

The happy couple will reside at the home of the bride's mother. Both Mr. and Mrs. Johnston are widely known in the city and a host of beautiful many friends.

The groom is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Glover, East City.

How Is Your Watch Running?

Watch Repairing Always Has Been a Hobby of Ours to do the Best Work Possible.

Is it always fast or slow; never quite on time? Perhaps the watch is capable of very accurate running, but it is not in perfect order. You know the tiny mechanism of a watch absolutely demands that each of the dozens of little parts—jewels, springs, wheels, etc.—be just right, or good timing is out of the question.

BIG FLOOD IN MEXICO

Houses Crumbled and Hundreds of People on The Roofs Were Lost—Others Looked on Unable to Lend Assistance.

LOSS OF $30,000,000.00

Mexico City, Aug. 31.—A conservative estimate of the damage wrought at Monterey by the flood places the dead at fourteen hundred and the property loss at $12,000,000. The river has now gone down.

Eighteen blocks of residences were destroyed, and 15,000 persons are homeless. The water mains are useless and the city is without drinking water and as it will be impossible to resume the train service for a week the city is threatened with a food famine. Ten thousand persons are being fed on bread, coffee and soup by the municipal authorities.

Many abode structures, soaked by the rain, are falling, with some loss of life.

The greatest loss occurred when the large buildings on the south side of the river commenced to crumble and fall. Many of the houses had from 100 to 200 people on their roofs and all disappeared in the flood. In one school building 90 women and children were drowned when the walls of the building collapsed. While two priests were blessing the women and children the walls fell. Thousands of people on the north bank were unable to render aid, for the Santa Catarina was half a mile wide and flowing 20 miles an hour.

President Diaz yesterday afternoon telegraphed $30,000 to Monterey. Vice-President Coral has contributed $2,000 and Ambassador Thompson $1,000 to the fund. The fact that the Red Cross of the United States is to give aid to the sufferers has been learned here with profound satisfaction.

The National Bank officials estimate the loss in the business centre of Monterey at $5,000,000. The loss to the big smelter and industrial plants outside the city limits will amount to as much more.

It is estimated that the total losses in the whole district affected by the cyclone and floods will approximate $30,000,000.

To Begin Tunnel of 2,500 Feet.

Vancouver, B.C., Aug. 31.—The Grand Trunk Pacific official party went east yesterday afternoon.

General Manager Chamberlin said yesterday that five steamers are now rushing supplies up the Skeena River to start work on the new 100 mile section of line now under contract. Work will be commenced immediately on the 2,500 foot tunnel, 19 miles from Hazelton. An aerial tramway will be installed at Kitsalas Canyon to handle goods around a dangerous section of the river.

Killed in a Drunken Brawl.

Emmerson, Man., Aug. 31.—As a result of a drunken brawl on Saturday night, John Boyko of Overstone is dead. Wasyl Chuly and another Galician are said to have been involved in the fatal quarrel, and the police are looking for them.

Saw Bursts; One Man Killed.

Tillsonburg, Aug. 31.—A fatal accident occurred yesterday morning at the works of the Tillson stave mill, whereby Porter Kline lost his life and William Armstrong sustained injuries that are expected to result in his death.

LORD BERESFORD IS BUSY DODGING THE REPORTERS

Toronto, Aug. 31.—Despite the efforts of his more intimate friends to prevent him from being pestered by eager Toronto citizens anxious to shake him by the hand and have a brief chat with him, Lord Charles Beresford had a busy time of it yesterday in making calls and receiving callers, to say nothing of the public and semi-public functions he attended during the day.

And a strenuous time he is likely to have during the whole of his visit. So many people desire to have the privilege of grasping him by the hand and exchanging a few words with him, that if he acceded to all the requests of this character he would have no time to himself. Consequently many who wish to make the personal acquaintance of the hero of Alexandria will be disappointed. Lord Charles has a suite of rooms at the King Edward Hotel, which will be his headquarters until he leaves the city next Monday, and here a book is provided in which are entered all the names of visitors who call upon the gallant admiral.

Among the few callers Lord Beresford received in his suite at the King Edward yesterday morning, were Capt. Melville, Mayor Oliver and W. K. George.

Those who are acting as his "guides, philosophers and friends," during his stay in the city are having a busy time too, one of their chief and most difficult tasks being to keep forever on the alert to guard his lordship from the attacks of enthusiastic reporters who are to be found lurking in all manner of unlikely places ready to pounce upon him at any moment he may be left unguarded, and secure a coveted interview. But Lord Charles is "mum," as far as private chats with newspaper men are concerned. He firmly, but courteously refuses to say anything to the press which is of any news value. He is reserving what he has to say regarding his views on the British naval policy for his public utterances. So carefully is everything arranged to prevent anything like a forecast of what he may have to say upon this subject that his private secretary, Hon. Dudley Carleton, is practically as inaccessible to the reporters as Lord Charles himself.

However at the official opening of the exhibition this afternoon, it is expected that his lordship may unburden his mind of some reflections he has stored up during his voyage across the Atlantic, and during his short sojourn in Canada, so that those who are privileged to be present at the ceremony are likely to hear him express some views of world-wide importance.

At the luncheon at the Canadian Club on Thursday, and at the dinner at the National Club the same night, Lord Charles is expected to touch upon Imperial questions.

EARL GREY LOST IN WESTERN BUSH WHILE OUT HUNTING

Victoria, B.C., Aug. 31.—Earl Grey, Governor-General of Canada, who returned here yesterday from Dawson and Skagway by the Government steamer Quadra, had a narrow escape from death when lost in the woods of Jervis Inlet for five and a half hours on Saturday last.

He was on a shooting expedition without companions, other than his dog.

He tells of nearly falling over a precipice in the darkness, before being rescued by a search party, headed Major Clark, his orderly, and Second Office Johnston of the Quadra, one of the many search parties sent into the woods after fires were built along the shore line to attract the attention of the lost governor.

Earl Grey was utterly exhausted when found and his clothing was badly torn.

His Excellency left the Quadra at 8:30 pm. and went into the woods, where Lord Lascellas, the previous day, had killed a mountain goat and two deer. After penetrating some distance into the woods, he lost his way, and night came on.

When he failed to return for dinner there was intense excitement on the Quadra, and the steam whistle was kept blowing constantly, fires were built on the beach and search parties sent into the woods.

Meanwhile the earl clambered over fallen trees, fought his way through undergrowth and slid down rocks in the darkness, tearing his clothing to rags.

On one occasion he came to the edge of a precipice, feeling his way with an alpenstock, which he carried as well as a rifle. The alpenstock slipped from his hand clattered down a considerable distance below. Then he realized what a narrow escape from death he had. His dog was missing and he feared it had fallen over the precipice, but it turned up afterwards.

He turned back, and failing in the darkness to find his way, tired with his many struggles, sank down exhausted, after five and a half hours of unavailing effort.

He was so hungry and exhausted that he leaned against what he took to be a log, but it proved to be a shadow, and he tumbled into the undergrowth. At last he sank down on a flat rock to await daylight, and soon afterward saw the reflection of a fire. Then he fired his rifle and the shot was heard by a search party.

His Excellency is none the worse for his adventure.

Harvesting by Moonlight.

Calgary, Alta., Aug. 31.—Farmers are jubilant as a result of existing weather conditions, which are unexcelled. The days are warm, with abundance of sunshine and the nights maintain a temperature that materially assists in filling out uncut grain.

Farmers commence cutting at 4 in the morning and by a relay of horses cut for hours by the light of the full moon. Seventy-five per cent. of the crop will be safely harvested inside of two days.

Acland Off to Nova Scotia.

Ottawa, Aug. 31.—The Minister of Labor has sent F. A. Acland, Deputy Minister, to Nova Scotia, with the view of reporting fully to the Minister on the present industrial situation.

While no request has been received from Glace Bay for Government intervention, Hon. Mackenzie King feels that the Government should have the fullest possible information in regard to the situation.

Domestic Kills Herself.

Ottawa, Aug. 31.—Lena Christopher, a domestic, was walking with her sweetheart last night. When near her employer's residence, they evidently quarreled. The man left her and she screamed. He went back and the girl then took a bottle and drank the contents. The dose proved to be carbolic acid, and when the girl was rushed to the hospital she died. The victim was a native of Gloucester, Carleton County.

Wage Increase Recommended.

Ottawa, Aug. 31.—The board of conciliation in the differences between the C.P.R. and its freight handlers at Fort William recommends that wages should be 20 1-2 cents per hour for day work and 23 1-2 cents for night work. The laborers were getting 18 and 21 cents.

No direct evidence of ill-treatment by foremen was furnished. It is recommended that the bonus system be done away with.

Minister Is Arrested.

Woodstock, N.B., Aug. 31.—A sensation was caused here Sunday night by the arrest of Rev. F. Allison Currier, B.A., formerly pastor of the Woodstock Baptist Church, lately of a prominent Winnipeg church, charged with obtaining money under false pretences from William Everett of Upper Woodstock.

A deal in western land is the base of the action.

Nothing Serious, Says Harriman.

New York, Aug. 31.—E. H. Harriman has dictated a statement for the press, saying:

"My treatment abroad reduced my strength and vitality and weakened my digestion. The most expert physicians in Europe advised to have an examination by surgeons, as a matter of precaution. This has been done very carefully by Doctors Brewer and Crile, in conjunction with Dr. Walter James, and Dr. Lyle, and the whole result is that they find nothing serious, and renew the advice previously obtained that I should have rest and not see many people at one time.

"If there was or should be anything serious I will let the press know, and as I have never deceived them, I ask that the press now withdraw its representatives and rely on me."

Pulp Mills Suffer.

Ottawa, Aug. 31.—Because of the new U. S. tariff regulations practically prohibiting the import of print paper, the output of the J. R. Booth paper mills here will be decreased about 40 per cent., necessitating the laying off of 150 employes. The Eddy Co. market is principally in Canada.

The ruling of the United States Treasury Board against wood pulp and paper from Ontario and Quebec has given considerable concern to the Canadian Government, and will be the subject of further inquiry by them.

The export duties were put on by the Provincial Governments over which the Federal authorities have no control.

Canada Big Enough for C.P.R.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 31.—D. McNichol, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, made the statement here that his company has no intention of building a line to Puget Sound as long as the present tariff agreement with the Northern Pacific proves profitable. Mr. McNichol said it is the policy of his road to develop Canadian territory, and it is not their purpose to invade the United States.

His Neck Broken.

Sarnia, Aug. 31.—While unloading logs from a train, Arthur Sutherland, aged 33, was instantly killed at the Cleveland-Sarnia Saw Mills. His head was crushed and neck broken.

Investigating a Death.

Galt, Aug. 31.—Coroner Vardon opened an inquest yesterday into the death of Andrew Waugh, a young Englishman. Poisoning is suspected.

Babe Rescued From Fire.

Toronto, Aug. 31.—Fire in the third floor of 19 Chestnut street yesterday, in apartments occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Green, caused considerable damage. Mrs. Green had gone downstairs, leaving her six-year-old son in the rooms, when smoke was noticed. F. J. Fixon and Thomas Usher sent in an alarm and then worked their way upstairs to the rescue of a 15-months-old baby of Mrs. Klein on the second floor. The firemen made quick work of the blaze. The loss includes $700 to building and $250 to contents, with $85 in bills additional. The cash was to pay some employes of Mrs. Green.

Foresees Great Tariff War.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Congressman James R. Mann, who worked for reduction of tariff on wood pulp and print paper in the House of Representatives, believes United States is on the verge of a great tariff war with Canada, and states that the Dominion has the position of vantage in the matter of the pulp and paper tariff. He believes the situation rests in the attitude of Quebec and Ontario toward the provision regarding pulp and paper.

GAMBLER'S LUCK.

The Lackey Who Changed Places With His Former Master.

Some years ago a remarkable occurrence transpired at Nice, which is very near to Monte Carlo. A notorious habitue of the casino, who had made his money principally there, had set up an English vehicle, a pair of horses, "tiger" and all, and cut quite a swell driving in the neighborhood, says Illustrazione. One day he was riding in the environs of the town when his servant, sitting upon the raised box behind, who had been feeling somewhat uneasy at not receiving his wages for some time, seeing his master quite alone, ventured to ask him through the back window if he would not make it convenient to pay him. The master was in a good humor and asked:

"How much is it, La Fleur?"

"One hundred and twenty-five livres, may it please you, monsieur."

"Very well; here it is," said the master, spreading the sum in paper currency upon the seat of the vehicle. "Now, La Fleur, have you a pack of cards with you?"

"Certainly," answered the obsequious lackey. "I always carry them, monsieur," producing the cards at once.

"That is well. Now, I will be banker, and you shall play against me. I will take the front seat, the back one shall serve for our table, and you can look through this back window."

The lackey assented to this, amused at his master's condescension. Luck was rather on the master's side, but both men became quite eager in the game, thinking of that, and of money only. Little by little the fortune of money went until all that was left of his wages was 5 livres. He began to feel anxious, when suddenly his luck turned, and he won the whole sum back, with every sou his master had about him.

Piqued at his loss, the master wagered a horse, which the lackey won; then its mate, next the harness and lastly the carriage itself. Luck ran all one way, and the servant, La Fleur, won everything. The master took out his watch and put it down against a given sum. The cards were shuffled, and the lackey won.

"I have nothing more, La Fleur. You have cleaned me out," said the half desperate gambler.

The servant was in high spirits at his strange run of luck.

"Here are a hundred livres, monsieur. I will stake them against your position. If you win they are yours. If you lose we change seats."

"Agreed!"

The cards were shuffled, La Fleur won, and the vehicle returned to Nice with its former master occupying the servant's box behind and La Fleur sitting inside!

The Last Speaker of Cornish.

In the little village of St. Paul, near Penzance, there is a monument erected to the memory of Doll, or Dolly, Pentreath, who attained the age of 102 and was the last woman who spoke the Cornish tongue. This is the inscription: "Here lieth interred Dorothy Pentreath, who died in 1777, said to have been the last person who conversed in the ancient Cornish, the peculiar language of this country from the earliest times till it expired in the eighteenth century in this parish of St. Paul. This stone is erected by the Prince Louis Lucien Bonaparte, in union with the Rev. John Garnett, vicar of St. Paul, June, 1860. 'Honor thy father and thy mother that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee' (Exodus xx, 12)."—London News.

The Youngster Hushed.

When the great French chemist Chevreul attained his hundredth birthday he was entertained at a public dinner, at which his son, a high official in the department of justice, sixty-seven years old, was also present. The old man made a speech and in telling an anecdote made a slight slip, which his son corrected. Old Chevreul turned around quickly and said in a sharp tone, "Hush, youngster, when I am talking." And the "youngster" held his tongue.

MEN OF ACTION.

Served as an Illustration For the Professor's Lecture.

"How did you like Professor Newmarch?" one of the summer residents of Willowby asked Mr. Hiram Gale. "I saw his name on the list of lecturers in your last winter's course."

Mr. Gale stroked his chin reflectively.

"Well, some thought he was kind o' stiff in his speech at first, but I tell ye what happened:

"He got kind o' worked up telling us what 'men of action' meant, what the gover'ment o' these United States was doing in Alasky, the Philippines, an' so on, an' he stepped a mite too nigh the aidge o' the platform an' lost his balance. But as he begun to fall Sam Hobart an' Pick Willis, that were in the front seat, stood up an' ketched him, one by each arm, an' brought him up standin'. He bulged out at the knees for a minute, but nothin' to speak of.

"An,' says Pick to him, 'The last word you spoke was "omnivorous," an' mebbe before you tackle it again you'll give us some kind o' a hint what it means.'

"The professor looked from Pick to Sam an' back to Pick again, kind o' dazed, an' then he begun to laugh.

"'You let me mumm,' he says, 'an' I'll see to it that the rest o' my talk is such you won't need a dictionary.' An' he kep' his promise.

"Yes, sir, he gave us a fine talk after that, an' he's comin' again. We had him to breakfast next mornin', and my wife said she wouldn't want to hear anybody talk more sensible or act more common an' friendly than he did. But there was a piece in the Sentinel next week referrin' to Pick an' Sam as 'Willowby's men of action,' an' I reckon the name'll stick to 'em long as they live."

THEIR LAZY CLUB.

English Workmen Make Late Comers Pay For Tardiness.

In the engineering shops of a certain English firm the workmen of a year or two ago originated what they called the Lazy club. It was entirely their own idea, which for obvious reasons has received neither recognition nor financial support from the management, but has been the most excellent means of reducing the number of late comers.

Whenever a workman is more than five minutes after time he finds the gate locked, and he is not allowed to enter until the half hour is up.

This half hour is deducted from his wages, but in addition he has also to pay to the treasurer of the Lazy club about 5 cents for coming late.

If he is late more than once or so during a week everybody is aware of the fact, and the second or third time he makes his appearance after starting time he is greeted with a terrific combination of noises produced on any available material by his fellow workmen.

At certain periods the accumulated funds of the Lazy club are divided, not among those who have produced them. It should be noted, but among the entire staff equally. Thus the late workman is made to pay the early comers for his lateness.

The last distribution was just prior to a "bean feast," and funds accumulated during twelve months were distributed, amounting to over $1.75 a head.—System.

A Pepper Duel.

A certain literary and diplomatic friend of ours once took part in a pepper duel at a foreign restaurant. He was provoked to the contention by the quantity of stimulating condiment that a stranger across the table indulged in. The stranger sprinkled an unconscionable quantity of red pepper upon his food and proceeded to devour it, to the wonder and admiration of onlookers. Thereupon with studied nonchalance the American swallowed an immense piece of chili pepper. Then the stranger added more red pepper, then the American another larger slice, covered with cayenne, and so on, till it seemed as if both would explode, while the other diners looked on aghast, the American finally winning out with a prodigious dose defying all emulation.—Lippincott's.

A SNAKE STORY.

The Yarn That Was Spun by a Traveler in Australia.

An Australian traveler says that he was one day walking in the thick scrub, collecting specimens, when he came upon a large light brown snake, a species of python, coiled upon the ground.

He was by far the finest one he had ever seen at large. He was probably ten or twelve feet long and as thick as a man's leg at the knee.

He looked savage enough to devour a man, and at first the collector felt half inclined to run away.

He recovered himself, however, and was on the point of shooting the serpent with a charge of dust shot in order to carry home his skin when it occurred to him that he would be worth five times as much if he were taken alive.

"I had," he says, "a leather strap with a buckle in my game bag, and with this I determined to noose the snake.

"I started toward him, but when I came near he partly uncoiled, opened his mouth very wide, thereby disclosing his sharp teeth, and, hissing spitefully, struck at me. I dodged behind a small tree and, leaning out as far as I dared, tried several times to noose him.

"After I had teased him for some time he suddenly started off at full speed. I caught my gun and by dint of hard running through the thick scrub managed to head him off. He coiled, and again I tried the noose, but he put his head under his coils in a very sulky manner. I reached out from my shelter behind a tree and caught him by the tail, but he pulled away with great force and glided off again.

"This time he took refuge under a fallen tree and before I could head him off was gliding down the hole of some wild animal.

"I reached the spot just as the last two or three feet of his body were disappearing, and, seizing his tail with both hands, I hung on desperately. With my feet braced against a limb of the tree I pulled till the tail cracked and snapped as if it would break asunder. Sometimes he pulled me to within a few inches of the hole, and then I would brace myself against the limb and drag him halfway out.

"At last I grew so tired that I had to let go my hold, and with many regrets I saw the last few inches of the tail disappear beneath the earth."

THE DUTCH KITCHEN.

Largest Room in the House and Has a Bed in the Corner.

Holland, of all countries, is a memorial to the unceasing labor of man's hands. It exists not because the sea, higher than its green stretches, suffers it to, but because man by the labor of his hands and of his brain has kept the water back. The Dutch people have not only earned their land—they have made it.

"When have they found time to do it all?" you ask yourself. But you are to know more of the work which in Holland never ceases. Of the work which goes on within those houses you know nothing until at Delft you make your first acquaintance with a Dutch kitchen.

The kitchen is properly a large room as compared with the other rooms in the house, for it is the gathering place at all times for the family. The table is round and stands not quite in the center of the room, but so that the mistress, sitting at one side, can reach her hand out to the stove without rising.

In one corner of the kitchen is such a bed as you have never seen before. The stiffly starched white muslin curtains make it look like a blind window, but the grandson pulls the curtains back, and in the recess formed by the closet on one side and the corner of the room on the other you see the place where your hostess sleeps. There are a high feather bed and many coverings.

The stove is a brick one, set in a deep old fireplace. The old mantel is piled with brass vessels, which the old woman uses as though they were common tin. On one side is a china statue of the Virgin. On the other side under a glass globe is a waxen statue of Queen Wilhelmina in her wedding gown.

The Oldest.

Three old sports were chatting after a copious dinner, when one of them said, "I bet $5 my name is the oldest."

The bet was immediately accepted, and he produced his card, reading "Mr Abel."

"Oh, dear $5!" said the second, showing his card. "I am Mr. Adam."

"Mine is the bet," replied the other, producing his card, and they could read "Mr. B. Ginning" printed on it.—Judge's Library.

A Bright Boy.

"Now, Tommy," said the teacher, "you may give me an example of coincidence."

"Why—er," said Tommy, with some hesitation—"why—er—why, me fadder and me mudder was both married on de same day."

Shrewd Girl.

Ella—Bella is an economical girl.

Stella—There is no doubt about that. She is engaged to a clergyman, and he says that she asked him if he couldn't perform the marriage ceremony and save the wedding fee.

His Popularity.

"Are you popular with the Kash girls?"

"Dashed if I know. Each one always introduces me as a friend of her sister."

Read anything half an hour a day and in ten years you will be learned.—Emerson.

It Leaves the Skin Tingling With Health

There is a wonderful difference in soaps. Have you ever noticed how one kind leaves the skin soft and white while another may leave it red and rough?

Both soaps looked alike, perhaps. But the difference was in the material. Let us tell you what we put into Infants' Delight, then decide if you can continue with common soap.

Ceylon is an island in the Indian Ocean, and from there we bring pure cocoanut oil 12,000 miles to our factory. Then we go to France for vegetable oil, and often pay double what we might pay. But our oil is pure enough for your table.

These oils are doubly boiled and then milled by our own special process, after which they fall like flakes of snow into enormous bins.

Then they are crushed under a weight of 30 tons to press out the moisture. Next they pass through granite rollers and come out in miles of silky ribbons. Finally they are dried eight times and then stamped into cakes.

Could you imagine a more delightful soap than this? It lathers into a rich, creamy foam. It wears as thin as a wafer. It leaves the skin as soft as velvet and as smooth as satin. It is the very utmost in perfect soap.

The perfume is the delicate scent of the roses. We pay $100 a pound for pure Otto of Roses, but it requires 3,000 pounds of rose leaves to make a single ounce. The fragrance is simply exquisite—it brings the breath of a million flowers. Use a single cake and learn how delightful it really is—it costs no more than the common, so why not have the best?

10 Cents a Cake At All Dealers

How to Massage

Shave some Infants' Delight into a tub of hot water and let it dissolve. Then immerse your body and remain in the water several minutes. Lather the body thoroughly with Infants' Delight—rub it right into the skin, for it is so pure it will only nourish and soothe. Massage well with the finger tips and the palms of the hands and you will find a most pleasant sensation after the bath is finished.

THE PRINCE'S HOUR.

When It Arrived It Came to Last a Lifetime.

By S. S. SYDSWORTH.

He had been pushing through the tender green undergrowth of the forest for some time, following the curves of the sunny little brook, when suddenly he rounded a great oak and saw her sitting on the opposite side of the tiny stream, her hands clasped on her knees and her feet drawn up under her sober brown skirt.

"I beg your pardon," he said, pulling off his hat. "I hope I am not trespassing."

"Oh, everybody trespasses here!" she returned. "These are the palace woods."

"Is the palace very distant from here?" he inquired.

"No," returned the girl; "quite near, but they never come out here."

"They?" And the man raised his eyebrows inquiringly.

"The court," said the girl, "the—the princess and her ladies and gentlemen."

"I can understand the ladies not coming perhaps, but the men"— He broke off with a shake of his head and a meaning glance.

The girl smiled. "Do I look as if I came from the court?"

"Your gown doesn't," responded the man, but he wasn't looking at it as he spoke.

"It is a borrowed one," confessed the girl, with a laugh. "You have keen eyes and apparently know something about courts."

"Yes," he admitted. "I am a friend and gentleman in waiting of the Prince of Lubeck-Malvoisie. He is on his way to your court."

"The princess is expecting him," she said. She turned toward her.

"Tell me," he asked, "is the princess really—really—you know—alluring?"

The corners of her mouth twitched. "Would you have me commit high treason?" she asked in return. He sighed.

"I never could get up much enthusiasm over her myself," concluded the girl; "only you must never, never say I said so!"

"Oh, never!" he repeated impressively. "And if I should be tempted to, you know, I don't really see how I could, for I don't yet know your name."

"That makes it very safe," said the girl, with a satisfied air. "And when do you think the prince will come?"

"He comes tomorrow probably," he returned. "He is making an easy journey of it."

"Possibly he isn't very enthusiastic about the princess either," said the girl.

"It's a matter of state, you know," explained the man. "But you mustn't betray me, you know, if I keep your confidence."

"I see," said the girl. "How dreadful to be a prince and have to consider the state before one's own preferences!"

"Yes," said the man. "A private gentleman"—

"Like yourself?" interrupted the girl.

"Exactly," he answered—"has so many privileges. For instance, he may steal off and perchance have a sample of paradise in the woods."

"So might a prince," objected the girl, meeting his eyes.

"A prince!" said the man impatiently. "To a prince it remains a sample. He must go on and find the princess, you know. But the private gentleman steps across the brook, so, and hopes that paradise may last a lifetime." The girl drew away, with a little laugh as he sat down beside her on the moss, and pulled her skirt still farther over her feet.

"Paradise will last just as long for the private gentleman as for the prince this time," she said. "It is nearly over. I must get back to the palace. I shall be missed."

"Well," he said, laughing openly into her pretty face, "why don't you go?"

"You know perfectly well," said the girl indignantly, and then she, too, laughed.

"Please go away," she said.

"But I thought you were going away," he returned.

"Not till you are quite gone," she affirmed.

"That will be some time hence," he announced. She rested her chin on her hands and looked off across the brook in silence. "I will go on one condition," he said at last.

"Name it," said the girl.

"A kiss," said the man, with a quick passion, and as she flushed he put his arm about her and laid his cheek against hers for an instant. The girl was passive. As he turned his face and kissed her lips she put him away gently, but firmly.

"That," she said as he stood beside her, "was done like a prince and not like a private gentleman."

He looked down at her with a sudden gravity. "Like the prince, I must be shut out of paradise," he said. "But at least I have had paradise for a moment." And he crossed the brook and disappeared. The girl crept over to where her stockings and buckled shoes lay at the foot of a big tree, plain in sight, and put them on.

It was the next afternoon, and he was wandering listlessly about one of the magnificent dreary audience rooms of the palace, undecided whether to be indignant or amused at the unusual delay in his reception, for he had been waiting fifteen minutes. Suddenly through one of the great doors at the end of the room came the court lady. Today she was in riding dress. She stopped at sight of him.

"You!" she said. "And alone?"

"Not now."—he returned, coming in ware her. "In paradise, you know, one has the best of company." Then he stopped, for she was courtesying low before him, with demure eyes. "I beg your pardon," he said blankly.

"It is for me to beg your highness' pardon," she said, "for yesterday."

"How did you know?" he demanded.

"I didn't know at first," she evaded, pulling off one gauntlet. He caught the hand thus bared.

"Has your highness seen the princess?" she asked. He let her hand go.

"I was told that the princess had not yet come in," he returned stiffly. He was very grave, but he took her hand again and lifted it to his lips. "I like you better as a private gentleman," she added mischievously. Then as he bent toward her lips she evaded him, courtesying low again.

"Don't," he said sharply—"don't bow to me. Why should you deny the kiss to the prince that you granted to the gentleman?"

"Your highness knows that," she answered simply. "We were mad yesterday."

"Then I am mad today," he returned. "I feel that it is chronic. Let me be a private gentleman for awhile." She shook her head.

"No," she said, "not so soon. I like to feel that I am talking to a prince. Usually they talk to the princess, you see. This is my hour of triumph, your highness. Perhaps when the princess has transferred her court to Lubeck-Malvoisie—perhaps some day— Are there woods near your place, your highness? For you might be wandering in them. Once a year now—I can imagine that once a year it might be interesting to play at being merely a gentleman."

"Wait," he said. "If the princess honors my suit"— But she interrupted him.

"Do not be afraid," she said. "There are reasons of state, you know."

"Then," he went on, regardless of her raillery, "you need not come with her to Lubeck-Malvoisie."

"Your highness does not want me?" the girl said, with a sudden catch in her breath.

"Want you!" he repeated, with a groan. "Listen!" He drew her to the window and stood before her. "One advantage a private gentleman has over his prince is that his love and his honor may go hand in hand. Mine may not. My honor is the princess'—my love she cannot have, for it is yours. But my honor, that goes with my hand to the princess. If I were merely a prince I should carry you off with me today. I would make you confess to the paradise you smile at. But I am not merely a prince or a gentleman—I am both—and so you must not come to Lubeck."

She had listened with lowered eyes and her under lip caught between her teeth.

"Kiss me goodby," he said hoarsely, "and go. I kissed you yesterday once. I don't even know your name, but I want you to kiss me once again and then go—for heaven's sake, go!" She raised her lips to his, and for a moment he held her in his arms, his cheek against hers. Then he put her away from him, and his glance traveled slowly and hungrily over her.

He stepped back with a sudden exclamation, for the handle of her crop was a heavy gold crown. On the back of the gauntlet she still wore was embroidered a crown, and there were crowns on the gold buttons that fastened the straps of her habit.

"If it please your highness"— She began courtesying before him. He caught her hands and drew her up and toward him.

"How could you?" he said. "Oh, my love, my love!"

"And I may come to Lubeck?" she teased him, letting herself be drawn slowly into his arms. "Is this the princess' hour?"

"No," he triumphed over her, his lips against her ear. "This is the prince's hour! And it is going to last a lifetime!"

Model Soldiers.

During the period of the second empire in France the Cent Gardes were one of its sights at the Tuileries. It was hard to distinguish them from statues. Their commander, Colonel Verly, once declared to the Empress Eugenie that "nothing" could make one of his men move when on duty. The empress laid a wager that she would make one of the giants stir. So, with her characteristic impetuosity, she went up to one of the guards and boxed his ears. Not a muscle moved. The empress then acknowledged that Colonel Verly had won the bet and sent a solatium to the soldier, who, however, proudly refused it, saying that he had been sufficiently compensated by the honor of having had his sovereign lady's hand laid on his cheek.

The Divided Uncle.

The group of little girls was standing on the sidewalk when a man passed who was generally disliked by the children of the neighborhood on account of his austere manner and the fact that he always ignored them. When he was out of hearing various uncomplimentary remarks were made and there was some derisive laughter. No one happened to notice that little Agnes was present. Suddenly she was heard from.

"You can just stop talking about that gentleman," she remarked with some heat. "He's as good as you are. He's my half uncle."

"Oh, we forgot," said Ruth hastily. "Besides, we were talking about the other half anyhow. Of course your half is all right."—Woman's Home Companion.

A Severe Ordeal.

"So you want a position as a ticket salesman during this busy season?" said the railway man.

"Yes," answered the young man.

"What qualifications do you think you possess?"

"I'm sure I could be patient, helpful and obliging."

"Young man, it's plain you have had no experience with a crowd of impatient excursionists. I'd like to give you work, but it would be a shame to spoil a good disposition."—Washington Star.

Caught on the Rebound.

"There is a ring around the moon tonight," remarked the young man in the porch rocker. "Do you know what that means?"

"No," replied the fair occupant of the hammock, "but I know what a ring around a girl's third finger means."

And as there was only one way out of it the y. m. went out that way—and bought the ring.—St. Louis Republic.

Harriet Martineau displayed originality in the provisions she made at one time for the disposal of her remains. James Payn relates that, having consulted Toynbee, the distinguished aurist, with regard to her deafness, "she was so pleased with the interest he took in her case that she resolved to leave him by testamentary bequest her ears. She announced this intention in the presence of her medical man, Mr. Shepherd, who to my infinite amusement observed: 'But, my dear madam, you can't do that. It will make your other legacy worthless.' The fact was, in the interest of science, Miss Martineau had already left her head to the Phrenological society. I asked the doctor how he came to know that. 'Oh,' he said, 'she told me so herself. She has left £10 in her codicil to me for cutting it off.'" The doctor, however, died before his patient, and the Phrenological society never received the legacy of her head.—London Chronicle.

A Cheerful Letter.

The following was sent by a countryman to his son in college not many years ago:

My Dear Son—I write to send you two pair of old breeches, that you may have a new coat made of them; also some new socks, which your mother knit by cutting down some of mine. Your mother sends you 50 without my knowledge, and for fear you will not spend it wisely I have kept back half and only send five. Your mother and I are well, except your sister Annie has got the measles, which we think would spread among other girls if Tom had not had them before, and he is the only one left. I hope you are well and will do honor to my teachings. If you do not you are an ass, and your mother and myself are your affectionate parents.

—Shantucket Inquirer and Mirror.

A Nice Bird.

"Do you like a nice bird?" asked the host as they sat down to the table.

"Oh, yes!" responded the guest immediately and enthusiastically.

"You ought to call on my sister," explained the other. "She's got one of the finest canaries you ever saw. Well, what kind of a sandwich do you think you can eat?"—London Telegraph.

A Positive Cure for Deafness

A large proportion of all cases of impaired hearing and deafness is due to disease of the middle ear and Eustachian tubes, caused either by acute inflammation or chronic catarrh.

Nearly all these cases can be cured, or the progress of the disease arrested, by inflation of the ears through the nose and Eustachian tubes with medicated air.

A very safe and efficient means of accomplishing this end can be had by the use of Catarrhozone, a positive cure for catarrh in the most chronic form.

It is sure death to the microbic life which maintains the inflamed condition, and also through its healing properties restores the diseased organs to a healthy, normal condition.

It is not mere theory. The result of actual experience proves that ninety-nine cases in one hundred can be cured, and stay cured, of impaired hearing by the use of Catarrhozone.

Catarrhozone Cures

Catarrhozone is a new scientific remedy for all diseases of the nasal and respiratory passages caused by microbic life, and if you are affected with catarrh, asthma, or bronchitis, it is well deserving of your attention.

It never fails to cure any of these affections, because it is sure to reach the seat of the disease. That is why Catarrhozone is so far in advance of treatment by snuffs, washes, douches, etc., which are absolutely useless, because they cannot reach the root of the trouble.

You simply breathe the medicated air, it does the rest—nothing could be simpler. Complete outfit, sufficient for two months' treatment, price $1.00, at all dealers, or by mail from the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

THE DEADLY HOUSE FLY

DR. W. A. EVANS, Chicago, Health Commissioner, says: "He is the filthiest, most dangerous and most common of disease spreading insects."

THE MONTREAL STAR says: "Born in filth it is his habit to feed on the most disgusting, decayed and germ-laden material, and then to sport on the surface of human food, infecting it with deadly bacteria."

E. P. FELT, New York State entomologist, says: "Recent studies have shown a close parallel in large cities between the abundance of flies and the frightful mortality among infants during the heated term."

DR. DANIEL D. JACKSON, says. "Flies are responsible for 5,000 deaths annually in New York from typhoid and other intestinal diseases.

What Are They Worth?

Are the eyes worth at least five hundred dollars per year to any man, woman or child. You would spend five dollars per year upon them, if necessary, would you not? How much do they cost you? How much do you spend on your feet, your hats, your teeth, etc. Some wait until they must see about their eyes and would give hundreds of dollars but find it too late. Many parents bring their children that we may examine their eyes and see whether or not they need glasses. In childhood is the time to both remedy and prevent eye troubles. # Paris Abandons the Pompadour

Flat, Close Effects Prevail. Varied Styles of Decoration

Empire Coiffure

Broad and Low with Grecian Band.

Parting at One Side.

Jeweled Ornament; Hair Parted Low on Forehead.

Hair Wound around the Head.

Plaid with Ribbon Fillet.

By Marjorie

THE fall of the pompadour, like the fall of the Bastile, was not unexpected or without its supporters.

From the monstrous coiffure laden with curls, coils and puffs, frankly artificial, we have descended to the classic Greek, with low, flat effects, enhanced by exquisite ornaments of characteristic design and expert workmanship.

No woman can afford to set this edict entirely aside, for in many cases it is sure to prove more becoming than the individual style now affected by its wearer. Furthermore, in adopting a new mode the health and beauty of the hair is thus promoted, because it relieves the strain from certain parts of the scalp and rests the roots as well.

Dame Fashion may be eccentric and extravagant, but she frequently illumines her diary with philosophic good sense.

EVERY WOMAN HER OWN HAIRDRESSER

A celebrated Parisian hairdresser and creator of styles for equally celebrated women of the stage declares that no universal style of hairdressing should be accepted, because of the ever-varying shape of the head and the physiognomy, which must alone dictate how this "crowning glory" be worn.

With surprising frankness, this master coiffeur asserts that any woman possessing good taste who gives the matter careful consideration can learn to dress her hair better than a professional. Now, that is a confession, almost glorified unselfishness, since he openly invites women to take the coppers out of his pockets.

There are many society women on both sides of the Atlantic who invariably prefer to attend to this detail of their toilet, believing that a more natural effect can thus be gained.

HOW THE "AUREOLE" IS ACCOMPLISHED

To revert once more to this new mode, called by some "aureole," because the hair is twined about the head like a halo above the forehead, shadowing the ears and outlining the head without in any way distracting from its contour.

The hair is combed away from the crown of the head, the old-fashion rounded comb (a relic of childhood) is sometimes used to hold it in place and as a foundation. Then the hair is becomingly, gracefully wound around the head. The sketch farthest down, to the right, gives you a typical example of this style.

Where there is just a suspicion of ripple, ever so natural looking, this severe effect is somewhat relieved. An encircling gold band patterned with oak leaves is worn quite low over the forehead, giving additional support to the coiffure.

Like the Madonna coiffure, effected some years ago by the beautiful Cleo de Merode, just the tips of the ears appear, and in some cases no one would ever suspect their presence. Yet there is something very subtle about a shapely pink and white ear tip peeping from beneath the hair that is draped over the temples.

The idea to keep in mind is broad, low, close effects to the head in front and width in back. The hair is raised a considerable distance off the nape of the neck, in fact it follows the general contour of the head.

The centre sketch gives an admirable idea of width across the front and the very low treatment of the hair that hides most of the forehead, all of the temples and half of the ears. Across the front is laid a plait that gracefully terminates into the soft coils of the hair. If necessary, this piece may be false, as a goodly portion of hair is required to supply the back as well as the front in this particular style. A bandeau of silver, heavily mounted with mock sapphires, rests just beneath the plait, and a self-matching barrette is worn in back under the graceful [illegible] Greek knot.

Totally different is another modification of the Grecian coiffure to the left. Brilliant green ribbon, a metallic mesh, threads its way across the front and twice around the knot, terminating in a chic bow low on the [illegible] contour.

THE COQUETTISH SIDE PARTING

Comparatively few women find a middle parting becoming, but when it does suit the face it is bewitching indeed, and we have a picture worth remembering.

The Duchess of Marlborough, Mrs. Philip Lydig, Mrs. Clarence Mackay and Marjorie Gould have just the features required to bring out the piquant charm of this distinctive style.

The hair must be thick and grow off gracefully from the forehead, which must be low.

Two other attractive coiffures are pictured here. The one to the right ripples away in almost a masculine fashion from the side parting. The hair is drawn straight across the forehead, showing graceful undulations as it partially covers the ears. The hair is wound around the head, as previously mentioned, much in the same fashion as shown in the lower sketch. Here [illegible] billowy wave.

A bandeau of exquisite French enamel studded with stones is worn, matching the decollete gown of nile green chiffon.

The coiffure to the extreme left shows another side parting, where greater width across the front prevails and where the hair is drawn [illegible]

[illegible] complete. The headband is of [illegible] gold, and [illegible] with lace, turquoise matrix [illegible]

Though requiring [illegible] extent, because of its [illegible] becoming [illegible] Where the [illegible] high the hair is [illegible] into coils [illegible] arrangement [illegible] two generous [illegible] and drawn [illegible] into a becoming line. Again we see the side parting without even a hint of a curve, but we may depend that it required much patience before adjusting itself gracefully.

The Grecian knot is a graceful accompaniment to this style, as also is the aureole.

The most alluring ornaments prevail in [illegible] and bandeaux, including pearls in jet, tortoise-shell, gold, enamel and French brilliants.

Bandeaux in one, two or three portions are much in demand and adjusted easily to almost any position for which they are intended.

A simple one in the form of a gilt plate in one, two or three parts is very youthful; another in Roman gold is a Grecian border, finished on the sides by a turquoise matrix or pearl, surrounded by French brilliants.

Very effective are the dainty fillets of ribbon and gold [illegible] French women wear much velvet during the day and all sorts of ornamental [illegible]

OUR SHRINKING EARTH.

The Contraction of the World Goes on Unceasingly.

The most mobile region in the whole of France is precisely that admirable country so privileged in other respects which extends along the Mediterranean coasts from Toulon to Menton and the Italian frontier and the still unstable base of the Alps. It is there that earthquakes most frequently come to remind France of her geological past, writes Camille Flammarion in the New York Herald.

Nice, Cannes, Toulon, Aix, Marseilles, Montpellier, Beziers, Avignon, Nimeo, Cette and Perpignon were affected more or less by the recent earthquake shock. At Lambesc, near Aix-en-Provence, it appears to have been most intense, showing that the Mediterranean region is situated on the great line of fracture.

It is demonstrated by the statistics of Montessus and of Ballore that the internal contraction continues to take place.

Earthquakes have several causes. The most numerous, principal and most intense arise from subterranean sinking due to this long contraction of the globe brought about by gradual cooling. This condensation is not uniform. Folds, sinkings, displacements and deformations are produced. Maps of the geological distribution of seismic shocks show them along deep breaks in the terrestrial crust.

This work of shrinking continues unceasingly. Great earthquakes are the result of readjustments of blocks of terrestrial marquetry between faults, which limit them.

Can these movements of the earth be foreseen? No. Statistics are insufficient or contradictory. No law of periodicity is evident. It is undeniable that these shocks have been repeated more often than the normal average during the last year, but to accuse the sun or moon or any celestial body of causing them would be daring.

No Franking Abuses.

Apropos of the franking privilege, stringent regulations are being enforced on both senators and congressmen. In this connection it is told that some years ago a congressman had an express company send for a chair which was to be taken to his home. It transpired later that not only the chair, but his entire household furnishings, were forwarded under this one order. This calls up recollections of the old joke of franking a cow, which has been told and retold until it is worn threadbare. Conditions are changed now, and even in sending out government calendars senators were often notified that the matter had been held for postage. Certain officials of the postal department are detailed to look after the tons of matter sent out under the franking privilege, which is supposed to apply only to governmental letters and not to personal correspondence. It is something new to see the desks of the congressmen and senators illuminated by rolls of gay red postage stamps for their personal use. —Joe Mitchell Chapple in National Magazine.

A British Critic on Our Navy.

Every American naval officer could, if he would, bear out my statement when I say that nearly every battleship and cruiser in the American navy is undermanned by recruits; that nearly every ship is simply nothing more than a training ship; that many of the second class vessels have nothing more than skeleton crews aboard that to put a new first class battleship in commission means stripping at least two second class ships of all their best men. They could also admit that American men-of-war's men to a great extent come from inland states and after serving their commissions go back inland again and seldom if ever join for a second term. Personally I have met with the naval men of nearly every country under the sun, and I must honestly confess that to my mind American men-of-war's men—as far as a seamanlike appearance goes—cannot compare with those of any other nationality. They are what they seem—"landsmen dressed up in sailors' clothes."—British Marine Officer in Atlantic.

Canadian Sod Houses.

If you read that a family lives in a sod house you may conclude that poverty compels it. But this is not true on the Canadian prairies, where sod houses are the advance agents of prosperity. The homesteader who obtains a slice of that rich wheat land doesn't wait to build a regular house before starting to grab riches from the soil. Even if he were minded to build he would have difficulty in doing it, for there is no lumber handy. So it is better to wait until the locomotive catches up. If you start out from any of the towns which are springing up almost overnight in the fertile stretches of Saskatchewan or Alberta you will strike first well ordered farms and substantial houses, but if you get away ten miles or more the sod houses will begin to appear. It is not unusual to see signs of luxury about these sod houses. They are comfortable abiding places, cool in summer and warm in winter.—New York Sun.

Silundum.

Silundum, a new silicon carbide brought out in Germany, is a substitute for platinum for some heat resisting and other apparatus. In a vacuum silicon vaporizes at 1,800 to 1,900 degrees C., and the vapor unites with carbon to form silundum. The new material resists temperatures up to 1,750 to 1,800 degrees C. It is very hard, unattacked by acids in the cold or by chlorine, and may be enameled or nickel plated. A disadvantage is that it is destroyed by molten metals.

Nobody does anything well that they cannot help doing. Work is only well done when it is done with a will.—Ruskin.

BEHIND THE SCENES.

Difficulties With Which a Young Actor Had to Struggle.

An actor's life, although often interesting and frequently useful, is by no means easy. When Frederick Warde, the English tragedian, brought his wife and children to America to live with him while he made his way there he was, after various ups and downs, engaged by Mr. Booth to play certain prominent parts. In "Talks In a Library" Mr. Laurence Hutton relates some of the difficulties with which the young actor had to struggle.

The company, long associated with Mr. Booth, with the single exception of Warde, was not assembled, and there could be but one or two rehearsals before the first performance. Warde had never even seen the play of "Othello" and had no idea how to dress it—a very important item to a man who had little money to devote to costumes.

There were, of course, professional persons who could have fitted him out from wig to sandal, but to those he could not afford to go.

He read the tragedy many times, studied his part till he was what is called "letter perfect," and at the Astor library copied many drawings, colored by his own hand, of the dresses he had to wear. These garments and effects were made out of the cheapest material from his own patterns, cut and sewed by his wife, and for six weeks nothing in that house was thought of or talked about but "Othello."

The young man, realizing what it all meant to him, was exceedingly anxious about the results, as was his wife. They lived in a poor, humble little apartment, and he was to take a midnight train to the scene of his great effort only a day or two before he was to make his debut in one of the most important and trying parts of the English drama.

I went to the train with him, and just as we were starting Mrs. Warde came down and said:

"I've just been putting the children to bed, and I must tell you what Arthur prayed."

Arthur was then a lad not out of his frocks. It seems that the child, kneeling by his little cot, had gone through the regular formula, "Our Father," "Now I lay me," "Please, God, remember papa and mamma and little sister and dear grandmother in England," and had then added, as an impromptu, "and, O God, do please help papa through with 'Othello.'"

I told his story at a dinner one night, as I am trying to tell it now, and was startled by an inquiry from the wife of a clergyman, who, with wonder and doubt in her voice, demanded, "Do you mean to tell me that actors' children say their prayers?"

Seeking an Estrangement.

"How can you reconcile your previous statements with your present opinions?"

"I don't want to reconcile 'em," answered Senator Sorghum. "My desire is to keep them so far apart that they can be considered as strangers."—Washington Star

THE DANGER IN DUST.

A Medical Writer Who Says "Let Sleeping Germs Lie."

Did you ever realize what a dangerous thing it is to clean house in the spring? A writer in a London medical journal, the Lancet, insists that spring cleaning has many possibilities for evil if not properly conducted. Dirt and dust are full of disease breeding germs; but, however dangerous these creatures may be when lodged in the woodwork or comfortably settled under the hall carpet, they are much more ferocious, this writer insist, if stirred up and irritated and sent flying through the air. If we can't keep our houses clean as we go we had better let them stay dirty. This writer's rule is to "let sleeping germs lie."

What a house would look like after forty years of total abstinence from spring cleaning we leave to our women readers to judge. Yet we venture the assertion that there is one creature who would find the situation entirely satisactory. It dislikes the annual cleaning ceremony, it hates to eat cold suppers off the kitchen table, and beating carpets is to it an abomination. It will doubtless make capital out of the Englishman's warning against the perils of housecleaning.

World's Largest Animal.

A colossal skeleton in the Museum of Christchurch, New Zealand, is claimed to represent the largest animal in the world. This is the remains of a large specimen of the blue whale stranded on the coast of that country. This whale is probably the largest of all living animals. The length of the skeleton is 87 feet and the head alone is 21 feet. The weight of the bones is estimated at nine tons. This gigantic whale gets its name of blue whale from the dark bluish gray of its upper surface. The tinge of yellow on its lower part has led to the name "sulphur bottom," by which it is known on the western side of the Atlantic.

An interesting fact is that the chief food of this gigantic animal is a small marine crustacean known to the whalers as "kril." Another species of the same shrimp-like group has been obtained in thousands from the stomachs of mackerel caught on the Cornish coast. The nearly-related opossum shrimps found in enormous numbers in the Greenland seas form the chief food of the common whale.

Balzac's Poverty.

An anecdote of Balzac shows the strange condition of poverty in which he lived even after he had won fame.

He made a visit one evening to the house of one of his pet admirations, Rossini, where he found a party assembled and among them a great singer, then the rage, who had declined to favor the company. Ignorant of this, Balzac begged her to sing a song. "For you? Why, of course, at once." And she did. "Who on earth can that be?" asked an astonished guest of Rossini. "Don't you know? It's M. de Balzac." "Oh, really! Then no wonder."

And all the morning Balzac had been trying to borrow a few francs.

RHEUMATISM Strikes the Heart and then Kills

Causes: A run down condition of the system, poisoned blood, and Uric Acid. The joints become clogged with irritating secretions and grow stiff. Every movement tortures and racks the sufferer. Cure is not possible until the blood is purified. The most potent blood purifier is Ferrozone. It is a perfect solvent for Uric Acid and an antidote for all other poisons liable to cause inflammation or Rheumatic Pains. But Ferrozone doesn't stop here. It provides the enfeebled sufferer with an abundant supply of pure, invigorating blood. This quickly results in more strength with which to fight the disease, starts a rebuilding of the system, ends in a permanent cure. Mr. Thos. Egan, of 92 Pearl Street, New York, suffered so intensely from Rheumatism that his friends believed he could not recover. "The Rheumatism," writes Mr. Egan, "crippled me for four years. It seemed to run to the joints, which swelled and caused dreadful pain. I wasn't able to walk and my strength rapidly decreased. My heart became so weak I had to be bolstered up in bed. I was at my wits' end when I heard of the wonderful cures of Ferrozone. Twelve boxes cured and I am now strong and perfectly well." There is no better remedy. Severe tests have proved it superlative to all others. If you want the BEST and most scientific treatment for Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, or Sciatica, use Ferrozone. No case too chronic. Price 50 cents per box or six boxes for $2.50. Sold by all druggists.

SALT ROCK.

It Reveals to Us a Place Where Once a Sea Existed.

Salt under ground! It seems a strange thing at first to find salt among the rocks deep down in the earth. What does rock salt tell us? It reveals to us a place where once a sea existed. The water has since flowed away, leaving some salt behind. We know that ordinary salt exposed to the air soon gets damp and then becomes quite fluid, but rock salt away from the air and sun keeps firm for ages.

Rock salt is found in various layers of the earth's crust. Some of the spaces of underground water are called "seas," but, in fact, large as they were, they often did not resemble the "seas" we have now, because they were much shallower. A few were fairly deep, however. Then, again, these ancient seas were sometimes so salty that no animal could live in them and only a few plants.

Such seas, in fact, were mostly "dead," and this accounts for the masses of salt deposited along their bottoms. But we find also signs of rough water in the numerous pebbles of the layer where the salt is found among hard red gravel and brown quartz.

Germany once had a tolerably deep sea, not very salt, and the bottom surface of it shows coral reefs. There are signs in it of great fishes armed with strong teeth, enabling them to crush the shellfish upon which they fed.

These swarmed below the sea in thousands. North England and the midlands have the Keuper beds, where the "seas" were always shallow and where we can trace the marks of raindrop filterings and sun cracks. The rock salt is often in a layer 100 feet thick. It is supposed that one part of these seas was separated from another part by a bar of sand, over which the waves toppled only now and then.

In the cutoff sea evaporation went on through the ages, and of course a deposit of salt was formed, while the occasional overflow from outside replaced the water which had evaporated. But really this is not known for certain. It is only clear rock salt that contains the minerals we find in our present sea water—bromine, iodine and magnesia.

Generally this salt is not mixed with fragments of a different substance, but is in columns of rough crystals. Now and then there is found a layer of rock salt, with one of marl and shells under it, succeeded by rock salt again, showing that for a time a change had taken place.

Upon the land near these shallow salt seas lived some singular animals, unlike those of our earth in the later centuries of its history. There were remarkable reptiles belonging to the frog or batracchian family. One of species was the size of a small ox, with peculiar complicated teeth and feet which left prints on the earth so exactly like the impressions of the human hand that geologists gave it a Latin name, meaning "the beast with the hand." Another strange creature was a sort of lizard with a horny bill and feet resembling those of the duck. It had somewhat the appearance of a turtle, it is supposed. Then there were some warm blooded animals about the size of a rat, which had pouches in their cheeks and preyed upon small insects.

Dust a Thousand Feet Thick.

China has its "bad lands," all dust and dreariness, and its irrigation wheels, and its "soul appalling" Gobi desert, along whose southern boundary lies the Great wall. In some of these regions the famous yellow dust of China lies to a depth of 1,000 feet, and when the wind blows the whole landscape is obscured. Yet it is upon this dust that the fertility of northern China depends. The Chinese call it "ginger powder."—Harper's.

Very Rude.

"Going to call on your new neighbors next door?"

"Not I. They insulted me the day they moved in."

"As to how?"

"Asked me to occupy a sofa on the sidewalk; said they feared I couldn't get a good view from behind the blinds."—Pittsburg Post.

An Advantage.

Brown—Yes, I'm acquainted with your wife, old man. I knew her before you married her.

Smith—Ah, that's where you had the advantage of me—I didn't.—Life.

Badly Expressed.

"For heaven's sake, be careful with that rifle, man!" exclaimed a musketry instructor. "You just missed me that time."

"Did I, sergeant? I'm awfully sorry!" responded the indifferent marksman.—

It Quieted Mother.

The house was all paid for. Mother was exultant, jubilant, reiterative. "Say, mother," burst out six-year-old Paul eagerly, "print it on your cards, mother, print it on your cards!"—Delineator.

The Usual Thing.

"What's the proper thing at a wedding?"

"Wish the pair happiness and tell everybody else there's no earthly chance for it."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

There is a paradox in pride—it makes some men ridiculous, but prevents others from becoming so.—Colton.

Alfonso and the Journalists.

There are two French journalists who cannot say enough in praise of King Alfonso of Spain. He had his meals in the public dining room of the hotel, and in walking across to his table he noticed that his enquerry exchanged salutations with two men in a corner. "Who are they?" he asked. "They are journalists, sire," was the answer. "Journalists!" said the king instantly. "Good! Ask them to favor me with their company at my table."—London M. A. P.

FIRE INSURANCE

The following legend taken from an enterprising Seedsman's Catalogue is not without a bearing on Fire Insurance:—

"Two years ago an Ontario Market Gardener saved four cents an ounce on the cost of half a pound of Cabbage Seed. In the fall he admitted that he was over $100 to the bad on the crop because the bargain seed had lacked vitality. Thirty-two cents saved—one hundred dollars lost. WAS IT WORTH WHILE?

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Burglars visited several houses at Brampton Saturday night.

Burglars climbed over the transom of a St. Catharines' hotel on Sunday while the family were on the lawn and got $15.

Judge Henderson of the County Court district of Nanaimo, B.C., has resigned after over twenty years' service. He is succeeded by C. H. Barker.

The Bishop of Birmingham has dropped his action against Canon Henson for preaching in a non-conformist chapel in defiance of his inhibition.

Grand Forks, Idaho, was destroyed by fire in an hour Sunday night. The bystanders looted the three burning saloons. Three hundred people are homeless and without food.

William Zimmer, a Lehigh Railroad detective, was shot and probably mortally hurt in a running fight with car thieves at Batavia, N.Y. Zimmer and two other detectives surprised seven burglars.

Out on the railroad track, two miles west of Ailsa Craig, Chief Constable Alex. Reith of Lucan fought a lone battle with Frank Beadore, an escaped lunatic from London Hospital for the Insane.

The airship Zeppelin III. was disabled while returning from Berlin to Friedrichshafen. The forward propeller was broken, tearing two large holes in the envelope of the forward compartments. Two days will be required for repairs.

Didn't Want to Live.

Belleville, Aug. 31.—Luke Shaw, aged 30, unmarried, made an attempt to end his life by throwing himself from the footbridge into the river. He was carried down to the entrance to Victoria Park, where Joseph Bolster threw a rope around him and tried to pull him out. Shaw cut the rope with a knife, gashing himself severely at the same time. Assistance was secured, and the man was taken from the river and locked up. He is said to have been crazed with drink.

Fielding to Tour Nova Scotia.

Ottawa, Aug. 31.—Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, who is on his way back from England, will make a political tour of Nova Scotia.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Unchanged—Hogs Steady at Buffalo, Weaker at Chicago.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—London cables for cattle are firm at 11½c to 12½c per lb. for Canadian steers, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 10½c to 10½c per lb.

Toronto Junction Live Stock.

TORONTO, Aug. 30.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 80 carloads, consisting of 1202 cattle, 242 sheep and 28 calves.

Exporters.

Drovers were thinking exporters for Tuesday's market, and dealers report that they expect prices to be about the same as last week.

Butchers.

Some few lots and loads of butchers' cattle, weighing from 1100 up to 1200 lbs. each, sold at $5.50 to $5.60, and one load, $5.65; loads of good, $5 to $5.30; medium, $4.75 to $5; common, $3.75 to $4.25; cows, $3 to $4.20.

Feeders.

Charles Zeagman & Sons were on the market for feeders, and bought two loads of light feeders, 900 lbs. each, at $3.40; Whaley & Coughlin sold 23 feeders, 900 lbs. each, at $3.60, and 20 feeders, 850 lbs. each, at $3.15 per cwt.

Milkers and Springers.

There was a brisk market for a moderate number of good to choice milkers. Prices ranged at from $45 to $65 each. One pair, one of which, it was said, sold for $80, were bought for $150 for the two.

Veal Calves.

Prices ranged at from $4 to $7 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Sheep sold at from $3.50 to $3.90 for ewes, and rams were quoted at $3.50 to $3 per cwt.; lambs of fair to good quality sold at from $6 to $6.40, or an average of $6.25, but common lambs were not wanted, even at $5.50 per cwt.

Hogs.

Prices were quoted by H. P. Kennedy as being unchanged. Selects firm, at $8, fed and watered, at the market, and $7.75 f.o.b. cars.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Aug. 30.—(Special)—At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Aug. 28 were 3150 cattle, 1475 sheep and lambs, 3000 hogs and 450 calves. The supply on the market this morning consisted of 1150 cattle, 700 sheep and lambs, 900 hogs and 250 calves. The easy feeling of the past three weeks still continues, and prices showed a further decline of fully ½c per lb. since this day week, attributed to continued liberal supplies. There was a large attendance of buyers, and an active trade was done. Cable advices from Liverpool noted an advance of ¼c to ½c per lb. There was some demand from exporters here for top quality steers, and several lots were bought to complete shipments with. Choice steers sold at 4¾c to 5c; good at 4½c to 4¾c; fair at 3¾c to 4c; medium at 3½c to 3¾c; common at 2¾c to 3c, and inferior at 2c to 2½c per lb. Supplies of hogs were small, and higher prices were demanded for shipments to be made later in the week. The demand was keen for what stock was on the market to-day, and sales of selected lots were made at $8.60 to $8.75 cwt., weighed off cars. Cable advices from all the leading foreign markets on Canadian bacon last week noted an advance of 1s to 2s per cwt., on account of light supplies and a good demand. The market for small meats was steady. Sheep sold at 3½c to 4c, and lambs at 6c per lb. Calves were somewhat scarce at prices ranging from $3 to $12 each, as to size and quality.

At the Canadian Pacific live stock market, receipts for week ending Aug. 28 were 4068 cattle and 140 sheep for export account; 1959 cattle, 1320 sheep and lambs, 835 hogs and 650 calves for local consumption. The offerings this morning were 450 cattle, 500 sheep and lambs, 200 hogs and 70 calves.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Aug. 30.—Cattle—Receipts, 2000 head; slow; choice steady; others 15c to 25c lower; prime steers, $6.50 to $6.90; shipping, $5.50 to $6.25; butchers, $4.60 to $5; heifers, $2.65 to $5.50; cows, $2.50 to $4.75; bulls, $2.75 to $4.50; stockers and feeders, $3.25 to $4.30; stock heifers, $3 to $3.50; fresh cows and springers active and $3 higher, $35 to $65.

Veals—Receipts, 1250 head; active and 50c higher, $5 to $10.

Hogs—Receipts, 12,200 head; fairly active; heavy 10c higher; others steady; heavy, $8.50 to $8.60; mixed, $8.35 to $8.40; yorkers, $7.60 to $8.25; pigs, $7.20 to $8; roughs, $7 to $7.25; stags, $5 to $6.50; dairies and grassers, $5 to $6.25.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 14,000 head; active; yearlings steady; others 25c lower; lambs, $5 to $7.35; yearlings, $5.25 to $5.30; wethers, $4.75 to $5; ewes, $4.25 to $4.50; sheep, mixed, $3 to $4.90.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Cattle—Receipts, 22,000; market for best steers strong to 10c higher; others weak; steers, $5.60 to $7.85; cows, $3.50 to $5.25; heifers, $3.80 to $6; bulls, $3 to $4.85; calves, $3 to $9; stockers and feeders, $3.75 to $5.25.

Hogs—Receipts, 32,000; market 5c lower early, but steady at the close; choice, heavy, $8 to $8.15; butchers, $7.85 to $8.20; light, mixed, $7.70 to $8.10; choice, light, $7.85 to $8.10; packing, $7.60 to $7.75; pigs, $5 to $7.60; bulk of sales, $7.60 to $8.

WHEAT IS DISCUSSED.

Scientists at Winnipeg Talk Crops and Tariff.

Winnipeg, Aug. 31.—Three sections of the British Association for the Advancement of Science—chemistry, agriculture and botany—yesterday combined their forces to discuss scientific problems of supreme importance to the wheat industry.

A. E. Humphries, one of the largest English millers and president of the British Millers' Association, said the British public demanded a flour that will make a large shapely loaf of good color. Manitoba hardly filled the bill. Much yet remained to be done by the chemists in co-relating chemical qualities and baking qualities.

Prof. Hardy, who was deputed by Cambridge University to investigate the question of the strength of wheat, said that discussions on wheat strength always reminded him of a hunt for the holy grail. Wheat strength was made up of a large number of qualities, and what they were in search of was not the holy grail, but an array of archangels.

The economic section developed an animated discussion on the trade relations of the Empire. Prof. A. B. Clark, the new incumbent of the chair of political economy at Manitoba University, read a paper on "The Policy of Preferential Duties." He described the policy as economically unsound, impractical and unlikely to be ever adopted.

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association was roundly taken to task by the free trade members present. Rev. Mr. Bland declared that the policy was the embodiment of selfishness and did not represent the people of Canada.

Fears Death; Kills Herself.

Buffalo, Aug. 31.—Mrs. Anna Wilson, who with her husband, John Wilson, came from Toronto two months ago, shot herself in the abdomen at her home, No. 44 Elm street, yesterday.

The police are holding the husband, but the woman in her ante-mortem statement said she shot herself fearing that she was about to die from heart failure.

The Wilsons, who were married in Toronto eight years ago, came to this city two months ago.

$20,000 Prize for Aviators.

Paris, Aug. 31.—The "Matin," believes the time ripe for aeroplanes to leave the racetrack and make real voyages from town to town. It therefore offers a prize of 100,000 francs ($20,000), to the owner of the machine which makes the fastest time in a circuit from Paris to Dijon, Belfort, Nancy, Lille and Paris before August 31, 1910.

Falls From Roof.

Toronto, Aug. 31.—William McKay, 85 Eastern avenue, aged 35, fell from the roof of the Lutheran Church at College and Markham streets, yesterday when the scaffolding broke, and sustained a broken arm and hip, and internal injuries. He is a Scotchman, having been in this country only a couple of months. He was in the employ of the Bishop Construction Co. and was engaged in repairing the roof.

Drowning at Thessalon.

Thessalon, Aug. 31.—Albert Hicks, 22 years old, son of William Hicks of Day Mills, lost his life by drowning in Lake Waquekobing. He had tried to swim after a drifting boat. His brother nearly drowned in attempting a rescue.

Mauretania's New Record.

Queenstown, Aug. 31.—The steamer Mauretania arrived yesterday from New York over the short course in 4 days 14 hours and 27 minutes. This beats the record by 2 hours and 56 minutes.

Millions for Navies.

London, Aug. 31.—Statistics published by the British Admiralty show that the aggregate sum spent by Britain, France, Russia, Germany, Italy, Japan and the United States on navies in the past fiscal year was, in round numbers, $600,000,000.

Last Honors to Eccles.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 31.—A movement is under way in this city for the collection of funds for the purposes of erecting a monument to Geo. Eccles, the operator who sacrificed his life to save the passengers of the steamship Ohio.

Bourassa Favors a Board.

Montreal, Aug. 31.—Henri Bourassa in a letter to the French press here comes out in favor of the board of control and ridicules the idea that French-Canadian influence would suffer by having such a board.

Earthquake at Panama.

Panama, Aug. 31.—A strong earthquake was experienced here shortly after 8 o'clock yesterday morning, but no serious damage has been reported, and no one was injured.

Rifle Enthusiast Quits.

Lieutenant-Colonel R. W. Schmacher, the well-known promoter of volunteering in South Africa, and the donor of the 100-guinea Empire Day Challenge Cup, competed for annually by military and naval rifle teams throughout the Empire, has resigned his colonelship in the Witwatersrand Rifles, alleging that the Transvaal Government's attitude is unsympathetic in the matter of financial grants to volunteer corps.

Dangerous Guns.

At Sheerness are two 9.2 inch guns to defend the coast. About two years ago they were fired, but the concussion smashed so many windows that they have not been used since.

Washed Away by the Sea.

Since 1883 the sea has washed away 419 acres of the British Isles, but it has also added 30,752. The land gained, however, is at present useless.

THE REAL BALL PLAYER.

He May Look Education, but He Is There With the Think Works.

"I once knew a real ball player. As a youth he could stand longer of an evening against a lamppost on the corner in front of the depot without moving a muscle than any boy in town, and by the time he was seventeen he could understand what was in the newspapers—if any one would read the items to him in a loud, clear tone and skip all the words of more than two syllables. In the daytime, however, it was different. He went out to the brick lot about 7:30 a. m. each fair day and played ball most of the time until sundown. He was considered some ball player by the home folks and finally signed with a state league team, where he sometimes received his salary in real money. After a time he became so proficient with the stick that he joined fast company. In fact, to make a long story short, he became one of the greatest players in the big leagues and is far from a 'has-been' today.

"But—and here's the rub—I have watched that boy year after year and imagined that it was his splendid eye, his broad shoulders, his great running and his lively work with his hands and feet in the infield that made him the fine ball player I loved to see play. Now, what do I find? Why, it was nothing of the kind. It wasn't long years of practice, splendid athletic qualifications and a pair of shoulders like a bull that had made him a great ball player. Nay, nay! It was because when a batter stepped to the plate his brain cells would begin to 'convolute' with lightning-like rapidity, and he'd think out the correct answer to the situation 'just like that.' He would see that the man was a left hander, stood well up to the plate and that he was watching the pitcher with his right eye and a spot midway between the box and third base with his left. This meant that the batter would hit the ball hard to the spot watched by his left eye and that a slight bummock in the grass there would cause it to carom off at an angle of forty-five degrees and that in just one and seventy-five ninths of a second after the ball left the bat it would travel the distance of 180 feet 4 inches to where the fielder ought to be. Figuring this out 'just like that' in a flash, the fielder would be at the proper spot on time, nail the ball, throw it to first and complete the play. I had thought all along that this player had a brain makeup that would closely resemble a scrambled egg if it tackled mathematics and geometric angles and that instinct and knowledge of past performances figured largely in his work. Now I find that, while his name signed to the payroll still resembles a map of a Missouri river, his think works are mathematically mastodonic. It is this new high that is going to make me enjoy my baseball more thoroughly in the future."—Leslie's Weekly.

Up With the Times.

"I was detained in getting here," explained the caller, who had come to look at the flat. "I boarded one of these pay-as-you-enter cars, and the conductor refused to change a five dollar bill. So I had to get off, hunt up change for the bill and take a later car."

"That's all right," said the agent of the building. "I'll show you the rooms now."

After half an hour's inspection the caller declared himself satisfied.

"I think I'll take the flat," he said. "By the way, my moving expenses are going to be pretty heavy, and very likely I shall be short of cash for a while. If I should pay the first month's rent a couple of weeks or so after moving in I presume it would be all right?"

"No, sir," grimly answered the agent, who did not much like his looks anyhow. "This is a pay-as-you-enter house."—Youth's Companion.

Aborigines of Australia.

There are now 75,000 of the aboriginal population in Australia. Of this number there are about 20,000 in the colony of Queensland. Queensland has an elaborate system for looking after the welfare of the blacks by means of "protectors" stationed all over the colony to see that the natives are fed and clothed and shielded from interference with white people. Many of the natives are over six feet in height. Like most savages, they are polygamists, but they are not cannibals. The natives under civilization have developed habits of economy and saving. They have made good progress in reading and writing, but missionary reports state that teaching them arithmetic is hopeless.

Thames Embankment Finished.

The Thames embankment is finished at last! The guidebooks tell us that it was finished in 1870, but this is a slight error, for it was only a day or two ago that the last of the piles, after forty-seven years' residence in the mud opposite the Temple pier, were removed. They had originally been cut down, it seems, to bed level and left, but the wash and dredge of the mud in time exposed them and rendered them dangerous to small craft; hence their recent removal, all sound, like many a drawn tooth.—London

The Modern Way.

One friend who has spent a long and useful life and looks good for another half century expects his reward in heaven and meantime is a philosopher. He can talk on any subject under the sun, from "the flower of poesy" to "the precession of the equinoxes." He apparently knows the "Iliad" and "Odyssey" by heart, so I knew that when he handed me a bit of verse it must be good.

"Here is a hymn on the solar system or some other lofty theme," thought I, placing the sheet in my tested case. When I arrived home I read:

The lizard climbed a wall. He climbed it once.
He climbed it twice—then crawled away.

The bee sipped a flower. He sipped it once,
He sipped it twice—then flew away.

The man kissed a maid. He kissed her once,
He kissed her twice—then walked away.

The waif wasn't sunny; the flower had no honey;
The maid had no money. Funny!

The problem now is whether the contribution is a joke or a gem.—National Magazine.

Pilkerton Won the Race.

At one of the regattas of the National Association of American Oarsmen during the early nineties James Pilkerton, for many years the champion sculler of America, was matched to row double against another team. He and his mate were the champions, and the general belief was that they would win without effort. But the night before the regatta public opinion suddenly and mysteriously changed. Mr. Pilkerton knew that this was not caused by any new development of strength in his opponent or any loss of skill on his own part. After making some quiet inquiries he discovered that there was talk of his rowing mate having been bought up by the other side and of an arrangement to throw the race.

He didn't say anything about his suspicions, but when the two men were seated in the shell and were well out into the deep water he leaned over to his mate and said:

"Look here, you blooming cutthroat! You've got to swim, drown or win this race! You know me!" He won.

Lawn-Tennis Champion.

The stamina of Mr. A. W. Gore, who beat Mr. Ritchie in the contest for the lawn-tennis championship of England, astonishes everybody. He is a little man, spare, and even weak-looking, and yet he can wear down the hardiest opponent. He has in his frame a reserve of energy and spirit which keeps him going through even the hardest match, and a hotly-contested five-set game at lawn-tennis at Wimbledon is about as severe a test of physical power as one could devise. Yet there is scarcely a sport in which Mr. Gore would not count as a veteran. He has played in lawn-tennis as long as most people remember lawn-tennis, although it is only within the last ten years that his chances of the championship have had to be seriously discussed. He first won that event in 1901, and he has outlasted a whole series of players who were superior to him in their day.

A Sarcastic Tenor.

Roger, the celebrated French tenor, on one occasion was engaged for the sum of 1,500 francs to sing at the house of a rich financier. Roger sang his first song magnificently, but no one paid him the slightest attention, and the guests talked their loudest. Presently the host thought the time had come for another song and sent for Roger. He could not be found and that evening was seen no more. Next day a note came from him, accompanied by the sum of 2,000 francs. The note ran thus: "I have the honor to return the 1,500 francs which I received for singing at your party, and I beg leave to add 500 francs more for having so greatly disturbed the conversation of your guests."

AN OLD TIME HANGING.

The Dark Day When "Old Jennie" Was Executed in Maryland.

"As dark as the day when old Jennie was hung" is one of the many quaint sayings that for generations has been used on the lower eastern shore of Maryland, but from the accounts that have been given by those who lived in old Jennie's day there never has been a day since that time as dark as the day on which she was executed for wholesale murder in the neighborhood in which she lived.

The old murderess was publicly hanged in 1815 in the old jail yard at Princess Anne, and all those who remembered, that particular day have passed into the great beyond long ago. The murderess was a white woman, tall and angular, and it was said that she resembled what was popularly supposed to be a witch far more than she did the up to date woman of that day. In fact, local history records that she practiced witchcraft. No one ever knew where she came from, she having "dropped down" very mysteriously into the neighborhood, where she killed a family of four.

Old Jennie was not hanged on a scaffold. In those days murderers were executed with as little trouble and expense as possible. The wisen faced terror of all Somerset was placed in a cart drawn by two oxen and placed directly under a stout limb of an old oak tree which stood in the jail yard. The rope was fixed in rude fashion around her neck, amid the hurrahs of the crowd and the curses of the doomed woman, and when all was in readiness a bunch of fodder was placed ten paces from the oxen's heads, and they were given the word to start. Obeying the command, they made a bee line for the fodder and left old Jennie dangling at the end of the rope.

That day, it has been told thousands of times, was the darkest ever known in this section. Chickens remained on their roosts throughout the entire day, while candles by the score burned in the houses that the servants might see to do their work. The local scientists of that day were at a loss to account for the strange phenomenon, and the graphic descriptions which they gave of it and which were recorded years ago make interesting reading.

The darkies and superstitious whites of those days naturally thought that the end of time had come. A great many negroes declare, today that the ghost of old Jennie may be seen stalking around on the edge of the woods near where she committed her crimes any time on a dark, cloudy night, and they are very careful not to encounter her.—Oriole (Md.) Cor. Chicago Inter Ocean.

Not Within His Jurisdiction.

A well known judge invited a barrister friend of his to go for a short trip on his yacht. A storm came up and the boat began to roll and toss in a manner which the lawyer did not relish.

The judge laid a hand on his friend's shoulder and said, "My dear fellow, is there anything I can do to make you comfortable?"

"Yes," was the grim reply. "Overrule this motion!"—Modern Society.

Presence of Mind.

Mr. Phan (roaring from the top of the stairs) — Mildred! What is that young man doing down there so late?

Mildred (sweetly)—He's just doping out how the teams will finish for the pennant.

Mr. Phan (mollified)—All right. Tell him to take his time, not overlooking past performances and the possibility of a slump, and when he gets done he can compare it with my list behind the clock on the bookcase.—Puck.

FOUR EYE WITNESSES OF THE AFFAIR TELL OF THE FIGHT AT CHEMONG PARK

Inquest Into the Cause of the Death of the Late Arthur Bollard Was Resumed Before Coroner Dr. Gray Last Evening—Attendance was Large.

INTEREST IN THE CASE

For the first time the full details of the fight at Chemong Park, in which it is surmised that Arthur Bollard received injuries sufficient to cause his death, have been made known to the public. Last evening at the second session of the Coroner's inquest four witnesses of the mixup were examined, and while their stories differ in some respects on the whole they coincide fairly well, and give a fair idea of just what happened a week ago last night.

The interest that is being taken in the affair was indicated by the crowded court room. It had been decided to hold the inquest in the county council chambers, but long before 7.30 o'clock that room was uncomfortably crowded and Coroner Dr. Gray decided to make use of the larger county court room. The seats and gallery here were quickly filled and many could find only standing room. A number of Chemong Park people were present, and there was a very large attendance from Bridgenorth, while hundreds of curious Peterborough people gathered to hear the evidence. The press was largely represented, as in addition to the local newspapermen there were representatives of most of the Toronto journals here.

Crown Attorney R. E. Wood conducted the investigation for the Crown, assisted by Mr. F. D. Kerr, who was present on behalf of the family of the deceased. Mr. D. O'Connell represented the Joplings and cross-examined several of the witnesses.

Contrary to expectations the result of the post mortem was not made known by Drs. Scott and Greer, who performed the autopsy. They asked that their report should not be heard until after the other evidence was in, and accordingly other witnesses were called first.

The session last night lasted for three hours and one half, the witnesses examined being Harry Jopling and Chas. Forsythe, of Bridgenorth, W. R. Hartshorn, of Chemong Park, and Herbert Marks, a friend of Bollard, who was with him on the night of the trouble.

Chas. Forsythe.

Chas. Forsythe (sworn) said: "I live in Bridgenorth. I have known Harry Jopling about eight years and he is one of my chums. I remember the night of the trouble. I am generally around the hotel at nights. I didn't get any message the first time I went there that night, about eight oclock. About ten o'clock I got a message from Harry Jopling. The messenger was his younger brother, Walter, and the message was that a fellow up there was going to give him a licking and to come up and see that he wasn't hurt. Harry told me about ten minutes after six o'clock that evening that he had got into a mixup with a fellow up at the park and asked me if he got into a scrap with him would I see him through and I told him I would. I didn't know that he expected any trouble that night.

I didn't bring any one with me and I didn't see McManus until he came down to the row. I went down to see them straighten things up. A bunch went down with me—Blake Cullen, Short Long, Pete Gravelle and I didn't know the rest. Short Long didn't belong to the bunch, but they were all friends of mine and of Jopling's.

Didnt Take Part.

I don't know how they knew there was going to be trouble. I didn't do anything when I got there. I don't know who stopped Bollard's friend from getting in. I did not do so and didn't see him trying to get in.

When I got the message I walked around the block just for pleasure. I didn't see any of the bunch and I wasn't looking for them. I headed for the pavilion and ran a piece of the way. I saw Harry Jopling and he told me, when he was waltzing, Bollard had come to the end of the pavilion and had said: "There's the guy," and had said that he was going to trounce him. I told Harry that I wouldn't see him get hurt.

I didn't speak to Fred Jopling. I was talking to Blake Cullen, and he asked me if I had heard of Harry getting into trouble, and I told him that I had and that he could get his head pounded off as far as I was concerned. Blake said: "Fred is inside," and I said, "Go and tell him. He is his brother, let him look after Harry. I suppose he took the message. I did not see Bollard leave, but I saw the Joplings go away from the hotel, and followed them down in front of Mr. Wolfe's place, where the fight took place. The Joplings were about fifty yards ahead of me. When I got there I saw Bollard on top of Harry and Fred had him by the shoulder

PETERBOROUGH'S EXHIBITS AT THE TORONTO EXHIBITION

A number of Peterborough's leading industries will be among the many that are making exhibits at the Toronto Exhibition. This department of the fair is recognized all over the continent as an excellent advertizing medium and the local factories are keeping pace in this respect with the foremost concerns in the country. The Canadian Cordage Co. and the Quaker Oats Co. will have large exhibits. The Collier-Cunningham Co. will also display their many electrical inventions and the G. Walter Green Co. have an exhibit of some of their manufactures. The Peterborough Canoe Co. are among the number and are preparing a handsome display of canoes, skiffs and launches.

"OTONABEE" AND "RAINBOW" IN COLLISION AT HALES' BRIDGE

Met At the Bend Below the Bridge This Morning---Rainbow Was Carrying Excursion from Rice Lake---Hole Torn in Its Side and Was Run Up High and Dry on Monaghan Shore.

At the sharp bend in the Otonabee Rever just below Hales' Bridge, the first of the two between here and Rice Lake, the steamer Otonabee, taking the Monarch's regular trip to Rice Lake crashed into the Rainbow, which was coming towards Peterborough, tore a big hole in its starboard side causing a small panic among the excursionists who were on the latter vessel. The accident occurred at 10:30 o'clock and is considered by boatmen to have been a very fortunate escape from what might easily have been one of the worst river accidents the Otonabee has known.

The Rainbow had an excursion party from Alderville and Hiawatha consisting largely of Indians from those reserves. It was fairly well crowded and was going to Stony Lake on a three days' trip. An eye witness of the affair told the story of how it had happened as follows:

"The Otonabee was just leaving the wharf, above the bridge and gave two short ,sharp whistles as it pulled away. I was standing on the bridge and I heard a boat around the bend coming up the river blow for the swing bridge, practically at the same time. I cannot tell whether they heard each other or not, but they certainly could not see one another, as that curve is practically at right angles. Both were travelinig at a fair rate, although the Otonabee had slackened for the bend. The Rainbow had shoved its nose past the corner and was about to make the turn when the big boat crashed into its right hand or starboard side. Timbers creaked and snapped and the Rainbow was carried out into the stream, as if it had been a pleasure launch.

Cable Broke.

It had been struck between the bow and its centre and fortunately not squarely amid ships. The big boat squarely amid ships. The big boat, striking the Rainbow, rubbed its prow along its side until it had finally passed. The whole affair had happened in a twinkling. People were thrown around the decks of the Rainbow and the noise of the crunching of wood continued until the Otonabee had gone by.

The cable connecting with the Rainbow's rudder was snapped and she headed for the Monaghan shore, on to which she grounded high and dry. There was a large hole about fifteen feet long torn in the Rice Lake boat's side, below the deck. The Otonabee did not suffer any injury. The passengers of the Rainbow were taken back to their homes at Rice Lake and the excursion was cancelled on the spot

The hole in the Rainbow's side was above the water line, and I do not think she shipped any.

The farmer who told the story to the Examiner was on his way to town and at the time felt that an accident was imminent. He stated that under the circumstances an accident could scarcely have been averted.

The Otonabee started on the rest of its trip at 11:30. In Peterborough Mr. Dan Whetung waited at the Lift Lock all morning and finally this afternoon telephoned to Hiawatha to find out why the excursion was not coming. He then learned of the accident.

Seven Children Burned To Death In An Orphans' Home

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

New York, Aug. 31.—The bodies of seven children were found early today in the ruins at St. Michael's home, a Roman Catholic institution, in Brooklyn, for the summer care of orphans, which was destroyed by fire. They were huddled together in one room on the second floor, having been overlooked in the struggle to escape. The little bodies were burned beyond recognition. The firemen and police are continuing the search, and it is expected more bodies will be found. There were 600 children in the building when the fire broke out.

Departure Of Mr. Gibbon From Woodstock Is Much Regretted

Mr. A. P. Gibbon arrived in the city to-day at noon from Woodstock and in future will be a resident of this city. Before leaving Mr. Gibbon was made the recipient of an address on behalf of the Methodist Church of Woodstock. A large number of citizens met at the home of Mr. George Murray to say farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Gibbon.

The following address was read by Mr. J. B. Wadland:

Mr. A. P. Gibbon,

Woodstock, Ont.:

Dear Brother,—We, the members of the Quarterly Official Board of the Dundas Street Methodist Church, Woodstock, in view of your departure from our midst, assemble this evening to express our sincere appreciation with our church in various departments, as Assistant Sunday School Superintendent, Bible class teacher, steward and local preacher. In our Board meetings we shall miss your careful deliberation, wise counsel and Christian discretion. As a Christian brother we shall miss you in our church fellowship, where the testimony of your Christian experience helped to inspire our hearts to better service in the extension of the Master's Kingdom. Though leaving our midst we know Methodism is not losing you or your family, and we feel assured the church at Peterborough will be greatly enriched and thereby our loss contribute to their gain.

And now, as we meet to say good bye to you, your dear wife and little family, we pray that Heaven's choicest blessings may accompany you and yours to the new field of labour to which, through business, you have been called. Our sincere and united wish is that you may be abundantly prospered both temporally and spiritually.

Signed on behalf of the Quarterly Official Board,

THOMAS MILLBURN.
Recording Steward.

Woodstock, Ont., August 30th, 1909.

Young Italian Injured By Being Thrown From Bicycle

A young Italian, returning to his work in East City, going down the Hunter street hill met with an accident at noon to-day. He was riding a bicycle, going at a terriffic rate of speed when he apparently lost control of the wheel, and with great force struck a telegraph pole. He lighted heavily upon the ground and was picked up in a dazed condition and carried inside the Quaker Oats Co. yard. He was cut over the left eye and the left side of his face was badly swollen.

Drs. Gellwan and McNulty were called. The young Italian was removed to his home in the Dan Spence ambulance.

JEWISH WEDDING

First Ever Held in Peterborough To Be Celebrated This Evening at Residence of Mr. D. Florence. His Daughter To Be Married.

GROOM FROM BELLEVILLE

The first Jewish marriage to be held in the precincts of Peterborough will be solemnized this evening after six o'clock at the home of Mr. D. Florence, Simcoe St., when his daughter, Miss Minnie Florence will be wedded to Mr. M. Fine, of Belleville. The ceremony, which it is stated is as old as tradition itself, will be performed by Rabbi Berkowitz, of Toronto. Guests will be present from New York, Ottawa, Belleville, Montreal, Kingston, Hamilton and Toronto, and over one hundred are expected. This morning when an Examiner reporter called at the home there were already quite a number of visitors present.

The bride is a winsome little miss, apparently just passing out of her teens, and is a favourite among her own people in Peterborough besides having many other friends in the city. Her parents are among the foremost of the Jewish families here and for that reason itself this evening's nuptials are of particular interest. The ceremony in a few respects is similar to those of other religious persuasions. The bride will be given away by her father. After the wedding a reception will be held. The groom has a home in Belleville where the young couple will reside in future.

MERGER OF STEEL PLANTS RUMOURED

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Hamilton, Ont., Aug. 31.—A merger of all the Canadian steel plants is said to be planned by the companies concerned, this step being due to the fact that the Dominion Government bounties cease next year. Officials of the Hamilton Steel and Iron Co. refuse to confirm the story, but a prominent financial man declared the scheme is almost matured.

MULLEN LOCATES

Opens Office at 136 Hunter Street.

Mr. D. B. Mullen, Second Vice President of The Loyal Legion Co-Operative Investment Company, L't'd., of Edmonton, Alta., has opened a local office for his Company, in the real estate office of J. T. O'Connell & Co., 136 Hunter street.

This will afford the investing public of Peterborough an opportunity to get in touch with one of the best, if not the best, investment ever offered the Canadian public.

The Loyal Legion Co. handle Alberta real estate, and owing to the unprecedented yield of grain with which that province has been blessed this year and the great activity in railroad building, it makes investments there the best and safest to be found on this continent.

The Loyal Legion Co-Operative Co., Limited, being ideally situated for taking advantage of the best opportunities for investment afforded in that section, is looking forward to a rich harvest for its many investors. Through this Company a person can invest their means, be they large or small, and share proportionately in all the profits of the Company. Through the Co-Operative principal employed by the Company thousands can join in taking advantage of the best land bargains of the Canadian West with but little cost to each and large profit to all.

It is to be hoped that a great many Peterborough people will grasp this opportunity and consult Mr. Mullen at his office, 136 Hunter. Fortune knocks but once at every door. It is knocking at yours. Now open, and be happy and contented for the balance of your life.

NOT ABLE TO COME

Life Saver Henry Will Not Give His Demonstration In This City.

Word has been received from Mr. Henry, the life saving expert, that he will be unable to visit Peterborough after all, so that the demonstration and lecture that were to have been given on Thursday have been cancelled. This will be regretted as Mr. Henry is a recognized authority on the subject and his demonstration of the methods of life saving would have been of the greatest interest and profit. Alderman Turner is to be thanked, however, for his energetic endeavour to bring Mr. Henry to Peterborough.

BOARD OF WORKS FAVOURS ST. CATHARINES FIRM'S TENDER FOR SMITH STREET BRIDGE

HELD UP PENNSYLVANIA TRAIN

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 31.—Armed bandits held up express train No. 39 on the Pennsylvania Railway in Lewiston Narrows, fifty two miles west of here early to-day, Mgr. Poffenberger, of Harrisburg, is reported to be dying from a gun shot wound, inflicted by the robbers. The robbers, who soon madly passed through the cars, leaving one man at the head of each coach, heavily armed, and threatening to kill the first one that made a move to draw a weapon, when they ordered all to throw up their hands, and holding a big open-mouthed bag a man passed through each car, going through the pockets of the passengers with expert hands. The bandits' booty is estimated at $5,000. The crew were utterly helpless through the entire proceedings.

IN MATTER OF WEST PETERBORO ELECTION PROTEST PROCEEDINGS

Mr. Burnham Ordered to Furnish Particulars of His Charges and to Attend for Examination---Motion to Postpone Date Fixed for Trial to be Heard on September 2nd.

Honorable Mr. Justice Magee delivered judgment this morning at Osgoode Hall, in the City of Toronto, on the two motions which he recently heard; one to compel Mr. J. H. Burnham to attend for examination, and the other to furnish better particulars.

The judgment provides that Mr. Burnham shall attend for examination before Mr. W. F. Johnston, the special examiner, appointed by the court, on receiving two days' notice of the time and place of the examination, and that he produce the documents he was subpoenaed to produce saving all just exceptions.

His Lordship was further of the opinion that Mr. Burnham was not compelled at this stage to disclose the names of his detectives and the amounts paid to them, as it might result in disclosing the names of his witnesses, but that on the trial of the action the names of the detectives would be disclosed and the amounts paid to them.

Mr. Burnham was further ordered to deliver further particulars of his several charges where several parties are charged with the same offense in the alternative and that he must make his specific charge against the person whose conduct in the election he proposes to investigate, with reasonable certainty as to the time and place, when and where the alleged offence was committed.

Mr. Burnham was further ordered to file an affidavit within two days verifying his particulars, and in respect to the charges that he is unable to swear that he has reasonable grounds to believe that the alleged offence was committed, that such particular charge be stricken out.

In respect to the particulars of charges recently delivered Mr. Burnham was ordered to file an affidavit within two days stating when the particulars of such charges came to his knowledge so as to comply with the former order, and in default of such affidavit being filed showing that the particulars of charges recently delivered came to his knowledge since the delivery of his main particulars, that they be stricken out.

The motion to adjourn the trial will be heard at Osgoode Hall before Hon. Mr. Justice McMahon and Hon. Mr. Justice Magee on Thursday morning, September second, on the ground that there is now too short a time before the trial on the 7th inst. to have Mr. Burnham examined for discovery on the several charges, and upon the further motion that it is quite impossible for Mr. Stratton to prepare for trial to meet charges made against his supporters in his election, concerning which he now has no knowledge of even what the charge may be.

Duck Shooting Season Opens With The Dawn Of To-morrow

To-morrow, the first of September, ushers in the duck shooting season, and from all accounts the marshes on the river and around Rice Lake give promise of providing sufficient sport for all. One of those who are well acquainted with the situation, states that the ducks are fairly plentiful, although he has not seen any large flocks. "The river and lake are frequented by too many boats to allow the birds to congregate in anything like large numbers. You can find them in twos, threes, and so on, but they are never still. There is always some one passing, with the result that the ducks are continually on the wing. I do not know how the shooting will be at the opening of the season," he said, "but you will find that in a few weeks the sport will be as good as in any of the past years."

There are quite a number of Peterborough men who are preparing for a trip to the lake, some leaving to-night in order to be on the spot in the morning, and others are not going down until Labour Day or sometime after that date.

Geo. A. Begy and Co. Were Over One Thousand Dollars Lower Than E. Conroy of Peterboro' and Are Recommended to the Council for Tenders Received.

COMPARISON OF FIGURES

The Board of Works last night recommended that the contract of the construction of the Smith St. Bridge be awarded to the Geo. A. Begy Co., of St. Catharines, the lowest of four tenderers at a bulk price of $29,314, which with extras estimated by the city engineer bring it to a total of $28,699. The other tenders were received from the Bishop Construction Co., of Montreal, Bishop and Buchanan sent from Owen Sound where they are at present engaged—Mr. Buchanan is a local man residing on Benson street, and from Mr. E. Conroy.

There were present at the meeting Alderman Phelan in the chair, Aldermen Buller, Gillespie, Bradburn, Turner, McIntyre and Duncan.

Alderman Duncan asked that the specifications be read. He did not know anything about them and considered that the chairman should have called a meeting and have gone over them in committee. Alderman Phelan stated that they had been in the engineer's office during the past month and any of the aldermen could have read them over there. He thought that if they were unacquainted with them it was their own fault.

Alderman Bradburn said it was probably that way, but he wanted to know what the specifications were. Alderman Duncan maintained his opinion that the committee should have gone over the clauses before last night.

The chairman read out the specifications.

Alderman Bradburn asked the engineer if he had any doubt that the reinforced cement bridge was superior to any other that could be erected at that point. Mr. Hay stated that he was satisfied that it was the better and he was taking every precaution to insure it being well built. It was the first cement bridge of this size he has erected but he had taken great pains in regard to it. Alderman Buller stated that he had asked Mr. Francis regarding the bridge and he spoke very highly of it. Alderman McIntyre said, Mr. Francis did not have practical experience in bridge building. He had theoretical knowledge but had not built them himself. Mr. Hay said he did not think that there was an engineer in Canada who had built a bridge of this kind.

Alderman Duncan was satisfied with the plans which he considered were most comprehensive. It remained to have the work carried out right to the letter. Alderman Turner asked if provision had been made for a water main across to Auburn. The engineer replied that this had been attended to and conduits were also laid for electric wires, gas, etc.

Tenders Considered

The envelopes containing the tenders were opened and discussed. Engineer Hay had prepared an estimate which was compared with prices submitted in the tenders.

The tender blanks were filled four different places as required by the Engineer. No. 1 was for all work above 42.30 City Datum Elevation, as

THE CATTLE INDUSTRY IN CANADA.

Dr. Rutherford, Veterinary General and Live Stock Commissioner of the Dominion, made at the British Association some important statements about the cattle industry of Canada. This industry is so important that any adverse conditions should be improved as soon as practicable after they are discovered and pointed out. The industry divides itself naturally into the raising of the cattle and the marketing of them, and Dr. Rutherford dealt with both in relation to the western cattle trade. Much of what he said will apply almost as correctly to the cattle trade of the whole Dominion.

In the West the raising of cattle has passed through several stages, which collectively make an evolution, in the main for the better. In the early ranching period of a generation ago good cattle were scarce, and only a moderate measure of success has attended the efforts to improve the breeding. Probably improvements along this line will take place more rapidly as cattle ranching gives place to cattle-farming and as grain-growing is superseded by mixed farming. Many parts of the West are well adapted to cattle raising, and by careful selection, based on experience, the various localities will gradually differentiate themselves as time passes and the community progresses. So far the outlook is somewhat disappointing, but not very discouraging, and not at all depressing.

It is quite otherwise with the marketing of the cattle, of which the present methods are characterized by Dr. Rutherford as "wasteful, unbusinesslike, and unprofitable to the producer and the country," though he admits that they are profitable to the dealers, to the commission men, and to the railway and steamship companies. "Grass-fed cattle suffer much and shrink badly on the long railway journey to the seaboard"; it may be added that they suffer very much on board the Atlantic steamers, even when sent from parts of Ontario not very remote from the ocean.

Dr. Rutherford's advice, to "finish" cattle on grain and hay before shipping them, is theoretically good, but it will be long before the western farmer undertakes to follow it up. Many farmers in the East find it impracticable to procure the extra help necessary to farm in this way, and labour is scarcer in the West than it is in the older Provinces. One source of relief would be the removal of the British embargo on live cattle importation, and it has the very interesting and attractive characteristic that it would help both the British farmer and the British consumer. Partly finished cattle of the sort that can be produced profitably in both the West and the East would yield a handsome profit also to the British farmer who would complete the finishing process. This would be a good arrangement all round, for, in Canada, it would add probably ten dollars to the value of every two-year-old Canadian "stocker" of good breeding and in good condition for being developed through the final stage. This remedy is not within our power, but it does not follow that we should cease pointing out its obvious fairness and all round utility.

TRIBUTE TO A WOMAN

(Rochester Evening Times.)

About two years ago a woman wrote an article for The Century Magazine in which she assembled the frightful figures, since used so effectively, to prove how recklessly we have habitually celebrated Independence Day. She told of the killings, and the maimings, and of the anguish of parents, relatives and friends. She cited the property values annually wasted in fire, racket and smoke. And she made an appeal to the good sense of the American people to unite in measures to odo away with this cruel and wasteful method of celebration and to install in its head a "sane and safe" Fourth.

The suggestion "took." The Fourth, as everybody now perceives, is being revolutionized. The revolution, to be sure, is only in its beginning; but from the width of the interest in it, as shown in public discussion, the inference is safe that eventually there will be an end of the use on this day of noisy and dangerous explosives.

This woman, Mrs. Isaac L. Rice, went further. She organized a crusade against all kinds of useless noises in modern city life. She founded the Anti-Noise Society and largely with her own means forwarded its campaign against the dissonant din of selfish "civilization." Her work is by no means done. Indeed, it is only beginning. But as the wire noted the other day in chronicling her return from Europe, and AntiNoise Society is gathering membership and momentum in nine nations and bids fair to grow into a live influence, because its underlying idea is wholesome and it "fills a long-felt want."

What though the famous Harvard psychologist, Professor Munsterberg, does deny that civilization is breaking down human nerves? Common folk know that every city permits to be made within its borders much noise to no good purpose and everyone can see that if this superfluous racket were cut out, life in our cities would be sweeter and saner. Mrs. Rice, therefore, is doing a fine work and merits the acclaim and support she is receiving. There is need of checks upon the tendency of people in groups to forget their obligations to the community. The Anti-Noise Society is one of these useful and timely checks. If in these times it is through organization that we gain wealth and the means of subsistence, it is through organization, also, that we must put brakes on greed and carelessness.

And it is worthy of mention, by way of reply to those who question the ability of women to cope with public undertakings, that in most of the livest organizations now devoted to community benefit women are in the lead.

BOARD OF WORKS FAVOURS ST. CATHARINES FIRM'S TENDER

shown on plans, exclusive of coping, handrail, spandrel filling and sidewalks.

No. 2. In case of alterations—per cubic yard of concrete.

No. 3. For footings below datum given per cubic yard of concrete.

No. 4. For timber left in place after completion of work.

The Bishop Construction Company's figures were filled in the above places as follows:

No. 1—$25,000.00.
No. 2—$10.00.
No. 3—$9.00.
No. 4—$25.00 per 1,000 feet.,

Mr. Conroy's figures were:

No. 1—$23,565.00.
No. 2—$11.23.
No. 3—$9.30.
No. 4—$30 per 1,000 feet.

Geo. A. Begy & Co's. figures were:

No. 1—$22,314.00.
No. 2—$10.00.
No. 3—$8.40.
No. 4—$30.00.

Bishop & Buchanan:

No. 1—$23,460.00.
No. 2—10.20.
No. 3—$10.20.
No. 4—$15.00.

Engineer Hay had sent in an estimate, which was opened. His figure for all the work included in the specifications was $29,565.00.

There was added to that $1975.00 for sidewalks, handrails and gravel filling, coping, etc.

On the Same Basis.

The Engineer was asked to prepare the tenders on the same basis as his own and to include the $1975.00 in order that the total amount could be arrived at. The following was the result of his calculations:

| | |
|---|---|
| Bishop Construction Co. | $31,700.00 |
| Ed. Conroy | 30,432.00 |
| Geo. A. Begy & Co. | 28,699.00 |
| Bishop & Buchanan | 30,790.00 |
| City Engineer | 31,540.00 |

These were the figures considered by the Board upon which the contract was let.

Alderman Buller wanted it under stoood that whoever got the contract they had to employ local men as much as possible. He had been spoken to about other contractors who had secured work here and who it was said were not dealing fairly with Peterborough workmen and labourers.

He also stated that he was in favour of giving this contract to the St. Catharines people. They had tendered the lowest and had intended it to be as low as possible and he considered their offer should be accepted.

Aldermen Turner and Buller moved that the Board recommend the tender of Geo. A. Begy and Co., of St. Catharines be accepted provided that, all things being equal, local labourers be engaged as far as possible. Carried.

Alderman McIntyre considered that some favour should be shown to local contractors. "It's the same with every contract. You go out of town to get men to do the work without making any effort to help Peterborough men. This city's no good." Alderman McIntyre concluded in a sort of disgusted tone.

Request for a Walk

Mr. Brown stated that he heard that improvements were being made to the sidewalk on Benson street and as he lived on Smith street, between George and Benson street, he would like to have a respectable walk there.

It was rather disgraceful at present and as it was on the main road to the Normal School he thought that it was necessary for the city to have a good walk there as it was used by the students. The block is about 280 ft. and could be soon completed. The Board promised to consider the question.

Tracks Are High

Alderman Buller called attention to the Street Railway tracks at the corner of Charlotte and George and King and George streets. He said he could foresee an accident of some nature at any time and the work of filling in between the rails and building up the road beside the track to put in a decent condition, and at least make the street safe for traffic should be begun at once.

Applications for the Inspectorship of the Smith Street bridge were read from T. L. Arnott, A. H. Webb, and F. Bartlett.

A letter was read from T. M. Caldwell, asking permission to connect a house east of Harvey street, with the London street sewer.

Moved by Ald. Bradburn and Duncan that this Board recommend that the request be granted, provided he assumes all responsibility therewith.

Moved by Ald. Duncan and Buller that if there is a petition sufficiently signed for a sidewalk on the south side of Sherbrooke street, between Park and Reid streets, it be built as soon as possible.

DR. DE VAN'S FRENCH FEMALE PILLS—THE WIFE'S FRIEND

A reliable regulator; never fails. While these pills are exceedingly powerful in regulating the generative portion of the female system, they are strictly safe to use. Refuse all cheap imitations. Dr. de Van's are sold at $5.00 a box, or three for $10.00. Mail to any address. The Scobel Drug Co., St. Catharines, Ont.

ANOTHER SOUTH ENDER MAKES A REPLY

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In your issue of the 30th inst. there appeared a letter signed "Southender."

I was surprised at him, really, expecting so much from such a jolly bunch as our City Fathers. When our neighbours bought property last spring they said, in referring to the matter, of the street extensions, that they need not be worried on that score for the street certainly would be opened, as soon as spring came.

Now the summer is past, the harvest is very nearly ended, and the small space of land between the "King Edward School" and Princess street is not opened yet. What did we pay our taxes for a short time ago? I guess it was to help along the building of so many pavements, where hardly twenty-five persons would pass in one week; or mayhap it was to beautify the city, instead of accommodating the citizens. A while ago the excuse was the lack of money, and the Council said as soon as the "Cobalt" was raised by selling debentures, we would not find them slow in helping us out of "pound," but now they have the "gold" they are too weary from worry over the Benson avenue "problem."

As every person with ability will agree, the South End of Peterborough is bound to grow, and it will be the best section of the city from the labouring man's standpoint.

Now I am sure it will save a great many steps if this strip of ground 228 feet or thereabout, is opened, and also make less sins for our aldermen and mayor to answer for on the Judgment Day. I also saw the "Kind Friend," mentioned in last Monday's edition of your paper, on Sunday, nailing with six-inch spikes a sidewalk plank across our only means of exit, to prevent trespassing.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the space in your valuable paper, I remain,

Yours truly,
ANOTHER SOUTHENDER.

LIGHTNING IN DIFFERENT FORMS

Scientific American Deals With It in Various Forms.

A writer in the Scientific American deals as follows with lightning in its different forms:

Lightning is universally classified as chain, sheet, and ball, of prevalence in the order named; but, as to ball lightning, the recorded instances are so rare and questionable, with no evidence of its electrical nature, I am inclined to say that the information is not sufficient to enable one to form even a belief, much less a judgment, and least of all to formulate a rule respecting it.

Chain lightning has, perhaps, been as thoroughly studied and explained, and is as well understood, as any of the great phenomena of nature.

With respect to sheet lightning, I think, the case is altogether different. This designation is given to that diffused illumination, best seen at night in heavy banks of clouds at a considerable distance from the observer, and said to be unaccompanied with thunder.

I have long doubted the existence of sheet lightning as a form, having concluded that it is but an appearance, a reflection, of chain lightning occurring behind a cloud, the chain throwing out a diffused illumination, as may be seen from the tongue of an electric headlight of a locomotive on a foggy night.

My first and greatest reason for coming to this conclusion in direct observation. I have seen, in small clouds, concurrently, sheet-lightning illumination at one edge and a tongue shoot out from the other. In such case, the obscured end of the chain is somewhere on the upper side of the cloud; and, as I have observed that the centre of the field of the diffused illumination is directly opposite the visible tongue on the other edge of the cloud, I think we are justified in saying that if the chain is not the cause of this illumination, it is nevertheless such an accompaniment as finds therein a full explanation.

Another reason which has led me to conclude that sheet lightning is but an appearance, a reflection, from the chain, is, that the illumination always occurs on the upper side of a cloud at a point out of view of the observer, and he sees only the reflection at the margin of the cloud, or in the sky above the cloud, if at a considerable distance, no reason appearing why it should always be thus secluded.

The same diffused illumination or reflection may be seen in the sky beyond the horizon on a summer night from lightning occurring at such distances as to be below the range of vision. In such instances, the illuminations are always diffused, and the intervals in such perfect accord with our observations of thunderstorms at close range, I see no reason for not saying that they are due to the bolts of Jove.

My own experience confutes the alleged absence of thunder, that occurring only when the cloud is at too great a distance for it to be heard, said to be from ten to fifteen miles. I have frequently heard thunder accompany sheet lightning at close range, although this may still be open to the objection that the chain was playing simuutaneously with the sheet; but, if so, it was above the clouds and out of sight.

EXHIBITION NUMBER

Special one issued by the Farm and Dairy Eclipses all Former Editions.

The special Exhibition Number of Farm and Dairy, just off the press, eclipses all former productions of that enterprising and most valuable weekly farm periodical. The special feature of this number is its attractive and numerous illustrations. The cover is in two colours. The introductory article is prepared by Mr. G. W. Clemons, the noted Holstein-Friesian breeder, and deals with the Record of Performance and Dairy Progress.

Other note-worthy articles are, one on Rural Mail Delivery, with illustrations, describing the system in Prince Edward county; a description with illustrations of Mr. E. Terrill's farm, which is one of the good farms entered in Fair and Dairy's Prize Farm's Competition; Some Necessary Qualities in a Horse Show; Fitting Cattle for Exhibition, and a long list of articles dealing with various phases of farm work.

Such names as Wm. Stewart, Jr., of Menie, who is the oldest exhibitor of Ayrshire cattle in Canada; Dr. H. G. Reed, V.S., of Georgetown; Henry Glendenning, of Manilla; J. H. Grisdale, agriculturist, Central Experimental Farm; W. F. McLean, M.P., Toronto; Prof. Wm. H. Day, of the Ontario Agricultural College, and many others are coupled with the articles of this issue.

From cover to cover, the Exhibition Number of Farm and Dairy is a splendid one, and contains much of value and of interest to all who are engaged in farming. No better time can be had for starting your subscription to this great farm weekly which is meeting with unbounded success, than now. The subscription price is only $1.00 a year, and can be sent to this office.

telling him to get up. I didn't see Fred hit him then, but afterwards in a clinch Fred hit Bollard, and Bollard yelled "Dirty!" I don't remember him saying anything else. It was an unfriendly wrestle.

No Complaint Made.

They got up then and talked for some time. I don't remember Bollard saying that Fred caught him unfairly. I don't know whether Fred had a foul hold on him or not. They shook hands when they got up and there was a wrestle, each getting a fall. Bollard was talking to his friends when I left. He was vomiting while I was there. I went home with the Joplings and the rest. I didn't take any part in the mixup. It didn't matter to me what happened. I didn't want to run my nose in. I came up the hill to tell Harry that I wouldn't mix up in it. I didn't tell Cullen to come down and see the fun.

To Mr. O'Connell: "I was in Mr. Jopling's store when the message came. I saw Fred come out of the hotel and join Harry. The altercation took place in front of Mr. Wolfe's, about 150 yards from the hotel. Bollard, after getting up, after the first fall, carried on a vigorous conversation with Jopling, during the time the wrestling for $5.00 was discussed. He appeared quite vigorous and made no complaints. After the wrestling both Bollard and Jopling said they were sorry. I can't say whether they shook hands again or not.

To Mr. Kerr: "All I heard Bollard say was "Dirty!"

Harry Jopling.

Harry Jopling was the first witness called. He testified that he lived at Bridgenorth with his parents, and that he wasn't acquainted with the deceased, Arthur Bollard, although he knew him by sight, having seen him three times. On Monday, August 23 he met Bollard coming from the village while witness was driving down in a delivery waggon. Witness had asked Bollard if he had been down on his knees, making the inquiry as a joke, because Bollard's white duck trousers were covered with grass stains. When witness got down the hill Bollard called to him to wait and then came back to him. Bollard had asked the witness if he wanted to fight and he had replied that he did not. Another boy, Bobby Merrill, was with witness, and Bollard had said that he would fight them both. Witness had replied that he did not want to fight Bollard, and then said that for little he would hit him any way. Witness replied: "Hit me and see where you land," whereupon Bollard had struck him with his fist on the knee. Witness then drove on.

He next saw the deceased that night in the pavilion at Chemong Park. Witness was dancing with his sister when Bollard came to the edge of the pavilion and said: "That's the guy." Witness was sitting in the swing later on when he saw Bollard go by.

The Night of the Trouble.

He next saw the deceased in front of Seidenburg's cottage about 10 o'clock, when the dance was over and people were going home. Witness' brother, Fred, was with him while with Bollard were Miss Ada Minns, Herbert Marks and Gordon Long. The party were going west and witness and his brother followed them. Witness stated that his brother wanted an explanation as to why Bollard was going to lay for witness next day. Neither of the Joplings spoke to Bollard when they drew close to the party, but witness spoke to his brother and said "That's him." Whereupon the witness stated, that Bollard had turned around and had grabbed him, getting a strangle hold on him and thrown him to the ground, where he had commenced to bang his head. witness' brother pulled Bollard, and said that he was there on behalf of his brother. Neither had said anything to Bollard before that. When Bollard threw witness to the ground he held him with his face down and witness tried to strike him, but could not. When Jopling's brother pulled Bollard off and they were both on their feet, witness heard his brother say: "Are you ready?" and then Bollard rushed for Fred and Fred threw him. When they reached the ground Fred struck Bollard once; the witness could not say where; Bollard yelled, but witness could not tell what he said. In fact, he did not hear him say anything; it was a yell more than anything else. When witness' brother let him up, Bollard sat up and offered to bet $5.00 that he could wrestle Fred. The elder Jopling said that he would take him a friendly wrestle and they shook hands, and witness also shook hands with Bollard. Then the elder Jopling and Bollard wrestled, each getting a fall. Then Fred Jopling wanted another bout, but Bollard said that he was done, and started to vomit.

Did Not Strike Each Other.

Before the two had grappled first the witness said that they did not strike at each other, but clinched from the first. They had fought in anger at first, but the wrestling match was not in anger. In the last two falls there were no injuries apparent. After the wrestling witness and his brother shook hands and bade Bollard good-night. By that time there were others there, among them Blake Cullen, Chas. Forsythe, Buff McManus, V. Tully and Mr. Hartshorn. Before Bollard cried out there had been no outcry except a yell from witness, when Bollard had him around the neck and was choking him. People sitting on the verandah might have heard the disturbance.

At this point Mr. O'Connell claimed for the witness the protection of the court in any future proceedings, saying that while he was compelled to testify said that it should not be used against him. The objection was noted and the examination continued.

No Complaint About Hold.

Witness stated that there was nothing said about the fairness of the hold used by his brother and that he did not hear Bollard complain about it. He didn't know how Bollard got home. He was lying on the grass when witness and his brother shook hands and said good-night. Witness repeated that he had not heard Bollard complain of the hold nor did he know what the deceased had said when he cried out. Going back over the story again witness admitted that he and his brother ran down the road after the Bollard party. He might have spoken to Bollard during the evening about the report that he was laying for him, but didn't do so. Some one had told Fred Jopling about his threat and Fred had told the witness to come down with him to see what he wanted to lay for him for. Fred Jopling did not know the deceased and his brother went with him to locate him. They had no object but to get an explanation from him. Witness had told no one about the mixup that day until the evening when he told Charlie Forsythe. He had sent his little brother, Walter, down to the village to get Forsythe, as he wanted him to stay around in order to help save him from getting a trimming which he feared at the hands of Bollard. Witness told Forsythe that some fellow was going to give him a licking. Forsythe didn't go down the road with the witness and his brother. Witness had not told any one else about it, and he did not know where McManus came from.

Witness repeated that he had not seen his brother get a foul hold on Bollard, nor did he hear Bollard complain of such a hold. Bollard did not use any words when he cried out that the witness heard. If he had used any words the witness did not hear them.

To the coroner witness said that he did not know when Bollard was going to lay for him. The deceased was on his road home when the fracas took place and stopped when they came along. He did not know why he stopped.

Did Not Want a Trimming.

To Mr. Wood again, witness said that his brother, Walter, was nine years of age, and that he had sent him to the village for Forsythe, because he did not want to get a trimming. Forsythe was bigger than the witness and was a chum of his. He did not have any particular friends at the pavilion that evening. Witness had thought that if Bollard was going to lay for him, he wanted some protection. He admitted that he could have gone home if he had wanted to.

To the Coroner: "My brother didn't get the explanation he was after. Forsythe walked down to the village with us after we returned from the scrap."

Harry Jopling was recalled and said to Mr. Wood: "I didn't know there was a stone thrown at Bollard on Tuesday in the park. I didn't throw the stone, nor did I tell anyone I was going to make a job of it. The affair was over on Monday night as far as I was concerned."

Mr. Hartshorn's Evidence

W. R. Hartshorn, the next witness testified that his home was in the United States, and that he spent the summer at Chemong Park. On Monday evening in question, he was sitting on Mr. Barber's verandah, when he heard a disturbance, a kind of row, with loud talking, and went down to the spot some fifty or sixty feet away to stop it. When witness got there the two Joplings, Bollard, his friend Marks, and three or four other boys were there. Bollard and Fred Jopling were just getting up from the ground. Witness told the boys the thing had to stop, and Fred Jopling said that he wasn't going to allow anyone to choke his young brother. Witness told him not to get excited, that probably he could settle the matter without fighting. Witness told Harry Jopling that he must apologize to Bollard, which he did and Bollard accepted the apology and they shook hands. After they shook hands there was a wrestling bout between Fred Jopling and Bollard in which witness thought Fred was thrown twice. Jopling patted Bollard on the shoulder and said to him: "You are a good deal better man than me, you are one of those mat boys." Witness said that it wasn't his suggestion that the boys should wrestle, but that he had said that he would stand there and see that there was fair play. There was nothing said in his hearing about the fairness of the first bout. Witness heard an outcry only once, he thought, and could not say whether it was from Harry Jopling or from Bollard. He wouldn't call it an outcry of pain. Witness didn't hear Jopling invite Bollard to a third bout, and saw nothing of Bollard's illness nor of his being helped away.

To the coroner witness said that he remained on Mr. Barber's verandah about half or three-quarters of an hour after the trouble. He could not distinguish people from there, as it was dark and there were trees in the road.

To Mr. O'Connell witness said that disturbances in the park were very rare, and when they did occur efforts were made to stop them which was the reason for his going down to the boys in the present case. He did not think it was a very vicious affair. His coming had been the means of stopping the unfriendly wrestling and friendly relations had been established then. The suggestion to wrestle was made in a friendly manner by one or other of the boys. From the time witness got there there was nothing of a disorderly character. He did not see anyone else in the mixup and went down almost as soon as he heard the noise. It was hardly likely that anyone else had been engaged. He did not hear anything of a bet of $5.

Witness saw Bollard twice after the night of the trouble. Once walking towards the hotel with his mother and on another occasion on the float of the club house with his friend.

Bollard's Friend Testifies

Herbert Marks was the last witness examined. He testified that his home was in Toronto, and that he was a friend of Arthur Bollard's, and had been staying in the park as his guest. Bollard was nineteen years old, and was well built and muscular. On the Monday night in question, witness left the pavilion with Miss Minns and Bollard and walked down the path with them.

Witness heard people running behind, but did not pay any attention to it until Bollard turned around.

Bollard just had time to take off his coat when Harry Jopling said: "Here he is," and pitched into Bollard. They both went down together and witness did not see what happened then until Fred Jopling took a hand in the affair and Harry got out of it. Witness was pushed away by one of the boys when he tried to get close to help Bollard. He heard Bollard say "Let go" three times, and then "Rotten" twice. Witness saw Fred Jopling hit Bollard twice in the face while he was down. Bollard lay there a while and then got up, complaining that Jopling had seized him foully. Jopling denied the charge and said that he had had a crotch hold on Bollard.

The First Trouble

Witness was asked to explain the first trouble between Bollard and Harry Jopling. He stated that on Monday morning he and Bollard were going to the village for white lead. They had white duck trousers which had got very dirty in working around the boat. They met Harry Jopling who made some remark about Bollard's trousers, and Bollard went back and asked him what he meant and "if he was looking for trouble." Bollard offered to fight Jopling and the boy that was with him. Jopling told Bollard to hit him and see what he would get. Bollard then hit Jopling on the knee with his fist and the Bridgenorth boy drove away calling back a vile name at Bollard.

That was all that occurred until the night of the trouble over the story of which the witness was taken again. After Fred Jopling and Bollard had had their first bout, Mr. Hartshorn wanted Harry Jopling to apologize and he did so. A dispute then came up between Fred Jopling and Bollard as to which was the better man. Each said that he could throw the other. Bollard threw Jopling once, the second bout, but witness could not say who won the first. After the second fall Bollard got up, but shortly after lay down again. The Joplings shook hands with Bollard and witness, and went away, leaving witness, Miss Minns and Gordon Long with Bollard. The deceased began vomiting. They carried him part of the way when he began vomiting again, and they laid him down for three or four minutes, and then carried him the rest of the way. He was vomiting again when he reached the back verandah of his home. They carried him into his bedroom.

Complained of Hold

To witness next day Bollard complained several times that Fred Jopling had seized him in a foul manner. He did not complain of pain, but said several times that he was all in. He was the same on Wednesday morning, but in the afternoon was feeling jolly, better than he had been any time since the fight. Next morning he complained of a sore throat and wouldn't eat and witness phoned for a doctor at one o'clock.

Mr. O'Connell went over the story of the fight with witness and also the movements of Bollard on the following day. Witness stated that Bollard and he were sailing in Tuesday morning and afternoon and on Wednesday morning and afternoon, and that Bollard danced a while on Wednesday night. Jopling and Bollard were pretty evenly matched and fought vigorously. He did not remember anything being said of a third fall. Some one said that he was willing to bet $5 that Jopling could throw Bollard. Witness would not be sure whether it was that Jopling could throw Bollard, or vice versa. The contest throughout lasted about fifteen minutes.

Witness was not familiar with wrestling, but knew what a crotch hold was. He had seen it used once or twice, but did not know whether it was a recognized hold in wrestling or not.

Witness stated that he had not tried very hard to get close to the two on the ground, not thinking it of much importance as they were man to man.

The inquest was then adjourned until 2 o'clock this afternoon. A number of other witnesses are to be heard, including Buff McManus, Miss Ada Minns, Gordon Long, Victor Tully, and the doctors who performed the autopsy. It is hardly likely that a verdict will be reached this afternoon.

An Odd Perquisite.

One of the most curious perquisites in connection with English coronations is the right of one of the peers to claim the bed and bedding used by the heir apparent on the night preceding the coronation. In olden times this was a perquisite of considerable value, as the "bedding" usually consisted of richly embroidered coverlids of velvet or silk, with priceless hangings of cloth of silver and gold.

Besides, the courts have decided that dealing in futures without the actual delivery of the goods is gambling pure and simple.

The One to Blame.

"It is the duty of every man and woman to be married at the age of twenty-two," said the lecturer.

"Well," said a woman of thirty, with some asperity, "you needn't tell me that. Talk to the man."

Afghans Must Be Good.

News has been received in Simla from the Afghanistan frontier that the Ameer has issued strict orders to the Afghan officials on the Kurram border to refrain from creating troubles in British territory. He has also instructed the border officials not to correspond with British officers, but to refer all disputes to Kabul, in order that he may correspond personally with the Viceroy. The notorious Mullah Powindah is reported to be collecting a number of pensioned Indian Army Sepoys, offering them good pay and a share of the property collected in raiding the British border.

Children Had Eczema
SUFFERED AGONY UNTOLD
Treatment prescribed had no effect—DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT made thorough cure.

Many a mother's heart has been torn by the suffering of her little one who has fallen a victim of eczema. Only such mothers appreciate to the full the value of Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for this horrible ailment.

Mrs. Oscar Vancott, St. Antoine, Sask., writes:

"I have found Dr. Chase's Ointment to be a permanent cure of eczema and other skin diseases. One son, while nursing, broke out with running watery sores all over his head and around the ears. Many salves were prescribed to no effect. The child's head became a mass of scabs and he suffered agony untold. He became weak and frail and would not eat and we thought we would lose him.

"Providentially we heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and it soon thoroughly cured him. He is seven years old now and strong and well. An older boy was also cured of eczema by this Ointment, and we hope more people will learn about it so that their poor little ones may be saved from suffering."

Chafing and irritation of the skin, from which nearly all babies suffer more or less, is a frequent source of eczema. There is no treatment for chafing so satisfactory as Dr. Chase's Ointment. Pore-clogging, unsanitary powders are being discarded by all who have once learned the value of this great Ointment in keeping baby's skin soft, smooth and healthy.

In scores of ways Dr. Chase's Ointment is useful in every home in the treatment of pimples, barber's itch, scalds and burns, poisoned skin, sore feet and every form of itching skin disease. 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Seek Their Color.

Divers in the clear waters of the tropical seas find that fish of different colors when frightened do not all dart in the same direction, but that each different kind takes shelter in that portion of the submarine growth nearest in color to that of the fish.

The Earliest Fan.

Perhaps the earliest fan in history was mentioned in hieroglyphics deciphered by the Egyptologist, Lepsius. In his researches he found this sentence referring to Osiris, "In his hand he held a fan."

A Curious Fly.

A curious lantern fly discovered by naturalists in the Malay archipelago possesses the power of jumping a distance of several feet without opening its wings. It has a projection on its head which, when bent back and suddenly released, throws the insect into the air. This fly was seen to jump from the ground to the roof of a hut.

WHAT every cook should know is, which wheat makes the best flour, and why.

Winter wheat is put into the ground in the fall, but does not ripen until the following July. It matures slowly, is soft and very starchy.

Spring wheat is sown in April or May, and ripens in August. It's a flinty, translucent wheat, rich in gluten and contains nearly twice as much nutriment as winter wheat.

WEDDING BELLS

TOUCHBOURNE—STAUNTON.

A very quiet wedding was solemnized this morning at St. John's Anglican church, when Miss Margaret Jane, daughter of Mr. W. A. Staunton, 20 Benson Ave., was united in marriage to Mr. Samuel Frederick Touchbourne, of "Pinehurst," Cavan, Ont., Rev. J. C. Davidson officiating. The bride wore her travelling dress of white braided linen with natty white felt hat, with black trimmings. The groom's gift to the bride was an amethyst and pearl brooch. Mr. and Mrs. Touchbourne left on the 8.25 train for Muskoka lakes. On their return they will reside at "Pinehurst," Cavan, Ont.

THOMPSON—JONES.

An interesting social event took place in the Presbyterian church at 7.30 o'clock Monday morning, when Miss Jessie M. Jones, of the firm of the Misses Simpson & Jones, became the bride of Mr. A. E. Thompson, C. P. R. agent here.

Rev. P. Henderson was the officiating clergyman and the ceremony was witnessed by quite a number of friends. The bride wore a natty travelling tailor-made suit of navy blue with hat to match and was unattended. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson took the 8:10 express for the east and will spend a vacation at Montreal, Quebec, and the Lower St. Lawrence.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Jones, of Peterborough, Ont., and became one of Claresholm's most popular young ladies since coming here to reside last spring. Many friends join in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Thompson wealth and happiness and a long life.—Claresholm Review.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson are at present visiting Mrs. Thompson's parents. College street.

REGIMENT HAD MARCH OUT LAST NIGHT IN PREPARATION FOR TRIP

Orders Read Concerning Trip to Perth on Labour Day, Will Leave Here at 9 O'clock on Saturday Night.

A BIG TURNOUT

The Regiment had an excellent drill last night in preparation for the trip to Perth on Labor Day. About 200 officers and men were present, and a good noight's work was put in.

The following are the orders for the week:—

Headquarters,
Peterborough,
Aug. 30, 1909.

Orders by the Commanding Officer, 57th Regiment, P.R.

No. 1.—The Regiment, with both bands, Stretcher Section and Signal Corps, will parade in drill order with helmets and ball bags at the Armories at 9 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 4th, 1909, and march to the C.P.R. station, where it will entrain and proceed to Perth, there to go into camp for two days, September 5th and 6th.

No. 2.—Officers commanding companies and the adjutant will prepare a nominal roll of their respective companies and the staff in duplicate; all names thereon after the names of officers and non-commissioned officers, to be in alphabetical order. The roll is for the use of the command paymaster immediately after the formation of the parade—at 9 p.m., sharp. This parade will be the annual muster parade of the Regiment.

No. 3.—After entraining, officers commanding companies will remain with their respective companies for 15 minutes and will join them 15 minutes before arriving in Perth.

No passengers will be allowed to remain on Special train except regularly enlisted members of the 57th Regiment in full uniform, of such as have a proper pass signed by the adjutant.

No. 4.—Orderly officers are detailed as follows:

(1) Capt. Hounsell and Lieut. Langford.

(2) Capt. McWilliams and Lieut. Kelly.

(3) Capt. Wilson and Lieut. Comstock.

(4) Capt. Watt and Lieut. Gemmell.

(5) Capt. McPherson and Lieut. Carruthers.

Lieut. Higgins is detailed as transport officer.

The roster of duties for non-commissioned officers and men will be supplied by the Sergt.-Major.

No. 5.—It will be the special duty of the orderly officers to have control of the conduct of the men while in camp. They will inspect march off and dismiss all guards and other duties, attend all parades, see that the meals are good and assist in carrying out the daily routine of the camp.

No. 6.—An advance party, consisting of the O.M., Q.M.S., and one man per company will report at Armories on Friday, Sept. 3rd, and proceed to Perth to make camp, and other necessary arrangements for the reception of the Regiment.

A baggage party consisting of one man from each company from the Brass Band, from the Bugle Band, and from the Stretcher Section will report to Lieut. Higgins at the drill hall at 7.30 p.m. on Saturday, 4th

All extra baggage must be ready and in the hall at that hour.

A party from each company and from the Brass Band consisting of a sergeant and four men and a party from the Bugle Band and Stretcher Section consisting of a corporal and two men will be detailed and report at the Q.M. stores' room on the camp ground at Perth immediately after arrival there to draw the necessary blankets, rugs, utensils, etc.

No. 7.—Men will provide themselves with towels, brushes, soap and other necessities for cleaning purposes. Rifle oil may be procured from the regimental stores. Company kit-boxes must be in drill hall ready to be shipped at 7 p.m. on Saturday, September 4th, 1909.

No. 8.—All men must appear at all parades, and when walking out must be tidy and clean. Faces must be shaved, hair cut, buckles and buttons well polished and belts clean. All will wear black leather boots well shined.

No. 9.—An after order will be issued concerning the order for the parades to meals.

No. 10.—Officers commanding the companies will en route make out their requisitions for blankets, etc., and will be responsible for the acquarate count for number or blankets, etc., returned.

No. 11.—An after order concerning daily routine camp regulations and guards will be issued in camp on the morning of arrival, Sept. 5th.

No. 12.—N.C.O's and men are requested to conduct themselves while in Perth so as to reflect credit on their city and on their regiment, and it is confidently hoped that nothing will occur on this occasion which will detract from the good reputation which the regiment has heretofore enjoyed while on its annual outing.

No. 13.—Colour Sergt. W. H. Roberts, No. 3 Co., is hereby detailed as acting Regimental Sergt.-Major until further orders.

By Order,
E. B. CLEGG, Major,
Acting Adjutant.

MR. JAS. M'MARTIN IN HIS NEW DWELLING

Has Had to Enlarge His Place at Mc Martinville.

Mr. Jas. McMartin, proprietor of the store at McMartinville, the newly formed hamlet on the river road below the locks has moved into his new house adjoining the store.

Since opening for business some time ago he has experienced a gradually increasing trade, having received the patronage of the farmers and residents in that part of Otonabee.

The contract for the stonework of the house was let to Mr. Jos. Rose, of Otonabee, who completed it in such a satisfactory manner that Mr. McMartin is highly delighted and recommends Mr. Rose to others who have similar work to be done. Mr. Ed. Ruth did the carpenter work and the entire dwelling has been well built. Mr. McMartin considers that he has as good a class of customers as can be found anywhere and appreciates the generous patronage they have accorded him.

Redemption of Worn Out Paper Money Averages $2,000,000 Daily

Washington, Aug. 28.—"The redemption of worn-out paper money is now averaging $2,000,000 a day. During the last fiscal year the government redeemed and destroyed the enormous total of $640,000,000, which is easily the largest amount redeemed in any single year. These figures show that there is great activity in business circles throughout the country."

The foregoing statement was made recently by United States Treasurer Charles H. Treat. He says that one of the best barometers of the state of national prosperity is to be found in the daily report of the redemption division of the Treasury Department. When trade is brisk through the country and people are buying and merchants are selling, the medium of circulation passes rapidly from hand to hand. When paper money, worn out and ragged by rough usage, finds its way to the Treasury for redemption it is an unfailing sign that times are good.

All past records have been broken in the redemption division during the last few months. The value of bills turned in to be exchanged for new ones has been running over $2,000,000 a day for a long period. About six years ago the daily redemptions were less than a million dollars. The great volume of worn-out bills is in denominations of $1 and $2. The activity of business is further shown by the frequent requests for redemption of $5 and $10 notes with ones. During the last six years there has been an increase of 50 per cent. in the total number of $1 bills in circulation.

FASTIDIOUS AS TO MONEY

"The people of the United States," said a Treasury official, "are growing more fastidious every year in the matter of handling money. They have gradually become accustomed to fresh, crisp bank notes or Treasury certificates and do not care to handle soiled and dirty looking money, suggestive of microbes. The government has encouraged this tendency to demand clean notes.

"A big money factory is maintained here for the purpose of renewing the supply, and it costs very little for banks to get it. The only charge for the exchange is 40 cents per $1,000 for transportation. The banks have learned that their customers like clean money and they do not hesitate to return crumpled and worn notes and demand new ones. It is a rare thing for the department to send back these notes with a statement that they are fit for circulation. The average wear of a $1 Treasury certificate is fourteen months. Formerly a note would stay out for three or four years. Roughly speaking, the body of the circulation is entirely renewed every two and a half years."

The business of redeeming paper money has grown to such proportions that the government recently found it necessary to improve its machinery for destroying notes. For more than half a century paper money for redemption was destroyed by being cut in two by giant steel blades operated by a strong-armed employee. Now the notes are mutilated, first, by an electrical punch which puts four holes in each bundle of stacked up bills. Then they are further pushed under a knife, also operated by electricity, which deftly cuts them longitudinally through the middle. Between 600,000 and 1,200,000 individuals notes are thus destroyed every day.

AN ENJOYABLE OUTING

Pleasant Day Spent by Teachers and Scholars of St. John's Church.

A very pleasant day was spent on the river and at Idyl Wyld by the teachers and scholars of St. John's Sunday School yesterday, many parents and friends of the children also taking in the trip.

The Sunday School Superintendent. Mr. R. J. Devey was in charge and was indefatigable in looking after the comfort of the crowd, ably assisted by other members of the teaching staff, Mrs. R. J. Devey, Miss English, Miss F. Foote, Mrs. Gladys Roy, Messrs. Miles and Hamon.

Mr. Donald Denham was in charge of the business end of the trip and with Mr. Devey sent off a large number of races to the great delight of the company present.

The choir boys gave an impromptu concert aboard on the return journey and as the Otonabee tied up to the wharf at 7 p.m. the children gave three cheers for their Sunday School, and three more for the teachers, bringing to a close a most enjoyable outing.

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.

The fall term of the Peterborough Conservatory of Music will reopen on Wednesday, September 1st, with largely increased faculty in all branches. Intending students should register at once so as to derive the full benefit of the year's course.

SENTENCED TO TWO YEARS IN THE MERCER REFORMATORY

Mrs. Netty Armstrong Convicted This Morning in the Police Court—Her Children Will be Taken Over by Children's Aid Society—Young Girl Arrested With the Woman Allowed to go—Charge Against Husband Was Dropped.

Mrs. Letty Armstrong was sentenced to two years in the Mercer Reformatory at the Police Court this morning, it having been proven that she was a common prostitute. Carrie Lagros, a young girl arrested with her in Victoria Park on Friday evening was allowed to go. Her cousin was present on her behalf and she promised to go back to Frankford where her parents reside. A charge of gaining his livlihood by improper means was also preferred against Archie Armstrong, husband of the accused woman but His Worship preferred to let it drop and that he be made contribute something to his children's support. His children will be taken over by the Children's Aid Society.

Both women wept bitterly, the young girl breaking down on hearing the kind words of advice from the Magistrate.

Chief Rossel swore that he knew Mrs. Armstrong for two years. Several times she came complaining that her husband was away and did not support her. Early in the spring she complained again, stating that she had nothing to live on. In May or June she moved into a house on Rubidge street. Complaints were then made by neighbours about her keeping a house of ill fame. She moved out to Monaghan where she remained a short while coming back to the city.

In July P. C. Meharry was instructed to watch the house. Harry Hedge, caretaker of Victoria Park said that he did not know either of the women prisoners until about two weeks ago, when they started coming to the Park. Mrs. Armstrong had a bad reputation. Witness had several complaints about the accused from respectable ladies.

Carrie Lagros called, stated that her home was in Frankford. She was nineteen years of age. She met Mrs. Armstrong a week ago last Tuesday in the Park. Since then they had gone together with men.

Western Harvest To Be Over Before The Frost Is Felt

Examiner Special.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 30.—Harvesting in the West is well under way now, according to the weekly crop report of the Canadian Northern Railway, issued to-day. In a great many places threshing has already started, and will be general by next week. It is a little premature to estimate the yield in the various districts, but some of the agents already give figures. Some of these are: Makinak, 25 bushels per acre; Aberdeen, 25 bushels; Lamont, 25 to 35 bushels; Roland, 25 bushels.

The feature of the situation is that there has been no damage by frosts, and the farmers expect to get their cutting all done before the first frost comes. Of the whole country, about 60 per cent. of the grain is cut, and the remainder will be finished very soon. A note of confidence in the yield at each point is struck by the agents, who all believe the grain will grade high.

HARVEST HANDS ARRIVE

Five trains, containing about 3,000 harvest hands, came in over the C. P.R. last night, the first arriving at 12.35 and the last at 1.30. A special train of eighteen cars was made up at four o'clock this morning and sent out over the main line. Between two o'clock and nine o'clock about 2,000 of these were reticketed through for the West, and the remainder either remained in the city or loaded the local trains during the day for nearby points in Manitoba. Immigration agents for all the provinces were on hand all night, and a pretty thorough distribution was made.

C. Bristow and E. Trowbridge, special agents for Alberta secured quite a large number of men for that province, where there is a heavy demand for labourers. South of the province, in the Fall Wheat district, there is especially great need.

Prior to this excursion 2,900 men had been ticketed through to Moose Jaw, but it is not thought one-half of these will go the limit of their tickets, but will drop off at intermediate points.

WHAT EVERY MAN DOES NOT KNOW

BY A. CRANQUE

When you meet at a house party, a summer hotel, or some town function a sweet thing with eyes like stars and lips like cherries and teeth like pearls—the regulation type, you know—and fall desperately in love, you can scarcely wait until you can call her yours.

You don't know that if you had waited you would not be marrying a mask, do you?

And when that mask drops and you see the selfish nature and the cold heart, or the utter lack of responsibility, or intellect, as the case may be, you feel you have been cheated.

You don't know that if you had been content to have waited a little longer and looked over the prize you had drawn more carefully, you might have detected the flaws in your jewel.

A CHARMING NINNY

You don't know that, as a rule, a pretty woman hasn't an ounce of common sense. She is only a beautiful ninny. She does not know anything and she does not care to know anything. She is satisfied to admire her own lovely self and has no interest in life save that which centres in her charming person.

You don't know that if you want peace, harmony and quiet you should marry—not a hideous woman—but a plain, sensible girl, rather than a dainty doll.

You don't know that a pretty, brainless woman goes about bragging to her woman friends of your devotion to her, do you?

You should have heard the clatter of a beautiful creature who came to see the writer long since. She rattled on in a sweet drawl of various things dear to a woman's heart—servants, children, spring hats, the new lace frock that had just come home, and at last struck the subject of her husband's love for her.

"Love me!" she said, rolling her eyes up as if calling on heaven to witness and confirm her announcement. "You can't imagine how he loves me. You never, my dear, saw a man so crazy over a woman as he is over me. It's really pathetic."

BEAUTIFUL WIVES

I told her that was perfectly lovely and the way it ought to be and that it was a pity there were not more men crazy over their beautiful wives, and expressed every other noble sentiment I could think of as appropriate to so truly touching an occasion.

All the time, however, I had a sneaking desire to grin. For, as a rule, when a woman brags to me of the intensity of her husband's devotion, I at once jump to the conclusion that she bores him almost to death.

You may think you can teach such a woman. But you don't know what you are up against. The fact that she has not an atom of mind never troubles her; that she is utterly incapacitated either for great joy or great suffering does not bother her. All she cares about is the luxury of finery and soft belongings. She is like a cat—perfectly satisfied with a warm corner, a silk cushion, a ribbon round the neck, and a little petting and stroking now and then.

A CAT WOMAN

You think you can be happy with a cat woman, but you don't know how wretched you will come to be, how weary you will grow of her vaporings, her idle chatter, her silly conceit. You don't know how you will come to long for the companionship of a sensible woman; how you will come to look upon the society of a brainy woman, however ugly, as a positive relief.

How She Cured Her Husband Of Being Too Friendly With Other Girls

"I've got Harry into training now, I think, observed a young matron the other day, whose husband presents the down-trodden air of a man who will never get up again. "When we were first married he used to be a great deal too free and friendly in his manner with girls, but after a few scenes and a few thereatenings to run back home, all that sort of silly business was stopped. Now I must confess that he never even looks at another woman when I am in the way!"

And the last part of the sentence is most pathetically true. Harry never does look at another woman when his wife "is in the way," in fact, he is so morose and reserved that hostesses dread the necessity for inviting him to their parties.

But what he does when she is out of the way!—well, that is quite another story, and one which can be told concerning a number of husbands and fiances who are driven to courses of retributive deceit by a wife or sweetheart who doesn't know when to be jealous in the right way.

Nothing is more fatal than suspicion—the carking, nagging suspicion of the idle, emotional woman who would rather suspect her husband of disloyalty than find plenty of honest solid employment wherewith to fil her own empty mind.

This senseless, unworthy suspicion, this piecing together of possible circumstances till a non—existent intrigue stands out in the blackest, vilest colours, is in reality a condition of feminine folly which heedless people ascribe to jealousy.

But there is a vast difference between trying to ferret out something which in all probability doesn't exist, and resenting something which should and ought to be resented.

The former is auspicion, the latter is jealousy; and jealousy is up to a point necessary to a woman's self respect.

In fact, if Adela persistently overlooks Gerald's open and obvious flirtation with the widow in the second floor flat she is only cheapening herself.

And what is the best way—say in the case of a man who, while being quite fundamentallly true to the girl of his heart, will persist in casting flirtatious glances at any and every pretty face, and of squeezing any and every pretty hand that comes his way.

Chaff—yes, probably a little good-natured and slightly contemptuous chaff will do as much good as anything else.

"Now, George, dear, do try to refrain from making eyes at this lady in the black hat with red roses; and if you have to pass Daisy Keith a cup of tea, make an effort not to squash her finger-tips, won't you? She will be so embarrassed, poor girl—besides which, as you are engaged to me, it's scarcely the thing to do, is it?"

Occasional remarks such as the above often make a thoughtless youth see the error of his ways, while in more serious cases there is nothing so beneficial as obvious aloofness and withdrawal.

POST CARD COLUMN

August 30th, 1909.

To Editor Post Card Column:

Sir,—I see by to-night's issue of the Examiner that I am quoted as having said that "as a result of the Bollard fatality it is the intention of the cottagers to form a protective association and keep rowdies out of the park altogether."

I did not say that the cottagers intended to form a protective association, but I did say that they ought to do so.

Yours truly,
D. H. BURRITT.

The Cricket Club

Peterborough, Aug. 30.

To Editor Post Card Column:

Sir,—I hope "member" does not supply the name of one so weak and shifty. It would be heart-breaking to name the defender and upholder of all that is mean and deplorable. The Warkworth affair is one about which the police should investigate; and as for the charge of 40 cents for a 15-cent meal at Campbellford I will give a prize of a dollar to the boy giving the correct reason of that charge at the hotel. With regard to "A Member's" general assertion that one should never reckon the cost of sport, that is a most selfish view and is the reason that those who are not wealthy, or professionals are debarred; using a public park the authorities should see the public are not imposed upon.

Yours truly,
W. A. BAILEY.

Note.—As no particular benefit can result to the Cricket Club or its members by the continuance of this controversy in the form it has assumed—Mr. Bailey's communication will end the matter, so far as these columns are concerned.—Editor.

"SWEEP," JAMES R. KEENE'S COLT WINS RICH FUTURITY STAKE VERY EASILY

New York, Aug. 30.—So hard held that his head lay almost in his rider's lap and yet withal maintaining his graceful long stride and with his fleetness of foot unimpaired, James R. Keene's Sweep, a son of Ben Brush—Pink Domino, won the twenty-second running of the Futurity at Sheepshead Bay to-day. Five lengths back, ridden out with whip and heel to beat Sweep's stable mate, Grasmere, a short length for the place, staggered the tired Montpelier stable's candidate, Candleberry, also a son of the sire of Sweep. Angerona, an added starter, was a fairly goodo fourth, but the other nine contestants were beaten off and well strung out over a furlong. The time for the six furlongs was 1:11 4-5. Sweep's share of the purse of $31,000 was $27,000.

No day fairer than this ever has dawned for the running of the Futurity, which is the Blue Ribbon event of the American turf for two-year-olds, and always carries the richest purse hung up for the baby racers. The sunshine, a cloudless sky and a rippling breeze all united to make life worth living to the 15,000 spectators.

Of the 14 horses which were announced as starters, three—Big Stick, Dull Care and Glennadeane—were scratched, but two other eligibles, Angerona and Sandrian, were saddled in the hope that they might land a portion of the rich prize. The Keene entry was installed a hot favourite in the betting, and at the opening odds, 7 to 5, the multitude swept down on the memory brokers with such bundles of money that the layers were forced to cut the price until at post time 9 to 10 was the best price in sight. Many of them rubbed the entry off their programme completely Candleberry was well played at 3 to 1, but his price nevertheless had risen to 4 at the close, with 8 to 4 that he would not run second. Barleythorpe and Rocky O'Brien also had hordes of admirers, and the sharpshooters all over the ring were wagering small sums on the long shots in the hope of making a killing.

The irrascible temper of Sweep resulted in his being led to the post, while the other candidates paraded past the stand and received the plaudits of the spectators. Arrived at the barrier, Sweep, by his unruliness, delayed the start ten minutes. Then the webbing flashed and the thirteen horses were away to a good start.

Sweep was off on his tiptoes, closely followed by Barleythorpe, Grasmere, Malitine and The General Arm strong. There was a good deal of crowding, however, and Sweep fell back behind Grasmere and Barleythorpe, in third position. Candleberry had got away badly, but was making his way through the jumble and striking out for the leaders. At the quarter Grasmere was still leading, and Barleythorpe was at his withers and coming fast. Butwell, on Sweep, then straightened out his mount, and for a few seconds gave him his head. Sweep answered with gameness, and at the five-furlongs pole led by a length and a half. At this point the race ended so far as first place was concerned, for Butwell put his charge under wraps and simply galloped home.

A sixteenth from the finish it looked like Keene would win first and second places, for Candleberry had given way to full length, while Barleythorpe was but an eyelash behind Candleberry. Inch by inch he cut down Grasmere's lead. The spectators yelled with frenzy. Neck and neck the two horses raced, but Grasmere began to falter. Scoville used his whip, but with no effect. The Meddler colt's energy was spent and he fell back beaten by a short length on the wire.

Meantime Sweep had crossed the mark majestically and was being applauded by the multitude, and Mr. Keene was receiving the congratulations of his friends on having five times won the classic Futurity. Summary:

HIS SUCCESS AS A BASEBALL PLAYER

Eighten or more years ago a freckled-faced little lad was sitting on the bench of the Louisville Baseball Club, day after day. His big blue eyes never missed anything. Finally after days of waiting he was told to play. Some one was hurt and they wanted him.

They laughed at him. He was a cyclone of energy that did not get any one place. He was all over the field, a streak of fiery red, but he booted the ball, fumbled it and threw wild. But his ceaseless running got the crowd. They laughed, they thought he was so funny.

And the green boy left the field that night with a heavy heart. He had come up from the coal mines of Pennsylvania, where they had told him he was a good ball player. And this heartsick boy of the mines wanted to go back to his home in Pennsylvania.

But in the morning he read the papers. One alone spoke kindly of him. It was suggested that in him there was the making of a great ballplayer—that all he needed was coaching. It gave him fresh courage and he decided to stick. And later in the day he met the man who wrote it. The author was a young Kentuckian of gentle bearing and courtly manner, with a quiet, happy smile and a warm handshake.

He was used to the ways of the city, and he told the country youth of his chances as though he were much older. In a hundred little ways he fed the imagination of the red-haired boy.

And from the encouragement Jennings developed from the coal miner to the intelligent pinnacle of baseball.

The world has never seen his equal in the shortstop position. And he gives all credit to the man who saved him from going back home disgusted with his baseball ability. That man was poor Harry Pulliam.

Baseball

Herb Hopkins will do the mound work for the Lindsay team who will play the T.A.S. nine in Peterborough on Monday next. The long pitcher, catcher (he does both) is in fair shape, and has accumulated more control. With his speed he should pitch good ball.

Of course, Bill Cinnamon will do the backstopping and is working his arm into shape these nights. Then Herb Workman may pay Lindsay a visit that day and go along with the boys to help out in the infield.—Lindsay Warder.

Two teams of ball players will be playing out of town on Labour Day. Besides the team that play in Peterborough, another nine fills an engagement at Port Perry. A baseball tournament is billed for the Scugog hamlet and the Lindsay outfit of fast boys have a definite idea that they will land on top or thereabouts. The team is the same aggregation that played and won in Port Perry a week ago.—Lindsay Warder.

HASTINGS WON FROM HAVELOCK

Special to The Examiner.

Hastings, Aug. 28th.—We regret to chronicle the death of Mr. Austin Dickey, who has been in such a critical condition for some weeks. On June 16th of this year, Mr. Dickey was married to Miss Ethel Morrow, and much sympathy is fet for the young widow who has been so unexpectedly bereaved. He was a son of the late Mr. Matthew Dickey of Percy, and was much respected by all who knew him. There is left to mourn his loss, besides his young widow, his mother, six brothers and one sister. The funeral was held on Wednesday, 25th inst. under the auspices of the C.O.F. and was largely attended. Interment took place in the Trent Valley Cemetery.

There is some talk of organizing a Local Improvement Society which would be a great boon to our town. We hope the citizens will do all in their power to help the matter along.

Our baseball boys went down to Havelock one day last week where they were successful in winning by a good score the result being 7-4 in favor of the boys. The piccolo band of Peterborough came down to Hastings on Tuesday per Steamer "Otonabee" and were apparently in for a good time.

The Misses Tyler are visiting friends in Rochester.

Mr. and Mrs. Tucker spent Sunday at the home of Mr. Duncan Fife.

Mr. Bailey is visiting friends in Montreal.

The contractors have been busily engaged blasting in the vicinity of Oake's Rock and now this old land mark is a thing of the past, he piled up on the bank with the other common stones. They are making a good channel about 300 feet wide here so that all large steamers will have right of way.

Mr. Robert and Misses Hattie and Annie Reid of Peterborough were in town on Sunday.

Mrs. H. R. Bingham has returned after visiting friends in Toronto, etc.

Mr. Henry Johnson has been visiting in Toronto.

Miss Myrtle Greenley is visiting friends in Lakefield.

Mrs. (Dr.) Edmison and little son, have been visiting friends in Brighton.

Mrs. John Merrill is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Alex. Nelson.

Miss Stevenson, of Whitby, is visiting her friend, Mrs. J. C. Wilcox.

Dr. Berry, of Port Hope, spent Sunday with Mr. Charlie Fowlds, town.

Dr. King of Toronto, treated the citizens to a display of fireworks one evening recently, which was much appreciated.

Mrs. Byrne, of New York City, is the guest of her brother, Mr. J. Myles.

The many friends of Miss Annie Kerr, extend congratulations to her on her appointment to the position of principal of the School at Wilcox, Sask., and wish her every success. Miss Kerr was a former teacher at No. 5 and was well and favorably known in Hastings.

Miss Elsie Laing, of Norwood, is the guest of her cousin, Miss Mae Beavis.

The improvements in connection with the Methodist Church are making rapid progress and the congregation is looking forward to the time in the near future when they will have a much better house to worship in.

Harvesting operations in this section are pretty well under way, and the farmers seem to feel that their labours are going to be well rewarded. We understand that the pea-crop is unusually large, while the oat crop is well up to the average.

SEPT. 2nd IS THE DATE

The Steamer Otonabee will run what has proven to be the most popular trip of the season to Lindsay. Boat leaves Wolfe St. wharf at 7.15 sharp. Lift Lock at 7.45. Tickets, returning by train same evening, $1.00; returning by boat next day, $1.50. Meals on board. Hot water supplied those bringing baskets. 34-50

THE VALUE OF HOLIDAYS

Do not think a vacation is a loss of time. It is the best kind of an investment—an investment in fresh brains, in vigorous health, in increased vitality.

People who seldom or never take a vacation get into ruts. Their minds get stuffy and clouded; they lose the power of expansion, of growth; they lose freshness of view; and, finally, they lose their grip on things and on themselves.

Recreation, for those who have been held closely to business for a long time is like the turning up of hard soil by the plow, letting in the sunlight and stirring up the chemical forces that have been sleeping during the winter. Slumbering germs start when they feel the warm sun, the gentle rain, and the tonic of the dew. There is rejuvenation and growth in recreation in the country. It loosens up the hard soil of prejudice—mental ruts—and refreshes and invigorates the germs of character.

Life has become so intense that it is necessary to break loose from it every now and then, to get in closer touch with nature, and "drink power from the fountain head;" to get so close to Mother Earth that she can whisper her secrets in our ears.

It is a great thing to keep one's self growing in this age of specialists. The man who continues to work in a rut, who confines himself to one special line, betrays every year a lessening tendency to reach out into new fields, to expand, to grow outside of his little line of endeavour. People who take no vacation lose the rhythm of life. Their days are all monotonous work.

Play is just as important to symmetrical development to a well balanced life, as work. A vacation helps to balance our power to give us a more symmetrical development. It keeps us from becoming one-sided. It improves our judgment.

People who alternate work with play, will frequently get close to nature, preserve the sweetness of life; are sounder, saner, have more common sense than those who never drop their work.

If you use your vacation properly, you will come back to your work a larger, happier, better balanced man or woman, with brighter, fresher views. The complete rest to the brain cells and faculties, which you used continuously during the previous strenuous months, will make you more capable than you were when you went away.

There is no better investment than that of a good vacation in the country where you can drink in beauty and power at first hand. There can be no better investment than health.

The tendency of the strenuous life is toward mental unbalancing, lopsidedness; and this tendency, if not counter-balanced by sufficient play, must result in the complete loss of mental balance. Thousands of people in our insane asylums are there because they lost the rhythm of life. Work and play were not properly balanced in their lives.

How It Can Be Stopped

You cannot stop competition and price cutting by roasting your competitors. Get together with them and compare facts. The road to Profit-ville requires organization, investigation and then application, of sane business-like remedies says an exchange. Printers can wear out their tongues and lungs telling what sons-of-guns competitors are, and it will not bring about an inch of improvement. The "only way" to right wrongs is to get together. Deny it if you can. What other industries have done printers can do.—"Printing Trade News."

ROYAL THEATRE

"The Gypsy Artist"

This is a most interesting story of how a boy kidnapped by Gypsies turns out to be a great artist and how he is afterwards captured by enemies and returned to his old mother for safe keeping. She recognizes him and all is happy afterwards. It is a most interesting and very pathetic story.

"The Wages of Sin"

This is a most powerful Drama depicting the heart-breaking results to the mother who failed to do everything that was right, and the terrible punishment handed down to her in the death of her only child. It is a most pathetic picture and the little child will appeal to all.

Medical Testimony As To The Death Of Arthur Bollard Says Injuries Were Contributory To The Result

Drs. Scott and Greer Were Most Important Witnesses at Yesterday's Session of the Inquest—Death was due They Testified to Gaste-Enteritis With Septic Poisoning.

BLAKE CULLEN'S EVIDENCE

Friend of Jopling's who was a Witness of the Affair Tells What he saw on the Night of the Trouble—Inquest has Been Adjourned Until Monday, Sept. 13.

The death of Arthur Bollard was caused by gastro enteritis with septic infection, to which the injuries he received in the fight that took place at Chemong a week ago Monday night, were contributory.

That statement from Drs. Scott and Greer, who performed the autopay on the body of the deceased was the significant part of the medical testimony which was the feature of the third session of the coroner's inquest held yesterday afternoon.

The attendance as on the previous night was large, although there was not the some proportion of Bridgenorth people.

Harry Jopling was in the court room and occupied a seat near Mr. D. O'Connell, who is acting for the Joplings during the investigation.

Herbert Marks, Bollard's friend, who was with him on the night of the trouble was also present.

Several young ladies were in the room at the beginning of the session, but retired a short time afterwards at the request of Crown Attorney Wood.

The witnesses examined at yesterday's session were Miss Ada Minns, who was with Bollard and Marks on the night of the mix-up, Blake Cullen, a Bridgenorth friend of the Joplings, Gordon Long, an eye witness of the fight, Miss Muriel Burritt, who told of a conversation she had with Bollard on the night following the altercation, David Tully, who described the wrestling match between the two and Drs. Scott and Greer, who gave and explained the autopsy findings.

The session lasted three hours and one-half, adjournment coming at 5:30 o'clock at the conclusion of the medical testimony.

The next session will be held on Monday evening, September 13, in the county court room, being adjourned until the time to allow Fred Jopling, one of the central figures in the affair, who is at present in the hospital with blood poisoning, to have an opportunity to testify. His evidence will or should be very important and the authorities are anxious to give him a chance to explain the affair.

Miss Minn's Testimony.

Miss Ada Minns was the first witnes called at the third session. She testified that she spent the summers at Chemong Park the guest of her uncle, Mr. Hopwood.

She was at the dance in the pavilion a week ago Monday night and started home at 10 o'clock in company with Mr. Marks. Mr. Bollard was outside and they had asked him if he was coming home and Bollard had replied in the affirmative and they started off together. When they had reached Mr. Wolfe's cottage witness heard some one running down the hill towards them and heard Harry Jopling say, "Here he is." She turned around and saw Bollard, Harry Jopling and some one else she didn't know. The rest were following in a crowd. Bollard replied, "Yes, here I am," and witness saw them go together. She called to Harry Jopling to stop, but he paid no attention to her.

She did not know whether blows were struck or not. She then recognized Fred Jopling and asked him to stop, but he did not pay any attention either. Witness was a little distance away, but it looked as if they were fighting. Fred Jopling had been into the mixup when she spoke to him and he couldn't help hearing her as she was only 10 to 12 feet from him. After the fight had continued for a couple of minutes Mr. Hartshorn came down "reluctantly," the witness said. She did not see him running. Witness did not know whether there was anyone on the ground or not. Witness asked Mr. Hartshorn to make them stop and he replied, "Be quiet, I will see to it." The fighting hadn't stopped then.

Heard the Outcry.

Witness had heard an outcry from Arthur Bollard, who cried: "Let go!" three times, and "Dirty!" twice. She did not hear Harry Jopling cry out. Bollard did not say anything more then that she heard.

She had not seen Fred Jopling do anything to Bollard. Harry and his friend came down the hill first and the rest were about ten feet behind. Witness repeated that she had no idea as to who the friend with Harry Jopling was. She would say that he was about the same size as Harry. The others were bigger. She did not hear any one say that the first hold was not fair.

Blake Cullen Heard.

Blake Cullen was the next witness. He testified that he lived at Bridgenorth, and was at home on Monday night, a week ago. He went up to the park between 9 and 9.30 o'clock on that night. He generally spent the evenings there. No one sent for him or called him to go up. He did not tell Miss Minns that they sent for him, but told her that he had been told that Bollard was going to give Harry Jopling a thrashing. Miss Pearl Jopling, Harry's sister, had told witness that. Cullen stated that he didn't know how long he had been in the park before the lights in the pavilion went out.

He explained that he had apologised to Miss Minns because he did not want her to have the impression that he had been there urging the thing on.

Witness was on the hotel verandah when the lights went out. Harry Jopling was over at the swings and Fred was with the witness. They were not waiting for Bollard. Witness saw the deceased start out with Mr. Marks and Miss Minns. He stated that he did not follow Bollard, but went down the road after he did, when he heard the yelling. He saw Harry and Fred Jopling start down after the Bollard party, about fifty yards behind them, he thought. He saw them run and walked down after them until he heard the yelling, and then he, too, commenced to run.

To See What Was Up.

"What were you going there for?" asked Mr. Wood.

"I was going to see what was up," replied the witness.

Continuing, he stated that when he was twenty-five yards away from the group Harry Jopling said that he was choking. When he got there Bollard had Harry down, and Fred Jopling was asking him to let his brother up. Fred had his hand on Bollard's shoulder.

Did you go home with any young ladies that night?" the witness was asked.

"I did not," he replied. "There were some ladies there that I intended to go home with, and I started down with them. When I heard the yelling I excused myself and ran down to the spot. They went on home to Seidenberg's cottage, where they lived. They had not to pass the spot where the fight was."

Going back to the story of the mix-up witness said that when Fred took Bollard by the shoulder the latter got up and Jopling told him that that was only a bit of a kid that he was fighting with, and that he was there on behalf of his brother. Bollard had said "all right," and Fred Jopling said, "Are you ready?" Bollard replied that he was.

Witness stated that they grabbed each other at once. Bollard, he thought, made for Fred first. It was not a stand-up fight. Witness could not say how Jopling caught Bollard, or what hold Bollard had on him. They tussled for a while and finally Bollard was thrown. Witness stated that he could not tell by what part of the body Jopling had caught Bollard. It seemed to him that they had caught side holds. Jopling threw Bollard and fell on top of him. Jopling hit his opponent once, just where witness could not say.

Pushed Marks Away.

"Who pushed Marks away?" the Crown Attorney asked.

"I did," Cullen admitted.

"What was your reason for that?" was the next question.

"He was going in to assist Bollard," witness replied, "and I stopped him. I told him it was man for man, and there was no use of getting into it."

JEWISH MARRIAGE PERFORMED AMID GREAT REJOICING

First Event of its Kind in This City Last Evening—Wedding of Miss M. Florence and Mr. Fine of Belleville—Ceremony Performed by Rabbi Berkowitz of Toronto.

MANY GUESTS PRESENT

A ceremony of rare occurrence in Peterborough, in fact, the first of its kind in this city, took place last evening shortly after six o'clock at 267 Simcoe street, the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Florence. It was a Jewish marriage celebrated with all the formalities befitting such a festive occasion, when Miss Minnie Florence became the bride of Mr. Fine, of Belleville. Great preparations had been made for the event and the first one of its kind will long be remembered by the Jewish section of Peterborough. Guests were here from many outside points and presents both rich and useful were given the bride and groom.

The Ceremony

Preceding the time appointed for the marriage to take place, according to Jewish custom, the intending young parties must fast twenty-four hours. The ceremony which is as old as tradition itself, was performed last evening shortly after six o'clock by Rabbi Berkowitz, of the Jewish Synagogue, Toronto. Attended with music which consisted of Handel's Largo and Mendelssohn's wedding march played by Halpany's orchestra under the leadership of Mr. Jos. Halpany, the bridal party entered the drawing room and took their place beneath a red canopy. The bride's attendants, which in a Jewish wedding, are always older persons, were Mr. and Mrs. B. Lastar, of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. Bube, of Kingston. The bride, with her attendants walk three times around the bridegroom and then, when the bridegroom meets his bride 'neath the canopy, he first draws the veil over her face and the ceremony is proceeded with. The Rabbi, in his long black coat and silk hat, prays while the guests stand, the men with their hats on their heads, and each one with a lighted candle in his or her hand. Before the marriage is concluded the bride and groom both shed tears, a custom that is carried out when the parents of either are dead. In this case the groom's father and mother have both passed away. The last act of this most interesting ceremony was the drinking of wine by the contracting parties and the breaking of the glasses. This is done in commemoration of the destruction of the Jewish Temple.

The Festivities

The bride and groom after receiving the congratulations of their friends sat down with about fifty guests to a sumptuous wedding repast. The bride, in her pretty wedding dress of white messaline silk and bridal veil and wreath of lilies of the valley looked very beautiful. During the supper excellent music was furnished and following it dancing was indulged in.

Among the guests from out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. Bube and two children, of Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. Locke, Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. Oliver, of Lindsay, and Dr. Kramer, of New York City. Over twenty telegrams were read from persons regretting their inability to be present and extending best wishes and congratulations to the bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Fine left this morning for Belleville, where they will in future reside.

BAD BLAZE TO-DAY IN PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS

Total Damage Will Amount to Over Half a Million—Many Valuable Documents and Records Destroyed Which Cannot be Replaced—West Wing of the Building Was Destroyed.

Special to The Examiner.

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 1—The west wing of the Ontario parliament buildings tok fire, shortly after one o'clock this afternoon, and before a few minutes had elapsed the roof fell in. The fire is still raging. No cause has been as yet discovered.

Later.

At 3 o'clock the fire seems to be under control, but the law clerks department, the library, the archives department, and other offices in the west wings are almost wholly destroyed. The property loss will be heavy, but the real loss will be to documents and records, which cannot be replaced.

A rough estimate of the losses to the building is $350,000, to the library $225,000, but the other losses cannot be estimated as yet. The buildings are, of course, well insured.

Premier With Fire Fighters

The fire started in the upper story of the west wing and spread rapidly. At 1:45 the entire building was thought to be doomed. The library has been badly damaged, but all the pictures that hang in the corridors have bene carried out. Sir James Whitney is in fore-front of the fire fighters and from the immense crowds that watch the progress of the fire from Queens Park and adjacent streets come an unlimted number of men who are helping to carry valuables to places of safety. At 1:25 part of the roof fell in with a crash, leaving exposed the structural steel works. One of the towers fell on the roof of the main building.

A DISASTROUS FIRE

A brief despatch announcing the destruction by fire of the west wing of the Parliament Buildings, Toronto, means a double loss. While the material loss is heavy, the loss of the public documnets and records is an unremedable calamity. Stone and mortar can easily be replaced and the loss be somewhat lessened by realizing upon insurance; but no money can repair the loss of documents and records, that have not been, and cannot now, be duplicated.

THE IMPERIAL "CRISIS"

As a fighting navalist Lord Charles Beresford can easily justify a claim to speak with authority; but as a politician, he is perhaps no more an authority than many others who have made imperial naval matters, in their broader aspects, a particular study. In his address at the opening of the National Exhibition, Toronto, yesterday, he advanced several self-evidently justified propositions. It goes without saying that "complete supremacy on the seas" is a condition of the integrity of the Empire, that "the Canadian nation will fight to keep itself in the Empire," and so on with many other statements, which speaking with all due respect, are patriotic platitudes. The declaration of Sir Charles that "we have arrived at a crisis in the history of our Empire," is something that might have been said and has in fact been said in similar terms at many times in the history of Great Britain for the past thousand years — when "the clouds that lowered upon our house" were as dark as those that overshadow us now. John Bull has been a perpetual pessimist, an amiable pessimist, no doubt, but nevertheless living in the widst of alarms, at the same time going serenely on his sturdy way, breathing defiance to all menace or opposition that appeared or found effect, and, so far, coming out safe and supreme. Sir Charles' statement that our supremacy at sea has been threatened is the recrudescence of an historical fact affording illustration of the truth of the proverb that threatened folk live long. Queen Elizabeth refused to believe in the threats of Philip, of Spain, to invade England and refused money to make her fleet effective, a parsimony remedied by the patriotic spirit of private citizens. Never before or since did the outlook seem so dark. But indomitable British pluck prevailed; and the splendid vaunt of the great sea captains, who were playing the game of bowls at Portsmouth, when the Spanish Armada was sighted in the offing, was splendidly justified—"We'll finish the game and then go and lick 'em.' In the time of Charles II. the navy was in a low state, the fleet was "rotten," the money devoted to it being wasted in "graft." Later, on as late as George III., the navy was so badly managed as to provoke the mutiny of the Nore. Britain was singularly unprepared for the Crimean war, as well as the Inidan Mutiny, and the South African war found her again unprepared, but, as in the past undaunted and as in the past, triumphant, in spite of the threatened disaster that marked the progress of three centuries. And it will be the same now. We have learned lessons of the past, and the Mother Land and the colonies are uniting to complete the defence of the interests of the Empire, to make it one and to retain it as it has been for ages, the dominant influence in the world's civilization, in human enlightenment and enfranchisement. Sir Charles is justified in declaring that "the time for action has arrived." The action has begun and though its character may not meet the views of extremists, yet it promises to be effective. It may seem fanciful, but it seems fair to assume that Divine Providence in on our side. That Great Britain—a mere speak upon the world's map should have gained and held so predominant a position is not due to "big battalions," but to the righteousness of the principles she has stood for and still stands for. With this force behind us, conjoined with the movements of Imperial solidification now in progress, we can adopt the Shakesperean vaunt—"Come the three-quarters of the world in arms, we'll shock 'em nought shall make us rue if England to herself do prove but true." The heart of the Empire is sound. We are all of one accord, and with the Divine blessing we shall not fail in the present "crisis," any more than we have done in the past.

CANADIAN MEAT INSPECTION

The Meat Inspection Service of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa is carried on under the authority of the Meat and Canned Foods Act, a measure which received the Royal Assent at the prorogation of Parliament in June 1907, and came into operation on September 3rd of that year.

Present-day sentiment in Europe and elsewhere, especially since the recent revelations in Chicago, is arrayed very strongly against the use, as human food, of any meats save those duly inspected and certified by proper governmental authority.

It was in conformity with this sentiment, and chiefly with the object of preserving our valuable export trade in bacon and similar products, that the Meat and Canned Foods Act was passed.

With the view of clearing up any misunderstanding which may exist in the public mind as to the exact nature of the legislation under which the present Meat Inspection Service is conducted, the following explanation is given:

Before the Meat and Canned Goods Act was introduced in the House of Commons by the Honorable Sydney Fisher, the Minister of Justice was asked for an opinion as to the powers of the Federal Government with reference to Meat Inspection.

His reply was that while these powers undoubtedly warranted the Federal Government in undertaking the inspection of articles exported from the Dominion or from one province to another, there was very grave doubt as to whether they would permit of a similar inspection of articles, the trade in which was confined within the boundaries of any one province.

This limitation was especially applicable to meat inspection, a subject intimately associated with public health, one of the matters which, since 1872, has been dealt with altogether by the Provincial authorities.

Provision is made either by the Municipal Act or by the Public Health Act of each province, and in some cases by both, for the establishment and carrying on of municipal meat inspection, and that this legislation has, up till now, in too many cases, remained a dead letter, or at best, been very ineffectively enforced, is no fault of the Federal authorities.

Further, a little consideration will, I think, demonstrate the utter impossibility of any Federal Department undertaking the supervision, in all its ramifications, of the local meat trade, in every town and village throughout the Dominion.

On the other hand, under the provincial laws above mentioned, it is quite possible for municipalities to organize, at but little cost, a thoroughly effective system of local meat inspection, the machinery being, in many cases, already provided, and the additional expenditure, therefore, comparatively small.

The awakening of the public conscience on the meat inspection question might reasonably be expected as a result of the adoption, by the Federal Government, of a policy of inspection of meats for export and interprovincial trade, and the agitation now making itself felt in many of the larger centres of population throughout the country is therefore not surprising.

I am satisfied that once the Canadian public has become seized of the situation they will insist upon the adoption, by the various municipal authorities throughout the country, of a much more thorough system of dealing with butchers and the meat trade generally than has hitherto been tolerated.

It does not appear to me that there is any need for or likelihood of conflict. We are setting a fairly high standard, and all that is required is for the municipal authorities to adopt, under the legislation now existing, regulations somewhat similar to ours, with the view of rendering unmarketable, diseased or otherwise unsound meats, which, under present conditions, cannot enter establishments engaged in export or interprovincial trade.

The first and most important step in this direction will, it is needless to say, be the providing of public municipal abattoirs, to be conducted under inspection methods similar to those required by the Meat and Canned Foods Act, especially as regards the admission either of live animals or their carcases.

The sooner the private slaughter house is abolished altogether, the better for all concerned, as most of the objectionable meats placed on the market emanate from these undesirable and unsanitary places.

The trade in home-killed dressed carcases will also, for similar reasons, gradually be wiped out of existence, and although the abolition of this form of meat disposal will probably cause some temporary dissatisfaction among farmers, matters will soon adjust themselves and the profits to the producer will be in no way lessened, although the livers and other offal hitherto utilized by the household will be no longer available.

The municipal abattoir is a modern necessity and must come.

There are many among us, not yet old, who can well recollect when the number of hospitals in Canada could almost be counted on the fingers, and when a proposal to erect an institution of this kind in a small town was looked upon as indicating a mild form of insanity. How many of the communities now possessing modern and up-to-date hospitals would be satisfied to do without them?

The same will be found true of the abattoir, and if no other argument could be advanced in favour of the Meat and Canned Foods Act than the fact that it has aroused and is arousing public opinion on the great and important question of a sanitary meat supply, this would, in my opinion, fully justify its being placed on the statute books.

The following establishments, which are engaged in export or interprovincial trade, are operated under the provisions of the Meat and Canned Foods Act, and all meats and meat food products from such establishments have undergone a careful and thorough inspection at the hands of the officers of this Branch of the Department of Agriculture, and are marked with the Crown and the words "Canada Approved," together with the establishment number:

There are at present employed in these establishments sixty-eight veterinary inspectors, all of whom have received a special training in meat inspection, and have passed a searching examination as to their qualifications.

There are also eleven lay inspectors, whose duties comprise the supervision of the marking and shipment of goods.

The inspection conducted in each of these establishments is as follows:

All animals for slaughter are examined by a veterinary inspector on the premises before they are allowed to enter the killing floor. All animals found to be diseased, or showing suspicious symptoms of any kind, are tagged and held back until the end of the day's kill, when they are slaughtered separately.

The inspector makes a thorough examination of the carcases, and of all organs of every animal as it is killed. If these are found healthy, they are stamped with the Inspection Legend, the Crown, and the words "Canada Approved", as also the establishment number.

Any meats found, in whole or in part, to be diseased, or from other causes unfit for food, are immediately marked with a "condemned" tag.

Any carcase, in regard to the condition of which there is cause for doubt, is marked "Held," and set apart for further examination, at the conclusion of which the inspector decides as to its disposition.

Condemned corcases and organs, as also any meats which are at any time found to have undergone such deterioration as to unfit them for human food, are tanked with the non-edible products, under the personal supervision of an inspector.

A summary of the reports of condemnation made by our inspectors during the last fiscal year, shows a total of 9,308 carcases, 280,591 portions, as also 353,212 pounds of meat, condemned as unfit for human food. This should demonstrate effectually the necessity which actually exists for a thorough system of meat inspection.

When it is remembered that these establishments under inspection handle only animals of the best class procurable, the conditions which exist in the ordinary private slaughter house, conducted without inspection or official supervision of any kind, may readily be imagined.

Boards of Health and municipal authorities have been too long neglectful of the necessity for intelligent action in the matter of meat inspection.

It is the duty of every man to see that his family, as well as himself, does not eat diseased or unwholesome meat. In places where establishments under Federal inspection do not exist, safety in this regard can be secured only by the establishment of a municipal abattoir, conducted under the constant supervision of a skilled professional inspector.

Veterinary Director General and Live Stock Commissioner.

HOW AMERICANS VIEW THE EXODUS

(Rochester Post Express.)

Statistics continue to show an increase of immigration from this country into Canada. Certain press commentators seem to find occasion for concern in this fact. This does not seem reasonable. The movement of American farmers into Canada is due to the desire to secure the advantage of cheap and fertile wheat lands in the western part of the Dominion. Every intelligent American will agree that it is desirable that these lands should be made productive. Since settlement is necessary, it is surely an earnest of future friendly relations with our northern neighbour that communities of American farmers should transform the western wilderness into a prosperous province. Canada will gain by the movement, of course, but we need not begrudge her this. Without any disloyalty toward the government of their new homes, it is safe to say that a strong sympathy will always be directed toward this country by the emigrants who are moving over the international boundary.

A NEEDED REBUKE.

(Ottawa Free Press)

The London Times, which has been misled into the publication of a letter from a Toronto correspondent, whose identity is but poorly veiled, attacking the attitude of the French-Canadians towards the issue of defence has had its eyes opened by a vigorous protest by Mr. J. G. Colclough, who, as one born and bred in the province of Quebec and the son of a French-Canadian mother, writes as to the French-Canadian attitude towards the Empire. For one thing, he denies that it has been the policy of the Roman Catholic Church in Quebec to discourage instruction in English. The actual policy adopted, he says, has borne fruit in the fact that few French-Canadians in professional or commercial life cannot use the English language with more or less ease when occasion requires.

Quebec's attitude on the defence question, Mr. Colclough asserts, is exactly the same as that of the Canadian Government and House of Commons, recognising Canada's obligation to undertake expenditure for defence, but dissenting from the proposal to make a direct contribution to Great Britain for naval purposes. He quotes La Presse, of Montreal, the most influential paper in French-Canada, as endorsing the decision of the Ottawa Parliament. Mr. Colclough says that the people of Quebec have a quarrel not with the other provinces, but with certain circles, which, though unable to command a single vote in the House of Comons, attempt to manufacture opinion in favour of a direct contribution to the Imperial Navy. Finally, Mr. Colclough suggests that the Toronto correspondent "has been misled into taking the clamours of the Toronto variety of the 'three tailors of Tooley street' for the voice of Canada."

It is just as well that the Times should be informed of the circumstance, well known to every Canadian, that the jingoistic agitation over defence has been practically confined to Toronto and to a very few people in Toronto at that.

They Help Your Stomach Out

And Save You a World of Wretchedness

A stomach that cannot digest a good meal is certainly a sore trial. It has been responsible for almost everything in the way of human misery, up to suicide.

The trouble in most cases is that the stomach and other digestive organs lack vigor. Not enough of the juices necessary to digestion are secreted, nor does the stomach work up the food properly.

The worst of it is that there is not sufficient nourishment taken out of the food to restore the system's vigor, and the trouble goes from bad to worse. The stomach needs help.

"Little Digesters" meet the need exactly. One "Little Digester" after each meal will ensure perfect digestion, provided, of course, that the food is good and wholesome.

"Little Digesters" are guaranteed to cure Indigestion, and Dyspepsia, or your money will be refunded.

MEDICAL TESTIMONY AS TO THE DEATH OF ARTHUR BOLLARD

"Did you hear an outcry from Bollard?" witness was asked.

"I did," was the reply.

"Well, what did he say?" Mr. Wood wanted to know.

"Nothing that I heard," replied Cullen; "he just gave a holler."

"Did Bollard cry out 'Dirty! Dirty!'"

"Not to my knowledge."

Witness could not swear whether Mr. Hartshorn was there then or not. Mr. Hartshorn separated the contestants when he did arrive. When they got off the ground witness said they began talking to each other, and Marks said that Bollard could beat Jopling any way he wanted to take him, either wrestling or scrapping. The two shook hands and said they would have a friendly wrestle.

Complained of Unfairness.

"Did you hear any complaint about the unfairness in the first bout?" asked the Crown Attorney.

"Bollard complained of unfairness," replied the witness.

What were his exact words?

"He said he had not got a fair shake, that was all."

According to the witness, Bollard and Fred Jopling then had a friendly wrestle. He (witness) was there until they separated. When he went away Miss Minns and Marks were sitting on the grass and Bollard was lying on the grass. He had vomited before witness left. He said that he would be all right in a few minutes.

Asked by Mr. Wood if he worked for the Joplings, witness answered in the negative, although he admitted that he had been with them for a couple of days recently, and that he had worked for them up to two or three years ago.

Witness had not taken part in the dance, but was sitting on a bench at the refreshment booth outside the pavilion. While there he was talking to Miss Jopling's sister and to Fred and Harry. She had told witness of the trouble between Harry and Bollard. Witness repeated that he could not say how long he had been there before the lights in the pavilion were extinguished. It was not long, anyway. He had been up at the park frequently. Sometimes they stopped dancing at 9 o'clock, some times at 11, and other nights at 10 o'clock.

Didn't Know of Trouble Before.

"Did you know of the trouble before yu went to the pavilion?"

"I did not," replied Cullen.

"Did you tell Miss Minns that you were sent for to come up?"

"I don't think I told her that. Not to my knowledge did I say so."

To Mr. O'Connell witness repeated that it was between 9 and 9.30 o'clock that he had gone to the park. When he had the conversation with Miss Jopling, in which she had told him that there was a fellow there that was going to thrash her brother Harry, Bollard was around the corner of the booth, sitting on a bench. Their conversation was carried on four or five feet from Bollard. Witness stated that he had not received any information from Harry about the matter.

"I overheard a conversation," continued Cullen, in which Bollard said that he was going to give Harry a thrashing next day. I told Fred Jopling about it. Fred was over in the hotel talking to Mr. Brown when I told him. This was between 9.45 and 10 o'clock, I think."

Witness told of Fred Jopling going out to his brother and the two going down the park. Witness started after, including Pete Gravelle and them and several other boys came Chas. Forsythe. They did not go down with witness or with Jopling. Their going down was not the result of any pre-arranged agreement, but was prompted by curiosity. Witness stated that there was no arrangement to take part in the fight. It was not his intention in going down, nor was it the intention of the other boys. No one interfered in the first fight or in the subsequent wrestling.

"Take the Bull by the Horns."

To Mr. Wood again, witness stated that when he told Fred that Bollard was going to thrash his brother he asked what it was about. He did not, according to the witness, say that he was going to take the bull by the horns, and get the start and thrash Bollard first, nor did he say that he was going to collect the boys and go down. He took Harry down to see what Bollard was going to give him a thrashing for. Bollard had passed down before Fred had seen Harry. Witness heard Harry tell Fred about it, and Fred had said "We'll go down and see what he is going to do it for." As far as witness knew, Fred was going down to ask Bollard a civil question.

Did Not Know the Boys.

Taken back to the story of overhearing the conversation in which Bollard took part, Cullen could not state who the other boys were, although repeatedly asked by both the Coroner and Crown Attorney to name them. He stated that there was no lady there, but that there were four or five boys. Who they where he did not know. He thought Charlie Forsythe was there, but he would not be sure about that, and he did not know any of the others. They might have been park people, he said. Anyway he did not know who Bollard was making his statement to.

To Mr. O'Connell witness said that he knew a few people in the park, but there were many that he did not know. He had not seen either Bollard or Marks before that night. Many people who were there that night were strangers to him. Of the twenty or twenty-five people dancing he probably knew half a dozen and the rest were unknown to him. When Miss Jopling told him of the trouble between Harry and Bollard she had whispered it to him.

To the Coroner Cullen said that he would not be certain what time it was when he told Fred Jopling of the conversation that had occurred.

Miss Minns Recalled.

Miss Minns was recalled and asked again about the conversation she had had with Blake Cullen in reference to the matter. She stated again that Cullen had come to their cottage and had asked for an order for meat and groceries. He had then asked to see her and when she went out Cullen said that he was very sorry it had occurred and that he was in it.

"He told me," continued the witness, "that he didn't know anything about it when became up to the park, that Harry Jopling had sent for him, and that he didn't know what it was for until he got there. He said he did not know what he would do if his people heard of it. There is no doubt about his saying that Harry had sent for him. He did not say where he was when he got the message or who the messenger was."

Gordon Long's Evidence.

Gordon Long, the next witness, testified that his father, James Long, had a cottage at Chemong Park. Witness was at the hotel the night of the trouble. He saw Arthur Bollard start home with Miss Minns and Mr. Marks. They walked down the road, about thirty feet ahead of the witness. When he (witness) was in front of Wolfe's cottage two fellows ran past him and he hurried up after them.

When he got there Harry Jopling and Bollard were down. Fred Jopling went to part them or to help his brother. He didn't know which. They then got up and Fred told Bollard that it was him he had to fight, not Harry. Witness could not remember the exact words used.

Bollard and Fred clinched and wrestled across the road, and witness could not see exactly what took place then. They were both down on the ground. He heard Bollard yell, "Let go!" three times, and then "dirty!" twice.

Mr. Hartshorn came along to straighten things up. The boys shook hands and Fred proposed a friendly wrestle. After this was over Fred and the rest went home. Bollard was sick and vomited. Witness and Marks helped him part of the way home, and then Victor Tully came along and the three carried Bollard the rest of the way home.

Saw Him Strike Bollard.

"Did you see Fred strike Bollard?" asked Mr. Wood.

"I saw him strike Bollard once after he was down. This was after he had yelled "dirty." They both had holds on each other. Bollard let go and lay over, and then Fred struck him, I don't know where.

"Did you hear Bollard complain about an unfair hold?"

"I think Bollard mentioned something about a dirty trick just after the boys had gone. He said he was grabbed in a foul manner."

To Mr. O'Connell witness said that he did not see much of the wrestling as he was standing some distance away. He had moved on because he did not want to get mixed up in the affair. Both seemed anxious to get into a wrestle to see who was the best man. Witness did not see who had won the bouts.

Bollard did not seem to bear ill will against Jopling and they seemed to be friendly in their discussion about the wrestling match. They did not talk in afighting spirit.

It had been a severe struggle up to the time that Mr. Hartshorn came. As far as strength went the two were about evenly matched and it was an evenly-balanced fight.

Miss Burritt Testifies.

Miss Muriel Burritt was next called to the stand.

"I had a conversation with Arthur Bollard on Tuesday night, the night after the fight," she said. "He told me that it was an unfair fight; that they had bitten his finger and his arm, and had done a dreadful thing to him. He said he was feeling stiff and sore, and that it was a hard job to keep a straight face at home.

"Did he say anything of his suffering?"

"No, he did not."

To Mr. O'Connell the witness stated that the conversation in question took place at a corn roast on the shore at Chemong. Other members of the party were standing or sitting around.

Did you see him next evening?

"Yes."

"Was he dancing?"

"He was dancing".

"Did you dance with him?"

"I did".

"How did he seem then?"

"He seemed well enough."

"Did you think then or on Tuesday night that he was going to die?"

"No, I did not".

"Did he say who the boys were?" asked Mr. Wood.

"He said he did not know any of them, except the two Joplings," replied the witness.

Another Witness of Wrestling.

David Tully, a middle-aged man who is employed at the Park by Mr. Popham, was next called.

"I was walking down from the pavilion and I saw Harry Jopling and Bollard wrangling, and Mr. Hartshorn was trying to make peace between them. They shook hands and afterwards Fred Jopling and Bollard had a friendly wrestle. They took holds and wrestled, and Jopling threw Bollard. The second time they took holds Bollard threw Jopling.

"Did you hear anything said?"

"After the second fall Mr. Bollard said: 'Fred you pinched me pretty hard'".

When you arrived was there any one on the ground or in holds?"

"No."

"Did you see the contest before the wrestling?"

"No, I did not."

Witness said that he saw blood on Bollard's chin.

"Did you see Bollard afterwards?"

"I saw him next day in his boat."

To Mr. O'Connell witness said the first fight was all over when he got there.

"Who proposed the wrestling match?"

"Fred did, but they both seemed satisfied".

Witness described the wrestling match for Mr. O'Connell. He said that when Jopling threw Bollard down and fell on top of him Bollard made a great effort to get up on top and nearly succeeded in doing so.

"They were two well-matched wrestlers?"

"Yes, and Mr. Bollard was the best of the two."

"It was an interesting match?"

"It was".

"Did Bollard say, 'Fred, you pinched me hard, or pitched me hard?'"

"I won't say positively whether he said pinched or pitched, but I think it was pinched".

Did Bollard complain of unfairness?"

"Not while I was there".

"Did you hear him say out?"

"I did not."

The Autopsy Report.

The report of the autopsy on the body of the late Arthur Bollard was next read by Dr. W. D. Scott, and was to the effect that there was a general discoloration of the body, except the scrotum, which was congested. There were also three small abrasions on the inner side of the right knee, and also on the index finger of the right hand. The brain and spinal cord were found normal as well as the lungs and heart. The stomach, and upper part of the small intestine was found congested, swollen, and containing a dark greyish fluid, which was quite offensive.

"In our opinion the direct or immediate cause of death was gastro-enteritis with septic infection?" was the statement concluding the report. It was signed by Drs. W. D. Scott and T. N. Greer, both of Peterborough.

In explaining the report Dr. Scott testified that anything that would result in debilitating the body or weakening it, or any shock to the system, or any over exhaustion of any kind would produce in the body a deteriorated condition that would leave it in a position more easily affected by any toxaemic condition. In making this statement witness said that he was guided by what he had learned had taken place.

"The shock received as it has been described to me would likely bring him very much below his ordinary condition. It would leave him liable to bacterial invasion. The shock to his system was contributory to his death.

"When I was at the house his mother told me he ate more heartily on Tuesday and Wednesday than usual.

"Do you think the shock to the system caused death?"

"It was contributory to his death."

The Causes of Death.

"What were the immediate causes of death?" asked Mr. O'Connell.

"The immediate cause of death was inflammation of the stomach and the small bowel, along with severe septic poisoning."

"Was your notice brought to an abrasion on the arm?"

"No."

"This inflammation of the organs might have come from numerous causes?"

"Yes; inflammation might come from numerous causes, and has, in other cases I have seen. Anything that irritated that part would cause inflammation.

"I take into consideration the history of the case, my experience in practice, and the post mortem findings in stating the cause of death.

"I include in the case what I have heard from other sources as well as what I have learned from observation," he concluded.

Dr. Greer's Testimony

Dr. T. N Greer, who assisted in the post mortem examination then took the stand.

"I was called to Bollard's house at ten o'clock Friday morning in consultation with Dr. Scott. When I got there he seemed to be suffering from intense septicaemia or blood poisoning, and was in a hopeless condition."

In reply to a question from Mr. Wood, Dr. Greer stated that he could easily understand Bollard's vomiting on the night of the fight if he had been hurt as described. It would be reflex vomiting caused by the intense pain and could be caused by pain in other parts of the body, injury to the knee cap sometimes producing that result.

"Could you trace the inflammation you have described directly to any injury?"

"I could not," replied the witness. "As a rule gastro enteritis is not fatal," said Dr. Greer.

"In this case it became fatal owing to the degree of septic absorption. I think it probable that his injuries so lowered the vitality of his organs as to lessen his resisting powers against the action of poison-producing germs, and in that way indirectly contributed to the fatal termination."

Direct Cause of Death

"What was the direct cause of death?" asked Mr. OConnell in cross-examination.

"Inflammation of the upper bowel and the stomach,'" replied the witness.

"Can you state positively what caused that condition?"

"I cannot say positively."

"Was it the direct result of any injury to the body?"

"I would not say that it was."

"The opinion that you gave was based on what you had been told of the facts in the case? They would account for the condition described?"

"Yes."

"That is only one of a number of theories that might be formed that would account for the condition?"

"Yes."

Septic poisoning was brought into effect in this case ,the witness said, because the body had been weakened interfering with the normal functions.

"Would over exertion produce that effect?"

"Endue exertion might be one factor in pre-disposing the cause for this septic condition."

"If he had over exerted himself could it have reduced the body to the condition you speak of without any other cause?"

"It could produce that condition."

To Mr. Wood the witness said that the post mortem showed the injury to the lower part of the body to be fairly recent. The date of the post mortem would correspond to its appearance.

To Mr. O'Connell witness explained that it showed no evidence of having received a severe injury, but that it was inflamed indicating considerable bruising or pinching. This condition could not have been produced by a slight force, the witness stated.

"Is it possible that a mere injury of this kind in itself would have caused the pre-disposition of the body to the septic condition that you speak of?"

"It is possible."

"If he had eaten some corn at a corn roast on Tuesday, the night following the fight, would it have been a factor in causing this condition?"

"It might have produced indigestion, might have been one of the factors in the condition described."

The inquest was then adjourned until Monday, September 13, at 8 o'clock p.m.

CAT TRIES TO HATCH EGGS

Shelbyville, Ind.—A rooster, owned by Mrs. John Leach, drove a sitting hen from her nest and tried the job himself. A cat ousted the rooster and is now taking the hen's place on the eggs.

The substitution of the rooster for the hen, and cat for rooster, will probably not affect the eggs.

Substitution, however, is dangerous where our health is concerned. There can be no excuse for a dealer offering something which is said to be "just as good" when "Fruit-a-tives" are asked for.

"Fruit-a-tives" have proved their great value in all cases of Indigestion and Dyspepsia, Constipation and Biliousness, and in troubles arising from disorders of the Liver, Bowels, Kidneys and skin.

They are the only remedy made of ripe fruit juices, and they tone up Liver and Kidneys, and regulate the Bowels, effect more effectively than fruit itself. Thousands swear by them.

"Fruit-a-tives" are sold at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size, 25c.—At dealers, or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

AFTER A PARK FOR THE EASTERN WARD

Ald. Morgan Makes a Suggestion Re Disposal of old Armouries Site.

Alderman Morgan broached a suggestion at the Property Committee meeting last night that the old armouries in East City be removed and the lot turned into a park, or resting place. He understood that the hall was vacated or would soon be and considered that it was only an eyesore and should be removed. His idea was that it be converted into a resting place where persons going to the Lift Lock might sit down for a while. Chairman Bradburn promised to look into the matter.

EXPRESS THANKS TO MR. KENDRY

MRS. HARRY BALL HAS GONE TO NEW YORK

Mrs. Harry Ball, whose husband mysteriously disappeared a month ago, left on the C.P.R. train yesterday morning for New York, her former home. A man hunted around the city last night looking for the deputy sheriff to prevent her from going away as he stated that he had been "done" on the purchase of a sewing machine. She promised to send him some tools which went with the machine, but which she said she had expressed to New York. He did not care to trust her and wanted to get three dollars instead of them.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE MRS. WINCH

The funeral of the late Mrs. R. J. Winch, who passed away on Saturday morning, took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, from the family residence, 296 Stewart street, to the Little Lake cemetery. It was largely attended, many persons turning out to pay their last token of respect to the memory of the deceased. The floral tributes were also very numerous and beautiful. Rev. G. W. Henderson, pastor of Charlotte Street Methodist church, conducted the service at the house, and at the grave. The pallbearers were Mayor Rush, and Messrs. D. W. Dumble, B. F. Ackerman, H. Best, George Webber, and Jos. Batten.

MATE OF THE "RAINBOW" TELLS OF YESTERDAY'S COLLISION

Some of the Reports as to the Serious Mishap Were Greatly Exaggerated.

NO ONE WAS TO BLAME

The collision of the steamer Otonabee with the Rainbow yesterday gave rise to many extravagant and mistaken rumours. All these disappear in the light of the statement of Mr. J. D. Simpson, mate of the Rainbow.

The accident was due to pure mishap and no blame is attached to the management of either steamer.

Below Hale's Bridge the river takes a sharp turn to the east, forming a point covered with a dense growth of trees. This shuts out a view of the bridge before the bend, and also deadens the sound of the whistle of a steamer approaching the bridge from around the bend, as the Rainbow was doing. It appears that neither steamer knew of the other's proximity, so that when the Otonabee, going south, began to round the turn, she came into collision with the Rainbow, rounding the turn going west. The Otonabee seemed not to have gained much headway for the Rainbow, which was struck on the larboard quarter, was not seriously injured, the planking above the water line being torn off for about fifteen feet. Not a teacupful of water was shipped and there was no panic amongst the passengers on either steamer.

The Rainbow was going at a moderate speed and the breaking of the rudder chain on the port side with the engines still running, caused her to go ashore, but so slightly was she grounded that her own crew, without assistance, was able to get her off, and she came to the city last night.

Messrs. Hickey & Co. are at work on repairs to the Rainbow, which is expected to be in running order by this evening.

Mr. Cook Bought Heavily Of Cheese When Ruffled To-day

11½ Cents the Predominating Price at Regular Meeting of Cheese Board—Fairly Large Number Offered — Adjournment Until September 18th.

MR. COUGHLIN PRESIDED

The regular meeting of the Cheese Board, held this morning, was a little brisker than usual, owing to several incidental happenings that occurred. Mr. Coughlin of Hastings, was back to the chair after a holiday into the Eastern States. He announced that a little difficulty between the Cavanville and Fraserville factories and Mr. W. S. Cook had been amicably settled. There was a difference of one pound in almost every box of cheese from these factories at the last sale. They were weighed at Millbrook but Mr. Cook weighed them at Belleville the next morning, and found a shortage. He held that only the weights taken at Belleville, the point of delivery should be accepted. Both factories refused to sell to him today.

Mr. Cook secured first choice and selected only three factories. He was told that he did not have 500 boxes, and circule requires that he must. He named several others and continued until he had a long list of factories chosen. There were objections from buyers Weir and Watkin. They said that he had given up his selections, and could only name enough to give him 500. "You made me go on," he replied," and now I'm going to go some."

The Boarding.

The factories registered the following number of boxes:

| | |
|---|---|
| Keene | 140 |
| Warminster | 115 |
| Shearer | 165 |
| Central Smith | 184 |
| Selwyn | 160 |
| Villiers | 92 |
| Warsaw | 175 |
| Westwood | 185 |
| Oakdale | 190 |
| Daisy D. | 73 |
| Lakefield | 123 |
| Pine Grove | 100 |
| King Edward | 120 |
| Maple Leaf | 115 |
| Myrtle | 130 |
| Ormonde | 150 |
| Young's Point | 98 |
| Lang | 150 |
| Fraserville | 102 |
| Indian River | 90 |
| North Dummer | 58 |
| East Emily | 115 |
| Trewern | 130 |
| Bensfort | 136 |
| Cedardale | 80 |
| Stony Lake | 30 |
| Cavanville | 100 |
| Crown | |
| Norwood | 100 |
| Fleetwood | 160 |
| Oak Leaf | |
| Shamrock | 100 |
| Killarney | 145 |
| Total | 3,728 |

The bidding was opened by Mr. Cook, at 11 cents. Mr. Watkin raised it immediately to 11 7-16 cents. Mr. Cook made it 11 1-2 cents, and secured first choice. He called Shearer, Westwood, Villiers, Indian River, Killarney, Norwood, Oakdale, Warminster, Daisy D., Selwyn, Warsaw, Pine Grove, Ormonde.

Mr. Weir, at 11 7-8 cents, had second selection, and called Keene, Central Smith, Lang, Cedardale, Lakefield, Myrtle, King Edward, North Dummer.

Mr. Gillespie offered 11 7-16 for further selections. Mr. Cook made it 11 1-2 cents, and called Maple Leaf, Trewern, Young's Point.

Mr. Fitzgerald took the balance of the Board at 11 7-16 cents. The remaining factories were East Emily, Bensfort, Fleetwood, Cavanville, Fraserville, Shammok, and Stony Lake.

On motion it was decided to adjourn until Saturday, September 18th, the last day of the Peterborough Fair.

PROPERTY COMMITTEE APPROVES OF THE NEW HOSPITAL PLANS

The plans of the Isolation Hospital were approved by the Property Committee last night and the Council will be asked on Tuesday night to authorize the committee to have specifications prepared. Alderman Bradburn in the chair, Aldermen Morgan, Duncan, McIntyre, Mayor Rush, Dr. McPherson and Mr. Blackwell were present.

A letter was read from John Johnston asking for the privilege of piling wood on vacant city property at the foot of Charlotte street near the river. Moved by Alderman Duncan, seconded by Alderman McIntyre that he be given the privilege at a rental of three dollars per month, a limit to be placed upon the lot.

The plans of teh Isolation Hospital were discussed. Alderman Bradburn stated that the cost of the building would be about $12,000. Dr. McPherson stated that the equipment would cost between two and three thousand dollars and the total would be under $15,000. Alderman Duncan asked if $1,000 could not be clipped off in some way. Dr. McPherson in reply to the chairman stated that the cost of maintenance would be under $3,000 a year. The more the patients the less the cost per patient. During the discussion Alderman Bradburn said he was not relying much upon the amount to be received from pay patients.

"Well then you may practically call this a free hospital," Alderman Morgan stated. Dr. McPherson said there were many who would pay, and would be glad to, but there were others would not or could not pay. Scarlet fever rages to a greater extent among the poor than among the rich.

"Well then there's nothing too good for the poor," Alderman Morgan remarked. Mayor Rush did not think it wise to stint in the building as the city was growing and it was not advisable that an addition would have to be made in four or five years.

Moved by Alderman Duncan, seconded by Alderman Morgan, that the plans as submitted by Mr. Blackwell are approved by this committee. The motion recommended that the committee be authorized to have specifications prepared for the work

Three West End Boys May Become Aviators Some Day

Three young boys in the western part of the city, evidently stirred by the feats performed by Glen Curtiss, Latham, Paulham, Bleriot, and the other aviators in France, last week, are making strenuous efforts to emulate these record breaking flights. So far they have not succeded in getting into othe air, but they have devised a contrivance somewhat resembling an air ship, which has caused considerable interest on Homewood avenue. Gilmour street and other thoroughfares in that neighbourhood. The outfit consists of a light car equipped with steering apparatus and fitted out with a sail. When there is any wind blowing the contrivance is carried over the ground at a fair rate of speed and is easily handled by the young inventors. The public may next expect an announcement that the youths have succeeded in getting their vehicle to mount into the air. Anyway the boys are trying hard with that end in view.

PRINCE RUPERT PAPER

Brother of Local Newspaperman is Meeting With Success in the West.

The Star is in recipt of volume 1, number 1, of the "Prince Rupert," published by Mr. G. R. T. Sawle, a young newspaper man who has had considerable experience in Ontario journalism, during the last few years having published successfully a weekly paper in Welland and more recently in Prescott. For the present the publication is known merely as the "Prince Rupert," and a prize of a gold watch is offered to the person who will suggest a name which will appeal most favourably to the management. The announcement contains the prediction that in a few years the paper will be one of the biggest in Canada, and therefore it wants a good name. For its policy the paper announces that it will stand for the development of Northern British Columbia, the municipal ownership of public utilities, the incorporation of Prince Rupert with the power to issue one million dollars' worth of bonds for permanent improvements, and among other things the absolute prohibition of the sale of liquor. The paper is an eight-page weekly.—Toronto Star.

Mr. Saule is a brother of Mr. Chas. H. Sawle of the Peterborough Times.

An Interesting Exhibit at the Canadian National Exhibition—Products of an Infant Industry in Canada.

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 31st, 1909.

Notable among the exhibits in the Process Building is that of the Canadian Sheet Steel Corporation, Limited, whose mills are located at Morrisburg, Dundas County, Ontario, on the Grand Trunk, 241 miles from Toronto and 92 miles from Montreal. This exhibit shows not only the products in steel from 14 gauge to 32 gauge in thickness, both plain, polished, and coated with zinc and called galvanized, but also shows the steel in the various stages of manufacture from sheet bars to finished plates and sheets.

The exhibit is in charge of practical steel workers, who are thoroughly familiar with the machinery and methods employed in the industry, it being the purpose of the management in making the exhibit to have it educational, so that the Canadian public visiting the Exposition may acquire accurate information in relation to the process and cost of this sheet steel manufacture in Canada.

There is a large and constantly increasing demand for this class of material both in stove manufacture and building requirements, and the supply heretofore has been drawn largely from abroad although some of it has been shipped from the United States.

The Canadian Sheet Steel Corporation are the pioneer thin sheet Steel manufacturers in Canada, and it has required an abundant faith, on their part, in Canada and its future to induce them to make the large investments necessary for a plant of the size of the one at Morrisburg, especially in view of the fact that up to the present time there has been no tariff protection on that class of goods entering Canada.

Your correspondent was informed by the Company's representative that the labour cost alone to manufacture a ton of 30 gauge black steel plate in Canada was $7.80, while in Great Britain the cost was but $4.00 for the same labour, and in the Pittsburg district the cost was $8.40, and that at the present time the mills at Morrisburg were operating without any tariff protection against the cheap labour in Great Britain, where the cost in labour for rolling a ton of this material was only a little over half the cost in Canada.

To meet this present unsatisfactory competitive condition has been very difficult, as makers from abroad have used their advantage of low-priced labour in selling in the Canadian market at less than the cost of Canadian manufacture, but the Morrisburg mills adopted the policy of manufacturing only one grade of material, and did not attempt to meet the low prices, and by making only material of the very highest quality and cutting out all the cheaper grades, have been able to find a select market for their product.

The mills at Morrisburg have an annual capacity of 15,000 gross tons, and are operated by a Municipal Hydro Electric Plant.

The Company has an investment of about $700,000, and employs 150 Canadian workmen. 1d.

OUR $20.00 SUIT FOR WOMEN

With the change in the climate every woman pictures in her imagination her new outfit for the cold weather season. She may have an extravagant notion that there are no moderate priced suits with style to them—this is where the mistake is made and made often, for we have suits at quite modest figures that are most attractive in style and cloth—the finish too is a surprise to all who see them.

Our $20 Suit of French Worsted Wool is undoubtedly a winner; the cloth has an invisible stripe and comes in navy, wisteria, green and black; the coat is made in a natty semi-fitting style and is trimmed with black moire silk, buttons and fancy braid and is lined with a fancy satin finished silicia—the skirt is made in the "Mayon Age" effect with self trimmings. This is an unusually pretty suit and demonstrates the latest style for the 1909-10 season. See these on display in our commodious Ready-to-wear Section—Second Floor.

Peterboro Club Have Fine Home Ready For Occupation

Refinement and Comfort Outstanding Features of Furnishings of old Bank of Montreal Building Completely Remodelled Opening Next Week With Smoker

BRIEF NOTE OF INTERIOR

The new home of the Peterborough Club in the old Bank of Montreal building, corner of Simcoe and Water streets, which will be ready for occupation within a week will be found to be the most complete and most commodious quarters of any club in the city.

The predominating features of furnishings and equipment are the good taste shown in the selection of wall paperings, rugs, chandeliers, etc., and the cheerful ensemble that has been effected. Comfort and cosiness are suggested by the furnishings of the several dens and lounging rooms.

The entrance is on Water street and opens into a large hall which commands the entire building. Rooms open off it on the ground floor and to the left is a handsome new oak staircase. The billiard room, and two dens are on the ground floor, the latter with inviting furniture of quartered oak, Old English finish, and fire place. The billiard room is the largest in teh building and part will be curtained off nad used for general purposes. The piano will be placed here. The second floor comprises a card room, reading room and board room. The bueffi is down stairs and is fitted with a large refrigerator of the newest type. A complete electric bell system with sixteen buttons placed in various parts of the building connects with the buffet.

The electroliers are particularly appropriate and the whole lighting system is most adequate. The heating is by hot water, the radiators and furnace being entirely new. The billiard room floor is covered with cork linoleum and all the other floors in the house have Brussels rugs. The walls throughout have a deep dado of burlap surmounted by paper that has been carefully selected. Different colour schemes are found in the various rooms. While the club's new quarters are not gorgeous they are furnished in a manner that will appeal even to the most fastidious and it is safe to say that the clubmen are pleased with their new premises. A non-member, who visited the building recently was grea tlypleased with the refined taste that is manifest in every room, and stated that he considered the club a credit to Peterborough.

GRADES AT ARMOURIES WILL BE SUITABLY ALTERED

Conference Between Board of Education and Government Architect Results in Change in Levels.

IS NOW SATISFACTORY

A special meeting of the Board of Education was held last evening for the purpose of meeting the Government architect, Mr. Fuller, in connection with the laying of the concrete walks and the levelling of the ground around and in front of the new armouries. It seems that when the levels were being taken they showed that the walks in front of the armouries would be about two feet lower than those at the Collegiate Institute, if carried out, as planned, and two steps would be necessary at the connection of the walks with those laid by the School Board.

The attention of the Government was called to this matter by Hon. Mr. Stratton, and the Government architect was sent here with a view to seeing if the walk and grounds could not be brough to a more suitable level.

At last night's meeting the change suggested was approved of by the members of the Board and the walks at the armouries will now be laid as agreed upon. A resolution was passed approving of the levels that have now been decided upon, and the contractor will now complete the walks.

On motion of Mr. Hill, seconded by Dr. Burnham, a motion was passed thankingHon. Mr. Stratton, Mr. Hall, and Mr. Fuller, the Government architect, for the interest they had taken in bringing the mate to a satisfactory conclusion, and in having the grouds levelled and the walks laid to the best advantage o fthe Collegiate Institute and the armouries.

BELMONTS SAY FAREWELL TO A POPULAR CLUB MEMBER

Mr. E.A. Wilson Presented With a Napkin Ring at a Complimentary Banquet Last Evening.

GOING TO NORTH BAY

The Belmont Club last night said farewell to Mr. Ernest A .Wilson, one of its most popular members, who is leaving the city early next week to accept a position in North Bay.

About thirty members of the club gathered in the Dominion Chinese Cafe, where an enjoyable repast was served. Afterwards Mr. Joseph Pollard, on behalf of the members presented Mr. Wilson with a handsome napkin ring, while Mr. Oliver Milburn expressed the regret of the Belmonts at Mr. Wilson's departure from Peterborough.

Mr. Wilson made a fitting reply, thanking his fellow club members for their gift and kind words, and expressing himself as being sorry that his pleasant associations with them were to be severed.

Have Pretentious Exhibit Of Manufactures At The Fair

J. J. Turner & Sons have an exhibit at the Toronto Exhibition, near the Horticultural Building, along Society Row. It is larger than they have ever before attempted, and a staff of men have been engaged in preparing it during the past three weeks. At present three of the members of the firm are in Toronto looking after the exhibit and helping to put Peterborough tents more prominently before the public. They have also over fifty tents rented on the Exhibition Grounds.

Good Cooking Emphasized As One Of Props Of A Happy Home

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Divorce- Race suicide?

Chicago is soon to see the last of both.

Reason? Miss Mary E. Snow, supervisor of domestic science in Chicago's schools is to teach the girls how to cook.

A good meal and a well kept house are the keys to marital felicity, according to Miss Snow. Husbands will be happier if the meals are better and their temper will be more even says Miss Snow, who has never had a husband.

Quarrels will be few and when they do come, the next meal—to be the very best of meals, through the tutelage of Miss Snow—will bring harmony. Things that lead to the divorce court will thus be nipped in their incipiency. Miss Snow also believs good meals will promote love of home and children.

Miss Snow is the first person to occupy the school position in which she will work out her own ideas. Recently she was director of the Pratt Institute in Brooklyn, N.Y.

Miss Snow does not take race suicide seriously.

"I do not share Mr. Roosevelt's fears on that point," she said today. "Race suicide is caused in part by late marriages. Late marriages are due in some measures to some woman's inability to manage a household, with or without servants. The domestic science department teaches girls to manage both house and servant. Therefore marriages need not be delayed and the birth rate will be increased.

"Nowadays," she said, "a girl can not learn much about housework in a family that is in comfortable circumstances. There is a cook in the kitchen and the cook will not let the daughter of the household bother her with attempts at cooking. There are maids for the other work in the house and the girl has many things that take her time.

"She goes to school longer than her mother did. She has lessons in music or languages, or art, perhaps, and her social duties are numerous compared with those of her mother's girlhood. Such a girl doesn't learn home management unless she learns it at school.

"With the training to be had in the public schools a girl can develop ability for directing domestic affairs. She will learn how to conduct her home easily and economically. This will do away with a tremendous number of unreasonable divorces, for family troubles usually begin in the kitchen and it is true enough that young people will marry early if their expenses are to be moderate. Then the family will have more opportunity to grow.

"The teaching of domestic science, in both its disciplinary and practical aspects, is as important as anything else now in the curriculum.

"I am not joking when I say good cooking will stop divorce. The way to a man's heart, as has been said before, is through his stomach. I'll teach the girls of Chicago how to cook and divorce will be a thing of the past. Get a man deep into a good meal and he'll never quarrel.

"He won't run away down town and meet the other woman either—well-fed and contented, he will spend his evenings at his own fireside."

$30.000 BLAZE

Fire in the Savoy Theatre at Hamilton This Morning did Considerable Damage.

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Hamilton, Sept. 1.—Fire in the Savoy theatre on Merrick street, early this morning, did damage estimated at $30,000. The decorations throughout the building were ruined and all the valuable scenery was destroped. The loss is covered by insurance. The cause of the fire is not known, but it is supposed to have been either a lighted cigar stub or a defective light wire.

PREVENTION IS WORTH WHILE.

When you consider the risk to life, the expense, the anxiety which is involved in an attack of appendicitis and a surgical operation, it is certainly worth while to avoid it by keeping the liver and bowels regular by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Doctors are now unanimously of the opinion that appendicitis comes from a neglect to keep the liver and bowels in a healthful condition.

CASE WAS ENLARGED FOR ONE WEEK

Charles Griffin was charged with the destruction of a fence separating his property and that of Mrs. R. Madden, on Stewart street. The case was heard at the police court this morning. Mr. F. D. Kerr appeared for the complainant and Mr. R. F. McWilliams defended Mr. Griffin and pleaded not guilty. According to Mr. Griffin, Mrs. Madden in building the fence, did not construct it on her own property. It has been torn down three times, Mr. Griffin, Mrs. Madden states, being the destroyer. Considerable time was taken up hearing the witnesses this morning.

Mrs. Madden swore that the fence was one the dividing line of the two properties, while Mr. Griffin argued that it was on his property.

His Worship enlarged the case for one week.

Why Not Fill Your Body WITH NEW ENERGY

And avoid the weakness and tired feelings of spring—You can do this by using DR CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

You need not be a victim of circumstances and suffer all the weakening and depressing effects of spring.

Tired feelings, headaches, indigestion and nervous troubles all fly when the system is flooded with rich, red blood.

Energy and vigour only come after all the ordinary wants of the system are supplied. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is so wonderfully successful as a blood builder that you soon begin to feel strong and healthy by its use.

By means of its great restorative treatment you can rebuild the body when it has been wasted by worry, overwork, lingering colds or the depressing and debilitating effects of spring.

There is no reaction after the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, because it is not a stimulant. On the contrary it is a blood forming, system building medicine which by working hand in hand with Nature proves of lasting benefit to the system and thoroughly drives out weakness and disease by filling the system with new energy and vigour.

Mrs. H. A. Loynes, nurse, Phillipsburg, Que., writes: "I was all run down and could not do my work. Everything I ate made me sick. In nursing others I had seen the good results of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and resolved to try it. As a result of this treatment I have gained ten lbs., do my own work alone and feel like an entirely different person."

THE FAIR OPENED

Lord Charles Beresford Says Time For Talking Is Past.

PROTECT TRADE ROUTES

"Candour Charlie" Opens the Toronto Exhibition After Ringing Speech In Which He Declares That a Bold Policy Must Be Entered on to Secure Naval Supremacy For the Vast British Empire.

Toronto, Sept. 1.—Fifty per cent. greater than any previous opening day was the semi-official summary of the attendance at the exhibition yesterday. Not even when Prince Louis of Battenberg was present did the crowds collect so solidly and enthusiastically as they did to welcome Lord Charles Beresford. The tangible, living evidence of a great historic tradition which the gallant admiral presents, his own personal courage and skill, and the knowledge that he holds his life in fee for the Empire to which we all belong stirred an immense enthusiasm.

Lord Charles made a brief speech at the directors' luncheon, after which the guests adjourned to the front while Admiral Beresford donned his uniform and the unveiling of the tablet to J. J. Withrow was proceeded with. After this another adjournment was had to the dairy building, where the formal opening of the exhibition was accomplished. Hon. J. J. Foy and Hon. Adam Beck were among those present who did not attend the luncheon.

Canon Cody offered prayer, basing his supplication upon the general thanksgiving. The band played "Life on the Ocean Wave" and then yielded their seats to the crowd of ladies waiting outside.

If anyone expected to hear Lord Beresford say that Sir John Fisher was no gentleman, he was disappointed. Lord Charles' speech emphasized the necessity for protecting the trade routes of the Empire and he pointed out why a superiority of British naval force in the North Sea was not sufficient.

"There can be no doubt that in the past the British navy has had a paramount influence in keeping the peace of the world, and if that navy remains efficient and sufficient, the peace may be maintained, not only to the benefit of the British Empire, but also to the benefit of the whole universe, peace being the greatest interest that any nation can possess.

"There is no insurance for peace equal to a strong navy."

"What is wanted is a bold constructive policy, broad in its basis, Imperial in its object. The time for talking is over, the time for action has begun.

"There must be a carefully compiled, concise and practical plan for defeating the enemy's fleets if war should unfortunately be forced upon us. A complete scheme would prevent war and ensure peace.

"The question of the safety of the Empire should be put beyond any possible doubt whatever.

"Our supremacy at sea has been threatened in language that is unmistakable. In the near future that threat may become a reality. It is our business as an empire to see that our present position is not jeopardized in any way.

"If the result of the London conference produces an Imperial organization for war in which the whole Empire takes part, it should preserve our supremacy intact. The latest resources of the Empire have not been called upon as yet to join in an organization which, to be effective, must be based on broad, national and Imperial lines, totally devoid of personal, party or selfish motives—an Imperial defence founded on the principle of five nations, one Union Jack, one navy, one army, one throne. (Applause.)

"The heart of the Empire is absolutely dependent on the punctual and sure delivery of the water-borne food and raw material supplied by its arteries—the trade routes.

"A successful attack on the trade routes would paralyze the trade of the dominions as well as that of Great Britain.

"It therefore becomes a matter of life or death to the British Empire to remain supreme at sea. Any attempt to wrest that superiority from us must be met with a steady, reasoned and determined effort on our own part to defend what we hold. Maritime necessities are very different from maritime ambitions. Commands of the sea is a necessity for our existence as an Empire.

"The tendency of late years has been to gain complete naval supremacy in the North Sea. No doubt that would protect the heart of the Empire—the British Isles—from invasion, but complete naval supremacy on all the seas can alone secure the continuance of the British Empire as a whole. It is that fact that has lately been realised by Britons throughout the world."

Lord Charles expressed his confidence in the loyalty of Canada, indicated by repeated assistance rendered in the past to the Empire.

He concluded a speech, of which the above extracts suggest the main tendencies, by complimentary allusions to the Toronto Fair and the startling growth of Canada, concluding with the quotation:

We've sailed wherever ship may sail.
We've founded many a mighty state—
Pray God our greatness may not fail
From craven fears of growing great.

The speech was received with repeated cheers and interrupting applause.

USELESS LINIMENTS

Are being fast driven off the market by the overpowering merit of Nerviline, which has more strength in one drop than is found in a quart of ordinary remedies. Full of pain-subduing properties, healing and soothing, its influence on rheumatism, sciatica, and lumbago is unsurpassed. Nerviline is without question the best household liniment made. For nearly fifty years a staple in every drug store in America.

DROP ALL OTHERS.

"I dropped all liniments but Nerviline because I found Nerviline the quickest to relieve pain," writes E. S. Benton of St. John's. "If my children are croupy or sick, Nerviline cures them. If a case of cramps or stomach-ache turns up, Nerviline is ever ready. We use Nerviline for neuralgia, rheumatism, and all kinds of aches and pains; it's good as any doctor."

Use Only "Nerviline"

Good to rub on any part of the body—soothing, antiseptic, and just full of pain-relieving power. Just as good for internal pains, like cramps, toothache, dyspepsia, etc. You can't beat Nerviline as a general household panacea for the aches and pains of the whole family. Try it.

PROTECT SALMON

Scientists Say Fish in B.C. Will Soon Disappear.

SHOULD EXTERMINATE RATS

Convention at Winnipeg Offers Two Recommendations In Form of Resolutions to Western Provinces—Manitoba Should Drive Out Her Rat Pests and B.C. Should Guard Her Salmon Wealth.

Winnipeg, Sept. 1.—Many sections of the British Association wound up business yesterday. Thursday they all will get away in a special train for a trip to the coast.

Two resolutions of more than ordinary importance to western Canada were passed yesterday morning. One recommended that the Manitoba Government offer a bonus for the extermination of rats, and the other was in regard to the disappearance of salmon in British Columbia, the Federal authorities being asked to appoint a committee of investigation.

Prof. Shipley, head of the zoological department, thought the invasion of the province by rats was a matter of gravest importance to the wheat industry. If allowed to spread they would destroy 25 per cent. of the yield annually. Most determined steps should be taken to exterminate these pests.

As for the salmon, the scientists feared that a few years would see their complete disappearance unless steps were taken at once, and to prevent it a commission should start work immediately.

The association has decided that in future large proportions of its income shall be spent in Canada for scientific research.

Woman Falls Into Cistern.

Brantford, Sept. 1.—Mrs. Lewis, wife of the time-keeper at the Massey Harris works, had a narrow escape from drowning at her home, 164 Dalhousie street, yesterday morning. Going out into the outer kitchen she stumbled through a trap door over the cistern, and fell in. The cistern, which is eight feet deep, had a little more than five feet of water in it. By standing on tip-toe, she was able to keep her chin above water level. For an hour she remained in this perilous position calling for help. A woman at the front of the house finally heard her.

Boys Nearly Drowned.

Kincardine, Sept. 1.—Murray McCrimmon, son of Dr. McCrimmon, and Leslie Thomson, son of T. C. Thomson, barrister, Toronto, had a narrow escape on the lake here yesterday. The weather was choppy outside, and the young men went for a sail in a 20-foot dinghy. As they were making the harbor the boat upset.

Both being good swimmers, they regained the boat and drifted around in a heavy sea until taken off by the life-saving crew.

SEEMS TO BE MURDER

Sarnia Man Found With Throat Cut and Money Gone.

DIED MAKING STATEMENT

William Henri, a Hotelkeeper at the Beach, Is Found Dying and In Unfinished Declaration Says He Did Not Commit Suicide—Only Fifteen Dollars Is Blood-Stained Bill In Victim's Pocket.

Sarnia, Sept. 1.—Lying in a pool of blood, his throat so deeply gashed that the jugular vein had been severed, William Henri, proprietor of the Beach Hotel, a summer resort at Sarnia, was found dying early yesterday morning in a room in the hotel. He passed away shortly afterwards, conscious but unable to talk.

A fragment of a statement passed his lips before death, when he uttered the words, "I did not commit suicide, but he——"

The police say that the sentence was not finished, and they are in the dark as to the identity of the assailant.

That Henri was slain is their belief, from the fact that in a window of the room where the man lay a pane of glass had been broken, the broken pieces falling into the room; the aperture thus created being large enough to admit the body of a man.

It is stated that Henri, during the day drew his money from a bank, saying that he was about to close the hotel for the season and take his family to Point Edward. In his pockets were only $15 in bills, which were blood-stained, and there were also blood-stains on a spectacle case which he used as a pocketbook.

When found he was lying on the floor with a rug drawn over his head. He leaves a wife and two sons.

The police are working on the theory that Henri took his own life.

Would Prosecute Grey.

Victoria, B.C., Sept. 1.—Victoria sportsmen, prominent among them, Henry Poley and William Lenfesty, the latter acting for local sportsmen's are reporting to the chief game warden, Bryan Williams of Vancouver, the action of Earl Grey and others of his party in killing mountain goat out of season, and without the required shooting license, and are requesting prosecutions.

They maintain the example set the general public by open and flagrant violation of game laws by the King's representative is most harmful.

Asks Public to Forgive Wife.

Uniontown, Pa., Sept. 1.—A pathetic appeal for public forgiveness of his wife, who eloped nine months ago with a younger man and has just returned, was made yesterday by W. J. Stone, a millionaire operator of this city.

Mr. Stone has restored her to her old place in his affections and confidence. He was bitterly disappointed, therefore, when yesterday her friends and acquaintances in and out of local society, snubbed her and refused to speak to her.

Magistrate is Arrested.

New York, Sept. 1.—Police Magistrate Henry T. Furlong of Brooklyn was arraigned before Justice Crane in the Supreme Court yesterday on a charge of receiving a bribe of $16.66 to influence his conduct as a magistrate. He was also charged with entering into an arrangement by which he received sums of money for obtaining bonds for prisoners who came before him as a magistrate.

The warrant was issued on a complaint of the Brooklyn Bar Association.

Attitude of A. F. of L.

Paris, France, Sept. 1.—In the International Trades Union Congress yesterday, Samuel Gompers, president of the A. F. of L., explained that America was only willing to join an international movement, the objects of which were clearly fixed, such as, for example, the study of questions directly affecting strikes and lockouts and the employment of women, and not an organization dedicated to the academic discussion of social problems.

THE WEST ENDS WILL HAVE STRONG TEAM ON SATURDAY

While the weather just now breathes more like rugby than baseball, neither the fans nor the opposing teams are talking of anything else but Saturday's City League game between the West Ends and T. A. S. By Saturday it is likely that summer weather will be enough to dissolve the chill, even if the present brand is handed out on the week end. The West Ends have been doing some hard practising, and they will be in good shape on Saturday with their whole team back in the game again. The Abstainers have never been able to do much with Kirn's offering, and the West End twirler will have the benefit of having a long rest, so that he will be in tip-top shape for Saturday's battle. It remains to be seen whether the youthful twirler will cause a slump in the T. A. S. batting averages or not. At any event it will be a hard-fought game with the fate of the championship hanging upon the result. Should the T. A. S. win the Abstainers will have the championship. On the other hand a win for the West Ends means a tie with Park Street.

OSHAWA QUIETLY COLLECTING AN ALL STAR HOCKEY TEAM

Oshawa is a town aiming for prominence in hockey circles this winter. It's name has not been written on the hockey map—that is with any prominence—since the flood, but they're going to make a bid for the intermediate O. H. A. silverware this winter, so it is currently told.

Now, the aforesaid mug, carrying with it the championship of the intermediate series of the Ontario Hockey Association, is in the possession of the Lindsay Midgets. Naturally we are interested in what Oshawa is doing.

While everybody has been sleeping, or working or playing baseball, golf, tennis, lacrosse or cricket during the tepid summer months, a certain management in Oshawa have been out with a dragnet gathering hockey players of renown into the fold. Then when King Winter comes Oshawa will have a hockey team, and from all indications a good one, too.

Two Midgets—our own champions—having been living in and around Oshawa, and report says Frank Cotey and Randall will be located there for the winter. Then Lane, the Fenelon Falls man who played for the Eurekas in Toronto last winter, has packed his bag and baggage and is sunning himself along the Oshawa main street these days.

It is whispered that other famed and fast ones are being drawn in by a strong magnet and that Oshawa will break into the O. H. A. "trailing clouds of glory.—Lindsay Warder.

A WELL KNOWN MIDDLE RUNNER LEAVING THE CITY

In the departure of Mr. E. A. Wilson to North Bay next week, Peterborough is losing a most promising athlete. Ernie has made quite a reputation for himself as a middle distance runner, and has been closely identified with the Examiner road race ever since that most successful Thanksgiving Day event was inaugurated. In 1906 he finished second to Ray Best in the Lakefield to Peterborough race. The following year he won the race after a hard battle with the late Ben. Howard and last year finished third to J. H. Adams and Charlie Thorpe. His most creditable performance was the establishing of a new Canadian indoor record when he beat Tom Coley in Toronto in the fall of 1907. He has been connected with the Y.M.C.A. Track and Field Club and was one of the mainstays of that organisation.

DYSPEPTIC
Food Does You No Good

Half the time you're afraid to eat; your tongue is coated, mouth tastes bad, stomach is bloated. If you want to get well, stop using dyspepsia tablets, and go to the source of the trouble before it is too late. Strengthen your stomach, cast out the bile, regulate the bowels—do this, and dyspepsia will be no more.

For your condition the best prescription is Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which are made specially for the stomach, kidneys and liver. No better remedy will be devised, for Dr. Hamilton's Pills are perfect.

DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS A SURE CURE

"No one could realize my sufferings from stomach trouble and indigestion. For five years I have not been well. My food did me no good, because I couldn't digest or assimilate. My doctor said constipation was at the root of my trouble, so I got Dr. Hamilton's Pills. My appetite improved, pain after eating ceased, and my food digested quickly. I am delighted with the thorough cure I derived from Dr. Hamilton's Pills.
"(Signed) MARTIN E. WALKER.
"Bridgewater."

Quick results attend the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills; this medicine cures all trouble in the stomach and digestive organs by removing the cause.

Daring Robbery on C.P.R.

Victoria, B.C., Sept. 1.—Eighteen or twenty registered letters were stolen Monday night from the mail car attached to the C.P.R. Transcontinental Express No. 97, which reached Vancouver at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. The robbery is supposed to have occurred at Spence's Bridge, the robber crawling over the tender through the end of the car. The loss is probably not more than $500.

Famine at Monterey.

Mexico City, Sept. 1.—As the reports come in, it is seen that the situation in Monterey is more serious than was at first supposed. The city lacks food and water. The Federal Government has sent $30,000 additional to be expended for relief.

It is hoped to get a train service through to Laredo and purchase food supplies at Tampa.

Did Firebug Burn Barn?

Brantford, Sept. 1.—Fred Illett, a farmer residing on the Paris road five miles from Brantford, lost his barn and contents in a fire Monday night. The total damage is $3,000, with insurance of $2,000. There is a suspicion that someone bearing a spite against Illett may have touched a match to the straw.

All Liver and Stomach Troubles cured by Miller's Granules. — Wm. Madill, Druggist.

Sir Henry Strong Dead.

Ottawa, Sept. 1.—Sir Henry Strong, retired chief justice of the Supreme Court, died last evening, aged 84 years.

He was born at Poole, Dorset, England, and came to Canada in 1836. He was appointed to the Supreme Court in 1875, and retired and was succeeded by Sir Elzear Taschereau.

This Accident Fatal.

Comber, Sept. 1.—David Jacques, an elderly man living in Tilbury North Township, fell into a well and sustained injuries which resulted in his death several hours afterwards. The deceased was in the act of repairing the cover of the well when it gave way.

Chauffeur Driven From State.

New York, Sept. 1.—In an effort to discourage automobile scorching, Felix L. Droit, a professional chauffeur and participant in the Vanderbilt cup race and many other speed contests, has been prohibited from ever again driving a car in New York State.

Was a Windsor Man.

Windsor, Sept. 1.—The body of a man kicked and thrown into the river has been identified as Charles Ordendorf, former lather of Ridgetown. The father is a prosperous contractor there. John Hoins, of Milwaukee, a sailor, is being held by the police.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Premier Ward of New Zealand will be in Ottawa to-morrow.

Johnston's large pulp mill at Chateaugay, N.Y., has been burned; loss $50,000.

Henry Otis, aged 20, was struck by a racing auto at Lowell, Mass., during a fog and killed.

Lord Strathcona was in Vancouver and Victoria yesterday and was given civic and Board of Trade addresses.

The summer house of Raymond Hitchcock, the actor, in Great Neck, Long Island, was totally destroyed by fire; loss $30,000.

New York engineers have been engaged to draw plans for the proposed $4,000,000 light and power plant on the St. Lawrence River.

Five weeks' drought in Kansas was broken here by a two-inch rain. Reports are general of a downpour extending into Northern Oklahoma.

John W. Gates, the financier, happening to meet in Seattle the minister who married him forty years ago, gave him a check for $1,000 as an addition to the original fee of $5.

Engineer Walter D. White, for fifty years in the service of the Northern Pacific Railroad, was instantly killed and ten persons were injured, when the train ran into a work train while rounding a curve.

The delegation of Japanese merchants who will shortly visit the United States will not come to Canada. The trip will be entirely under American auspices and will be confined to the Pacific coast.

Girl Burned to Death.

London, Sept. 1.—Two-year-old Florence Conklie, the daughter of a young married couple, natives of Strathroy, living in the village of Adelaide, was burned to death yesterday.

The mother went out and left her with her four-year-old sister. They built a fire in the stove and in some manner it caught on to their dresses. The elder sister ran out of the house and managed to extinguish the fire which had caught on to her dress.

Florence was unable to get free of the fire and perished.

The house caught fire and was destroyed.

Dangerous Toothache Remedy.

Hamilton, Sept. 1.—What at first looked like a case of attempted suicide occurred last night when Sarah Bolton, a young woman who lives with her parents on the Waterdown road, took a dose of carbolic acid and was taken to the City Hospital in a critical condition. She was discovered in an unconscious condition in her room by her sister. They say that she had been suffering from toothache, and that she took the acid to stop the pain.

HOLDS UP TRAIN.

Lone Robber After Daring Coup Only Gets $100.

Pittsburg, Sept. 1.—Train No. 36, the Pittsburg and Northern Express, on the Pennsylvania road, was held up near Levistown early yesterday morning.

Then the sharp explosion of a dynamite cap on the track was heard and the train was brought to a standstill. A masked man stepped out of the bushes along the tracks and covered the engine with a revolver. Threatening them, the highwayman moved along to the baggage car, but could not open it. He then went to the express car and compelled the messenger to open the door. The safe in the car contained $25,000 in money and bullion. The robber coolly called to the fireman of the train for help and the robber, still wearing his mask, gathered up some bags of money and, with the fireman in the lead, and also carrying bags of coin, started up the mountain side.

Three hundred yards of the incline he ordered the fireman back to his train. At this juncture several passengers came on the scene and encouraged the trainmen to offer resistance. The robber opened fire, sending a bullet through the head of the conductor. He then grabbed a bag of money and fled to the mountains, leaving practically all his booty where the fireman had deposited it for him. Not more than $100 in pennies was taken.

Bloodhounds have been placed on the trail and a posse is in pursuit.

Two Hurt at the Fair.

Toronto, Sept. 1.—A shower of stones, resulting from the explosion of a "fowgusse" or embankment mine, spread panic among hundreds of spectators drawn to the lake front to witness the demonstration of how ships and land forces may be blown into the air in times of gun war.

A number of persons narrowly missed being hit by the flying missiles, some of them as large as a man's doubled fist, while two individuals received slight injuries. One, Clarence Kenney, 159 Pembroke street, was struck on the side by a fragment of wood, and the other, name unknown, received a falling stone on the head. Both were treated at the emergency hospital.

"Too much realism," was the general verdict, and Dr. Orr has decided that, for the future, the quantity of gunpowder used will be reduced. So thunderous were the detonations that several windows in the manufacturers' building were shattered and nearby buildings trembled.

Sues to Recover Bribe.

Montreal, Sept. 1.—The first legal action as a result of the exposure made at the royal commission has been entered by Henri Dubois, who last week testified before the royal commission that he had had to pay the sum of $100 in his efforts to secure a permit to install a miniature railroad on St. Helen's Island.

The defendants named are Ald. Major and Couture. Before the commission, Ald. Major swore to receiving the $100, and paying it all over to Ald. Couture. Couture, in the evidence, could only remember getting $25 or $30, and said that was his fee for time and trouble in a trip to the island.

Has a Cure for Cancer.

Aurora, Ill., Sept. 1.—Dr. Thos. J. Allen, the Aurora educator and monodiet advocate, who gained much notoriety by living sixty days on peanuts, announces that he has discovered a cure for cancer. He says cancers come from indigestion and that monodiets will work a cure. Dr. Allen says that by alternating monodiets he means potatoes alone for three days, peanuts alone for a number of days, grapes alone for a number of days, and so on. Dr. Allen says he has demonstrated the success of his cancer cure.

COULD NOT KEEP THIS SECRET

"Six months ago I was cured of piles by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment," writes Mrs. G. A. Swayze, Copenhagen, Elgin Co., Ont. "I had been afflicted for over thirty years and tried all sorts of treatments in vain, so I was surprised and delighted to be cured. I don't care for publicity but would like to tell every one suffering from piles about Dr. Chase's Ointment."

Dozens Of Men Proposed To Her During Her Thirty Years Reign In Precincts Of Yale

Justine Ingersoll, or Tiny as She was Toasted by the Youth of Old Eli in Her Early Years, Lives No More.

A CHARACTER SKETCH

New Haven, Aug. 31.—A private telegram to this city to-day announced the death in Boston late last night of Justine Henrietta Ingersoll, familiarly known as "Tiny" Ingersoll, daughter of former Gov. Charles R. Ingersoll and the toast of Yale men for thirty years.

At the time of her death she lived with her ward, Nikolo Sokoloff, a member of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. She heard him one night as a boy playing in a crowded tenement house in Oak Street, in the Jewish district in this city. She sought him out, gave him a musical education and took him to live with her at her house in Westville. When the Yale Music School authorities objected she had him leave the school and sent him to Schradiek, in New York. With that teacher the youth's education was completed. Then he and Miss Ingersoll soll went to Boston to live and he achieved great success. An opportunity was given him to study abroad, but because of her failing health he declined to go. He was with her at the time of her death.

GRANDFATHER A SEA FIGHTER ..

Miss Ingersoll was born in the old brownstone Ingersoll mansion at Temple and Elm streets, a block from the Yale campus. Her grandfather on her mother's side was Admiral Gregory, sea fighter. As a girl "Tiny" visited him in Portsmouth and cities around Boston. She was a pet of Emerson, Thoreau and other writers of the "Concord School." Naval officers also liked her greatly. Even as a girl she ranked as a beauty. An uncle on her father's side was Colin M. Ingersoll, Minister to Russia in the Polk Administration.

Coming from such stock, "Tiny" Ingersoll's social standing was assured. Her sixty years of life she lived to the limit and in some circles her word was law. From the close of the civil war to 1895 she ruled Yale men. Her conquests were many. She retained many traces of her beauty to the time of her death.

When a young girl her extraordinary vivacity attracted Samuel J. Tilden, Democratic candidate for the Presidency against Hayes. It was about this time that her greatest love affair took place. She wished to marry a Yale man, but her parents believed he was not good enough for her. The pair decided to elope and the student took out a license, but for the only time in her life Justine proved a coward. She backed out. After that she played fast and loose with the affections of men.

As late as 1890 a Westerner, a Yale graduate with wealth, who had proposed to her several times, sent a proposal by telegraph. Justine promptly wired back: "Oh, shut up."

A member of a class in the sixties loved and proposed to "Tiny" Ingersoll. She rejected him. In the late eighties his son was in college and wrote his father.

"There is a woman a little older than I am who lives a block from the campus. Her name is Justine Ingersoll, a member of the old Ingersoll family. She is very lovely and though a little older than I am, I am going to try and win her."

His father did not wait to write. He wired:

"Go in and win her, my boy, I loved Justine when I was in college."

Justine left her father's house shortly before he died because the ex-Governor objected to having monkeys in the house. She had a great love of animals. One day when a circus went through the city an ourang was taken seriously ill and it was thought he would have to be killed. Miss Ingersoll heard of the case and took him to her home. She nursed him back to health. Then she took other monkeys to her home and taught them how to drink cocktails properly. She grew to love them. Then the liking turned to stray cats, which she took home. Finally the ex-Governor thought that he or his daughter's menagerie would have to move out. Justine took the menagerie to Westville.

She shone as an amateur actress. New Haven society still looks back to the days when she organized a theatrical company of young persons of the city and played Gilbert & Sullivan's operas all over the State. Justine herself played Josephine in "Pinafore." She gave many concerts, too.

Lawrence Barrett, Edwin Booth, Frank Mayo, Stuart Robson and Mary Anderson were among her friends. Miss Anderson was probably the only person with whom she never quarrelled.

After she was fifty Miss Ingersoll came to have pronounced views about diet. She would never have milk in any form and advised her friends against it. Raw meat was a fad with her. When she took Sokoloff to her home she told him to eat raw meat and never to drink milk, and he obeyed her. Because of her great wit she was sought for as a guest at dinner, but occasionally upset the society leader who was hostess by advising the other guests not to eat some particular dish.

She helped many promising young persons to education and prosperity; then she generally quarrelled with them and they left her. But Sokoloff remained faithful to the end. Offers of marriage she scorned. The last social affair she attended was a party given by Mrs. "Jack" Gardner in Boston a month ago. Cancer caused her death.

Mr. J. J. Sheehy, of Chicago, who hase been pleasantly holidaying in Peterborough for a few weeks, leaves to-morrow morning to return to the Windy City. He cannat be said to be thoroughly acclimatized, for he is not the least windy, though he is is generally breezy as ever, and finds that he can breathe the pure air of Peterborough more comfortably than that of Chicago.

Captain Mills and Lieutenant Higgins were in Perth yesterday, making arrangements for the visit of the 57th on the occasion of its annual outing to that town, Sept. 4th-6th. They found conditions much to their liking and the citizens anxious to do all in their power to make the visit of the regiment pleasant. The delights of the beautiful Rideau lakes and of the Pay Canal will be available, and the Perth people will, in a general way, open their arms to the visiting warriors. They have very pleasant recollections of the visit of the Regiment about fifteen years ago, and are glad to welcome them again. The Bugle Band is preparing to revive an elaborate cooks' parade for the occasion, and all the regiment is looking forward in a delightful holiday jaunt.

A Safe Industrial Stock Investment
WHICH WILL PAY AT LEAST
10 Per Cent. Per Annum

THE KEARNS INK CO. of Toronto was organized two years ago to manufacture the new CANADIAN WRITING INKS, invented by J. J. Kearns. The past two years has been spent in experimenting and improving quality and to-day it stands among the top notchers in the Ink world. This Ink has met with such spontaneous approval from users, and the trade has shown such willingness to buy in quantities, that the managers deem it wise to enlarge their operations and make a big staple business enterprise out of this Company, hence offer to the public.

The total capital is only $40,000, so that you can see that this is no inflated and watered wild cat scheme, but a first-class legitimate investment offered to you — one where a dollar invested to-day will be worth at least two in a year and will pay 10 per cent. income on this

PROFITS

There is a gross profit in this Ink of from 25 per cent. to 300 per cent.

This is a clear cut business statement, every word of which we can substantiate.

Some Orders That we Received as to the Sale of Kearns' Ink.

We found the demand practically without limit; we receiving orders and inquiries for the Ink far beyond our ability to supply the goods. Orders came from such houses as Central Business College, Ontario Government, Separate School Boards of Toronto and Peterborough, The Toronto Railway Co., Consumers Gas Company, National Trust Co. Limited, King Edward Hotel and many other large concerns of the country.

A Safe Management

The entire management is in the hands of a Board of Directors of leading business men—men of executive and financial ability, men of "made reputation," men who can be counted upon to capably and honestly direct the affairs of the enlarged Company, and see that each and every stockholder receives every dollar of the earnings of his stock.

ROYAL THEATRE
"A Georgia Wedding"
This is a very funny picture of Southern Life. It shows the troubles of a poor coloured widow, who tries to get a husband, and she does, but the house won't fit, at least the bride is too tall, and there are heaps of trouble and fun arranging matters.
"The Barber's Revenge"
This is one of PATHE Freres' latest comedies, and one of the best, showing the revenge of the Barber on the Musician whom he caught making love to his wife. He certainly got his revenge. You should see it.
"The Gypsy Artist"
This is a most interesting story of how a boy kidnapped by Gypsies turns out to be a great artist and how he is afterwards captured by enemies and returned to his old mother for safe keeping. She recognizes him and all is happy afterwards. It is a most interesting and very pathetic story.

BRIBES IN PLENTY

Roch Marien, a Horse Dealer, Tells Royal Commission, That He Found It Necessary to Pay Right and Left Before He Could Deal With Officials — Distributed $5,000 Among the City Fathers.

Montreal, Sept. 2.—Bribes amounting to about $2,000 were paid to ex-Chief Benoit of the fire department, and $5,000 in all to different aldermen and civic officials by Roch Marien, a horse dealer, according to the latter's testimony before the royal commission yesterday afternoon.

Without handing out money, Marien said, there was nothing doing around the City Hall.

He had paid so many bribes that he could scarcely remember particular cases. He had paid $600 once to be divided among five aldermen, but with the poor memory which he exhibited in the box, witness could not remember the names of any of these aldermen.

His admission about ex-Chief Benoit was only made after long probing in the witness box.

Increase of Those Received in August Over Same Month Last Year.

The Customs receipts for the month of August show an increase of over $10,000 for the receipts during the same month last year. The figures for the month just completed are $24,879.87, as compared with $14,016.88 for August, 1908. September was commenced with the first day's receipts amounting to over $3,000.

SUMMER'S WORK

What has Been Done by Waterworks Department up to August 31st.

At a meeting of the Water Commissioners Superintendent Henderson reported on the work done during the present year. Up to August 31st, 8,286 feet of pipe has been laid, 13 hydrants placed, 17 valves and 200 services provided.

AN AMERICAN HAS HONOUR OF DISCOVERING TOP OF THE WORLD

Achievement of Dr. Cook of Brooklyn is the Event of the Century—Experts Apparently Satisfied by Advance Messages.

DR. COOK AND HIS FAMILY
Brooklyn Explorer Who Has Succeeded in Reaching the North Pole.

London, Sept. 2.—"Reached North Pole April 21, 1908. Discovered land far north. Return to Copenhagen by steamer Hansegede. (Sgd.) Frederick Cook."

The above despatch, dated Lerwick, Shetland Islands, and received by the observatory at Brussels, Belgium, is declared to be "surely authentic" by the officials there.

"After a prolonged fight with famine and frosts we have at last succeeded in reaching the pole. A new highway, with an interesting strip of animated nature, has been explored and big game haunts located, which will delight sportmen and extend the Eskimo horizon.

"Land has been discovered which rests earth's northernmost rocks. A triangle of 30,000 square miles has been cut out of the terrestrial unknown."

The Paris edition of The New York Herald of yesterday morning, publishes the above as part of the signed statement from Dr. Cook.

This being so, it means that an American, a surgeon of Brooklyn, N.Y., has succeeded, where Kane, Franklin, McClintock, Greeley, Andre, Nansen, Peary, Abruzzi, Wellman and all the others have failed. By a curious coincidence it is, to a day, two years later than Commander Peary reached his furthest north. Peary is even now in the Arctic again, on the same old quest, and should be heard from any day now.

A message received at the Colonial Office from a Greenland official on board the Danish Government steamer Hansegede, which passed Lerwick at noon yesterday, said:

"We have on board the American traveler, Dr. Cook, who reached the North Pole, April 21, 1908. Dr. Cook arrived at Upernivik (the northernmost Danish settlement in Greenland, on an island off the west coast), in May of 1909, from Cape York (in the northwest part of Greenland, in Baffin Bay). The Esquimau of Cape York confirm Dr. Cook's story of his journey."

The dream of finding the North Pole has for centuries lured explorers, and daring adventurers, and whether this dream has now become a reality by the achievement of Dr. Cook, rests thus far upon the reports cable from Copenhagen, apparently through an official source.

At the same time, Dr. Cook cables a laconic message from Lerwick, Shetland Islands, where he is proceeding to Copenhagen, saying:

"Successful. Well. Address Copenhagen."

Not Altogether a Certainty.

The hopes aroused by the report from Copenhagen are thus, to some extent, quashed by Dr. Cook's message. While he says he has been "successful," there is no specific mention of having reached the Pole, and those of a skeptical turn are disposed to think that an achievement of such momentous consequence would not have been omitted by Dr. Cook if his search had been complete.

On the other hand, Copenhagen despatches are apparently definite that Dr. Cook reached the coveted goal of the pole.

Several days must now elapse before any further information is available. The Danish Government steamer Hansegede has left Lerwick, Shetland Islands, bound for Copenhagen, where she is due next Sunday.

The message was sent not to any scientific society or to any of his as-

WEST END OF THE PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS WAS DESTROYED

Toronto, Sept. 2.—Entailing damage of at least $400,000, less than half of which is insured, and the irreparable loss of a library of over 100,000 volumes, many of which can never be replaced, fire gutted the west wing of the Provincial Parliament buildings in the Queen's Park yesterday afternoon.

The insurance, which covers the buildings alone, stands at $750,000, in 45 companies.

The Cabinet will meet this morning to consider plans for rebuilding, which will be begun at once.

With the fire, water did much of the damage, and the cellar of the great stone pile is flooded to a depth of several feet. Outside the building shows no signs of the great conflagration save for the disorder of the usually neatly kept grounds, until you come to the west approach, when the gap where the fallen roof stood and the scarring and staining of the handsome stonework shows the track of the devastation.

The discovery of the blaze which led to the first alarm was made by a newspaperman as he was leaving the first floor of the building. The glass which covers the great light-well in the west wing of the main section crashed through. He looked up and saw smoke and flame and rushed to the telephone in the Attorney-General's Department and 'phoned to fire headquarters.

Premier Whitney, with Hon. W. J. Hanna and other Ministers, deputies and others about the building got on the job, while the others worked like Trojans in their shirtsleeves. It was this amateur salvage corps and firefighters that got out valuable pictures and records, which must have otherwise been destroyed.

When the firemen began to arrive the fire was burning fiercely at the roof over the fallen light glass, and in the wing running north and south at the extreme west of the great stone pile. Lines of hose were run up outside and in through doors and windows, and the flames did not make any appreciable headway eastward, but burned south into the library and north into the offices in that end of the wing. This was the long stretch in this wing, and it was in this that the fiercest battle was fought.

It was not long before the flames were in possession of the library, and the priceless books were driven from the windows a shower of charred leaves. Beneath this and to the east were the papers upon which judges have been at work for two years in revising the statutes of the province, and a determined effort was made to save these, although the offices of the legal department, in which they were kept, were a drench of water poured from the upper floors, and were kept filled with blinding smoke. This effort was successful, though the papers were many of them drenched. A like fight to save the records and documents of the Railway Commission in the upper floor of the north end of the wing resulted in the preserving of those valuable papers and the greater part of the hydro-electric documents in Hon. Adam Beck's room were saved, although the offices were gutted.

Although the entire library section of the wing is gutted from the slate roof down to the first floor, the ceilings and walls of the legal department offices on the ground floor are intact, except for cracks made in the plaster by water. Above the first ceiling tons of debris, thousands of half-burnt books from the library, charred beams and warped iron piping, etc., are packed between the bare stone walls of the wing to several feet deep.

The cause of the fire in the Parliament Buildings is unknown, but yesterday three theories were current. The first was that it was caused by an electric wire, the second by spontaneous combustion in the dust that had gathered under the roof.

The third comes from Samuel Dunbar, a watchman in the buildings, who says that workmen were at work upon the roof over the members' dining room in the west wing yesterday morning, and that he told them they must be careful of a charcoal stove which they were using. This was in the section of the building where the fire started.

BENSON STREET WALK

Mr. R.J. Kidd Says Steps are Being Taken Against the Walk Which was Completed To-day.

It is consummated. The Benson street sidewalk, the cause of no end of civic trouble and wrangling, was completed to-day at noon, and in a few weeks Normal School students will pass and repass over it without noticing anything different from the other blocks of concrete walk in the city, Mr. R. J. Kidd, who so strongly opposed it being placed inside the tree line, has not relented, nor changed his opinion. To the Examiner he stated to-day that action was going to be taken. He would not state its nature, that would be giving the city an idea o fthe cards the "Bensonites" were holding. The ultimate outcome of the much-talked of walk is a matter of conjecture. Apparently the residents affected are bent on trying to have their way.

BACK TO THE CITY.

With September 1st play day ceases, the long vacation ends, the silly season subsides. Business and all the activities of life resume their normal course, and life generally settles back into the jog-trot, the canter, or the gallop of every-day existence. The school boy returns reluctantly to his books and school ground pranks, the wearied teacher—with three months' vacation—takes up the birch again, the merchant his yard-stick, the lawyer his brief, and the doctor resumes his healing role and seeks to repair the waste and fatigue of too strenuous rest. The picnic is put into pickle against the season of 1910, and the fish fable gets a well-earned rest. We have had a beautiful summer, we have reaped a fairly bountiful crop, we have fed more than 5,000 visiting excursionists with something more eleborate and substantial than five loaves and two small fishes. The Board of Works has done and is doing a good work in cleaning our streets; the business outlook is good; and, looking either backward or forward, we are encouraged to enter with new zest into the practice of the duties that confront us in our several circles of varied work. The season of scheduled play and rest is past and the season of toil claims our attention. The day of business dawns and the period of pleasure ends, in its specific sense; but not in the highest sense; we should, for the rest of the year, make a pleasure of business as in the past few weeks we have made of business of pleasure.

PETERBOROUGH'S TELEPHONE RECORD

The Examiner may be censured in some quarters for insisting upon pointing out short-comings in civic administration and undesirable attitudes in respect of general civic interests on the part of citizens. But it does so in no unfair or mere censorious spirit, but with an honest desire to bring about improvement by emphasising the evil of undesirable conditions. At the same time we are always willing to give due credit for, and prominence to, desirable features or conditions. This year we have had the privilege of pointing out that Peterborough's building record has been superior to othat of other cities of similar size and now it is a pleasure to note that we lead in the matter of Peterborough's telephone record. In the last number of the Telephone Gazette, a table is given, showing the percentage of development of services in the various classes throughout the Dominion. There are four cities—Brantford—the original home of the telephone—Peterborough, St. Catharines and Wndsor, in the 1,000-to-3,000-subscribers class. Peterborough's percentage of increase in subscribers for July is 23.86, which is 8.69 per cent. in excess of the next highest, Windsor, and much greater than in any of the cities in Canada. This is an evidence of general material prosperity in Peterborough in comparison with cities of like class, and is, so far, a matter of congratulation and of credit to Peterborough.

It is also a credit to the excellent management of the local exchange, and the work of its staff. The credit due the later is further emphasized, by another table in the publication referred to, being a report of the "Lost Toll Calls" for first class offices. "Lost toll calls" are those in which there is failure to bring into communication long distance caller and callee, owing to the absence of the latter or other causes. Not only are Peterborough's long-distance calls more numerous than those of any other city of similar size—in excess of those of Brantford with 4,000 or 5,000 greater population—but the percentage of failures to effect connection demanded is lower than that of any other city in our class, or, for that matter, of any other city. This fact not only demonstrates that Peterborough leads in the use of the long distance 'phone, and consequently in commercial activity and enterprise, but it shows that the staff of the local exchange excels in enterprise, persistence, vigilance, and devotion to the interests of the company and the public.

NATIONAL ADVERTISING

It is to be expected that newspapers should recognize and advocate the benefits of advertising, especially newspaper advertising, which, after all, is the most effective form it can take, and the least objectionable. It would be to the advantage of the community if advertising of the printed form were confined chiefly to newspapers. There is nothing more hideous, more destructive of scenic and civic beauty than the flamboyant and grotesque advertisements of all kinds that stare at us from hoardings on our streets, and even from the fields and beautiful rocks of our wayside places. But it is hopeless to expect that this form of advertising will be superseded soon, if ever. But its objectionable feature may be toned down and rendered less destructive of civic and scenic beauty.

The benefits of business advertising are abundantly illustrated in a thousand forms in the every-day business life of the world; but it has fallen to Hon. Clifford Sifton, the Dominion Minister of the Interior, to demonstrate the advantages of national advertising. At the recent convention of Advertising Clubs of America, held at Louisville, Ky., Mr. rAthur Hawkes, of Toronto, the publicity agent of the Canadian Northern Railway, read a brilliant paper on "The Nation that Advertised," which, treating of Canada's advertising propoganda, in itself constituted one of the best advertisements of this country. After showing that the nation that had systematicallly advertised had reaped immense substantial benefit thereby, he referred to the amazing ignorance in Britain and the United States a few years ago, as to the actual position and possibilities of Canada. In one official document the British Government of a few years ago referred to the great and wealthy Province of Ontario, as 't'hat town in Canada." In the United States it was believed that Canada was a cold, poor, benighted country. What had led to the great change in Britain, to the awakened knowledge in the United States. Why, good, sensible, systematic advertising. So far as the speaker knew, Canada was the first nation which said, "We will build up our country and make it one of the first in the world; and we will do it by advertising." He went on to tell how Hon. Clifford Sifton began the advertising of Canada on a clear-cut and systematic plan. The result of that advertising was that a million people were added to the population of the three Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta. Millions of dollars of wealth had come in with or been created by these immigrants, and millions of dollars of trade was done by them. The Hon. Mr. Sifton insisted on truth in all his advertising, and so he had the grain in the stalk, in the bag, in the flour in the barrel, and all the other products of Canada sent on exhibition to the States, to Britain and to all of Europe, and by-and-bye the people began to realise what a splendid country lay north of the forty-ninth parallel. The lasting effect of this solid, honest advertizing method on Canada was incalculable. It was only just necessary to point to the immigration from the States to the Dominion to realize in some measure what were the benefits. This system of advertising had nothing to do with politics, or with tariffs. It had to do with honest and sensible advertising, for the agent who does not bear these in mind will fail. "Be sure your advertisement will find you out," said Mr. Hawkes. Mr. Hawkes then proceeded to apply the lesson from Canada's successful advertizing methods to those of every-day work, and held that the best advertizing was always that which was straight, which could not be controverted, and he pointed out in glowing terms the splendid chances for all legitimate businesses now awaiting the capitalists and the energetic business men in the Dominion. Railway extension settlement and development were all so great that unless one went into the country it could not be appreciated, and so he urged all who doubted the fact that Canada was a great, a progressive, and a prosperous country, to visit it and see for themselves.

It is no surprise to note that the address of Mr. Hawkes was enthusiastically applauded; and Canadians will applaud him for setting forth where it will do much good, the advantages, the resources of Canada, and the splendid field of home-making, and settlement it presents.

If Canada has, as is no doubt the fact, so greatly benefitted by advertising, might not our aldermen and Board of Trade take the lesson to heart, and combine in a systematic effort to advertise the resources of Peterborough and the advantages it affords as a site for industrial establishments. It may be said that nothing worthy of the occasion is now being done in this direction, and it should be impressed upon our authorities that some systematic scheme should be devised and carried out. A civic investment in printer's ink, wisely applied, would be a paying one.

TRIBUTE TO THE LEMIEUX ACT.

Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University, has made a close study of the operation of the Canadian industrial disputes act, and unhesitatingly recommends the enactment of similar legislation by the States of the American Union.

In McClure's for September, Dr. Eliot, after outlining the chief features of what he terms "the benficent Canadian act," which has now been in operation since March 22, 1907, proceeds to deal with what has been accomplished by it. He shows that in 96 per cent. of the cases coming within its purview, strikes have been averted. These pertained to disputes concerning mines, railroads, street railways, 'longshoremen, teamsters, and sailors. Analyzing the 55 applications that have arisen under the act and have resulted in the creation of 49 awards, the writer shows that strikes were avoided or ended in 25 coal mines, 4 metalliferous mines, 15 railroads, 3 street railways, 2 bodies of 'longshoremen, 1 of teamsters, 1 of sailors, and in 2 industries that are not public utilities. The six cases in which boards were not created were settled promptly through the influence of the act. Some of the disputes involved thousands of men.

The fact that Canadian workingmen have been applicants for the creation of boards in 46 cases is considered by Dr. Eliot evidence that they have acquired confidence in the operation of the act. Not in a single case did the employers ultimately reject the advice of the boards, "and," the writer says, "they must have taken satisfaction in the fact that interruption of service to the public was prevented in 53 cases out of 55."

One feature of the act which appeals strongly to Dr. Eliot is the entire absence of any provision whatever for arbitration. Neither party promises to abide by the decision of the board or to adopt its recommendations. The act relies exclusively on discussion, conciliation, publicity and public opinion.

In the opinion of Dr. Eliot, not the least beneficial result of the act is that although perfect liberty to strike or lock out ultimately is reserved under the act, several weeks must elapse from the time the dispute began before work can be stopped. Thus there is time for passion to cool and for the cost of war to be counted by both parties. The interests of the public may also get some sort of effective expression during this interval, and when the report of the board is thoroughly published, in accordance with the provisions of the act, public opinion, being well informed, usually expresses itself with clearness and force.

A TARIFF COMMISSION

(Brantford Expositor.)

Mr. G M. Murray, the general secretary of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, has prepared an elaborate article in support of the propcsal for the appointment of a national tariff commission for this country. He says:

Surely it is time that the tariff ceased to be made the football of party politics. Let us elevate it to the level of a business issue, where it rightly belongs. Adapting the words of ex-Governor Guild of Massachusetts, to conditions in Canada, let parliament continue to divide the dutiable from the free, let it continue to fix the rates of duty that shall apply, but let it have for tariff legislation as for other legislation, a sources of information which can be relied upon as official, impartial, exhaustive, freed from class and political influences, such information, in short, as can only be secured through the agency of a permanent, non-partisan commission of experts, the members of which are men of wide experience, well-seasoned judgment and irreproachable character.

The proposal for a commission is not a new one, but the work which is chiefly planned for such a body, namely that of acquiring information for the guidance of the Finance Minister, might easily be prepared by experts in the direct employment of the government, without opening the way for constant interference by outsiders with the policy of the administration of the day. The framing of the tariff is not a matter of exact mathematical deduction, nor yet a question of trade, but has its political side as well.

A further objection to the appointment of a commission would be the tendency to keep trade in a constant state of uncertainty by making the tariff less a fixture than it is at the present time; an objection which in itself would seem to more than offset any advantages which have thus far been claimed for a commission.

Bryce and Ward Here.

Montreal, Sept. 2.—Two distinguished visitor to Montreal yesterday were Sir Joseph Ward, Premier of New Zealand and Ambassador Bryce.

It is understood that the British Foreign Office has been attempting to locate Sir Joseph by cable for the last 48 hours, and that they eventually appealed to Ambassador Bryce to get into communication with him. They were closely closeted together at the Windsor all morning, refusing all interviews. Later on in the day they inspected the harbor with Major Stephens and Mr. C. C. Ballantyne. It is understood that yesterday's conference was for the purpose of imparting to Sir Joseph certain recommendations of the British Government in regard to New Zealand's naval policy, which the Admiralty had decided after the Premier left England.

Titled Victim of Auto Wreck.

London, Sept. 2.—Jack Southwell Russell, Lord De Clifford, was killed in an automobile accident yesterday at Ramber, near Brighton. His car collided with another vehicle and turned turtle, and Lord De Clifford was killed instantly. Lord De Clifford was born in 1884. In February, 1906, he married Eva Carrington, who at one time was on the stage as one of the "Gibson Girls" in a local comedy.

Five Pittsburg Firemen Hurt.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 2.—Five firemen were injured, one fatally, by a fire which yesterday afternoon destroyed the transfer and storage house of J. A. Blanck, in the east end section, and spread rapidly to a number of adjoining buildings.

Some time after the fire started, the walls for the storage house fell carrying down an adjacent hotel.

The loss is estimated at $300,000.

Was Murdered on a Wager.

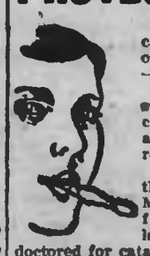
Chatham, Sept. 2.—Archie Skirving, Pere Marquette, claims agent, arrived here Tuesday, after several weeks spent in Denver after his son's death in an hospital there. It is alleged that the shooting of young Victor Skirving was the result of a wager between a man and his comrades that he could hit that fellow across the lake, meaning young Skirving.

PROTECTS YOU FROM COLDS



As the only way to reach catarrh is by inhaling medicated air, it follows that the healing balsams of Catarrhozone can't fail to cure. It is a purely vegetable antiseptic—soothes and heals wherever it goes.

The germ-killing vapor is inhaled at the mouth and instantly spreads through all the breathing organs. Every case of bronchitis and catarrh is rooted out, and such health and strength is imparted that these troubles never again return.

Catarrhozone has cured thousands, and here is quoted the experience of Mrs. James A. Tweedle, of Jay Bridge, Maine, who sent for sixteen outfits of Catarrhozone for friends in her locality. This lady gives very full particulars why she did so. Her daughter, fourteen years old, had doctored for catarrh, obtaining no benefit, tried lots of other remedies, but nl failed—recommended by a neighbor to try Catarrhozone. Instead of despairing, as she had good reason for doing, obtained Catarrhozone and before it was done, as she states, she was completely cured. No wonder she recommends it. Child had dropping in the throat, hawking, spitting; father thought she was going into consumption; could not sleep at night, and adds: "I only wish anyone suffering from catarrh to give it a fair trial."

Just Breathe "Catarrhozone" and You're Insured Against Colds, Coughs, Bronchitis and Catarrh.

Not difficult for Catarrhozone to cure, because it contains the essences of pine balsams and other antiseptics that simply mean death to catarrh and colds. Large size, guaranteed, $1; medium size, 50c; small trial size, 25c. All dealers, or by mail from the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Unchanged—Cattle Slow, Hogs Steady at Buffalo.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—London cables for cattle are firm, at 13½c to 13¾c per lb. for Canadian steers, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 10¼c to 10½c per lb.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Sept. 1.—(Special.)—An easier feeling has prevailed in the market for ocean cattle freight during the past week or ten days, and rates at some ports are 2s 6d per head lower.

A fair amount of business has been done in Liverpool space at 32s per head for small lots, and 30s has been accepted for large lines.

There is very little demand for London space, for which agents are asking 22s to 30s per head.

Glasgow space is in good demand on account of the fact that agents have decided to carry smaller numbers on the vessels, and, as shippers find that more than 600 head per week are going to that port, they are willing to book at 32s per head.

The demand for Manchester space is increasing, and engagements have been made at 30s per head.

At the Canadian Pacific live stock market this morning the offerings were 1160 cattle, 600 sheep, 400 lambs, 1200 hogs and 300 calves.

A feature of the market was the keen demand for northwest ranch cattle, of which there were about 600 head, and, as the quality of the same was rather above the average, good prices were realized for them. In easiest lots the steers were sold at $4.65, and the cows at $4.50 per 100 lbs. to dealers who later in the day finally jobbed them out to the butchers at 5c to 5¼c for the steers, and at 4½c to 4¾c for the cows, per lb.

There was also a good demand for Ontario cattle, and, as supplies on the whole were not in excess of the requirements of the trade, the market was active, with a steady undertone. Choice steers sold at 5c to 5¼c; good at 4¾c to 4¾c; medium at 4c to 4¼c; cows at 3c to 4½c, and bulls at 2c to 3½c per lb.

The market for small meats was active, there being a good demand for all lines, and, as supplies were somewhat larger than usual, buyers had no difficulty in filling their wants, and a brisk trade was done.

In lambs the feeling was weaker, on account of the increased offerings, and prices declined ¼c per lb., with sales at 5¼c, but sheep ruled steady at 3¾c per lb. Calves, with a good demand, at prices ranging from $3 to $15 each, as to size and quality.

A stronger feeling developed in the hog situation, and prices scored a further advance of 15c to 25c per 100 lbs. The supply was larger than on Monday, but the demand from packers was keen, as most of them were short of stock, and in consequence sales of selected lots were made freely at $8.75 to $9 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Sept. 1.—Cattle—Receipts, 150 head; slow; prime steers, $6.85 to $6.90.

Veals—Receipts, 50 head; active and steady.

Hogs—Receipts, 1600 head; fairly active; steady on heavy, and 10c to 15c higher on light; heavy and mixed, $6.40 to $6.50; yorkers, $6 to $6.40; pigs, $6.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 400 head; active; sheep steady; lambs 25c to 50c higher; lambs, $5.50 to $6.

New York Live Stock.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Beeves—Receipts, 1709; good steers, with weight, firm; medium and common slow to 10 to 15c lower; bulls steady; cows steady to strong; steers, $4.60 to $6.65; bulls, $3.75 to $5.50; cows, $3.50 to $4. Exports, 2000 quarters of beef.

Brockville, Sept. 2.—At Glen Buell Church, ten miles from Brockville, last Sunday, the young people of the Sunday school, especially invited to be present all the aged people of the district, as well as representatives of old pioneer families removed to other districts.

A feature of the day was the presentation to Mrs. J. W. Booth of Lyon Wan of a silver cup, presented by A. E. Donovan, M.P.P., for the oldest person present. She is 90 years and [illegible] months old.

TWO INCHES LONGER ash-pit means larger ash-pan, less emptying

Pandora ash-pit is made two inches longer than usual, providing accommodation for larger ash-pan. Pandora ash-pan therefore does not require so frequent emptying as the small ash-pans of ordinary ranges. Pandora has many features that save time, labor and fuel. Just you ask the McClary agent to show them to you.

What Are They Worth?

Are the eyes worth at least five hundred dollars per year to any man, woman or child. You would spend five dollars per year upon them, if necessary, would you not? How much do they cost you? How much do you spend on your feet, your hats, your teeth, etc. Some wait until they must see about their eyes and would give hundreds of dollars but find it too late. Many parents bring their children that we may examine their eyes and see whether or not they need glasses. In childhood is the time to both remedy and prevent eye troubles. Again we ask what are your eyes worth to you and what to the child? We devote exclusive attention to the eyeglasses and artificial eyes.

MUSICIAN MOVING TO PETERBOROUGH

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. McKim of Millbrook to Take up Residence Here.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. McKim and family leave for Peterborough this week, where they intend to reside. Their removal from town will be a distinct loss to Millbrook. Mr. McKim will be missed in the S.S. Orchestra, of which he has been a member for several years. He is a first-class cornet and violin player, and no doubt his services will be in demand in the Electric City, and we would not be surprised to see him a leading cornetist in the Peterborough Band. Miss Ilein McKim has been a members of the Methodist choir, and in this as well as in social circles she will be missed. Mrs. McKim and Master Will and the Misses Maye and Evelyn will also be missed in social circles. The Mirror joins with a host of friends in wishing them continued success in their new home.—Millbrook Reporter.

NO GREASE OR DANGEROUS DRUGS.

In "Herpicide," the New Scientific and Successful Dandruff Treatment.

Have you dandruff? Then you have a contagious parasitic disease, unpleasant, unhealthy, and one that will eventually lead to baldness. To cure it you must destroy the parasite that eats at the root of the hair. The only preparation for destroying these germs is Newbro's Herpicide. Charles Klein, of Laramie, Wyo., says: "Herpicide allayed the itching, cured the dandruff and stopped my hair falling out; and it is bringing a new crop of hair." Herpicide is free from grease or dangerous drugs, and makes hair glossy and soft as silk. One bottle will convince you of its merits. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10 cents in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Sold by McDermid & Jury, Druggists; also Payne's Drug Store. One Dollar bottles guaranteed.

MR. GEO. RILEY HAS RETURNED HOME

His Friends Pleased That He Has Recovered From Recent Illness.

The many friends of Mr. George Riley will be pleased to learn that he is convalescing at his home, corner of King and Bethune streets, and it is expected that he will soon have regained his former vigour. He returned from St. Joseph's Hospital a few days ago and has been receiving the congratulations of his friends upon his recovery. It is hoped that it will be but a short time until he is entirely well again.

LOOK OUT FOR PNEUMONIA

Your system is in a run-down condition. You catch cold. You think it will soon pass off. It doesn't. You neglect taking any special care of yourself. Bronchitis develops and then comes pneumonia and a fight for life. A fight which is too often unsuccessful. Why not take every cold seriously and cure it promptly by using Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

G.N. GORDON APPOINTED SOLICITOR FOR BARBERS

Shops Will be Closed on Labour Day—A Recent Meeting.

At a recent meeting of the local Barbers' Union, Mr. G. N. Gordon was appointed solicitor for the union. The shops will be closed on Labour Day. Other business was transacted but is of interest only to the barbers themselves.

STEAMER KATHLEEN WAS STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

Lindsay Craft was hit by Bolt During Tuesday Night's Storm and was Burned to the Water's Edge—Members of the Crew who Were on Board had Narrow Escape.

Lindsay, Sept. 1.—The trim little steamer Kathleen, owned by Messrs. Elliott and Moynes, was struck by lightning at the lower wharf, Sturgeon Point, shortly after eight o'clock last evening, and burned to the water's edge.

All that is left to-day of the popular little boat is the hull which is sunk near where she was burned.

Lightning's Quick Work.

The steamer Kathleen had crossed the lake when a fierce electrical storm was at its height. The passengers were landed safely at the wharf and after everything was on shore Captain Elliott repaired to his cot to rest himself. Engineer Moynes was in another part of the boat, when suddenly an electric flash shot across the sky followed by a deafening report.

Mr. Moynes the next minute opened the engine room door and was met by a mass of flame from a fiery furnace. He grabbed an armful of bed clothes and shouted to Captain Elliott that the boat was in flame! That gentleman lost no time in leaving the vessel, and barely escaped with his life.

Engulfed in Flames

Those who heard the crash of lightning, and who ventured out, state that the Kathleen was enveloped in flames in a remarkably short space of time, the fiery element engulfing it as if it had been constructed of paper.

To the Rescue

The reflection from the burning vessel lit up the heavens, and attracted the visitors from all parts of the Point. A bucket brigade was organized in an attempt to stem the tide of the flames, but the vessel was doomed to destruction. Two holes were cut in the hull for the purpose of sinking her, but that portion of the boat had also been reached by the flames. The blaze was extinguished about 8:30 o'clock, and all there was left of the popular little boat was the smoking hull.

Another Week's Run

When the boat was struck Mr. Elliott jr. was on shore posting up a notice that the Kathleen would continue her trips to the Point until September 7th, arrangements to that effect having been made during the evening.

Bass In These Waters Have Been Wormy For Many Years

Regarding the statement that the bass in the river and lake are particularly wormy this year, and have been during the past few years, a gentleman who is well acquainted with the waters of this county, having fished in them since boyhood, states that they are no worse than 18 years ago, or any time within those years. To the Examiner he stated that he has found no change in the condition, which has always caused fishermen considerable disappointment. Whether the bass are more wormy than heretofore is another question, but it is a fact that for years they have been practically the same as now, in spite of the statements that it is of only recent years that the condition of the bass has been particularly noticed. He holds that the fish of the upper lakes have been the same as those in the Otonabee and Rice Lake, and there has been no difference in any of the waters of this county, as far as his experience vouches for.

Building Permits Still Show An Increase Over Last Year's

August, 1909.. .. .. .. .. .. .. $46,590.00
August, 1908.. .. .. .. .. .. .. $35,195.00

Increase .. .. .. .. .. .. .. .. $11,395.00

The building permits issued by the city during August totalled $46,590, an increase of $11,395 over the amount of building done during August, 1908. Every month of 1909 is returning an increase, with the result that the year is likely to be one of the best in the history of Peterborough. August did not see any large contracts let, the Peterborough Lumber Company's new mill being the greatest, at $8,000. The building trade has enjoyed prosperity this summer, and it is learned that the operations will continue until the snow falls.

Twenty-Two Lunge Caught By Party At Lake In A Few Hours

Twenty-two fish in a few hours were taken from Rice Lake a few evenings ago by the tourists of Jubilee. They were trawling between Sheep and Black Island, when the fun started about supper time. By the time the dusk was beginning to lower the skiffs and canoes straggled home singly and when the official count was made there were just 22 'lunge ranging from 7 to 16 lbs.

Resident Of City For Half A Century Passed Away

A very old resident of Peterborough has just passed away in the death of Lucy Barber, wife of Mr. Alexander Dawson, who died yesterday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock, at her home, 92 Dufferin street, city. The deceased who was seventy-four years of age, had lived in Peterborough for over fifty years and was widely known and highly respected by everyone. To the older residents of Peterborough, especially, will the intelligence that she has passed away come as a shock. Mrs. Dawson was born in England, but came to Peterborough with her husband over half a century ago, and had lived here ever since. She was only taken seriously ill Sunday night. Her husband and three of her sons, Messrs. George, Herbert and Albert were at her bedside when death's call came. There are left to mourn her loss her husband and a family of seven, one daughter and six sons. The daughter, Miss Alice Dawson, is at present on a vacation trip to the Pacific Coast. The sons are, George of Montreal, Herbert of Port Arthur, Albert, of Fort William, Edward Harry and James, of Nanton, Alta.

The funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m., from the family residence, 92 Dufferin street, to Little Lake cemetery.

DIARRHŒA, DYSENTERY, COLIC, STOMACH CRAMPS, CHOLERA MORBUS, CHOLERA INFANTUM, SEASICKNESS, SUMMER COMPLAINT and all LOOSENESS OF THE BOWELS

MAY BE RAPIDLY AND EFFECTUALLY CURED BY THE USE OF

DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY

The medicine with a record of cures extending over 65 years. You don't experiment when you buy it.

MRS. JOSEPH MATCHETT, Huntsville, Ont., writes: "It gives me much pleasure to write you of the wonderful benefit I have found in your medicine. Last summer it saved the lives of my three little ones. They all took the summer complaint and were very sick with it. The baby would take fits, and after trying many remedies, which were of no use, I suggested we should try Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. After giving them one bottle I found a great change, and now my little ones are as well as ever. We have never been without it since, and I have recommended it to my friends."

MRS. S. A. HARRISON, Napanee, Ont., writes: "I take great pleasure to send you this testimonial of what Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has done in our family. My daughter's little girl, three years old, took summer complaint and was nearly dead. After all other remedies failed I thought of your remedy. The first dose gave relief and the third cured her. My son had diarrhoea and a few doses stopped it right away. I advise all mothers to have a bottle of Dr. Fowler's on hand all the time. It is a grand medicine for young and old, and I cannot recommend it too highly in all trouble where the bowels become too loose. A few doses will check the trouble at once."

Refuse Substitutes. Price 35 cts. They're Dangerous. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

BEGGED FROM DOOR TO DOOR

Young Man Arrested Last Night—Appeared in Court To-day.

Robert Carruthers was charged with begging from house to house in the city yesterday, in the police court this morning. He was arrested last night in an intoxicated condition and this morning when he came into court he had not altogether recovered from the effects of his drinking the night before. He could not remember anything that occurred, he said, and in order to freshen his memory Chief Rossel asked that the prisoner be remanded for one week.

Carruthers said that his home was in Toronto, but he had been mining in Cobalt. He came back with rheumatism and had been unable to do anything since.

SONS OF SCOTLAND OUT FOR BUSINESS

New Representative in the City Looking After More Members.

Mr. John Morris, representing the Grand Camp Sons of Scotland, Toronto, is in the city in the interests of the order. He will remain for some time with the object of increasing the membership of the local camp, and he expect the members to roll up their sleeves and assist him. His headquarters is at the Snowden House.

THE BEST HERITAGE

Good health is one of the first requisites to success. Prolonged application to any subject cannot be sustained without well fed nerves.

If nervous energy could be secured by a large cash payment, every person would make a big effort to find the money.

By reason of well directed study, assisted by practical experience, a way has been found to supply energy to jaded and overwrought nerves, without its costing a fortune.

Pure fresh air, exercise, and eating the simplest foods will produce this desired result.

Among foods for human consumption none contain the necessary elements to sustain life in greater quantities than milk and wheat.

Orange Meat which is made from the whole wheat, thoroughly steam cooked, malted, flaked and toasted, contains the necessary elements to sustain life in greater proportions than any other cereal.

ORANGE MEAT and milk is a perfect food.

THE WEATHER.

That the fall season is rapidly approaching, if it is not here already, is evidenced by the decided coolness in the air these mornings. This morning there was quite a heavy white frost, and the thermometer of the official observer marked 36 degrees as the lowest during the night, but in lower sections of the town tender plants received a nipping. The highest temperature during August was 93 degrees in the shade; the lowest, 36 degrees. The rainfall during August was about 1¾ inches.

AUTOMOBILE CASE

Refused to Stop While Funeral was Passing.

The case of Henry Hamilton of Cobourg, for refusing to stop his automobile when passing a funeral on Sunday, Aug. 22nd, has been postponed, at the request of the defendant's solicitor, until Tuesday, Sept. 7th. The charge reads as follows:

"That Henry Hamilton, of Cobourg, being the driver of a certain motor vehicle of which W. H. McKay, of Cobourg, is the owner, did, on the 22nd day of August, upon overtaking a funeral procession upon a public highway within the limits of the town of Port Hope, refuse to stop his motor vehicle contrary to the statute in such case made and provided.—Port Hope Guide.

AN ANSWER TO UNSECTARIAN

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—In a day like the present, when the demands of God's law are so little heeded, it is difficult to place before the public the difference between law and grace; "the law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ"; John 1:17. The law all summed up in the ten commandments, which were not given till four hundred and thirty years after Abraham, and Enoch lived before the flood, some nineteen hundred years before the law; so neither were under the Mosaic law. But the law was given to show to man what God required, and the people said all that the Lord has said we will do, yet in John 7.19 Christ had to say: "Did not Moses give you the Law, and yet none of you keepeth the Law!"

Stephen's testimony in Acts 7:53 'a, "Who have received the Law by the disposition of Angels, and have not kept it." Who ever lived who has measured up to Luke 10:27, but Jesus Christ. He alone stands preeminently Holy. Matt. 1:21 is quoted by "Unsectarian": "He shall save His people from their sins"; then God's people have sins to be saved from! A saved man was not always saved, and as unsaved was not God's, but God sent His Son in His Grace to die for the sinner, and rise again before ever God could make the sinner His child, and all who are thus "Regenerated" by the Holy Ghost through faith in a "finished" work on Calvary's Cross are God's people." None else can claim any relationship to God. See Romans 3:10: "There is none righteous; no not one." Also verses 19:20 "That every mouth may be stopped and all the world become guilty before God." "Therefore by the deeds of the Law there shall no flesh be justified in God's sight; for by the Law is the knowledge of sin." Where is boasting there? It is excluded. By what law? of works? Nay, but by the law of faith, therefore, we conclude that a man is justified by faith without the deeds of the law"; please read the whole of the fifth chapter of Romans, for further light on the light, also Romans, 6 ch.., verses 17, 18, 20, 22; Ephesians 2:4 says: "But God, who is rich in mercy, for His great love wherewith He loved us even when we were dead in sins, hath quickened us together with Christ; (by grace ye are saved;") also in verses 8-9 of same chapter the Inspired Apostle writes: "for by grace are ye saved through faith, and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of God; not of works, lest any man should boast." Gal. 3:10 we have another startling statement: "for as many as are of the works of the law are under the curse; for it is written curs' is every one that continueth not in all things that are written in the book of the law to do them, but that no man is justified by the law in the sight of God, it is evident, for the just shall live by faith," so we see all are found to be under God's curse by having broken His Holy law, and once broken can never be mended, but death, due to sin, Now, notice this revelation of God's "grace" and the "love" of Jesus Christ, verse ten of Gal. 3, says: "Christ hath redeemed us from the curse of the law being made a curse for us". This is just like God; He loved us; He showed us our sins by His Holy Law; we saw our undone condition, and fled to Christ for safety, and He received all who thus come. All are saved who believe the glorious Gospel, and trust in Christ. None do keep the law, hence none will ever be saved that way, for the Apostle says: "If life came by the law, verily righteousness would be by the law, but Christ is the end of the law for righteousness." "To every one that believeth the law is our school master, to bring us to Christ." Gal. 3:24: God has only one way of saving a sinner, and that way is through Christ and Him alone, not Christ and the law; nor Christ and our own good work. Not Christ and our doing the best we can. This is not my word, but God's own precious word of the Gospel. "Gospel" means good news. I'm quite sure it is no good news to a poor sinner to tell him he must keep the ten commandments when he knows he has tried and failed, but what grand news to one such, to tell him that another has borne his judgment and paid his debt, and satisfied all the righteous claims of a thrice holy God, so that Holy One sends the good news to him that God so loved him that He gave His only Son to die in his stead, and all he has to do to be saved from wrath to come is to come as a poor, lost guilty sinner and receive a full and a free pardon and all who accept the Christ by faith in a "finished" work. God not only pardons, but justifies, sanctifies, and glorifies. This, then is the difference between law and grace. The law shows me what I am, and grace shows me what I may be. To illustrate, the law is like a mirror; in the mirror I see that my face is not clean; I do not attempt to wash in the mirror; I run to the water. So I see by the law I am a sinner, and I flee to Christ for cleansing. Thus the blood of Jesus Christ, God's Son, cleanseth us from all sin.

I, being the speaker referred to by "Unsectarian," I answer in defence of the Gospel.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I remain
Yours truly,
G. W. MULLIGAN.

The injuries while exteremely painful, are not serious.

Human Life Increased BY FOURTEEN YEARS

Longer life is due to better understanding of Nature's Laws and use of such medicines as DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

During the last century the average life of man has increased by about four years. Insurance statistics prove this.

What is the reason?

People are learning to take better care of their health and to follow the laws of sanitation and hygiene.

The first law of health and the most important calls for "Daily movement of the bowels."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have helped to prolong the life of many because they have enabled them to follow this first law of health.

A torpid, sluggish condition of the liver and kidneys is certain to bring constipation of the bowels, clogging of the digestive and excretory systems, poisoning of the blood and give rise to the most dreadfully painful and fatal of diseases.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills purify the blood and cleanses the system as no other treatment can because of their unique and combined action on the filtering and excretory organs—the liver, kidneys and bowels.

Mrs. R. Morrow, Bracebridge., Ont., writes: "For years I was troubled almost constantly with constipation of the bowels and never got anything to do me the lasting good that has been obtained from Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They not only relieved the trouble but have entirely cured the headaches from which I used to suffer, and have improved my health in a general way."

DATE OF WEST PETERBORO' ELECTION TRIAL POSTPONED

Justices Magee and McMahon Grant Notice for Postponement—All This Trouble Would Have Been Avoided if Mr. Burnham had Appeared for Examination on July 6th.

This morning at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, Justices McGhee and McMahon heard argument on the motion that an order issue for the postponement of the trial of the petition and cross petition in the West Peterborough protested election case. The order was granted for postponement, and subsequently the date was adjourned to Monday, July 27th.

Mr. G. H. Watson, K.C., appeared for Hon. Mr. Stratton, and the petitioner, Mr. Burnham, was represented yb Mr. J. E. Jones.

The grounds upon which the motion was based were as follows:

That Mr. J. H. Burnham refused to answer certain questions that were asked him on his examination on the 30th of June last, and that he also failed to produce on such examination certain books, papers, vouchers and receipts showing the expenditure of his legitimate expenses and the expenditure of other moneys and such examination was adjourned to the 6th day of July to enable Mr. Burnham to produce his cheques and papers.

That Mr. Burnham refused to sumbit to examination and produce his documents and papers on the 6th of July last, on the ground that he claimed that July and August were legal holidays and that he was not bound to do so notwithstanding that it was expressly pointed out that it would prejudice Mr. Stratton in his preparation for the trial of the petition on the 7th of September.

A motion was thereupon immediately made on behalf of Mr. Stratton to compel Mr. Burnham to attend upon his examination, answer the questions and produce his books and documents and this motion was returnable at Osgoode Hall, on the 13th of July last.

Upon the hearing of this motion Mr. Burnham's solicitors applied for an adjournment thereof until the 20th of July last, and Mr. Stratton's solicitors opposed such adjournment on the grounds that if he could not get Mr. Burnham examined it would prejudice a fair trial of the motion. The motion was nevertheless adjourned.

Upon the hearing of the adjourned motion Mr. Burnham's solicitors again applied for a further adjournment until the 23rd of July last, which application was opposed by Mr. Stratton's solicitors. The further adjournment was granted.

Again upon the hearing of the adjourned motion on the 23rd of July last, Mr. Burnham's solicitors again applied for a further enlargement until July 28th last, which adjournment was again opposed by Mr. Stratton's solicitors upon the ground that if the trial were to take place on the 7th of September, these constant enlargements would prejudice a fair trial of the action and that the granting of these requests would result in the adjournment of the trial.

Finally the motion was heard on the 28th of July, argument took place before the Hon. Mr. Justice Magee and he reserved judgment, and has not yet delivered judgment.

On or about the 6th of July last, notice of motion was made returnable on the 13th of July at Osgoode Hall, on behalf of Mr. Stratton, to compel Mr. Burnham to furnish better particulars of the time and place, when and where, he alleges that the violations of the Election Act took place, and to give the names of the parties that he charges so that they would be in a position to meet them at the trial, and would have an opportunity to subpoena their witnesses to answer the charges, and that the particulars furnished by Mr. Burnham were vague and indefinite, and if better particulars could not be given they should be struck out altogether.

That upon the hearing of this motion for better particulars on the 13th of July Mr. Burnham's solicitors applied for an adjournment thereof to the 20th of July, and Mr. Stratton's solicitors opposed the adjournment upon the ground that if it were granted he would not have time to investigate the charges before the date fixed for the trial of the petition ond the 7th of September. The enlargement, at Mr. Burnham's request, was granted.

That upon the hearing of this adjourned motion for better particulars on the 20th of July, Mr. Burnham's solicitors again applied for a further enlargement until the 23rd of July, which adjournment was again opposed by Mr. Stratton's solicitors.

Finally the motion for better particulars was heard at Osgoode Hall before the Hon. Mr. Justice Magee on the 23rd of July and judgment was reserved, and judgment has not yet been delivered.

That every adjournment of these two motions has been made at the request of Mr. Burnham and his Solicitors and have been vigourously opposed by Mr. Stratton and his Solicitors, and hence Mr. Stratton says that under the circumstances and in view of the number of charges that are made against him and others in the indefinite particulars furnished it is impossible to prepare for the trial of the petition on the 7th of September without having a full and complete examination of Mr. Burnham as he is entitled to under the Election Act so as to ascertain the grounds upon which Mr. Burnham makes his charges, and to ascertain the names of parties he charges and the time and place, when and where the alleged offences were committed.

At once the counsel had concluded their argument their lordships gave judgment that an order issue for the postponment of the trial of the petition. In announcing the decision of their Lordships, Mr. Justice McGhee remarked that all the trouble that had arisen over the case might have been avoided if Mr. Burnham had submitted to examination for discovery on July 6th.

BICYCLIST HAD NARROW ESCAPE FROM INJURY FELL IN FRONT OF CAR

A man whose name could not be learned had a narrow escape from being seriously or perhaps fatally injured on George street last evening. A number of small boys were playing around Mr. Stevens' automobile, when a bicyclist approached. One of the youngsters ran around the end of the motor car, right in front of the man on the wheel and the "bikeist" was thrown heavily lighting in a heap in the centre of the street car track. To make matters worse a street car, south bound, was coming along at a fairly fast clip. It looked for a moment as if the unfortunate cyclist was going to be run over. The car was too close to him for the motorman to stop the car, although he did all that he could under the circumstances. Fortunately, however, the man managed to roll out of danger just before the car reached him. His wheel, however, was picked up and carried thirty feet before the car was stopped. The wheelman escaped unhurt.

BOQUET FOR CHIEF HOWARD AND THE MEN OF FIRE BRIGADE

Fire Chief Howard has received the following letter from Mr. J. W. Meyers, managing director of the Peterborough Cereal Company in connection with the services rendered by the brigade at the recent fire at the company's mill:

W. A. Howard,
Chief Fire Department, City:

Dear Sir,—During your absence from the city, attending the Firemen's Convention at Grand Rapids, we had occasion to summon the Fire Brigade to a fire at our mill on Simcoe street, and we wish to thank the firemen for the quick response to the call, and also for the efficient service rendered after their arrival.

Your men are apparently so well drilled that the work appears easy for them. In this you are to be commended.

We trust the firemen will be equally successful in the future. You will please find enclosed a check for $10. Kindly apply to the Firemen's Fund with our best wishes.

FINGERS BADLY CUT

Howard Kirn, Well Known Ball Pitcher was Painfully Injured.

Howard Kirn, the well-known young pitcher of the West End Senior City League Club, was painfully injured yesterday afternoon in such a manner that he will be unable to play any more ball this season. He was employed in the carpenter shop of the Quaker Oats Company on a small circular saw, and in some manner he allowed his right hand to come in contact with the rapidly revolving teeth. The result was that the two middle fingers were very painfully cut—and slashed. It was thought at first that he would lose at least one of his fingers, but after he had been removed to St. Joseph's Hospital it was found that it would be possible to preserve the fingers without amputation. However, it will be some time before he will be able to handle a baseball again.

10 PER CENT PER ANNUM 10

THE KEARNS INK CO. of Toronto was organized two years ago to manufacture the new CANADIAN WRITING INKS, invented by J. J. Kearns. The past two years has been spent in experimenting and improving quality and to-day it stands among the top notchers in the Ink world. This Ink has met with such spontaneous approval from users, and the trade has shown such willingness to buy in quantities, that the managers deem it wise to enlarge their operations and make a big staple business enterprise out of this Company, hence offer to the public. The total capital is only $40,000, so that you can see that this is no inflated and watered wild cat scheme, but a first-class legitimate investment offered to you—one where a dollar invested today will be worth at least two in a year and will pay 10 per cent. income on this.

PROFITS—There is a gross profit in this Ink of from 25 per cent. to 300 per cent. This is a clear cut business statement, every word of which we can substantiate.

Some Orders That we Received as to the Sale of Kearns' Ink. We found the demand practically without limit; we receiving orders and inquiries for the Ink far beyond our ability to supply the goods. Orders came from such houses as Central Business College, Ontario Government, Separate School Boards of Toronto and Peterborough, The Toronto Railway Co., Consumers Gas Company, National Trust Co. Limited, King Edward Hotel and many other large concerns of the country.

A Safe Management—The entire management is in the hands of a Board of Directors of leading business men—men of executive and financial ability, men of "made reputation," men who can be counted on to capably and honestly direct the affairs of the enlarged Company, and see that each and every shareholder receives every dollar of the earnings of his stock.

AN AMERICAN HAS DISCOVERED THE NORTH POLE

sources interested in his expedition, from a scientific viewpoint, but to his wife.

One assumption is that the message was sent primarily to assure his wife of his safety and not to apprise the world of his discovery.

But by chance, Mrs. Cook was not at her Brooklyn home, but spending the summer at Harpswell, Maine, so the despatch was received by Dr. E. T. Davidson, a personal friend of the explorer, who made its contents known and then flashed the good news on to Mrs. Cook.

Brief as it was the first news that she had from her intrepid husband since March 17, 1908, when he wrote from Cape Hubbard, on the edge of the polar ice sea, on the northwest side of Ellesmere Land. At that time he communicated to his companion, Rudolphe Franke, then stationed at Etah, Greenland, with supplies, to wait there until June for his return, but in the event of Dr. Cook's failure to appear to proceed to America.

Went Out With New Theory.

Dr. Cook, who was born at Calicoon Depot, Sullivan County, N.Y., in 1865, and is a resident of Brooklyn, went into the polar regions on this trip with a startling new theory as the basis for his final dash for the pole—that is, he intended to so time his advance that his journey over the great ice would fall in the winter. Radical as this may seem, great faith is expressed in it by ice men and pilots who have wintered in the great circle. Heretofore every explorer has pushed as far north as he could during the first summer, and then has established winter quarters.

A double purpose was always in view, to recuperate during the colder months for the hard dash that was to come and to wait until the moving of the ice had opened up leads to give the explorers a chance to travel by the boats. Dr. Cook has revolutionized all this and staked his life on the result. He is no inexperienced adventurer, but a cool, practical ice navigator, who has gone through many campaigns. He was surgeon and ethnologist of the first Peary expedition on the Zeta, a yacht, in 1893; organizer and commander of the expedition on the Miranda, a steamship, in 1894; surgeon, anthropologist and photographer of the Belgian Antarctic expedition of 1897-99, and surgeon to the Peary auxiliary expedition on the Erik, a steamship, in 1901.

Nothing has been heard from Dr. Cook for the last eighteen months. A special committee of the Arctic Club has, however, made careful calculations upon his probable whereabouts and had reached the conclusion that Dr. Cook has discovered the pole.

Heavy Storm Around Brockville.

Brockville, Sept. 2.—During Tuesday night, and continuing for many hours, Brockville was fairly bombarded with thunder and lightning. Buildings fairly shook, but very little damage seems to have resulted in the immediate vicinity. A barn belonging to Hennessey, near Belle's Crossing, was destroyed. In the Townships of South Oxford and Wolfrid considerable damage resulted. Torrents of rain fell.

Hamilton Theatre Burns.

Hamilton, Sept. 2.—Fire early yesterday morning swept the interior of the Savoy Theatre, on Merrick street, doing damage estimated at $30,000, and gave the city officials an anxious hour, as it was feared that the heavy strain on the waterworks pumps in their crippled capacity would cause them to break down, cutting off the water supply.

At West Tisbury, Mass., Walter H. Phillips of Phillipsdale, R.I., was thrown from his seat and killed and five other young men slightly injured, when an auto skidded at a sharp turn.

Steamer Catches Fire.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 2.—A special from Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., last night, says:

Considerable excitement was caused in marine circles yesterday afternoon when a report was received that the steamer North Wind was on fire at Whitefish Point in Lake Superior. The rumor was substantiated later by advices from the lighthouse at that station, stating that the North Wind was lying at anchor there, and had been fighting a fire all night.

The North Wind and North King left here Tuesday upbound for Duluth. When Whitefish was reached both boats took shelter under the point on account of a heavy northwest gale which was blowing.

Fire broke out in the after hatch of the North Wind about 5 o'clock in the afternoon and burned fiercely for an hour, threatening to destroy the boat. It was finally gotten under control, but all through the night a careful watch was kept, as fire still smouldered among the cargo, a portion of which was jettisoned during the night.

The fire is said to have been caused by an explosion of sulphuric acid which constituted a part of the cargo.

Bride's Relatives Beat Groom.

Kingston, Sept. 2.—That he was beaten, taken at 11 p.m. from a house where he was asleep in bed, pushed into a carriage, driven to the station and put on a train and given orders to return to his home in Deseronto, was the story told to Justice of the Peace Hunter in the County Court yesterday by Daniel Sophie.

Sophie, who is about 50 years of age, on July 25, married a Mrs. Corkey, aged about 70, living in Barriefield. Members of the family took objection to the match, and a row resulted.

Two sons of Mrs. Corkey and a son-in-law were charged with assault. One man had struck him in the face when he objected to leaving the house, and threatened to kill him if he refused. His story was corroborated by his wife.

The prosecution did not care to press the case, but wanted the accused bound over to keep the peace. A fine of $1 was imposed in each case, and all were bound over.

Municipal Association Meets.

Toronto, Sept. 2.—The annual meeting of the Ontario Municipal Association opened yesterday morning at the city hall. Mayor Geddes, St. Thomas, was chairman.

The chairman recommended the appointment of a committee to watch proposed amendments to the municipal act.

He favored a Dominion federation of the provincial municipal associations.

Mayor Geddes advocated an application to the Legislature for a share of the fines collected for violations of the liquor laws.

Inspector Ayerst Visits Farm.

St. Catharines, Sept. 2.—Some developments in consequence of a disgraceful affair at the farm of William Cubitt, north of Grimsby, on Sunday, are expected as the result of a visit to the vicinity by License Inspector Ayerst.

The matter was brought to light at the time by Rev. Judson Traux of Beamsville, a clergyman, who hunted up Constables Robinson and Tufford of Beamsville. They found some 30 or 40 men carousing over five large kegs of beer. North Grimsby is a local option township.

Steamer Struck by Lightning.

Lindsay, Sept. 2.—The steamer Kathleen was burned Tuesday night at Sturgeon Point, 12 miles from here, having been struck by lightning. The vessel was burned to the water's edge. Elliott and Moynes, the owners, were on board at the time. The vessel was valued at $3,500, and the insurance was $2,000.

Gives $100,000 to College.

Winnipeg, Sept. 2.—J. H. Ashdown, the millionaire hardware merchant, has donated $100,000 to the endowment of Wesley College, Winnipeg.

WILL FINE VISCOUNT.

Newfoundland Premier's Party Must Pay $200.

Vancouver, Sept. 2.—Viscount Lascelles, who accompanied Earl Grey on his northern trip, has been charged with shooting game out of season. Six deer heads have been seized and a fine of $200 will ensue.

It had been proposed also to proceed against the Governor-General, but investigation failed to show he had killed any game. His Excellency did not know that goats were included in the game unlawful to shoot. He expressed great delight at the strict enforcement of the laws protecting them and is pleased to see the laws exist.

Fight for Boy.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 2.—William S. Morton, of Detroit, and his 11-year-old son Neill, are engaged in playing hide and seek.

Neill Morton, with an elder brother, are owners of a considerable amount of real estate in the vicinity of Newmarket, Ont., left the boys by their mother, Mrs. V. L. Chaplin of Newmarket, an aunt, was appointed their guardian when Mrs. Morton died, since which time they have resided with her. Several efforts have been made by the father to obtain possession of Neill. An order of habeas corpus was obtained yesterday by Morton in the Wayne Circuit Court, Detroit, ordering Mrs. Emma Randall, with whom Neill was visiting, to produce the boy in court yesterday morning. Mrs. Randall fled with him Tuesday night to Newmarket and yesterday the court dismissed proceedings.

Morton says he will go to Newmarket and recover his son by force, if necessary.

Dundas Proud of Bertram.

Dundas, Sept. 2.—A reception was tendered last evening by the townspeople and military officers of the district to Col. Alex. Bertram, Bisley commandant, who arrived yesterday afternoon from England, to Private Fred Bibby, who won second place in the Governor-General's match at Ottawa, and a place on the Bisley team; and the High School Cadets, winners for good of the Pellatt trophy at the O.R.A. matches. Col. Bertram was met on his arrival by the 77th brass and bugle bands, and, with Private Bibby, was presented with an illuminated address. Private Bibby and the cadets were presented with souvenir medals.

Dreadnought is Stuck.

Bremen, Sept. 2.—An attempt to tow the new battleship Westphalen, the first of the German Dreadnoughts from the yard where she was built down the Weser, resulted yesterday in failure.

The vessel has been lifted five feet by pontoons, her draft being too great for the river, and six tugs tried to tow her as far as Nordenham, where she was to take her naval complement on board.

When it was seen she could not make the trip, the Westphalen was returned to her dock.

Save 25 Bars of Soap

Ordinarily you use at least one bar of laundry soap every week—more than fifty bars in a year.

That's twice as many as you need, for Taylor's Borax Soap goes twice as far as any other soap.

Please prove this for yourself—we invite the test. Try one bar of this soap with one bar of any other. See which soap lasts the longest—learn which is the cheapest.

We know what the result will be, for we have made this same test many times over—our soap lasts twice as long.

Taylor's Soap

Don't think that all soaps are alike—there is a wonderful difference in Taylor's Borax Soap. Let us show you some of the ways in which this soap differs from others.

First we use only the purest cocoanut oil from the Isle of Ceylon. Then we boil it doubly long and mix in the borax. While boiling we run thousands of gallons of clean water through the soap which carries away all impurities.

We require twenty-one days to make a single cake. The labor of more than 200 people is needed. We crush every bar under a weight of 30 tons to press out the moisture. We put every bar through an ageing process equal to standing six months in your pantry. So you don't have to age this soap.

When finished the bar is hard and firm, so it wears much longer. The borax softens the water which also reduces the amount of soap by almost half that ordinarily required.

This pure soap is utterly harmless to the skin—it leaves the hands whiter and softer than ever before. If it is so harmless to the skin, then think how harmless it must be to the clothes.

This soap comes to you absolutely pure with the creamy tint of the cocoanut oil. It lathers with the greatest abundance and leaves the clothes as pure and white as the foamy suds itself. Try a bar this day—it costs no more than common soaps but does more than any soap you have ever known.

THE BASE RUNNING CONTEST WILL TAKE PLACE SATURDAY

The base-running contest for the prise so kindly donated by Mr. Harry Neill will take place on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock before the final City League game, and promises to be a most interesting event. It will be open to all players who are eligible to take part in City League games, the only qualification being that the players must wear ball uniforms and regulation baseball shoes. The conditions are that the contestants shall stand at the home plate, bunt a ball slowly thrown over and then run the bases. The one making the fastest time wins the prize. There are a number of very speedy men on the different city league teams, and a creditable record should be made.

All those intending to take part must enter with the Secretary of the League at the Examiner office before 7.30 o'clock on Friday night. Only those who have entered before that will be allowed to take part.

LINDSAY WILL HAVE STRONG TEAM FOR LABOUR DAY GAME

The baseball war cry has been sounded good and plenty in the Scugog Camp, and the remnants of the good team that represented Lindsay way back in the nineties, reinforced by the most promising recruits of the City League, will present a formidable appearance when they stack up against the T. A. S. on Monday. The local club has shown enterprise in bringing the Lindsay ball tossers to town and as the fans are satisfied with the article of ball being put up by the Abstainers, a bumper gate is expected. The locals will line up in much the same way as they have all season, while the visitors will be headed by that terror of would-be base-stealers, William Cinnamon.

WALTER JAYES HAS BEEN DUBBED THE TINY STAR

Mr. John Jayes, of the Munro House, has received a letter from his nephew, Walter Jayes, who is playing left field for the Wilmington team, of the North Carolina League, in which it is stated that the Wilmington team is in the midst of a hot race for the pennant, with every prospect of winning out. They are a close second now and are confident of victory. Jayes has been christened by the Wilmington sporting writers as the Tiny Star, and from the clippings which accompanies the letter he seems to be living up to the title. Mr. Jayes visited Peterborough last fall and made a number of friends here, who will be glad to learn that he is contemplating another trip here as soon as the League is finished. He will probably go to Florida and play ball with one of the Gulf teams all winters, as he has received a good offer from one of the managers.

Miss Nellie Chapman returned to her home in West Toronto on Tuesday, after a two week's vacation with friends in town.

Mr. Ed. Barrigan is holidaying at Toronto, for a week or ten days.

Mr. Albert Armstrong left on Tuesday morning for Toronto, where he intends taking a course in the Horological School, and on the eve of his departure (Monday evening) his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Armstrong, tendered him a farewell party, at their residence, Ottawa street. About fifty guests were present and the evening proved a delightful event. Dancing and games of various kinds were the chief amusement of the evening, and was indeed greatly enjoyed by the young people present. At 12:30 o'clock the guests adjourned to the dining hall, where a sumptuous repast was partaken of, after which dancing was continued until the wee small hours, when one and all took the opportunity of bidding Albert good-bye and sending with him best wishes for a prosperous term at school.

A happy event took place on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the residence of Mrs. Bennington, King St., when Mrs. Alice Bennington was joined in the bonds of holy matrimony to Mr. John Burnett of town, Rev. Mr. Balfour officiating, in the presence of only the immediate friends of the contracting parties. The bride was assisted by Miss Alice Haig, while Mr. Wm. Burnett ably acted the part of groomsman. The young couple left on the afternoon train for a honeymoon to Seattle Exposition, the bride travelling in a tailor-made suit of brown with hat to match. The many friends of the bride and groom in town wish them every happiness in their married life.

Rev. Mr. Johnson, of Warkworth, and Rev. Mr. Mellor of Dummer, were the guests of Rev. Mr. Balfour, of town, on Tuesday.

WEDDING BELLS

STOCKER—CONKELL

The marriage of Miss I. B. Conkell, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Conkell, of Wilberforce, and Mr. Robert Stocker, of the Gowling Business College, Ottawa, was solemnized last evening at five o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Vallegee, 717 Bethune street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. P. Wilson, of Lindsay, in the presence of about thirty friends of the contracting parties. The bride who was given away by her father, was prettily attired in a Princess gown of white silk polienne. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and wore a wreath of lilies of the valley in her hair. The bride and groom were unattended. The groom's gift to the bride was a cabinet of silver. There was a beautiful array of costly and useful gifts, testifying to the esteem in which she is held by a host of friends. Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Conkell, Wilberforce, and Mrs. Hales, of Burleigh.

Mr. and Mrs. Stocker will leave on Friday for Ottawa, where they will reside.

BRIEGEL—MOON.

A fashionable wedding took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Moon, in Belleville yesterday, when their daughter Florence was married to Mr. Herman Frederick Briegel, of Montreal; Miss Aleen McKeown was bridesmaid, and Mr. Walter O. Briegel, of Peterborough, brother of the groom, was best man. Rev. J. P. Wilson, of Lindsay, performed the ceremony. The bride wore white satin with chiffon yoke and sleeves, trimmed with rose point lace and seed pearls. The bridesmaid was in white mull with white hat and golden glow, with which flower the house was also decorated. Among the wedding presents was a sterling silver dish, the gift of the Baptist church choir. Mr. and Mrs. Briegel left afterwards for the West. After a few weeks in the mountains they will take up their residence in Westmount, Montreal.—Lindsay Post.

Special Picture for To-day and To-morrow
"Thelly's Heart"
This is one of PATHE Freres' latest and strongest dramas, most beautifully mounted and artistically coloured. The scenes are laid in ancient Rome. It is a most interesting story, showing the great love of Thelly for Cyclon, of Ithie for Thelly, and of Fathima for Ithis, and how Ithis finally gambled with Fathima for Thelly's heart, and lost. One of Pathe's best.
"A Georgia Wedding"
This is a very funny picture of Southern Life. It shows the troubles of a poor coloured widow, who tries to get a husband, and she does, but the house won't fit, at least the bride is too tall, and there are heaps of trouble and fun arranging matters.
"The Barber's Revenge"
This is one of PATHE Freres' latest comedies, and one of the best, showing the revenge of the Barber on the Musician whom he caught making love to his wife. He certainly got his revenge. You should see it.

AIRSHIP AT TORONTO EXHIBITION TOOK A PLUNGE INTO THE LAKE

Aviator Willard Meets With Disaster at Toronto—Young American who Proposes to go From Toronto to Niagara Falls in a Bi-Plane Only Covers Three Yards Before he is Driven Down Into the Water—Will Make the Attempt Again Next Saturday.

Toronto, Sept. 3.—A flight of about 300 yards was made by the aeroplane Golden Dart, at Scarboro Beach park, last night, and then she took a dive into the bay carrying her driver, C. F. Willard down to nothing worse than a cold dip. Boats were soon sent out to the rescue and Willard was taken ashore. The machine was sufficiently buoyant to keep partly above water, and was easily towed in and hauled back to the test. The machine was slightly damaged, a few ribs being broken, and the propeller wrecked, but not beyond repair.

It was nearly dark when Willard took his seat on the biplane at 7.25 o'clock and prepared for the trial. Ever since Monday the aviators had been patiently waiting for the wind to drop and last evening when the breeze lessened somewhat Willard determined to attempt a flight. Several hundred people were present when the machine was run out on the lawn, and righted about on the speedway preparatory to the start. The engine was started at full speed, running at a rate of 1,300 revolutions a minute, which gave two men about all they could do to hold the plane in check until the order was given to release.

When released at the command of the driver the airship started along the speedway gathering momentum at every yard and after running on the three wheels, a distance of 100 yards she rose gracefully, and shot out over the lake at a rate of about 45 miles an hour. A cheer came from dozens of throats as the giant bird receded from land, her outlines growing dim in the semi-darkness, but an instant later a splash was seen, and the flight was over. The machine was not in the air longer than 10 seconds, but her performance was such as to convince the spectators that she was "sure enough" a flying machine. She rose to a distance of about 20 feet, curving gracefully and then swooped down to the water.

Willard was not discouraged by the performance, claiming that the accident was neither the fault of the machine nor his management of it. "A gust of wind caught me and bore me down," he said. The biplane usually rise about 30 feet, which gives me a chance to recover from wind drives, and I thought I was fully that high to-night, but was mistaken. When the gust of wind caught the plane the machine tilted and was carried down to the water before I had a chance to right her. We will wire to Hammondsport for another trial on Saturday."

Willard demonstrated that he is at home not only in the air but in the water as well. When the aeroplane dove into the bay nose first, Willard was thrown several feet out of his seat, in front of the machine. He promptly swam back, and climbed on top of the upper plane where he awaited a boat to take him off.

FAILED TO GET CLEAR

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Altoona, Pa., Sept. 3.—Nineteen young men and women, all members of an excursion party on a hay waggon were run down and seriously injured to-day by a Pennsylvania freight train near Williamsburg. The driver of the waggon tried to get across the tracks in front of the train, but was not quick enough.

CHICKEN HAWK MET DEATH AGAINST WINDOW

Monday forenoon a large chicken or sparrow hawk was seen hovering around over the village. Presently some sparows flew across Colborne St., like a dart the rapacious bird descended to try and capture one of the smaller birds, but it missed its prey and came against the plate glass window in Mr. T. J. Rahal's hardware store with such force that it broke its neck and fell to the pavement. Mr. Rahal picked the bird up and is having it sent to Elcome, the Peterborough taxidermist, to be mounted. The hawk measures thirty inches from tip to tip of its wings.—Norwood Register.

EXAMINER ADS. ALWAYS BRING DESIRED RESULTS

In the "Mail Order Journal of Advertisers" for September, published in Chicago, among a page list of journals with "investigated" and "testified" circulations, the Daily Examiner, Peterborough, stands as the only representative of Canada with a daily circulation of 2,907. Since this statement, which is the average daily circulation for the past six months, was issued, the figures have advanced to beyond 3,000. Can advertisers have any doubt that with such a circulation the Daily Examiner is the very best advertising medium in Peterborough, or the district. Big ads. or little ads. commercial ads. or want ads., placed in the Examiner, reach the eyes of most of the best people in the city. It is unnecessary to point out the advantages of the Examiner for advertising to the wise, and useless to point them out to others.

EXPERTS SATISFIED THAT COOK ACCOMPLISHED FEAT

Dillion Wallace who was With Leoindas Hubbard has Implict Faith in Fact That Explorer did as he Said—It Will not Stop Further Exploration Says Anthony Tiala—Dominion of Canada Claims Land.

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Sept. 3.—Dillon Wallace, the author and explorer, whose companion Leonidas Hubbard, became lost and starved to death while exploring Labrador, said yesterday afternoon that he had implicit faith in Dr. Cook's wonderful feat. Mr. Wallace has almost completed plans for an expedition to go to the relief of Dr. Cook. In his statement he said: "I knew Dr. Cook well, as he was one of the closest friends of my youth. You may trust in his veracity. I have known him intimately since he was born. When a boy he exhibited signs of a scientific bent. When he could, he would read of explorers, and study their methods. When I left on my last expedition, on May 30, 1905, Dr. Cook led a delegation of the Arctic Club, which went to the ship to see us off."

"It is impossible that Cook could have merely found the magnetic pole, Wallace said, having noted that there was some dispute as to the point Cook reached." His course would not have permitted that. Any one who has visited this country (meaning the north), who has studied conditions there, can realise how impossible it would be for him to reach the magnetic pole from the course he took.

Another point that would lend to help discourage statements which have been made by his critics, is that Dr. Cook's route was directly to Cracker Land, ending with a swift dash to the pole, which would lie directly north. Thus he would avoid the awful eastern drift of the terrible current in the polar seas, north of Greenland. Peary undoubtedly would have accomplished what Cook has done if he had been better acquainted with the dangerous conditions confronting him in the frozen seas. Parry tried to avoid this condition by going westward, but this was his undoing."

Asked what benefits would be derived from Dr. Cook's discovery by the U.S., Wallace said:

"The great northern country is a strange land to us. The geographical situation is a matter that is of real importance to our Government. I have not the least doubt that Dr. Cook has taken a series of geographical notes which will be of the great-

CITY SCHOOLS ARE READY FOR RE-OPENING ON TUESDAY NEXT

Renovations Made to the Buildings During the Summer Months. East City School Has Received the Chief Attention.

OTHER CHANGES

The Collegiate Institute, Public and Separate schools of the city will reopen on Tuesday morning next. The scholars have enjoyed a long vacation and will be ready again for work. A large number who have been summering at the lakes, will return home on Monday, and in a few days will again be settled down to daily routine of school life. Those who were successful at the midsummer examinations will be in new classes, whe hyeter will be in new classes, when they will meet with new teachers.

Mr. Mowat, Public School Inspector, to an Examiner reporter to-day, stated that everything was ready for the reopening. As in former years, a large number of children are expected to make their first start. The vacancies resulting from the resignations of Misses Meadows and Carlisle, have been filled by Miss Emmerson of Port Perry, and Miss Moore, of Peterborough, both of whom are graduates of the Peterborough Normal School.

Some Renovations.

The annual renovations have been made to the city schools, the buildings in East City receiving chief attention. The Ashburnham school has been painted.

A new roof has been placed on the kindergarten, and the waterworks system has been installed in the main school.

At the Central Schools the Inspector's office has been fitted up for a teachers' room, and henceforth the Inspector will have his apartments in the old Collegiate.

The new readers and spelling-book will be introduced throughout the city.

At the Separate Schools.

At a meeting of the Separate School Board last evening it was decided to purchase all text books and school supplies used by the pupils in the Separate Schools. The children will be supplied their books at a nominal monthly fee. This will mean a great saving to the scholars and they are asked not to purchase any books. The contract for the supplies was awarded last evening.

SOME OF THE MOTIONS OF GENERAL IMPORTANCE PASSED IN TORONTO

Ald. Phelan and Mr. S. R. Armstrong, City Clerk, have returned from the convention of representatives of Ontario municipalities. Among the many motions passed the following are several of general interest:

That the Executive prepare legislation for next session providing that all petitions to municipal councils, where the same are required as a condition precedent to some action by the Council, or to prevent some action by the Council, should have each signature witnessed with an affidavit of execution, and when a signature of one person is placed on the petition by another the authority to do so must be in writing and a copy of the authority accompany the petition, and where property qualification is required for the petitioner, the property in respect of which the petitioner signs shall be stated in the petition.

That in the opinion of this Association the legislative grant for the improvement of county road systems should be increased from one-third to one-half.

It was moved by Alderman Phelan seconded by S. R. Armstrong, that the matter of fees charged by the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board for the confirmation of debenture by-laws, and of the effect of such confirmation, be referred to the Executive Committee for consideration and such action as that committee deems advisable.

ICE A LUXURY IN ENGLAND

Why are we so far behind other countries in the use of ice? In the United States in the hot season ice is regarded as one of the necessities of life. In the towns the ice merchant delivers a large block every day as regularly as the milkman brings milk or the baker bread. All perishable foods are kept on ice as a matter of course, and an American housewife would be bitterly ashamed if her butter were to appear at table in such a state that it had to be helped with a spoon. All manner of delicious dishes and beverages, ice creams, frappes, sundaes, are concocted with ice or frozen milk as a principal ingredient. And not merely in the hot weather but throughout the year Americans consume iced water in fabulous quantities.

phusbandwC

It is believed by some that this may be one of the causes of the American tendency to dyspepsia. But it has been observed that English people who have spent a year or two in the United States always regret the ice creams and the iced water. It has been stated too that the large consumption of sugar in the various elaborate iced beverages is partly responsible for the relatively small consumption of liquor among Americans, since sugar, as some dietary experts believe, discourages the taste for fermented drink.—London News.

LEMIEUX ACT AND LABOUR

In view of the near approach of Labour Day, the Lemieux Act for the settlement of industrial disputes, assumes a special interest and significance. Its successes in accomplishing the objects of its enactment are well known and heartily recognized in Canada, and are enjoying complimentary attention in the United States. "The Best Way to Prevent Industrial Warfare" is the title of an interesting article to which nearly five pages are devoted in September McClure's Magazine. The article is from the pen of that well-known authority on social and economic problems, Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University.

Reviewing the success of the operation of the Canadian Act, Dr. Eliot, referring to the Lemieux Act, says:

"During the two years from March 22, 1907, to the end of March, 1909, fifty-five applications were received for the appointment of boards, under which forty-nine boards were set up. In the remaining six cases the disputes were settled, either during the discussions arising out of the application, or during the formation of the board; but these six cases of prompt settlement are obviously due to the influence of the Act—that is, to the prospect of complete publicity with regard to the causes of the dispute and the claims of the disputants. The fifty-five applications were distributed as follows: Concerning mines and smelters, thirty; concerning transportation or means of communication, twenty-three; concerning disputes in industries which were not public utilities, two.

"On the fifty-five applications received, strikes were avoided or ended in twenty-five coal mines, and four metalliferous mines; in fifteen railways and three street railways; in two bodies of longshoremen; in one body of teamsters, and in one body of sailors; and in two industries not public utilities. There were two cases in which strikes were not averted or ended."

After describing the two cases in which settlements were not effected, and referring to the large number of persons involved in the disputes that were by employees, the writer goes that of the fifty-two applications made for arbitration boards, forty-six were by employees, the writer goes on to say:

"It is obvious that the Canadian workingmen, in numerous trades connected with public utilities, have acquired confidence in the just operation of the Act; otherwise they wolud not have applied, in forty-six cases, for the appointment of boards. The satisfaction of the employers is not so clearly determined, because the number of applications for boards on the part of employers has been relatively small. Nevertheless, the employers did not ultimately reject in a single case the advice of the boards; and they must have taken satisfaction in the fact that interruption of service to the public was prevented in fifty-three cases out of fifty-five."

"It is quite natural that the employers should have been slower than the employees to accept cordially an act which relies on publicity. The sound principle, that the public has a right to know much about any business which is conducted on rights or privileges conferred by legislation, is not universally accepted by proprietors and managers—not even by corporation or body of employees having privileges of limited liability and long viability, privileges exclusively conferred by the public through general or special laws. Its stout assertion that the public has no right to know about the causes of industrial disputes in public utilities, including mines, is one of the good incidental services which the act of March 22, 1907, has rendered to Canada.

"It is an admirable feature of the Canadian Act that a special board of three members has to be appointed for each separate dispute. Every corporation or body of employees can count on obtaining a board of investigation, two members of which, at least, will be well-informed about the particular business in which the dispute has occurred. As soon as a board has made its report, it disappears, and will probably never reappear."

In summing up the beneficial effect of the Canadian Act, Dr. Eliot says:

"It is obvious, from these two years of experience with the Canadian Industrial Disputes Investigation Act, that it is the best piece of legislation in the world for the prevention and settlement of lockouts and strikes in an important class of industries, which, in the interest of the nation as a whole, ought never to be interrupted. It is simple, prompt, and just, and, therefore, effective."

It is high praise from a very competent authority to be assured that the Lemieux Act is the best piece of legislation of its class in the world. But the enconium is fully justified.

To the question whether the act has been effective, Dr. Eliot replies:

"The clear answer is that since its enactment in March, 1907, the Dominion has known no cessation in the continuous operation of any of its great agencies of communication—steam railways, electric railways, telegraph and telephone lines, or other pulbic utilities of the kind—and the national industries and the public have not suffered any inconveniences other than a few of a purely temporary and local nature through the cessation of some mining operations. The remarkable record may not be continuously maintained, but it seems quite possible that never again will the interests of the Canadian public be injured throguh the threatening, or actual outbreak, of sudden and extensive industrial conflicts, such as frequently occurred in Canada prior to th eenactment of the law, and still occur, with enormous and wide-spread damage in the United States."

There are, the Brantford Expositor points out, two important principles enunciated in the Lemieux Act. The first of these is that the rights of the great mass of the people, in the operations of great public utilities must be respected by both capital and labour; the second is that the most effective agency for the settlement of industrial disputes is Pbulic Opinion fortified by impartial investigation of the facts. So well have these principles been vindicated in this act that the time cannot be far distant when they will be recognized in the Labour legislation of all civilized countries.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Brockville is favoured with forty-three cases of typhoid. This would not be serious in other towns of like size, but it is peculiar in a health resort.

Is it unreasonable to suggest that if Canada provides herself with a navy subject to imperial call in case of war, she should have a voice in the Imperial deliberations that may lead to a declaration of war?

Mr. Harcourt, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, Alberta, prophesies that our great West will yet produce four thousand million bushels of grain per year. While this estimate may be correct, we shall be happy to compromise on four thousand million bushels and give a receipt in full.

Dr. Frederick Cook, in the modest narrative of his reaching the pole, states that he planted the flag at the top end of earth's axle-tree. If it was the United States flag, he is guilty of trespass on Canadian territory, and of lese majestie. Col. Denison, of Toronto, should at once mobilize a force to proceed to the pole and remove the obnoxious emblem.

The Mail and Empire makes some suggestions as to the famous phrases which might be substituted for that which appears on the fly-leaf of the new Ontario readers: "One flag, one fleet, one throne." Of course, remarks the Globe, it is only modesty that compels the Mail to omit its own famous phrase. During the discussion of the National Policy someone suggested that the ultra-tariff on old country goods might imperil British connection, and the stalwart Mail retorted "So much the worse for British connection." That phrase should not be allowed to pass out of recollection.

Col. Geo. T. Denison, of Toronto, has reached the Psalmist's limit of life—three score and ten—and has surpassed by ten years Dr. Osler's chloroform stage. The gallant Colonel has "dwelt in the midst of alarms" all his mature life; he has made dashing cavalry charges with his books, and kept the Empire together with his pen. While his critics have held him as somewhat daft in the matter of Imperial interests, there is no reason to question his honest earnestness. While the Empire might have held together, if he had left his bodily bones, as he left his political, remains in Algoma, forty years ago there is no doubt that Col. Denison has ben a true friend to Canadian and Imperial integrity, as have been thousands of others who have not made so big a spot in the eyes of men.

A SPLENDID RECORD.

(From the Montreal Herald.)

Lord Strathcona, in hailing distance of ninety years, is here to remind Canadians of the younger generation that even the most optimistic of their elders had their doubts and fears about the possibility of building the Canadian Pacific Railway in their time. This way of estimating the growth of the country is useful, for there is hardly any other measure of it that tells the tale of the country's recent progress so well as the tale of the C. P. R.'s earnings. Here is the statement, for example, for the last nine years:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| 1909 | $76,313,321 | $53,357,748 |
| 1908 | 71,384,173 | 49,591,807 |
| 1907 | 72,217,527 | 46,914,218 |
| 1906 | 61,669,758 | 38,698,445 |
| 1905 | 50,481,822 | 35,008,793 |
| 1904 | 46,469,132 | 32,256,027 |
| 1903 | 43,957,373 | 28,120,527 |
| 1902 | 37,503,053 | 23,417,141 |
| 1901 | 30,855,203 | 18,745,228 |

It will bother any other country on the footstool to make a showing much better than that. And in Canada, today the feeling is that what we have done we can do again—and maybe a little better.

OBITUARY.

ARTHUR WHITELAW

Word has been received in the city of the death in St. Louis, Mo., of Arthur Whitelaw, a former well-known resident of Peterborough, who left here some two years ago. The deceased was born in Chester, England, but came to Canada some years ago. While in Peterborough he was a member of the Iron Mounders' Union, and was a prominent foot-baller, being captain of the Old Country Wanderers. His skill in soccer made him well known all over the district and his many friends, who learned to admire his playing, will regret to learn of his demise which took place on August 31.

The funeral took place at St. Louis under the auspices of the Iron Moulders' Union.

He is survived by a wife and one son, residing in Peterborough, and by his father, three brothers, and two sisters, living in Chester, England.

LAWN COMPETITION.

Those intending to compete for the Horticultural Society's lawn and garden prizes will kindly send in their names to the Secretary, Mr. H. L. Beal, care of The Peterborough Light and Power Company, on or before Tuesday, Sept. 7th. 3d-5-7283

WEDDING BELLS

PILLING—CHAPMAN.

A quiet wedding was celebrated on Tuesday evening, August 31, by Rev. Mr. Riddiford of the Park Street Baptist Church, when Miss Annie Chapman was united in marriage to Mr. Edwin Pilling. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the groom's mother, Stewart street, in the presence of a number of the friends of both parties. Mr. and Mrs. Pilling will reside on Stewart street. Many presents were received from relatives and friends.

Surgeon's Opinion

OF KNIFE FOR PILES

Operating often a fad—The modern way of curing piles is with DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Sir Henry O. Burdett, K.C.B., of London, England, in a recent address, said, "What we want are surgeons, who with wisdom to be conservative have courage to protest against the growing tendency to put a knife into everybody on the smallest possible pretext."

Too many doctors have a desire to use the knife at every opportunity. The rewards to them are rich, but think of the suffering of body and mind, the enormous expense and the risk of life itself. An operation should be the last resort, for in spite of glowing promises the results are often very disappointing.

Many a sufferer from piles has been cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, after operations have failed. Hundreds of thousands have escaped operations by using this treatment first and thereby obtaining cure.

Mr. Arthur Lepine, school teacher, Granite Hill, Muskoka, Ont., writes:

"For two years I suffered from bleeding piles and lost each day about half a cup of blood. I went to the Ottawa General Hospital to be operated on and was under the influence of chloroform for one hour. For about two months I was better but my old trouble returned and again I lost most blood. One of my doctors told me I would have to undergo another operation, but I would not consent.

"My father, proprietor of the Richelieu Hotel, Ottawa, advised me to use Dr. Chase's Ointment, and two boxes cured me. I did not lose any blood after beginning this treatment, and believe the cure is a permanent one. I gratefully recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment as the best treatment in the world for bleeding piles." 60 cents a box at all dealers, or EDMANSON, Bates & Co., Toronto.

MADE WELL AND STRONG

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Dovedale, Sask.—"I was a sufferer from female weakness—monthly periods irregular and painful and a bad discharge, backache and wretched headache, and had felt weak ever since the birth of my twins. I tried doctors but got no relief. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after three weeks I was feeling much better, and now I am well again."—Mrs. Emma Billy, Dovedale, Sask., Canada.

Another Woman Cured.

Christiana, Tenn.—"I suffered from the worst form of female trouble so that at times I thought I could not live, and my nerves were in a dreadful condition. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me and made me feel like a different woman. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold to suffering women."—Mrs. Mary Wood, R.F.D.8.

If you belong to that countless army of women who suffer from some form of female ills, don't hesitate to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs.

For thirty years this famous remedy has been the standard for all forms of female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, fibroid tumors, ulceration, irregularities, backache, and nervous prostration.

'ROUND THE STORES

THE show windows of the dry goods stores begin to disclose some of the new Fall novelties in dress goods. Prominent among these, shown by Robert Fair & Co., are the select weaves with satin finish, Bedford Cords, and self-coloured satin, striped effects. Plain Venetians and Broadcloths, will also be strong favourites this season, as well as black dress goods. The new shades give rather a regal touch to the material, and appeal to society dressers for occasions demanding elegance in dress. The newest shades are shown in what are known as Wistaria, Ashes of Rose, Catawaba, etc. All-over net laces and spotted nets in colours to match, and jet buttons and jet trimmings are the newest creations for embellishing the gowns.

Mr. Dickson Hall, buyer for the firm of Richard Hall & Son, returned last week from his continental business trip. As a trained trans-Atlantic traveller, Mr. Hall makes two trips abroad annually in the interests of his house, and, through the buying organization with which he is associated, his firm is enabled to present the attractive lines of fine merchandise always to be seen on its counters and shelves. Competition and expansion tend to explain the activity of this large dry goods house in sending their representative to the industrial and mercantile centres of Europe, in search of the cream of the fashionable goods of the world.

"School days! school days!" The dear old rollicking school days are here again. The hot days of 1909 are now nearly a thing of the past—a pleasant memory. They were just that to our fathers—but school days are now vastly different. The hickory stick is no longer displayed behind the master's desk. And the old games our fathers used to play at recess are replaced by some different exercises. But it is about school books and school supplies that we started out to talk. The Peterborough Bookstore is ready, waiting for the tramp of young feet to sell the school requisites for the new term. Stratton & Co. stand ready as ever to furnish every requisite for Public School, High School and Normal School scholars. Read their advt.

Messrs. Merrell and Meredith are offering some remarkably good values in boys' school suits. Boys' school clothing needs to be strong—theirs is. A healthy boy needs the strongest kind of clothing possible to stand every-day wear and tear; and at the same time, to please the boy, they must be a neat pattern and cutely cut. With these points in mind, parents will be able to select at Merrell and Meredith's just what will surely please.

A. M. Laidlaw, of the Fashion-Craft Shop, Hunter street, is showing some "nifty" things in gentlemen's furnishings for early fall wear. Many of these correct dress accessories are exclusive to Mr. Laidlaw's handsome store, and are especial features of the high-class dress garments of Fashion-Craft.

The problem confronting many business interests just now is not how to encourage prosperity — but rather how to take care of the business already in hand. It ought not to be any longer necessary to cut prices or make sacrificing inducements to invite trade. Business of all kinds is bound to go forward; and it ought to be the aim of all fair-minded business men to drop the hurtful slaughtering of goods and maintain a policy of trade best calculated to conserve the safety of their business interests.

Now that the summer vacations are over, every woman's thoughts turn to the new and beautiful in suits, coats, skirts and gowns for autumn. Cressman's make an early display of these which should please those who always seek the individualism that is to be had in garments made to order. The new weaves, and approved shades are shown from both foreign and Canadian manufacturers. This firm's made-to-order department is provided with superior facilities. Already orders are coming in and those who wish their garments early should place them without delay. The fashionable coat for fall is made from 50 to 52 inches long, in both plain and fancy designs. The correct materials are broadcloths, beavers, soft finished homespuns, etc. They are principally semi-fitting, with moderate lapels, and some styles are shown with vents in both back and side. Military braids and buttons are much in evidence, with fancy pockets.

There will be quite a run this week and next at the Shoe Stores for school shoes. Back to school again on Tuesday means new shoes in most cases. The assortment at Stenson's is very complete for boys and girls. Good heavy soled boots for boys in box calf and vici kid, well made; girls' early fall models in pebble and kid, with patent toes; and little boys' and girls' solid leather soles, are shown in abundance.

In selecting a wedding gift one is apt to choose either silver or glass, and as a result the prospective bride is the recipient of many duplicates. Handsome Oriental rugs from the large size appropriate for the dining room, down to the smallest type of covering, make a most appropriate and useful gift, and one which will be a truly acceptable addition toward the furnishing of the new home. For one of the most extensive lines of these imported floor coverings the shopper should visit the rug department of The Turnbull Co., George and Simcoe streets.

Fall arrivals at Lang & Maher's "Daylight Store" are deserving of an early inspection by gentlemen dressers. A man may be "a man for a' that," as Burns said, but people size you up according to your appearance. If you are one of the particular men about your dress, call round and have a look at the Chic New Fall Styles at Lang & Maher's. Mr. Lang says his firm has endeavoured to combine every desirable new feature in their New Fall Suits, and he adds: "We allow no one to give a greater equivalent for their money."

The Sherbrooke street branch of The Geo. Matthews Co.'s local stores in this city is catering to housekeepers in that neighbourhood in a very enterprising manner. In addition to the varied ham and pork products of the company, which are always to be found in excellent qualities and quantities, the Sherbrooke street store has gone into fresh meats, such as beef, veal, lamb, mutton, and pickled meats, as well as butter, cheese, eggs and canned goods. The wisdom of this step has already been proven in the case of this particular branch store, and the manager, Mr. Message, is delighted with its success.

Great List Of Attractions For Peterboro's Big Fair

The Official Programme

Just two weeks remain until the Peterborough Industrial Fair opens its gates to the public for the 1909 exhibition. The directors and committees are putting the concluding touches on their plans and before the official curtain raising everything will be in readiness. The feeling among those who are labouring to make the fair a success is that without the least exaggeration this is going to be the best exhibition ever seen in Peterborough. President Leary has been on a recent trip through Port Hope and other lake towns and reports that many fine horses are going to be brought to Peterborough. This in itself will appeal to lovers of trim horseflesh. In the matter of exhibits it is generally felt that the entry list will be greatly swollen this year.

The amusement committee have been busy and have prepared what promises to be an entertaining programme for both days and particularly for Friday night, September 17th. A section of the 24th Field Battery will present the exciting Night Alarm. A military camp is represented with the horses tethered and the men in their blankets even to having their boots off. Pickets are posted out from the camp and the whole is supposed to be wrapped in slumber. Then suddenly the outpost hears the approach of the enemy and sounds the warning to the camp which like an automaton takes life immediately. The excitement just then commences and will no doubt be appreciated by the people who se the night show. This is one of the numbers of the programme which will be more elaborate than any ever attempted at the Driving Park.

Following is the programme of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition:

First Day, Thursday Sept. 16.

The grounds and buildings open for receiving exhibits.

All exhibits except live stock and poultry must be on the grounds by noon of the first day.

Second Day, Friday, Sept. 17.

8.00 a.m.—Grounds and buildings open to the public.

10.00.—Judging of Exhibits in main building.

10.00 a.m.—Poultry will be judged in the poultry tent. All poultry must be on the grounds and properly arranged in coops in time to allow judging promptly at ten o'clock.

1.00 p.m.—Judging of halter horses in classes No. 1 to 5 and other live stock as arranged in prize list, in small ring.

In Front of Grand Stand.

2.00 p.m.—Troupe of seven Arab Acrobats. Giving two exhibitions of Acrobatic Acts and Gymnastic Performances.

2.15 p.m.—Speeding in the ring. 2.40 class. Prize $150.00.

2.30 p.m.—Judging of light harness horses.

2.45 p.m.—Exhibition of trained animals, by Mlle. Celina de Leo, with three assistants, eight dogs, one pony, one monkey and one mule, acknowledged to be the best trained group on exhibition in America, performing acts heretofore thought impossible to the four-footed beast.

Races.

3.00 p. m. — Expressmen's races. Prizes, $5.00, $3.00, and $2.00.

3.30 p.m.Speeding in the ring—2.22 class. Prize $200.00.

3.45 p.m.—Dog race. First heat.

4.00 p.m.—Carter's race. Prizes $5, $3, and $2.

The harness horses will be judged between the races in front of the grand stand.

57th Regimental Band in attendance.

Friday Evening at 7 o'clock

Grounds and Buildings brilliantly Illuminated.

7:30 p.m.—The 24th Field Battery will come into action, and fire the opening guns for the Evening Performance, to be followed by Mounted Military Sports, consisting of Bareback Wrestling, Tug of War between teams of Mounted Men, Victoria Cross Race, Midnight Alarm.

8:00 p.m.—Arab Troupe. Seven Arabs, Two Acts. It has been said the limit of human ingenuity and daring has been reached by this famous combination. Mlle. Celina de Leo's Grand Performing Animals, three assistants, eight dogs, one pony, one monkey, one mule, Two Acts. Every feature in these performances is entirely new and novel.

At the close of the Evening Performance the Battery will come into action and fire the departing guns.

Full Band of the 57th Regment in attendance.

Saturday, Sept. 18th.

8:00 a.m.—Grounds and Buildings open to the public.

1 p.m.—Judging of Harness Horses will be continued.

2 p.m.—Arab Troupe will present a varied programme on this occasion, giving the latest Syrian Novelties, and presenting many New, Sensational and Surprising Acrobatic Acts.

2:30 p.m.—Speeding in the Ring. 2:30 Class. Prize $150.00.

2:45 p.m.—Mlle. Celina de Leo and her troupe of performing animals, in two new and novel acts, entirely different and distinct.

3:00 p.m.—Dog Race. Two Heats.

3:30 p.m.—Speeding in the Ring. Free-for-all. Prize $200.00.

The Harness Horses will be judged between the heats in front of the Grand Stand.

GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC RAILWAY.

During the past month a party of editors representing some of the most important agricultural papers in the United States, have been touring Western Canada, and on reaching Winnipeg on their return trip from Edmonton, over the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, wired Mr. Chas. M. Hays, President of the Grand Trunk Pacific at Vancouver, who is also in the West on a tour of inspection of the new line in company with Sir Charles Rivers Wilson, President of the Grand Trunk Railway System, and party as follows:

"We believe that every foot of the land traversed by the road is eminently adapted to grain growing, mixed farming or the keeping of live stock and that it must soon develop into a region of prosperous homes. We also unite in expressing our admiration of the high character and the completeness in construction of the road and road-bed, which must soon give the road high rank among transcontinental railway systems."

The party consisted of the following:

Prof. Thomas Shaw, of the "Orange Juff Farmer and Dakota Farmer," St. Paul, Minn.

Herbert Quick, editor of the "Farm and Fireside," Springfield, Ohio.

John Arthur Dixon, managing editor of the "Home Life", Chicago, Ill.

Philip Eastman, editor of Capper publications, including "Nebraska Farm Journal," Omaha, Neb.; "Missouri Valley Farmer," Topeka, Kan.; "Farmer's Mail and Breeze," Topeka, Kan.; "Topeka Capital," Topeka, Kan.

E. E. Faville, editor "Successful Farming," Des Moines, Iowa.

E. S. Bayard, editor "National Stock man and Farmer," Pittsburg, Pa.

C. P. Reynolds, editor of "Prairie Farmer," Chicago, Ill.

The party was also accompanied by Mr. Herbert Vanderhoof, editor of "Canada West Monthly", Winnipeg, Man., and Mr. R. C. W. Lett, Travelling Passenger and Colonization Agent, Grand Trunk Pacific Ry., Winnipeg.

MARRIAGE

Marriage is the self-preservation of orderly society and its first law. That it should be the first interest of society and the individual not the most cynical correspondent can deny. It is in the thought of young people as much as it ever was, and those who give the most ingenious reasons for avoiding it surrender to it like the rest.

Professor Armstrong, of London, tells the British Association in Winnipeg that we "encourage deterioration at the lower end of the scale of intelligence" and are now "courting failure at the upper end." He has heard that our higher education of girls "has been proved to sterilize them," to render them unfit for marriage.

This is getting the cart before the horse. In all ages society has died at the intellectual top and at the physical bottom. The sane middle section lives. Neither genius nor the ascetic type is ever prolific. Among pioneer college women many were of the strained, overnervous sort that leaves few heirs but is replaced by new examples. The more normal college girl of to-day, with her love of pleasure and of pretty dresses, is better fitted to survive. For the solemn young men who scold about girls' love of dress are poor philosophers. The love of dress and the love of men go together. They always have done so. The "old-fashioned girl" that did not love adornment never lived or has left no daughters.

The cost of living, the later age at which marriage is entered upon, are not new complaints nor confined to America. Even in booming Germany late marriages are bewailed. Bespectacled professors there have even reduced it to a formula that a man should marry a woman seven years more than half his own age. But the Germans do marry—and probably break the rules of the scientists as often as here.

Reading the letters it has received. The World must doubt whether marriages really are few; why should they be, since the ideals of the young men and young women seem so closely to agree and are so like the ideals of their grandparents? The bigness of cities makes acquaintance difficult, but there are old-fashioned girls in the new-fashioned clothes, and men worthy of them abound in spite of all the pessimists.

Cupid's bow is not broken. The love of home and children is universal. Destiny will not be cheated. Marriage may for unfortunate individuals be a failure, but in the great human aggregate it has never lost its hold and it will not now.

OF TORONTO

Safe Industrial Investment

10 PER CENT PER ANNUM 10

THE KEARNS INK Co. of Toronto was organized two years ago to manufacture the new CANADIAN WRITING INKS, invented by J. J. Kearns. The past two years has been spent in experimenting and improving quality and to-day it stands among the top notchers in the Ink world. This Ink has met with such spontaneous approval from users, and the trade has shown such willingness to buy in quantities, that the managers deem it wise to enlarge their operations and make a big staple business enterprise out of this Company, hence offer to the public. The total capital is only $40,000, so that you can see that this is no inflated and watered wild cat scheme, but a first-class legitimate investment offered to you—one where a dollar invested today will be worth at least two in a year and will pay 10 per cent. income on this.

PROFITS—There is a gross profit in this Ink of from 25 per cent. to 300 per cent. This is a clear cut business statement, every word of which we can substantiate.

Some Orders That we Received as to the Sale of Kearns' Ink. We found the demand practically without limit; we receiving orders and inquiries for the Ink far beyond our ability to supply the goods. Orders came from such houses as Central Business College, Ontario Government, Separate School Boards of Toronto and Peterborough, The Toronto Railway Co., Consumers Gas Company, National Trust Co. Limited, King Edward Hotel and many other large concerns of the country.

A Safe Management—The entire management is in the hands of a Board of Directors of leading business men—men of executive and financial ability, men of "made reputation," men who can be counted on to capably and honestly direct the affairs of the enlarged Company, and see that each and every shareholder receives every dollar of the earnings of his stock.

DR. COOK TELLS THRILLING STORY OF HIS DASH FOR POLE

Brooklyn Arctic Explorer Describes the Conditions at the top of the World---Stillness and no Signs of Life the Features---Accompanied Only by two Esquimaux---Dr. Cook Made his way Over the ice Fields.

Paris, Sept. 2.—A Paris newspaper prints this morning an extended account of Dr. Cook's dash to the Pole, as given by him to the Danish Counsel at Lerwick, Shetland Islands.

Dr. Cook says that through his journey of exploration, which resulted in the discovery of the Pole, he has thrown open practically 30,000 square miles of hitherto unknown land to the knowledge of men, and that a new land, with interesting flora and fauna inhabitating it, has come under his observation.

The yacht John R. Bradley reached Etah, on the western coast of Greenland, late in August, 1907. Through the courtesy of the owner, Mr. Bradley, Cook was supplied suitably, and that, together with his own outfit of scientific instruments and provisions, made an amount sufficient to warrant an attempt at a swift dash northward.

Natives Assisted.

At Annotak, twenty miles north of Etah, where the expedition's supplies were landed, there was an extensive Eskimo settlement of upwards of two hundred and fifty natives, and these all seemed friendly and willing to assist the explorer in the work of landing supplies and setting up a permanent house made of stone and packing boxes. The Eskimo village was overrun with "huskies" of the finest breed and stamina—good pullers, and just the kind of dog that Cook wished to use on his hurried dash northward.

Plans were laid to spend the major part of the winter in the station at Annotak, and then in the early spring to lay a route over Grinnel Land, on the western side of Smith Sound, and northward along the western coast of Grinnel Land, out on to the Polar Sea. Soon after the long Arctic night settled down upon the explorer and his party of Eskimos at Annotak scouting parties were sent out to the westward across the frozen Smith Sound to seek game trails and to bring in fresh meat. Their progress was greatly hindered by a succession of fierce storms, and the object of their expeditions was only half fulfilled.

The Sun Appears.

On February 19, 1908, the sun rose for the first time in months, and on that day, with augury of success, the expedition made its start northward. Eleven men and one hundred and three dogs and eleven heavily-laden sledges set out to cross the frozen Smith Sound. It was severely cold, and on the Ellesmore Sound westward to the Pacific slope the thermometer sometimes registered as low as 83 degrees below zero Fahrenheit.

Soon the progress of the march was facilitated by the finding of game trails through the deep snow. These the expedition followed as well as it could up through Nansen Sound to Land's End. One hundred and one musk ox, seven bears and over three hundred hares fell before the guns of the party, and added precious meat to their store.

From a point on the southern side of Heiberg Island the expedition pushed out into into the Polar Sea. Here six Eskimo and forty-eight of the dogs turned back, carrying supplies for eighty days with which to establish relief stations for the backward journey.

The crossing of the belt of water just below the Pole began three days later. The trains were now reduced to the utmost minimum. Twenty-six dogs, including the two leaders, big powerful brutes, were packed for the final dash to the Pole, which was then four hundred and sixty miles away.

Land Disappears.

The first few days' marching showed encouraging progress, despite the severe cold and the steady, nipping wind. The big stretch of water separating the land ice from the floating polar pack was crossed in two boats, which had been brought along by the expedition, with little delay.

Several days after the sight of known land had been lost the skies, which had been so overcast as to prevent an actual determination of position, cleared a bit, and on March 20 there was seen on the western horizon a new land. This was in latitude 84.47, longitude 86.36.

Because of the necessity of pressing onward no detour was made to examine this coast. Here the expedition saw the last signs of solid earth—beyond there was nothing stable and nothing terrestrial whatsoever.

By this time Dr. Cook was moving over country in which all signs of human life were lacking. There were no footprints of bird or beast on the snow. There was absolute silence.

The Terrific Cold.

The surface of the ice-pack offered surprisingly little resistance to travelling. Although the party was living on tallow, dried beef and hot tea, there was no great torture involved in the journeying. So cold was it that constant action was compelled. The positions of the expedition were recorded each day, and careful observations made. By the first week in April the sun was so high that alternate sunburn and frost-bites were felt during the course of twenty-four hours.

On April 8th it was discovered that only one hundred miles had been covered in nine days' travel. The position on that day was latitude 86.36, longitude 94.2.

By this time Cook was about two hundred miles from the Pole. The loads of supplies had been reduced. Part of the dogs had been fed to others, but there were still enough for our work. The indications of land remained with us as the 87th and 88th parallels were passed. Observations on the 14th gave latitude 88 degrees, longitude 95 degrees 52 minutes. This brought the party to within one hundred miles from the Pole.

Felt the Loneliness.

On April 21 the first correct altitude of the sun gave us 89 degrees 59 minutes, 46 seconds, and Cook knew he was almost at the journey's end. At length he reached the point for which he had been working. There a staff was set up and a flag hoisted, and the North Pole was found.

The temperature that first day, from midnight to midday, was 38 degrees, and the barometer was 29.83. There was no land in sight, and no sign of life other than the people and the dogs who had forced themselves into the wild. The party felt the loneliness intensely, and on April 23 turned back from the Pole.

Poultry Exhibit At The Fair Will Be Particular Feature

At a meeting of the Poultry Association last night the question of the poultry exhibit at the Peterborough Fair was brought up. Mr. Robt. Leary was present and talked the matter over and as a result of their deliberations it is expected that this department will be better than ever. The success of the poultry exhibition last winter will prove a great assistance and both in regard to numbers and quality the exhibit should be far in advance of other years. The Poultry Association are providing about 400 coops, having loaned them to the Agricultural Association. A special prize is being offered for the three best turkeys of this year's flock. They are to be dressed and must be 1909 birds. Mr. Geo. Paxman presided at the meeting which was very enthusiastic and promises a fine display of poultry.

The secretary was absent owing to illness which has confined him to the hospital, and Mr. Wm. Collins was appointed pro tem.

The association has decided to build some 300 extra coops for next winter's show.

Messrs. Baptie and Kelly were appointed delegates to attend the annual meeting of the Poultry Association in the Agricultural Building at Toronto Exhibition on September 7th.

Agreement Between City And P. L. & P. Co. Going To The Council

The Manufacturers' Committee met again last night and accepted the agreement as drafted by the City Solicitor between the Peterborough Light and Power Company and the city for a thirty-year franchise. Mr. J. H. Larmonth was present, and so far as he personally is concerned the agreement is satisfactory. He took a copy of it and will submit it to the company's local solicitor. Then the council must consider it and if satisfied they will give it two readings and submit it to the people.

Ald. Gillespie has called many meetings of his committee in an effort to formulate an agreement with the Company. The best interests of the city have been attended to and the clauses as prepared by the committee are comprehensive. The Examiner will publish it in full to-morrow.

PITTSBURG PARTY HAD GREAT LUCK

A party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Schoenoff, Mr. and Mrs. Eccleston, and Mr. and Mrs. Miller, of Pittsburg, Pa., returned from an enjoyable holiday at Stony Lake. The party had splendid luck fishing, and are returning to their home with several pounds of bass, and 'lunge. This is their first visit to the Kawartha Lakes, and they have been so much impressed with the beauty of them and their good luck at fishing that they intend returning again next year.

COSMOPOLITAN LIST OF GUESTS AT BURLEIGH FALLS

Visitors From Many Parts of the Globe at the Popular Stony Lake Resort Just Now.

AN ENJOYABLE TIME

Burleigh Falls, Sept. 3.—That "The world is a very small place after all," is an axiom very easily verified by a glance over the register of Mr. H. W. Darcy's, Park Hotel, at Burleigh Falls. That Burleigh Falls is "on the map," is a statement that some would hesitate to make, still it has been discovered to be one of the finest fishing grounds in the world, as well as being par excellence a health resort, and the lakes and surrounding country one of nature's most beautiful creations. Since the old hotel burned down Mr. Darcy has erected a fine fireproof, up-to-date hotel, which is regularly filled each season, as well as the several cottages attached to the hotel. And each season sees an increasing clientele. It is safe to say that of all the guests who visit The Park Hotel each season fully seventy-five per cent. return each succeeding year and bring others with them, often putting the genial Mr. Darcy hard to it, to accommodate them all. How he does it is wonderful, and yet he does. These return visits may be partially accounted for by the excellent cuisine for which Mrs. Elizabeth Darcy, the proprietor's mother, is responsible, and when one's visit ends one does not know which he loves the best, Mrs. D. or her pies.

Regarding "the world being a small place," look at this list of guests who are at Burleigh Falls this week:

Mr. J. B. C. McLelland, Glasgow, Scotland.

Mr. S. M. Bloss, Mrs. Bloss and family, Garyville, Louisiana.

Mr. A. K. Lawerx, Paris, France.

Dr. and Mrs. F. Hagner, Washington, D.C.

Mr. C. F. Banning, Berlin, Germany.

Mr. Val Trainor, Sydney, Australia.

Mr. W. N. Sheffield, London, Eng.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Sheridan, Bangor, Maine.

If that is not a cosmopolitan gathering I should like to see one.

Each season is more successful than the last and the guests keep Jack Blewett busy harpooning the nimble minnow, and snaring the elusive crayfish for bait.

The guests of honour for the past three weeks have been the daughter of the house, Maud Darcy, now Mrs. Val. Trainor, who, with her husband, enlivened the proceedings with music and song, both sentimental and comic, which were highly appreciated by all. They leave shortly to open their season at the Majestic Theatre, Chicago, their act being a big attraction at the leading vaudeville houses in both America and England. All in all it would be a mighty hard proposition to find surroundings better fitted to while away a pleasant vacation than Burleigh Falls, and Mr. Darcy is in receipt of a concocted parody on a popular song, which we append. The guilty parties are Mr. Morris Lempert of Toledo, Ohio; Mr. Joe. Shrier, and Mr. H. C. Cohn, of Rochester.

Here is the charge:

Take me back to Burleigh Falls,
Memories that place recalls,
Of fishing with hooks and flies,
Baited with Mrs. D's pies.
We caught ninety-four the very first day;
We would have caught more, but they got away;
And the 'lunge, by the mark,
Are as big as a shark,
Up at Burleigh Falls.

"Not Guilty—Johnny on the Spot."

IN AGONY WITH PILES

Mr. G. W. Cornell, with the Shaw Milling Co., St. Catharines, Ont., writes, "For six years I was a victim of itching, protruding piles and was in dreadful agony day and night. Doctors were unable to help me and I was about as miserable as any creature could be. My druggist advised me to try Dr. Chase's Ointment, which I did and obtained relief from the first box and complete cure with the second. This ointment would be cheap at fifty dollars a box in view of what it did for me."

Suits! Made-to-Measure
Suits Ready-to-Wear

An unique touch that gives distinction and daintiness to our merchandise is the mark aimed at by our buyers, and in most cases it is hit in the centre. Our Dress Fabrics and New Fall Ready-to-Wears have a distinctive tone about them that has always been the chief feature of these two sections. The values are praiseworthy and our assortment is admitted without a peer. Let us try to suit you to-day. The chances are in our favour with such a variety to select from--both in made-to-measure or ready-to-wear garments. The dressmaking department is in full operation and orders are being booked every day. Leave your order now to avoid disappointment.

Opening of Fall Dress Fabrics

The New Weaves, New Colours, Bright Attractive Displays.
Everything for the Made-to-Order Dress.

The Dress Goods Section is the brightest spot in the whole store. Daylight showing of Dress Materials is far superior to the choosing in artificial light—colours show in their true tones. Visit our Daylight Section and see our splendid display of the newest domestic and import fabrics for the season 1909-10.

WORSTED SUITINGS are in prominence in the moderate prices. Our 50c line in 44 inch materials, in all the newest shades, including, the Wisteria, Catawba, Burgundy, Myrtle, etc., is a fine hard finished goods, almost self cleaning.

The SATIN-FINISHED WORSTED with a herringbone stripe is a hummer, 44 inches wide, in all the best shades, bought in an extra large quantity, to be made a leader for the season, at 50c yd.

DREADNOUGHT CHEVIOTS are beautifully finished fabrics, 50 inches wide, in all the new Fall shades, for street and evening wear.

The DREADNOUGHT BROADCLOTHS too are in strong favour for fine wear. These in the pastelle shades are especially desirable for evening gowns and cloaks. 50 inch width, $1.25; 48 inch width, $1.00 yd.

One of the most serviceable yet dressy materials is the striped FRENCH VENETIAN, 44 inches wide, made of pure wool, in the new shades, price 75c.

Another cloth known this season as the ALEXANDRIA CHEVIOT is causing much favourable comment. The pattern consists of medium width shadow stripes in shades entirely new, 44 inches wide, at 75c yd.

The new French SATIN SOLIEL in shades of blue (light, mid and dark), catawba, seal brown and myrtle green, is the most beautiful of the season's goods and is entirely away from the ordinary. We have the exclusive handling of this line for Peterborough and sell it at a saving to our patrons of 25c on every yard. Made in two grades: 75c, and a few of the best shades at $1.25.

This season the TRAVERSE WEAVES are more popular than ever. We have a full range of shades in the different widths. This is a very fine cloth with a firm finish; looks well and wears well, suitable for skirts, coats, suits.

SILKS and DRESS TRIMMINGS.—Our stock is complete in all lines of Fancy Silks and Dress Trimmings, to match all shades of Dress Goods. The jet trimmings are much in vogue—fringes, braids, buttons, etc.

A Grand Showing of New Suits

Fashionable Exhibit of Fashions Favourite Styles in Our Ready-to-Wear Section.
Exclusive 1909-10 Creations.

Scores and scores of new Suits have already arrived, and dozens more are billed to arrive soon, in fact new lots are being checked off daily. Already our showing is grand, and is being admired by large crowds who daily visit the department.

Expressions of favourable surprise are heard on every side where the new Suits are shown. No wonder, either, when we have exerted every energy to make our showing this season far and away better than any previous year, which is saying a good deal, for we have never taken second place in Women's Ready-to-Wears yet. However, "the proof of the pudding is in the eating" (an old saying, yet true) and those who make it a point to see the stock first and make an early selection will unboubtedly get best choice, although any choice, we think, will be good. Our stock is exclusive, no two Suits alike in the better lines, and no duplicates.

OVERCOME BY GAS

Workman at Oil Boring Operations Had To Be Taken Home.

In conversation with Mr. Robert Leary, the Examiner learned that the boring operations for oil on the Kincaid property in Monaghan have not been abandoned as reported, but are going on continuously. A depth of 400 feet has been reached, and owing to a new formation of the soil the progress is more difficult and consequently is slower. Gas has been struck in large quantities and a few days ago the man who works over the well had to be taken home, his eyes having been temporarily blinded by the gas which rose from the pockets that were opened 400 feet down. He was unable to resume work for several days, his eyes having been seriously affected for the time being.

SAD DEATH OF MISS ETHEL ROBERTS

Passed Away Within a Week After Sister--Funeral To-morrow.

At 3:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon there passed away at the residence of her father, 496 Stewart street, another noble daughter of the Anglican Church, in the person of Miss Ethel S. Roberts, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Roberts, at the age of 23 years, and seven months.

Twice with but a week and one day in the interval, has the grim reaper visited the same household, an elder sister having predeceased her on Wednesday of last week, and thrice and yet a fourth time has this grief-stricken family been called upon to mourn the loss of a beloved one within a few short months. In June of this year an older brother passed to his rest. After a lengthy illness outliving by but a few months his second son, a lad of about six years, who, it will be remembered was drowned in the creek near his home.

These sad occurrences, sorrowful enough considered separately, following each other in such rapid succession makes for the bereaved parents and remaining brothers, a sad time indeed.

The deceased young girl was of a bright and cheerful disposition, combined with a genuine Christian character and was beloved by a large circle of friends, who will miss her cheery ways. She was a member of St. John's Church, where she was a constant communicant and regular attendant at the Sunday school and Young People's Society.

She leaves to mourn her demise, besides her parents, three brothers, A. G., of Windsor; Harry, of Penetanguishene, and William H., of this city.

The funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon from St. John's Church at 2:30 to the Little Lake cemetery; the services at the home being private.

HEAVY TRAFFIC ON G.T.R. TRAIN ROUTE

Trains From Midland to Port Hope are Working Over Time.

Owing to the grain rush on the G. T. R. from Midland to Port Hope, through Peterborough, the officials at Lindsay have had a busy time during the past couple of weeks in securing cars and men for the purpose of moving the grain from the many large boats arriving at Midland almost every day. Every man, engine, and car available have been put into service at the present time, and it is expected that the rush will continue until the first of the year.

A number of new firemen and brakemen have been secured during the past week and every man on the Grand Trunk out of Lindsay, can get as many trips as he wishes to make. A number of men on regular trains are being sent out on extras upon their arrival every day.

Trainmaster Irwin, of Lindsay, receives a number of applications from young men every day for positions as brakemen.

POTATOES ON VINES ABOVE THE GROUND

Last Thursday Mr. Sol. Clark, of Dummer, found what appears to be a very rare production in the vegetable line, in the shape of a cluster of potato vines with several well-developed tubers growing about midway up the stalks. Mr. Clark afterwards handed over the vines and tubers to Mr. H. C. Duff, the local representative of the Department of Agriculture, who said that he had never seen anything like it anywhere. Some wag suggested that the scarcity of soil in that part of Dummer might be the cause of the tubers going up the stalks. Be this as it may, it appears at least to be a rather curious freak. —Norwood Register.

BUCKET BRIGADE PUT OUT THE FIRE

The fire brigade was given a call yesterday afternoon shortly after four o'clock to the G. Walter Green foundry. A spark from the Cabala ignited the roof on the pattern shop and an alarm was sent in. However, a bucket brigade was formed and the blaze was extinguished without the assistance of the firemen.

LADIES' AID HELD A SUCCESSFUL TEA

The Ladies' Aid of Knox Church held a successful tea yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. John Mervin, Monaghan Road. A large number were present and the affair proved to be a very enjoyable one. During the afternoon solos were sung by Misses Dunlop and Miller, Mrs. Payton acting as accompanist.

The receipts were very satisfactory.

EXPERTS SATISFIED THAT COOK ACCOMPLISHED FEAT

est value. I have seen some of his notes which were sent back by him two years ago, when he was in Greenland, which describes most convincingly the situation in the frozen north. He tells of vast coal mines and other ore, which this country some day will find of the greatest value, and will be highly pleased to possess.

Had a Good Outfit.

New York, Sept. 3.—John Bradley, the financial backer of Dr. Cook, took pains to explain yesterday that the Brooklyn explorer's success in reaching the North Pole was not so much the result of chance as the opinions of several polar experts would indicate.

"This was no haphazard expedition," he said, "no intensified Arctic joy ride undertaken on nerve. We went about our preparation for this thing quietly and without brass band accompaniment, but we provided for every imaginable contingency.

"I am not going to tell what the cost was. But I will tell you this much. One single item of the equipment was 5,000 gallons of gasoline and another was two barrels of gum drops. An Esquimaux will travel thirty miles for a gum drop. His sweet tooth is the sweetest in the world.

"Cook, it is true, has as much nerve as any man in the world, but he had something besides nerve to carry him through. I am not trying to take any of the credit; but I want to say that he had the right kind of an outfit to take him there."

Corroboration Some Day.

Anthony Fiala, the Arctic explorer and commander of the Ziegler expedition of 1903-1905, agreed with Mr. Bradley in placing confidence in the reports of Dr. Cook's success.

"This will not put an end to polar expeditions," he said yesterday. "Other expeditions will push their way northward. Dr. Cook says he has discovered land in the far north. If the land is there others will find it and verify his story. If it is not there his story will be branded false."

May Be Only a Marathon Hero.

Boston, Sept. 3.—That Dr. Cook's discovery of the North Pole is interesting as a sporting event only, unless he was able to bring back scientific notations, is the comment of Prof. Pickering of Harvard University.

The Coldest Yet.

Paris, Sept. 3.—Pierre Levasseur, the French geographer, was overcome with delight when informed of Dr. Cook's achievement.

"All honor to Dr. Cook," he exclaimed. "I now await other details. Do islands exist in the Arctic Ocean beyond the 85th degree and is the pole on one of these islands? I hope we will have answers to these questions, but in any event there probably will be little occasion to change the maps of the world.

"Dr. Cook's achievement is most extraordinary. It seems that he made a journey over 300 miles on the ice, and the temperature he met, 83 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit, is the lowest ever recorded.

"We undoubtedly will be astonished when we compare Dr. Cook's records with the reckonings and assumptions of science."

Canada Owns the Land.

Ottawa, Sept. 3.—In official circles the view is taken that the discovery of the North Pole by Dr. Cook does not in any way affect Canada's claim to any new land upon which the intrepid explorer may have set his feet in the course of his wanderings. Canada has always claimed all land which lies to the eastward of Greenland and between the northern shores of the Dominion of Canada proper and the North Pole.

Our claim was strengthened when in 1906-7 Captain Bernier in the steamer Arctic went as far north as Pond's Inlet and planted the British flag on all the islands touched on the voyage. The gallant captain is at the present time engaged in a similar roving commission.

U. S. Claim Ownership.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 3.—An authority here on international law says that the finding of the North Pole gives the United States proprietory rights.

Judge Leask Acquits New Liskeard Mining Man Charged With Bribing John Riche to Leave Country to Avoid Testifying.

NO CORRUPT PLAN

North Bay, Sept. 3.—Angus A. McKelvie of New Liskeard was yesterday acquitted by Judge Leask of the charge of having bribed John Piche to leave the country and not give evidence in a suit brought by the Attorney-General's Department against the Temiskaming & Hudson Bay Mining Co., affecting the title of that company.

McKelvie was vice-president of the mining company, against which several suits were pending in the spring of 1906. John Piche, who was a prospector for the company, was a material witness in a suit against Henry Thompson and the company, and plaintiff in another to recover $84 shares of stock in the company, which he had hypothecated with Thomas McCamus, a director of the company.

F. W. Scott of the records' office, Osgoode Hall, produced the papers in the suit and Inspector Rogers told of searching McKelvie's premises and finding certain checks, one of $800, dated April 12, 1903, paid to Mrs. Elizabeth Burwash, sister of Piche.

Mrs. Burwash swore her brother left the country April 13, 1906, in consequence of pending law suits in which he was interested. She told of interviews with McKelvie leading to a settlement of Piche's claims against the company, and of Piche agreeing that he would take $2,000 and 100 shares of stock and leave the country. Witness said she broached this offer to McKelvie and he compromised at $1,000 and 100 shares of stock, and she received for her brother $200 in cash and a check for $800, with 100 shares. After Piche had been away some time, he wrote her to sell the stock, but she said McKelvie had objected as Piche might bother the company after the money was gone.

John Piche told of his interview with McKelvie and of receiving money and stock. He admitted that he had sold the stock outright to the company and did not wish to go on with the case although pressed to do so by Pinkerton. The settlement he made was on condition of his not appearing as a witness in several law suits pending against the company. He stayed away three years and returned thinking the matter had dropped.

Angus McKelvie swore that he had an interview with Mrs. Burwash in regard to her brother's suit against the company for shares, and that no other suit was mentioned. He had talked the matter over with Piche at the same time and a quarrel resulted, but a settlement was made next day by Thomas McCamus, at whom the suit was directed, witness being present. Witness never arranged with Mrs. Burwash to go to Edmonton to warn Piche.

Thomas McCamus, Fergus Hutchinson (secretary of the T. & H. B. Co.), S. H. Ryan (chief despatcher T. & N.O. Railway), and D. T. K. McEwan, and A. N. Morgan, solicitors for the mining company, gave evidence discrediting portions of Mrs. Burwash's statements.

Judge Leask, in summing up the evidence, could find no corrupt plan to induce Piche to leave the country. Piche was tangled up in law suits and it was only natural that he should wish to go away, especially as he believed his lawyer wished him to swear falsely.

One strange thing was the payment of $200 to Mrs. Burwash to go to Edmonton. This had not been clearly explained, but no connection had been shown as far as McKelvie was concerned.

Two Years For Perjury.

Toronto, Sept. 3.—Sdloman Altman learned the golden value of truth when in the Police Court yesterday he was sentenced to two years in Kingston Penitentiary for perjury, which he admitted having committed in a civil case. He declared that he had been offered $50 and paid $20 by Morris Levy, one of the parties to the suit, who is now before the court charged with subornation of perjury.

Ward Visits Laurier.

Ottawa, Sept. 3.—Sir Joseph Ward, the New Zealand Premier, called upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier yesterday. It was explained that the visit was purely a personal one.

Sir Joseph left this morning for Toronto and Niagara Falls, and on Saturday night will start for the coast en route home.

No one Government was responsible for delay in the cable negotiations, which concerned five, he said.

West Indies Trades Commission.

Ottawa, Sept. 3.—The Royal Commission appointed by the Imperial Government to report upon measures that should be taken for the promotion of closer trade relations between Canada and the West Indies, will hold its first session in this city on Sept. 21.

Other sitting will be held in Halifax and St. John.

FAR-FOG, LADYLIKE.

Feelings of Rival Nations Don't Matter, Says Beresford.

Toronto, Sept. 3.—Lord Charles Beresford showed a new phase of his thought about imperial defence at the National Club last night in a speech that was warmed to a singular degree by the overflowing enthusiasm of the occasion.

Facing the guest table, along the front of the gallery, were displayed the signal flags, constituting the historic message, "Well done, Condor." The floral decorations were very elaborate. Notable addresses were delivered by Sir James Whitney and Rev. J. A. Macdonald of The Globe.

Lord Charles made the following pronouncement: "I don't care a fig about the susceptibilities of other nations. If you go messing about their affairs you lose their respect and their fear. If you stand up in the ring with a man you don't say you are not going to hurt his susceptibilities. If a nation builds four warships you should build eight."

Sir James Whitney said: "Let us, as Canadians, as our acknowledgment of the new imperial conditions, register a vow to keep those conditions and everything relating to and arising out of them forever free from the corroding influences of local party politics."

J. A. Macdonald said in part: "As Canada is an integral part of the Empire she must be a positive part. It must be for the necessity from within, and not by compulsion from without, that Canadians should take this position."

Inquest Is Opened.

Sarnia, Sept. 3.—The inquest to inquire into the cause of the death of William Hendrie, hotelman, was opened last evening, and will be resumed on Thursday night next.

Charles Kingsley said that he was the first to find Hendrie. Some time previous Hendrie had told him to keep a look out for a man named Jim, who was a former porter of his. He said that he was afraid of him.

Albert Donnelly, who was asleep in the Hendrie bedroom, said that he and Hendrie and the man Jim had been drinking. He did not know anything of the tragedy till he was aroused and told of it. Jim had gone for a bottle of liquor for Hendrie that day.

Walter Sanderson gave some sensational evidence in regard to what Hendrie said, including: "You may think that I committed suicide, but I didn't, this is no case of suicide."

Doctors Wilkinson and Henderson stated that the cut was inflicted by a sharp instrument. It was impossible to have been inflicted by the bedpost, as had been previously stated. They gave the cause of Hendrie's death as the blood clotting in the vein.

Will Bar Canadian Paper.

Washington, D.C., Sept. 3.—It is reported here that A. I. papermakers will demand that the maximum tariff rates on print be enforced so as to prohibit imports from Ontario and Quebec.

FIRE INSURANCE

"Two years ago an Ontario Market Gardener sowed four cents an ounce on the cost of half a pound of Cabbage Seed. In the fall he admitted that he was over $100 to the bad on the crop because the bargain seed had lacked vitality. Thirty-two cents saved—one hundred dollars lost. WAS IT WORTH WHILE?

That is our strong point. We take an old pair of shoes and after they have passed through the hands of one of our expert shine artists they look like new. Science has shown us that nothing lengthens the life of shoes like a little care and attention.

PIRATES ALMOST SURE TO WIN CUBS ARE STILL HOPEFUL

Chicago has now played 118 games, and has thirty-six to play —fourteen on the road and twenty-two at home. Pittsburg has played 119, having thirty-five more to play.

How big the task is before the champions may be realised from the fact that should Chance's team win 28 of its remaining 36 games Pittsburg has only to win 22 out of its 35, allowing room for 13 more defeats, to beat the Cubs for the flag.

The percentage table would then show Pittsburg with 100 won and 45 lost, against 100 won and 46 lost for Chicago.

In spite of all this, the Champions still believe they can win, having sublime faith in their own strength, especially when they come to meet the Pirates in the eight games that still remain to be played with Clarke's buccaneers—four in Pittsburg and four in Chicago.

F.D. KERR WON THE CITY TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP LAST NIGHT

The Peterborough city championship for the gentlemen's singles in lawn tennis was decided last evening on the splendid new court of the Peterborough Bowling Club, who are to be congratulated on their enterprise in having provided such fine courts for the lovers of the summer pastime of lawn tennis. The two finalists, Messrs. Kerr and Rudolph had vanquished all comers in previous rounds, so a good game was expected, and the four sets played were interesting from start to finish.

The match was taken charge of by Mr. R. J. Devey, president of St. John's A.Y.P.A. Tennis Club, and he was assisted on the lines by Mr. W. L. Richardson and Mr. Chas. Clossey. The second and third games in the first set were keenly contested, deuce being called eight times, but Mr. Kerr's experienced playing enabled him to claim the set by 6—3.

Game two in the 2nd set had deuce called 6 times. In game one Mr. Rudolph secured two aces running, one in game three and gave no less than four and three aces. In game four Mr. Kerr drew away, and after being 1—3, secured the second set 6—3. The third set was startling for Mr. Rudolph ran right away, winning by 6—0. The fourth set opened by Mr. Kerr taking the first three games to love. Mr. Rudolph replied by annexing the next two, but Mr. Kerr came again, and after five deuces in the last claimed the game and winning the set by 6—2.

Scores: 6—3, 6—3, 0—6, 6—2.

A good number of tennis enthusiasts were present, and it is safe to assume that this year's tennis has greatly improved, the City Lawn Tennis Association being largely responsible for this improvement. Mr. F. D. Kerr played for the Golf Club, and Mr. Rudolph for St. John's A.Y.P.A. Club.

RUGBY

The champion Tigers will hold their first practice a week from Saturday.

The Hamilton Spectator says Dundas will join the O. R. F. U. senior series.

Bert Stronach, of Ottawa, says he will not play Rugby this fall.

A number of Montreal players have been out for punting practice during the last ten days, among them Tommy Stinson, who this year will lead the Winged Wheel fourteen. Stinson succeeds Ted Savage as captain, the latter on acount of some examinations which he has before him this fall, being unable to give the necessary time to the captaincy.

The Toronto Amateur Athletic Club held its annual Rugby meeting at the club house, 24 Isabella street. The following committee was elected: Geo. Mara, W. A. Hewitt, Norman Gooderham, E. J. Livingstone, W. Willison, Mel. Grant, J. E. McArthur. The manager and captain will be appointed later.

The first game in the Inter-Provincial will be played either on the last Saturday in September or the first Saturday in October. The Tigers will play their first game out of town as the autumn meeting of the Hamilton Jockey Club opens on Sept. 28, and lasts until Oct. 9.

Hamilton Herald: Another effort will be made this year to get Gordon Southam to hold down a half-back position for the Tigers. Southam's scoring ability is well known, and he is recognized as the best offensive player in the country. Drop kicks are his particular weakness, and when last he played with the yellow and black the game in which he did not score at least three points by this method was an exceptional one, indeed.

ROD AND GUN FOR SEPTEMBER

September is noted for duck hunting and the numerous sportsmen who pursue this form of sport with ardour will find their favourite recreation dealt with in ample fashion in the September issue of Rod and Gun in Canada, published by W. J. Taylor, at Woodstock, Ont. This healthy and invigorating sport receives fine treatment in stories of duck hunting in Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, goose shooting in the West and papers on the ruffed grouse as found in British Columbia and Ontario. Light travel and holiday sketches, with fishing papers give variety and interest to the issue. Dog lovers will welcome a further paper by Mr. Clapham dealing with the Airedale terrier. Altogether no better companion for the sportsman, either at home, in camp, or on his travels, can be secured than a copy of this fine issue.

GAME ON MONDAY

Lindsay Coming to Meet T.A.S. on Labour Day.

One of the principal attractions in the city on Monday will be the T. A. S.-Lindsay ball game in Riverside Park in the afternoon. Advance notes from Scugogville announce that one William Cinnamon has been putting his braves through their finishing paces with the prospect of a hard game on Labour Day. The T. A. S. are in fine fettle and the game should be a good one.

EXAMINER WINNER IN ORANGEVILLE

J. Hamilton Adams, senior classical master, otherwise "Hammy" Adams, the Central Y.M.C.A. runner, has been transferred from Peterborough to Orangeville High School. Adams will have Orangeville on the running map before the winter is over.—Toronto Star.

REDDY M'MILLAN HAS AN OFFER

Cornwall, Sept. 2.—Already outside teams are looking for hockey players to fill their ranks during the coming winter. Aeneas McMillan, the well-known lacrosse and hockey player of this town, seems to be the first local man to be approached with an offer for his services. He has received a letter from Arthur Sixsmith, manager of the Pittsburg A.C. team, offering him a good situation with a fat salary attached, as well as a bonus per week over and above the salary, which would make McMillan's remuneration a very handsome one.

The old league is to be reorganized in Pittsburg this season, and no doubt more of the teams will be on the still hunt for players. "Reddy" McMillan has played on several other professional league teams in past winters, but he is as yet undecided about accepting Sixsmith's offer.

BASEBALL

Just who is the fastest runner in the City Baseball League will be decided to-morrow afternoon before the West End-T. A. S. final game, when the contest for the prize donated by Mr. Harry Neill will be run off. This will take place at 2:30 o'clock and will be an interesting event as a large number of the players have signified their intention of taking part. There is keen competition between the different speedy ones, and it will be a royal fight for first place. Messrs. N. E. McWilliams and C. G. Graham will be the officials in charge. Contestants must wear uniforms and ball shoes at least. Running suits and shoes will be prohibited, although contestants who are nat taking part in to-morrow's game may run in their street clothes, if they desire, but must wear baseball boots.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

Nobody who has seen "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," on the stage will have failed to notice the shoes worn by Mr. Stubbins. They are an important low comedy element of the play. Having gazed upon them once, one's eyes return to them again and again, fascinated.

They are shoes of extraordinary size, and evidently of considerable antiquity. It is beyond question that they have been worn for a great length of time, and by some resident of rural parts. Such footwear could not possibly be imitated; it is the real thing. One would not pay two cents for such a pair of shoes; yet it is probable that the actor who takes the part of Mr. Stubbins would not sell them for $100. They are a valuable asset in his business.

It often happens that the parts taken by actors on the stage oblige them to wear ragged clothes. To obtain such clothes, or the requisite degree of decrepitude, is likely to be very difficult. They cannot be made to order; it is necessary that they shall have arrived at the desired condition by prolonged wear. The remark applies as much to a coat or a pair of pantalons as to a pair of shoes.

Many a professional comedian has spent anxious days in searching the slums of a city for some accidental "bummer," whose coat or trousers possessed the requisite attributes of raggedness and obvious antiquity.

The same idea applies, of course, to the shabby and ragged clothing often worn by women on the stage. To look right, it must be the real thing—which is by no means so easy to get as one might imagine. A "find" of the kind, once made, is anxiously treasured—the first thing done with it, naturally, being to subject it to a thorough fumigation. Ash dumps have furnished many a precious article of apparel for theatrical wardrobes.

"LITTLE DIGESTERS" SURPRISE PEOPLE

They Make Even Chronic Dyspeptics Forget Their Stomachs

When a man who for years has been unable to eat a square meal without being thoroughly miserable afterward—who has tried doctors and medicines without relief—who is, in fact, a chronic and almost hopeless dyspeptic—when this man finds that by taking a "Little Digester" regularly he can eat 3 hearty meals a day, and feel good over it, he is nearly as much surprised as delighted.

The number of those who have had this experience with "Little Digesters" is steadily growing. More are hearing of them—trying them—being cured by them—every day.

The makers have such complete confidence in them that they guarantee them to cure any case of Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Indigestion or Dyspepsia—or you get your money back.

"Little Digesters", with this absolute guarantee, cost 25c a box at your druggist's, or by mail from the Coleman Medicine Co., Toronto. s6

Saved Four From Water.

Cornwall, Ont., Sept. 3.—Herbert Yates, the 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Yates, of Cornwall, has earned the Royal Humane Society medal for saving life at the peril of his own.

Yates and four boys, aged from eight to thirteen years, were in a boat. They started across the little river which runs down from the Long Sault Rapids between the islands. The rowlock of the boat broke, and the boat upset and drifted away. Mrs. E. Derosie, Mrs. F. Newman, and Mrs. Shaver, mothers of the little fellows were coming behind in a rowboat with three little girls. Yates, although only an indifferent swimmer, and burdened with his clothing, managed to bring the whole four to the mother's boat.

One little fellow, Freddie Shaver, did not recover for some time.

New Asylum Inspector.

Toronto, Sept. 3.—Yesterday Hon. W. J. Hanna, Provincial Secretary, announced the appointment of C. R. W. Postlethwaite as inspector of asylums, succeeding S. A. Armstrong, who became assistant Provincial Secretary on the resignation of Thomas McIvey. Mr. Postlethwaite has been acting inspector during Mr. Hanna's absence in Europe all summer.

He is a son of C. W. Postlethwaite, harbor master of Toronto. He served in 1885 in the northwest rebellion. On his return to Toronto he took up the study of law and later started business as a chartered accountant. He was secretary of the prison labor committee.

Nurses Elect Officers.

London, Ont., Sept. 3.—At the closing session at their annual meeting the Canadian Society of Superintendents of training schools for nurses yesterday afternoon, Miss Louise C. Brant, Hospital for Sick Children, was chosen president, and Toronto was unanimously selected as the meeting place for next year.

Other officers are: First vice-president, Margaret E. Stanley, Victoria Hospital, London; second vice-president, Miss Wilson, General Hospital, Winnipeg; secretary, Mrs. House, lady superintendent, Hamilton Hospital; treasurer, Miss Chesley, St. Luke's Hospital, Ottawa.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

President Taft will probably visit Alaska next summer.

John Norvatch, arrested at South Bend., Ind., admitted having killed four men.

It is estimated that 900 natives have perished in the floods in southeastern Java.

Mrs. Anna Wilson, aged 28, the Toronto woman who shot herself last Monday, died in Buffalo yesterday.

It is reported that half of the town of Camargo, on the Mexican bank of the Rio Grande, has been wiped out by a flood.

Very little rain has fallen in eastern Pennsylvania for several months past, and the drought thereby created now is in the acute stage.

There are still forty miles of the National Transcontinental Railway to be laid with rails to complete the line from Winnipeg to Port William.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith, an aged couple of New Haven, Conn., have been robbed in Paris of $4,000 by two confidence men to whom they entrusted their money for safe keeping.

While Sir Thomas Shaughnessy early yesterday morning was asleep in his private car, The Killarney, at Ottawa, a shunting engine collided with the coach. The rear-end was badly smashed.

With the opening of the duck-shooting season a number of fatal accidents are reported. Maxwell McDonald of Glen Ewing, Sasks., was killed while cleaning his gun, and Alfred P. O. Webb of Delmas, Sask., was using his gun as a club to kill some game, when he received the charge in the abdomen.

Grenfell's Boat Wrecked?

St. John's, Nfld., Sept. 3.—The inspector-general of police has received a message from St. Anthony, saying that the steamer Prospero, Capt. Kean, has brought news of the supposed wreck of a steam yacht from New York, near the entrance to St. Anthony, Labrador.

It is supposed to be the yacht that was given Dr. Grenfell for missionary purposes.

A fishing boat hauled up a new log line and got it buoyed near the scene to mark the spot where the ship went down.

Further news is expected on the arrival of the Prospero on Friday.

The "Andrew J. McCosh," a memorial to Dr. Andrew J. McCosh of Princeton, left New York last June, to be used by Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell as an emergency hospital boat on the Labrador coast. The yawl is fitted up with an auxiliary engine, but it was the intention to have her proceed under canvas when ever it was possible.

Dr. Grenfell himself uses the yacht Strathcona for traveling. His headquarters are at St. Anthony, to which place he returned a fortnight ago, after a lecture tour in the States.

Three Killed; One Other Will Die.

Reading, Pa., Sept. 3.—A Pennsylvania railroad train yesterday afternoon struck an automobile at Douglassville of this county, and killed three persons—Wm. L. Groul and wife of Temple, and the wife of Dr. S. L. Stegel, a well-known dentist of Reading. Dr. Stegel had both legs broken and cannot survive.

Shot By a Homesteader.

Saskatoon, Sask., Sept. 3.—Word reached the city yesterday morning from Zealandia that a man, at present unknown, had been shot dead there Wednesday night by a homesteader named Hope.

Corpl. Gray, N.W.M.P., arrested the murderer, who confessed. Details are very meagre.

"Thelly's Heart"

This is one of PATHE Freres' latest and strongest dramas, most beautifully mounted and artistically coloured. The scenes are laid in ancient Rome. It is a most interesting story, showing the great love of Thelly for Cyclon, of Ithis for Thelly, and of Fathima for Ithis, and how Ithis finally gambled with Fathima for Thelly's heart, and lost. One of Pathe's best.

"THE BUTLER'S TRICK"

This is one of PATHE Freres' best comedy pictures, telling a story of the Butler left in charge of the house while the master and mistress are away. # THE AEROPLANE COMES IN FOUR DIFFERENT STYLES THIS YEAR

Rheims, Sept. 4.—The four pictures I send you with this letter give at a glance a good idea of the aeroplane styles as seen during aviation week. There is the monoplane, the biplane, the triplane and the aeroplane with vertical wings.

In reality there are but two patterns of flying machines—the monoplane and the biplane. The triplane is little used.

Of these two forms, it is hard to say which is the better. Each has done some wonderful things.

Louis Bleriot, the famed Channel-crosser, is the designer of the monoplane shown in the picture. The Latham apparatus, which almost did the feat which Bleriot accomplished, is only slightly different in form. Santos-Dumont, the Brazilian, has a monoplane of his own design, but it, too, is like the others, while the "R.E.P." monoplane is likewise similar.

The Voisin people, makers of the triplane shown in the illustration, also make the biplane with the vertical sides. The other biplane is the familiar one of the Wright Bros., and seven of these negotiated the Rheims 10-kilometre course during the week.

In the Coupe Internationale event there were seven monoplanes entered against 21 biplanes.

Now that flying is a comparatively easy matter and the aeroplanes themselves are more or less trustworthy, it is the engine which is getting most attention now from the folks who fly.

There are four general styles, Bleriot uses an Anzani motor of three cylinders, one cylinder being vertical and the other two at either side at an angle of 45 degrees from the vertical.

Nowadays nearly all the trouble in aeroplaning is caused by the motors going wrong. Auto engines have been run for days without stopping, never missing an explosion. Then why does the aeroplane engine so often misfire after a few minutes running?

The thing is very simple, according to Louis Bleriot, who said:

"Automobile engines run with a heavy flywheel which balances it. It also goes at a moderate rate, ordinarily, occasionally running very fast, then slowing down and resting.

an angle of 45 degrees from it. There is but one offset on the driving crank, all three pistons being connected with this. The Wright Bros. use a four cylindered engine not unlike those in use on automobiles while the "R.E.P." monoplane gets its name from its engine, a seven-cylindered one, all being arranged equally distant, one from the other, around an arc of 180 degrees. The Antoinette monoplane has an Antoinette, eight-cylinder motor, four to a side and set on an

"The aeroplane engine has no balance wheel. It has no solid base. It starts off at full speed and runs like lightning without anything to check the great strain always upon it—like a steam engine without fly wheel or governors. Consequently, even with the best of workmanship and the finest of materials, the aeroplane engine shakes itself to bits mighty quickly unless very simply made. And that must be the keynote of aero engines: Simplicity."

Children at the "Awkward Age"

Still, you will be surprised what we can make of them. You know you'd like to have their pictures to send away and some to keep for yourself, just to look back upon in years to come, when the "awkwardness" has passed away

"SCHEMES FRAUDULENT IN THEIR INCEPTION"

So H. H. Schwartz Described the Alaska Coal Land Cases, When He Worked Under Garfield.

By Gilson Gardner.

Washington, Aug. 60.—The widening circles of the Alaska coal land fraud cases bid fair to include former Secretary of the Interior Garfield.

As the case stands now, a record has been demanded by President Taft, and such a record would include all the proceedings during the Roosevelt-Garfield administration as well as under the Ballinger administration.

It can be positively stated that Garfield considered the cases absolutely closed so far as the claimants were concerned, and he was merey proceeding in the cases in order to have a final finding made that would clear the title of the coal fields so that they might be open to legitimate entry.

That the Alaska coal cases were understood by Garfield's subordinate is shown in a report prepared by Assistant Commissioner of the General Land Office Schwartz, and presented by Schwartz to a select committee of the house of representatives on Jan. 30, 1909.

In that report, and referring to the same claims now under dispute, Schwartz said:

"Investigation has shown that the most valuable coal deposits in Alaska have been cornered by claims; and it has been proven that hundreds of these claims were located by prospectors in the employ of wealthy speculators. • •

• In other instances men had entered into contracts to pool their issues and form a corporation. This was illegal under existing laws."

Schwartz's report goes on to speak of the law of May 28, 1908, which Assistant Secretary of the Interior Pierce ruled had cured fraud in the Alaska cases. Schwartz's report says: "It is not thought, however, that congress intended nor that the terms of the act will permit the consumamtion of schemes WHICH WERE ENTIRELY FRAUDULENT IN THEIR INCEPTION.

Fred Dennett, commissioner of the general land office, was present at the hearing when Schwartz's report was read.

The alaska cases were first held up under Garfield by reason of a telegram from Special Agent Lewis Glavis. Glavis later satisfied the department that in the language of Schwartz's report the "schemes were entirely fraudulent in their inception." It was then ordered that the claims be pushed to a final hearing, not with the end in view of granting the patents, but so as to wipe out, formally, the last vestige of the fraudulent entries and so clear the title to the coal lands to the end that future bonafide entrymen may not be harassed by litigation based upon the original frauds.

It is known that after Secretary Ballinger has resigned from the public service and visited Secretary Garfield at the home of the latter at Mentor, Ohio, about a yea rago, t was to urge, as attorney, the reopening of the coal land cases. This was refused and Ballinger had to be content with merely filing certain affidavits for his clients.

The curious thing about the present situation is that Assistant Secretary Frank Pierce, together with Dennett and Schwartz are meeting the attack that is being made upon the Alaska coal land cases. These men were all in the department with Garfield when the cases were held to be "fraudulent in their inception."

Worth a Billion Dollars.

Seattle, Aug. 60.—The Alaska coal land cases, which are the bone of contention in the cabinet row that President Taft has taken up, probably represent the greatest single stake ever played in this country.

Not only are there great veins of bituminous coal but also field of anthracite, all making a deposit worth hundreds of millions of dollars. It has been estimated that the Alaska coal fields are easily worth a billion dollars besides giving the United States a tremendous advantage both in commerce and war on the Pacific ocean.

For such a stake will the fight wage before President Taft.

TERRIBLE RIOTS IN IRELAND

Dublin, Sept. 4.—Lurgan and Portadown have been recently the scenes of fierce riots between the rival religious parties. Baton charges were made by the police who eventually had to produce their rifles, the Riot Act was read, shops were looted, and about 100 people, including many police were injured.

The trouble began at Portadown. Several members of the Irish National Foresters were going to Newry to attend a demonstration there, and the authorities, scenting trouble, concentrated 600 police in the town.

The Foresters first attended mass and then marched in procession to the railway station. Some of the onlookers lost their tempers because the police dealt rather severely with some obstreperous bystanders, and stones were thrown at the police and the Foresters. The constables charged the crowd and many were injured.

At one point a new street had just been laid, and this furnished a splendid supply of ammunition to the rioters. Again the police charged and many of the crowd fled to the banks of the Bann, jumped into boats crossed to the other side and then resumed their stoning of the police.

Eventually the Foresters reached the station, and when the train was leaving several of them defiantly fired revolver shots, happily without striking anyone. The revolver shots were answered by a volley of stones which smashed the carriage windows.

When the Foresters returned at night the rioting was renewed. The police were mercilessly stoned, and many business establishments had their windows smashed. It was ten o'clock before the disorder ceased, and by that time the casualties numbered between forty and fifty.

Most of the rioters' injuries were caused by the police batons, but the constables' hurts were nearly all caused by stones or bottles.

Inspector Badly Injured.

Detective-Inspector Hussey was struck at the back of the head, but pluckily stuck to his post. Next day, however, while attending a conference of officers, he fainted, and it was discovered that his skull was fractured. His condition is critical.

A constable had an eye knocked out, and a sergeant sustained a broken nose.

For three hours the following night Lurgan was practically in the hands of a riotous mob, and next day the place looked as though it had been shelled.

The Nationalists had celebrated a festival with a procession, and the day seemed likely to pass without a stone being thrown. Indeed, so peaceful was the outlook that only forty-four policemen were in town.

However, about half-past eight, a Protestant band escorted two of its members to the railway station, on their way to the United States. The band was followed by a large crowd, and on the return journey the police had a difficult task in keeping back the Nationalist crowd at Churchplace. Incensed at the attitude of the latter, the Protestant crowd following the band commenced to smash the windows in a number of shops occupied by Roman Catholics. This was the beginning of the actual fighting.

The air became thick with stones and police charge followed police charge, but the constabulary were hopelessly inadequate to cope with the disorder. The road metal had a deadly effect on the officers, who now and again were hemmed in between the two mobs.

Rifles Brought Out

During this time havoc was wrought amongst not only the business establishments of the district, but also the dwelling-houses. One shop used as a bazaar was completely wrecked, and eighteen other shops had their windows smashed, while in one instance an attempt was made to set fire to the grocery premises of Mr. Andrew Knox, a Protestant shopkeeper. Fortunately, however, the fire was discovered in time and the flames extinguished. Looting was then indulged in and a large quantity of the goods of Mr. Hewitt, pawnbroker, was stolen.

So fierce were the attacks of the crowd on the police that a magistrate had to read the Riot Act and the police had to bring out their rifles. But the officer in command was loth to order his men to use the weapons, and, seeing this, the crowd went on with their ruffianly work.

Eventually a force of constabulary reached the corner of Hill street, and Edward street, but was driven back three times by the fusilade of stone. A call of volunteers to disperse the rioters was responded to by a number of the constables, who charged into the thick of the people. It was at this stage that some of the most serious injuries were inflicted on the police.

SIR NIGEL

BY A. CONAN DOYLE.

Copyright 1905, 1906, by A. Conan Doyle

Nearer and nearer yet, with stealthy step, and then with a bound and a cry of hatred and rage Paul de la Fosse had sped his blow. It was well judged and well swung, but point would have been wiser than edge against that supple body and those active feet. Quick as a flash, Nigel had sprung inside the sweep of the blade, taking a flesh wound on his left forearm, as he pressed it under the hilt. The next instant the cripple was on the ground and Nigel's dagger was at his throat.

"You dog!" he whispered. "I have you at my mercy! Quick ere I strike, and for the last time! Will you marry or no?"

The crash of the fall and the sharp point upon his throat had cowed the man's spirit. He looked up with a white face and the sweat gleamed upon his forehead. There was terror in his eyes.

"Nay, take your knife from me!" he cried. "I cannot die like a calf in the shambles."

"Will you marry?"

"Yes, yes, I will wed her! After all she is a good wench and I might do worse. Let me up! I tell you I will marry her! What more would you have?"

Nigel stood above him with his foot upon his misshapen body. He had picked up his sword, and the point rested upon the cripple's breast.

"Nay, you will bide where you are! If you are to live—and my conscience cries loud against it—at least your wedding will be such as your sins have deserved. Lie there, like the crushed worm that you are!" Then he raised his voice. "Father Athanasius!" he cried. "What ho! Father Athanasius!"

The old priest ran to the cry, and so did the Lady Mary. A strange sight it was that met them now in the circle of light, the frightened girl, half-unconscious against the table, the prostrate cripple, and Nigel with foot and sword upon his body.

"Your book, father!" cried Nigel. "I know not if what we do is good or ill; but we must wed them, for there is no way out."

But the girl by the table had given a great cry, and she was clinging and sobbing with her arms round her sister's neck.

"Oh, Mary, I thank the Virgin that you have come! I thank the Virgin that it is not too late! What did he say? He said that he was a de la Fosse and that he would not be married at the sword-point. My heart went out to him when he said it. But I, am I not a Buttesthorn, and shall it be said that I would marry a man who could be led to the altar with a knife at his throat? No, no, I see him as he is! I know him now, the mean spirit, the lying tongue! Can I not read in his eyes that he has indeed deceived me, that he would have left me as you say that he has left others? Take me home, Mary, my sister, for you have plucked me back this night from the very mouth of Hell!"

And so it was that the master of Shalford, livid and brooding, was left with his wine at his lonely table, while the golden beauty of Cosford, hot with shame and anger, her fair face wet with tears, passed out safe from the house of infamy into the great calm and peace of the starry night.

CHAPTER XIII.

And now the season of the moonless nights was drawing nigh and the King's design was ripe. Very secretly his preparations were made. Already the garrison of Calais, which consisted of five hundred archers and two hundred men-at-arms, could, if forewarned, resist any attack made upon it. But it was the King's design not merely to resist the attack, but to capture the attackers. Above all it was his wish to find the occasion for one of those adventurous passages of arms which had made his name famous throughout Christendom as the very pattern and leader of knight-errant chivalry.

But the affair wanted careful handling. The arrival of any reinforcements, or even the crossing of any famous soldiar, would have alarmed the French and warned them that their plot had been discovered. Therefore it was in twos and threes in the creyers and provision ships which were continually passing from shore to shore that the chosen warrors and their squires were brought to Calais. There they were passed at night through the water-gate into the castle where they could lie hidden, unknown to the townsfolk, until the hour for action had come.

Nigel had received word from Chandos to join him at "The Sign of the Broom-Pod," in Winchelsea. Three days beforehand he and Aylward rode from Tilford all armed and ready for the wars. Nigel was in hunting-costume, blithe and gay, with his precious armor and his small baggage trussed upon the back of a spare horse which Aylward led by the bridle. The archer had himself a good black mare, heavy and slow, but strong enough to be fit to carry his powerful frame. In his brigandine of chain mail and his steel cap, with straight strong sword by his side, his yellow longbow jutting over his shoulder, and his quiver of arrows supported by a scarlet baldric, he was such a warrior as any knight might well be proud to have in his train. All Tilford trailed behind them, as they rode slowly over the long slope of heath land which skirts the flank of Crooksbury Hill.

At the summit of the rise Nigel reined in Pommers and looked back at the little village behind him. There was the old dark manor-house, with one bent figure leaning upon a stick and gazing dimly after him from beside the door. He looked at the high-pitched roof, the timbered walls, the long trail of swirling blue smoke which rose from the single chimney, and the group of downcast old servants who lingered at the gate, John the cook, Weathercote the minstrel, and Red Swire the broken soldier. Over the river amid the trees he could see the grim, gray tower of Waverley, and even as he looked, the iron bell, which had so often seemed to be the hoarse threatening cry of an enemy, changed out its call to prayer. Nigel doffed his cap and prayed also—prayed that peace might remain at home, and good warfare, in which honor and fame should await him, might still be found abroad. Then, waving his hand to the people, he turned his horse's head and rode slowly eastward. A moment later Aylward broke from the group of archers and laughing girls who clung to his bridle and his stirrup straps, and rode on, blowing kisses over his shoulder. So at last the two comrades, gentle and simple, were fairly started on their venture.

There are two seasons of color in those parts: the yellow, when the country-side is flaming with the gorse-blossoms, and the crimson, when all the long slopes are smoldering with the heather. So it was now. Nigel looked back from time to time, as he rode along the narrow track where the ferns and the ling brushed his feet on either side, and as he looked it seemed to him that wander where he might he would never see a fairer scene than that of his own home. Far to the westward, glowing in the morning light, rolled billow after billow of ruddy heather land, until they merged into the dark shadows of Woolmer Forest and the pale clear green of the Butser chalk downs. Never in his life had Nigel wandered far beyond these limits, and the woodlands, the down and the heather were dear to his soul. It gave him a pang in his heart now as he turned his face away from them; but if home lay to the westward, out there to the eastward was the great world of adventure, the noble stage where each of his kinsmen in turn had played his manly part and left a proud name behind.

How often he had longed for this day! And now it had come with no shadow cast behind it. Dame Ermyntrude was under the King's protection. The old servants had their future assured. The strife with the monks of Waverley had been assuaged. He had a noble horse under him, the best of weapons, and a stout follower at his back. Above all he was bound on a gallant errand with the bravest knight in England as his leader. All these thoughts surged together in his mind, and he whistled and sang, as he rode, out of the joy of his heart, while Pommers sidled and curveted in sympathy with the mood of his master. Presently, glancing back, he saw from Aylward's downcast eyes and puckered brow that the archer was clouded with trouble. He reined his horse to let him come abreast of him.

"How now, Aylward?" said he. "Surely of all men in England you and I should be the most blithe this morning, since we ride forward with all hopes of honorable advancement. By Saint Paul! ere we see these heather hills once more we shall either worshipfully win worship, or we shall venture our persons in the attempt. These be glad thoughts, and why should you be downcast?"

Aylward shrugged his broad shoulders, and a wry smile dawned upon his rugged face. "I am indeed as limp as a wetted bowstring," said he. "It is the nature of a man that he should be sad when he leaves the woman he loves."

"In truth, yes!" cried Nigel, and in a flash the dark eyes of Mary Buttesthorn rose before him, and he heard her low, sweet, earnest voice as he had heard it that night when they brought her frailer sister back from Shalford Manor, a voice which made all that was best and noblest in a man thrill within his soul. "Yet, bethink you, archer, that what a woman loves in man is not his gross body, but rather his soul, his honor, his fame, the deeds with which he has made his life beautiful. Therefore you are winning love as well as glory when you turn to the wars."

"It may be so," said Aylward. "But indeed it goes to my heart to see the pretty dears weep, and I would fain weep as well to keep them company. When Mary—or was it Dolly?—nay, it was Martha, the red-headed girl from the mill—when she held tight to my baldric it was like snapping my heart-string to pluck myself loose."

"You speak of one name and then of another," said Nigel. "How is she called then, this maid whom you love?"

Aylward pushed back his steel cap and scratched his bristling head with some embarrassment. "Her name," said he, "is Mary Dolly Martha Susan Jane Cicely Theodosia Agnes Johanna Kate."

Nigel laughed as Aylward rolled out this prodigious title. "I had no right to take you to the wars," said he; "for by Saint Paul! it is very clear that I have widowed half the parish. But I saw your aged father the franklin. Bethink you of the joy that will fill his heart when he hears that you have done some small deed in France, and so won honor in the eyes of all."

"I fear that honor will not help him to pay his arrears of rent to the sacrist of Waverley," said Aylward. "Out he will go on the roadside, honor and all, if he does not find ten nobles by next Epiphany. But if I could win a ransom or be at the storming of a rich city, then indeed the old man would be proud of me. Thy sword must help my spade, Samkin,' said he as he kissed me good-bye. Ah! it would indeed be a happy day for him and for all if I could ride back with a saddle-bag full of gold pieces, and please God, I shall dip my hand in somebody's pocket before I see Crooksbury Hill once more!"

Nigel shook his head, for indeed it seemed hopeless to try to bridge the gulf between them. Already they had made such good progress along the bridle-path through the heather that the little hill of Saint Catharine and the ancient shrine upon its summit loomed up before them. Here they crossed the road from the south to London, and at the crossing two wayfarers were waiting who waved their hands in greeting, the one a tall, slender, dark woman upon a white jennet, the other a very thick and red-faced old man, whose weight seemed to curve the back of the stout gray cob which he bestrode.

"What how, Nigel!" he cried. "Mary has told me that you make a start this morning, and we have waited here this hour and more on the chance of seeing you pass. Come, lad, and have a last stoup of English ale, for many a time amid the sour French wines you will long for the white foam under your nose, and the good homely twang of it."

Nigel had to decline the draft, for it meant riding into Guildford town, a mile out of his course, but very gladly he agreed with Mary that they should climb the path to the old shrine and offer a last orison together. The knight and Aylward waited below with the horses; and so it came about that Nigel and Mary found themselves alone under the solemn old Gothic arches, in front of the dark shadowed recess in which gleamed the golden reliquary of the saint. In silence they knelt side by side in prayer, and then came forth once more out of the gloom and the shadow into the fresh sunlit summer morning. They stopped ere they descended the path, and looked to right and left at the fair meadows and the blue Wey curling down the valley.

"What have you prayed for, Nigel?" said she.

"I have prayed that God and His saints will hold my spirit high and will send me back from France in such a fashion that I may dare to come to you and to claim you for my own."

"Bethink you well what it is that you say, Nigel," said she. "What you are to me only my own heart can tell; but I would never set eyes upon your face again rather than abate by one inch that height of honor and worshipful achievement to which you may attain."

"Nay, my dear and most sweet lady, how should you abate it, since it is the thought of you which will serve my arm and uphold my heart?"

"Think once more, my fair lord, and bold yourself bound by no word which you have said. Let it be as the breeze which blows past our faces and is heard of no more. Your soul yearns for honor. To that has it ever turned. Is there room in it for love also? or is it possible that both shall live at their highest in one mind? Do you not call to mind that Galahad and other great knights of old have put women out of their lives that they might ever give their whole soul and strength to the winning of honor? May it not be that I shall be a drag upon you, that your heart may shrink from some honorable task, lest it should bring risk and pain to me? Think well before you answer, my fair lord, for indeed my very heart would break if it should ever happen that through love of me your high hopes and great promise should miss fulfilment."

Nigel looked at her with sparkling eyes. The soul which shone through her dark face had transformed it for the moment into a beauty more lofty and more rare than that of her shallow sister. He bowed before the majesty of the woman, and pressed his lips to her hand. "You are like a star upon my path which guides me on the upward way," said he. "Our souls are set together upon the finding of honor, and how shall we hold each other back when our purpose is the same?"

She shook her proud head. "So it seems to you now, fair lord, but it may be otherwise as the years pass. How shall you prove that I am indeed a help and not a hindrance?"

"I will prove it by my deeds, fair and dear lady," said Nigel. "Here at the shrine of the holy Catharine, on this, the Feast of Saint Margaret, I take my oath that I will do three deeds in your honor as a proof of my high love before I set eyes upon your face again, and these three deeds shall stand as a proof to you that if I love you dearly, still I will not let the thought of you stand betwixt me and honorable achievement!"

Her face shone with her love and her pride. "I also make my oath," said she, "and I do it in the name of the holy Catharine whose shrine is hard by. I swear that I will hold myself for you until these three deeds be done and we meet once more; also that if—which may dear Christ forfend!—you fall in doing them then I shall take the veil in Shalford nunnery and look upon no man's face again! Give me your hand, Nigel."

She had taken a little bangle of gold filigree work from her arm and fastened it upon his sunburnt wrist, reading aloud to him the engraved motto in old French: "Fais ce que dois, advienne que pourra—c'est commande' au chevalier." Then for one moment they fell into each other's arms and with kiss upon kiss, a loving man and a tender woman, they swore their troth to each other. But the old knight was calling impatiently from below and together they hurried down the winding path to where the horses waited under the sandy bluff.

As far as the Shalford crossing Sir John rode by Nigel's arm, and many were the last injunctions which he gave him concerning woodcraft, and great his anxiety lest he confuse a spay with a brocket, or either with a hind. At last when they came to the reedy edge of the Wey the old knight and his daughter reined up their horses. Nigel looked back at them ere he entered the dark Chantry woods, and saw them still gazing after him and waving their hands. Then the path wound amongst the trees and they were lost to sight; but long afterwards when a clearing exposed once more the Shalford meadows Nigel saw that the old man upon the gray cob was riding slowly toward Saint Catharine's Hill, but that the girl was still where he had seen her last, leaning forward in her saddle and straining her eyes to pierce the dark forest which screened her lover from her view. It was but a fleeting glance through a break in the foliage, and yet in after days of stress and toil in far distant lands it was that one little picture—the green meadow, the reeds, the slow blue-winding river, and the eager bending graceful figure upon the white horse—which was the clearest and the dearest image of that England which he had left behind him.

But if Nigel's friends had learned that this was the morning of his leaving, his enemies too were on the alert. The two comrades had just emerged from the Chantry woods and were beginning the ascent of that curving path which leads upward to the old Chapel of the Martyr when with a hiss like an angry snake a long white arrow streaked under Pommers and struck quivering in the grassy turf. A second whizzed past Nigel's ear, as he tried to turn; but Aylward struck the great war-horse a sharp blow over the haunches, and it had galloped some hundreds of yards before its rider could pull it up. Aylward followed as hard as he could ride, bending low over his horse's neck, while arrows whizzed all around him.

DO NOT BE HUMBUGGED.

MORE THAN EVER

Dishonorable and disreputable pharmaceutical concerns are flooding the market with cheap and worthless preparations designed to be imitations of "DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY."

Some of these are even labelled "Extract of Wild Strawberry," "Wild Strawberry Compound," etc., in the hope that the public may be deceived and led to purchase them, thinking they are getting the genuine "DR. FOWLER'S."

Are you willing to risk your health—perhaps your life, to these no name, no reputation, likely dangerous, so-called Strawberry Extracts?

For sixty-five years "DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY" has been used in thousands of families for Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Cramps, Summer Complaint, Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum and all Bowel Complaints.

Do not let the dishonest or unscrupulous dealer humbug you into accepting one of these cheap substitutes, to the deterriment of your health and gain to his pocket.

Ask for "DR. FOWLER'S" and insist on getting what you ask for. Manufactured only by the T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont. Price 35 cents.

Given Up To Die

No. 100 George St., Sorel, Quebec.

"I suffered from womb disease for seven years, with dreadful pains over the front of the body, over the back and down the legs. I had indigestion and chronic constipation and the constipation was so bad that I went sometimes for ten to fifteen days without any action of the bowels. I was ill in bed for one whole year. At one time I was so low that everyone thought I was going to die, and the last Rites of the Church were administered to me. I was treated by six different doctors without any benefit.

MADAME JOSEPH LIRETTE

Then I got a sample of "Fruit-a-tives," but I had no faith in them at all, and I would not have taken them only my husband begged so hard for me to try them. As soon as I began to take "Fruit-a-tives" I grew better, the bloating was relieved, the sleeplessness was cured, my stomach acted, and the bowels were moved, but above all the fearful womb pains were made easier.

I have taken eighteen boxes in all and I am now perfectly well again."

NATION'S PLAYGROUNDS.

Twelve Great Parks Have Been Established Since 1872.

The nation that leads the world in feverish business activity requires playgrounds as well as workshops. If we aspire to maintain industrial supremacy we must perforce think of conserving not only minerals, but men. Arguments for scenic preservation need not be limited to aesthetic or sentimental postulates. The playgrounds of the nation are essential to its very life. Nor can the materialist turn aside from this demand of the times, for no greater value can be won from mountain slopes and rushing rivers than through the utilization of natural scenery in the development of citizens.

John Muir has justly termed the mountain parks fountains of life. Here can be had the recreation that makes for increased and maintained efficiency. The appreciation of the beautiful in nature should become more and more an American characteristic, and in these days of national stock taking we do well to inventory the nation's wealth in wild scenery.

The national policy of preserving the best of America for present and future enjoyment is well fixed. Since 1872 twelve national parks have been established, including the public domain within as many different states, with an aggregate area of 3,500,000 acres. In addition to these reservations there have been created since June, 1906, eighteen national monuments in nine states, with a total area of over 1,500,000 acres. The Grand canyon and the petrified forest in Arizona and the natural bridges in Utah are the most notable of the national monuments. Of the national parks the Yellowstone, the Yosemite and the Mount Rainier are the best known. The secretary of the interior is the federal officer charged with the administration of these national reservations, and congress makes annual appropriations for their maintenance, those for the current year amounting to $175,000. The present policy is to make the utilization of these resources for recreation available to the greatest number of people by building roads and trails, issuing maps and safeguarding the health and comfort of visitors through sanitary improvements and supervision of the transportation and hotel concessions.—George Otis Smith in Review of Reviews.

The Cancer Scourge.

In all probability cancer is the worst physical scourge with which we have to deal. It annually destroys half as many lives as tuberculosis, but it is an even greater menace because, whereas the mortality from tuberculosis steadily decreases year by year, that from cancer steadily increases. The actual facts even medical men themselves hesitate to discuss. How many realize, for example, that in England, of all women who have reached the age of thirty-five years, one in every eight dies of cancer and one in every eleven men? Yet the latest official report of the registrar general of England coldly declares that this is the present situation. Whether the same figures apply to the United States cannot be determined with available statistics, but as living conditions and medical practice represent about the same standards in both countries the probability is that they do.—McClure's Magazine.

The Torpedo in Warfare.

The day has gone by when the torpedo can be regarded as an unreliable instrument of war of strictly limited use, says Cassier's Magazine. Today the British navy is about to be equipped with a torpedo which will carry a destructive charge of upward of 200 pounds and will possess an effective range of over 7,000 yards, which it will be able to cover at an average speed of 31 knots.

WINGS THAT WERE FINS.

Evidence That Penguin's Pinions Were Once Used For Swimming.

Ornithological puzzles are the penguins, with their curiously shaped wings and odd, unbirdlike, upright carriage. The peculiarities of their wings suggest that the penguins are descendants of birds which used their wings rather than legs in the pursuit of prey under water, and as the struggle intensified between the competing individuals the most expert at this sort of swimming would get the most food and oust less successful rivals. The winners gained advantage over their neighbors in proportion as their wings improved as swimming organs and inversely and of necessity became less suited to perform the work of flight.

In all other birds the feathers, though shed annually, are more or less gradually displaced. But in the penguins the new feathers all start into being at the same time and thrust out the old feathers upon their tips so that these come away in great flakes. Whereas in all birds save penguins the new feathers as they thrust their way through the skin end in pencil-like points, formed by investing sheaths, in the penguins these sheaths are open at the tips and attached by their rims to the roots of the old feathers, and hence these are held to their successors until they have attained a sufficient length to insure protection against cold.

The curious device for retaining the warmth afforded by the old feathers until the new generation can fill their places is apparently due to the fact that penguins are natives of the antarctic regions, although some now inhabit tropical seas.—Chicago Tribune.

THE WORD "SHIP."

From Digging Out the Tree Trunk For the Primitive Boat.

There is no doubt of the evolution of our great modern ships from a floating log on which our earliest ancestors sat astride and with hands and pole navigated the small streams, and just as surely has our word "ship" come from the first improvement of that primitive craft. The etymology of the word tells us of the evolution of the craft.

When the superior mind of our Aryan ancestors conceived the idea of hollowing out the floating log and thus decreasing its weight, adding to its buoyancy and better fitting it for their transportation, they had to find a word to express what they were doing, so they naturally used a root that they understood, which was "skap." This root signified the idea of digging, hollowing out and scraping. That is what they did to make their boats, and the "skap" became a noun to designate the boat.

That root "skap" has lived and grown during the 10,000 years and more that have passed since it was first used to give a boat its name, and after the breaking up and division of the Aryan race it followed all of its broadly divided branches to their new homes to be used in all of their tongues.

The Greeks have the root in their word "skafes," meaning a hollow cup, and the Latins have it in "scabere," signifying to scrape. In those languages, as well as in Sanskrit, it is in many words of a similar signification. It came to the English through the Teutonic type, "skepa," meaning a ship, or vessels, or what was hollowed out. In the middle English it was "schip," and Chaucer used the plural "shippes." In the Anglo-Saxon it was "scip," while the Icelander made it "skip" and the Dane "skib." The old high German had "scif" and the German "schiff."

So we see the change through the century of centuries has been slight, the same sound with the same signification having gone from father to son through all of the generations, giving us the same word when we speak of the Lusitania as our Aryan ancestors used when they spoke of the floating log that they had hollowed by digging and scraping with stones and shells.

A One-Sided "Us."

Two brothers, grown men now, are fond of sitting down and comparing past experiences. One particularly happy recollection is this.

There was an old coffee mill in the attic, which, as boys, they greatly desired to possess. One of them, Tom by name, sought his mother and begged her to give it to him.

"I don't believe I can, Tom," said she regretfully. "I should like to, but I'm afraid I can't."

"But why, mother?" urged Tom. "You don't use it."

"No. We don't use it."

"Then why won't you give it to us?"

"Well, dear," said the mother gently, "I'm afraid you and Ben will get to quarreling over it."

"Oh, no, we shan't," cried Tom eagerly. "You needn't be a bit afraid of that, mother. I won't let Ben touch it!"

Mermaids and Mermen.

The dugong, a species of whale found abundantly in the waters of both the great oceans, but especially off the coast of Australia, in the Pacific, is believed to have furnished the slender basis upon which all mermaid and mermen stories have been founded. Its general length is from eight to twenty feet. It has a head much resembling that of the human species and breathes by means of lungs. It feeds upon submarine beds of seaweeds and when wounded makes a noise like a mad bull. Long hair in the female species and hair and beard in the male add to the human resemblance of the head and neck. The flesh of this species of whale is used for food and is said to have the flavor of bacon, mutton or beef, according to the parts of the body from which the meat is taken.

When the Poet Was Happy.

Bjornson, the poet, was once asked on what occasion he got the greatest pleasure from his fame as a poet.

His answer was: "It was when a delegation from the Right came to my house in Christiania and smashed all the windows, because when they had thus attacked me and were starting for home again they felt that they ought to sing something, and so they began to sing 'Yes, we love this land of our.' They could do nothing else! They had to sing the song of the man whom they had attacked!"—London Chronicle.

The Wit of Evarts.

Once when twitted on his small size by a statesman of the strenuous type the late William M. Evarts retorted, "That remark proves what I have always asserted — that in your eyes measures were more important than men."

To another critic, who found fault with his habit of stringing out a whole paragraph without a break by the use of parenthetical clauses, he said cheerfully, "I have noticed that criminals object to long sentences."

The Falling Barometer.

The rich man was enjoying his first cruise on his new yacht.

Suddenly the captain came aft. He looked anxious.

"What's the good word, captain?" the owner asked.

"The barometer is falling rapidly," the skipper nervously answered.

"You must have hung it on a loose nail," the owner pleasantly suggested.

Blood Heat.

Blood heat, the normal temperature of the human body, is about 98½ degrees F. This is known as blood heat and is maintained within one or two degrees, whether in the arctic or the tropical regions. Any deviation from the average is injurious and if it be great or long continued is likely to prove fatal.

Peat Alcohol.

Alcohol is obtained from peat by treating the fiber with sulphuric acid and fermenting with a special yeast. A ton of dry peat yields forty-three gallons of pure spirit at one-fourth of the cost of potato alcohol.

SORE THROAT

Slight colds become more offensive and sickening every day. The inflammation extends further into the head, soon the ears begin to buzz and ring, the head aches, the eyes pain dreadfully, the nose gets plugged up, and this forces the patient to breathe through the mouth. Vile, filthy secretions are forced back into the throat, requiring a great deal of coughing to keep the air passages free. Finally, this foul matter finds its way into the stomach, causing dyspepsia and general ill-health. By this time the patient has SYSTEMIC CATARRH, which saps strength, depletes the vital energies till Consumption is the usual result.

It doesn't matter how long you have suffered, or how often you have failed to get relief, even though colds and Catarrh may affect every organ in your body, you can be permanently cured by inhaling the soothing vapor of Catarrhozone.

A few breaths through Catarrhozone Inhaler clears the phlegm out of the throat and stops coughing. The nostrils are cleansed of offensive mucous discharge, and sneezing and sniffling stop at once. Partial loss of hearing and headache (very common symptoms of Catarrh) are quickly cured, and in a short time every trace of Catarrh disappears.

We are so confident that Catarrhozone will cure your Catarrh that we are willing to refund the money in every case a purchaser is not fully satisfied. Catarrhozone has afforded a lasting benefit. # The Hecla Furnace

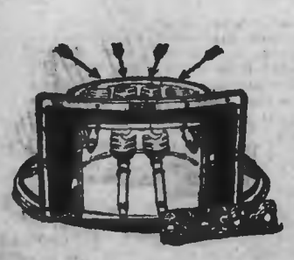
These Grate Bars Clean Your Fire Without A Poker



Because each of these four Grate Bars can be shaken separately. When the outer edge of a fire is dead, shake only the outer grate bars. When the outer edge needs a hard shaking, and the center only a few twists, you can clean each part of the fire of all the ashes and clinkers, without turning good coal down into the ash pan. This saves the fire—saves coal—saves sifting ashes—and, of course, one grate is much easier to turn than four geared together.

"Hecla" Individual Grate Bar is only one of a score of improvements possessed by this furnace alone.

The "Hecla" Fused Joints, for instance, insure the Furnace being dust, smoke and gas proof. The joints are fused, making them solid and absolutely airtight.

Our catalogue will tell you more of these and other exclusive features, which make the "Hecla" the safest and most sanitary warm air furnace on the market. Write today for free copy. 80

The DAY of the DUEL

THE PORTION OF HATE

AGAIN HE MADE A SLIGHTING REMARK CONCERNING MENEFEE.

(Copyright, 1903, by the New York Herald Co.—All Rights Reserved.)

THE speaker paused in the midst of a bitter tirade and continued to pace the floor with hands clasped behind him. The stoop that the position gave to his figure thrust his head forward and accentuated the unnatural length of thin jaw from angle to chin. His straight, scanty hair, a pale, unhealthy yellow in color, stood awry about a strangely bulging forehead. The hint of wildness in action and appearance was offset by cold gray eyes, a competent guard that bespoke full command at will.

"You see how it is, Farquhar," he resumed more quietly. "To think of these things sometimes drives me frantic. But who would be proof against it? Here am I, twenty-five years old, a son of my father as truly as this pitiful, whining girl, brought up to wealth and the taste for more, and yet without the prospects of a roustabout. I tell you he will never leave me a sou marquee."

Farquhar, a fashionably dressed man, nearing thirty but affecting an almost boyish juvenility of attire, with fresh cheeks and carefully tended hands, was playing with a riding crop.

"As the elder of the two he should certainly do as much for you at least as for your half-sister," he said.

"But he will not. He has transferred to me the resentment he bore against my poor mother before her death, though Heaven knows she had the greater cause to hate him. He cancelled the account, as he thought, when he legitimized me."

"You think there is a chance, then, if your sister does not marry?"

"I admit I think it possible. He grows irascible, senile. He wishes to see his name continued. It has become an obsession, a fixed idea with him. I have studied this sister of mine, Ellen. As much as one may understand a woman, I believe that she has set her heart fully upon Menefee. If their marriage can be permanently prevented, if they can be parted, she will give herself up to moping and pining. So she does at present when he leaves her.

"Now, observe how I see it. If she yields to despair, refuses to wed with any other, she will completely overbear our father's patience. He will abuse her, threaten her, and yet she has enough of steel somewhere within her concerning such matters, planted there by some providential notions of sentiment. Weak in other things, she is strong in this—that she must love as pleases her. Mind that I have watched and analyzed her. Well, and the result? Our father, seeing nothing but a dead branch in her, may transfer some of his affection to me, and once I have a hold upon him his fortune is mine. It is his hope and pride in her that make me now little better than an outcast."

Would Break the Romance.

Farquhar smiled and tapped his boot. "But in building this air castle you have overlooked your first step. She is engaged to Menefee; he is alive, very much so, and in full possession of the field. And you have no means with which to break the pretty romance."

David Richard gazed with a faraway expression at his friend a moment and then resumed his nervous pacing of the room.

"There are ways," he said briefly.

Farquhar watched him and yawned. "Well, Dickie, God knows I wish you all luck. You were never meant to waste your talents in obscurity. And then, not to recall an unpleasant subject, there is the little matter of dollars owing me which, to be frank, I see little chance of your paying unless you get a portion of the estate."

Richard waved the suggestion aside. "You know perfectly well that you will lose nothing by me. Even if this fails I can find some means to erase our account. Just now this appears to be the best opportunity that offers and you can wait."

"I have done little else for some time, Dickie," returned Farquhar with a grimace, "but there, don't glare at me! You're a great man, Dickie; it sticks out all over you. I shouldn't care to be furnished with a diagram of all the schemes you may devise when the case becomes desperate. Just keep them from me, will you, Dickie? But I'd go long odds on your fetching up at the top of the pile."

Richard accompanied the scented favorite of Vicksburg society to the hotel where they usually spent their afternoons with a group of the wealthy young men, who found a turn at the cards or dice desirable before the evening meal. Nothing more on the subject so near to the tardily recognized son of the old cotton planter, Moore Richard, was exchanged between them.

At that hour George Menefee, the young Kentucky attorney, who had come to Mississippi a year before, was riding from his office toward the Richard mansion. Dismounting at the steps, he found Ellen Richard awaiting him with outstretched hands. He was a big man, with strong, heavily moulded face, and had done well in his profession. His love for the girl dated from their first meeting, soon after his arrival. She was small, not dashingly beautiful, but fair and dainty, with a charm that came from grace of manner and sympathetic, expressive features.

Urged to Name the Day.

Before they sought a corner of the lofty columned porch she led him into the house for a word with her father. Old Richard, white, lined, crippled prematurely in mind and body by disease, greeted him shrilly.

"Well, George," he said, extending a feeble hand to the other, "there you are again, and Ellen."

He looked from one to the other, nodding approval. "Come, now, when is it to be? You have set the day, eh? I suppose the old man can't be in the secret, eh?" He shook a finger at them, laughing weakly but with infinite good nature and an almost pathetic desire to play the complacent parent in the match.

"George thinks we would better wait for a month or two, until the Frost case is decided," said the girl, looking down.

"Now, why—why?" the invalid complained. "Here's a pretty how-de-do, when the old man must urge you young folks before the parson. It was different when I was young," he added, shaking his head. "George, my boy, set the day. What difference if you win or lose the case? There are others, and I know you for a skilful lawyer. But I am not strong or well. I want to see you happily married. It is the one thing I can take satisfaction in, sitting here almost helpless, to see my daughter well provided for. Will I have to kidnap both of you and make you tie the knot?"

Menefee smiled at the strange situation, then turned to Ellen. "Let it not be said of me that I refused to take the prize," he said gayly. "I was only trying to be wise and dignified, Mr. Richard."

"Wise and dignified! At your age? Leave that to me. If you have a fault, George, it is a morbid notion that you must play the ancient. Settle the date now and let's have it over with."

"I see I made a mistake in not consulting you before," said Menefee, laughing. "You have most effectually banished all those longheaded plans that I, left to myself, so carefully devised."

"And you must live here," the aged man went on eagerly. "What are we to do with this great house otherwise? I want to see you both near me. You can have the whole east wing to yourselves."

And so the arrangements were made, old Richard cackling in happiness at the success of his abrupt interference, Menefee and Ellen beaming upon him, upon each other and upon the world in general. When David Richard reached home late that evening he learned from his negro servant that the wedding had been set for the last week in May, just a month off.

Shaping His Schemes.

Confronted by the final welding of the forces which, as he conceived, held him from his inheritance, the young man set to work to consolidate the schemes which had formed vaguely in his mind. David Richard was proud, ambitious, unscrupulous. Even minded observers had noticed the coldness of his father toward him, but had assigned the situation to reasons which contrasted sharply with those he advanced himself.

The young man had never touched his parent's affection. He had been a party to several adventures undertaken by the set he followed which had cast a shadow upon all involved. He had been disobedient, headstrong and impatient of restraint. The result had been to widen steadily the breach between the elder man and himself. There were few among the planter's friends who could bring the indictment of harshness against him in his treatment of his son, though there were many to blame him for his earlier domestic tangle. Still others held that he was now expiating his fault and saw in David's disposition the promise of a judgment upon the father.

The young man, with the sharp, balanced intelligence which lurked beneath all his outward eccentricity and recklessness, had gauged the situation correctly. All his father's pride of race and personal vanity were now centred in seeing an heir or heirs to his large fortune. Lacking sympathy with David, from whatever reason, he had drawn the closer to Ellen. The marriage of the half sister meant that David would obtain but small share of the patrimony. If, on the other hand, he could thwart Ellen, make the marriage impossible, he foresaw that the petulant irritability of the invalid might be aroused to any height by disappointment and her refusal to wed another. At that point David meant to step in with changed demeanor, follow his father's wishes in all things and reap the reward.

But how to compass his end? He had already searched for some hidden entanglement in Menefee's past that might serve as a weapon without result. He had thought for a moment of fighting the young lawyer, but had recoiled from it. Aside from dislike of the risk, even if successful, he could not appear as the architect of Ellen's misfortunes. And Menefee had killed his man twice in Kentucky.

The day of the wedding was still two weeks off when David joined his usual group of companions at the hotel, to find there one who of late had been a stranger to them. This was Alexander McClung, one of the most remarkable characters of Mississippi, feared by all and admired by the young spirits that had made of him a hero. A tall, commanding man of fierce and distinguished appearance, he was known throughout the South as a professional duellist. His victims numbered twelve, and in every meeting he had killed his opponent.

McClung Quarrelsome.

He was quarrelsome and vindictive, and only the fact that he came of an excellent family and that he was quick to resent the slightest hint of avoidance assured recognition for him in social circles. David had always treated him with the most profound respect and now saluted him cordially. The friendship between them had begun to grow at the time when David's differences with his father first became a matter of common report. The young man knew the reason.

Years before McClung had courted the woman who was Ellen's mother. She had refused him and had married the planter Richard. McClung, who had not acquired his desperate reputation at that time, was supposed to have nourished the bitterness of the disappointment ever since. He had been heard to say that only accident and the ill health of Richard had preserved the planter from his deadly pistol. He had never seen the daughter. The fact that no love was lost between David and his father recommended the young man to the duellist's friendship.

It was during the course of conversation with McClung that evening that the seeds of a plot germinated in David's mind. McClung confided a need of money. Richard replied that he thought the luck could be easily remedied.

"I have heard you used to practise law some years ago," he said.

"Yes," said McClung, "there was a time when I carried the green bag or its equivalent. But it is long since I worried with the musty profession."

"Then here is your chance," said David. "The Frost case has been a gold mine for every pettifogger in town during the year of your absence. The attorneys have flocked here like buzzards to a sick horse, and every man with a pretence to the law has been sure of service on one side or the other. The two Frost cousins are involved in elaborate litigation over a rich estate. Now, I am close to one of them, and I think I can induce him to engage you. Would you accept?"

"With all celerity, my dear Richard," answered McClung. "Unpleasant as it may be to acknowledge, the fact remains that I am in straits. I should be under great obligations if you could procure me the employment."

The matter rested there and David visited Daniel Frost next morning. He had cultivated his acquaintance with the litigant, and the fact that Menefee was of course for the opposing cousin had contributed to his friendliness. He now had reason to congratulate himself upon his foresight. Daniel Frost knew of McClung, and, what was of more weight with him, was familiar with his reputation. He was quite willing to add to his array of counsel a man whose ability as a pleader might be open to question, but whose accuracy with firearms would make him a redoubtable figure in any argument. David left him and returned with McClung. A satisfactory adjustment was soon reached.

Arraying the Two Men.

"Colonel," said David, after they had left Frost, "there is only one man on the other side of this case who is capable of holding it up. The rest of them are stuffed figures, and they'll drop like a shot when they see you in court. Menefee is the name of the chap I mean. He's a newcomer from Kentucky and a close friend of my father. I won't say but what he's game, and clever, too. If any one stands against you at a pinch he will be that one."

"All right, Dickie," was McClung's response. "Let him stand from under. I'll go to meet some of my conferrees in the case and brush up on my erudite grasp of the subject."

David understood the sidelong glance that accompanied these words. McClung knew, as he knew and Frost knew, that the presence of the duellist was valuable merely as an intimidating force. He was expected to have much more dangerous ammunition than that supplied by Blackstone in reserve.

David was on hand to watch the development of his scheme at the next sitting of court. The surprise and consternation among the legal forces of Benjamin Frost occasioned by the unexpected appearance of McClung in the ranks of their opponents were evident. Noble flights of eloquence were restrained and the day's proceedings, taken up by cross-examination of Daniel Frost's witnesses, were sufficiently dull. McClung took no active part in the struggle, but sat among his associates, silent, observant and menacing. Menefee, whose specialty was sustained speaking, was also idle during the cross-examination.

Summing up did not begin until the close of the week and David was again on hand. Menefee's effort was masterly and convincing. It was evident that he was the biggest man in the case and that he had a sure grip upon it. The feeling among those in the courtroom when he had finished was that this stranger from Kentucky would pull his client through to victory during the closing engagements of the notable fight. When he sat down McClung arose to respond. The duellist was calm and deliberate. He was a ready speaker, and during his first remarks he presented a fairly clear version of his side. This done, he carefully injected into his speech a thinly veiled insult directed against Menefee. A murmur arose from the crowded room.

David, who was sitting beside Farquhar, leaned toward his friend and pressed his arm. The dandy looked inquiringly at him a moment and then nodded in understanding. Menefee's strong face was flushed with anger. The presiding judge rapped to still the commotion and McClung proceeded. Again he made a slighting remark concerning Menefee, accompanying it this time with a direct and piercing glance at the Kentuckian. A moment later he sat down and one of the other lawyers for Daniel Frost took up the routine. But David knew from Menefee's face that the first step toward his purpose had been won.

Demanded an Apology.

He received confirmation of his belief while the crowd was leaving the court house after adjournment. He had pressed to McClung's side. On the steps they were confronted by Menefee, who stepped directly up to the duellist.

"Sir," said the Kentuckian, "I shall have to ask you to withdraw the remarks you have just made in so far as they apply to me personally. I find no objection to your legitimate support of your client, but I cannot allow what you directed against me to pass."

McClung looked him coolly over from head to foot, then glanced absently beyond him into the street.

"Is that Farquhar I see over there?" he asked of David, apparently oblivious to Menefee's existence.

The Kentuckian's temper flared. He came closer. "You are unbearable, sir. I demand an apology."

Still McClung seemed not to hear. He turned toward David to make another remark. In the heat of his anger Menefee struck him lightly. "Perhaps that will make you listen to me," he said.

McClung faced his opponent in earnest with a glance of terrible intensity.

"No man ever struck Alexander McClung and lived," he said, and the quiet but penetrating quality of his voice took all suggestion of bombast from the words. "You can now do the listening, sir. You will hear from me." Menefee bowed and walked quickly away.

Word of a duel impending between the two leaders in the day's session in the Frost case spread rapidly. As to the probable outcome of the conflict there was some difference of opinion. While McClung was notoriously proficient with his weapons, it was pointed out that hard living must have had its effect and that Menefee was no stranger to the field of honor. The Kentuckian was much younger and must be conceded the advantage of steady nerves and a clean life.

Menefee had some hope of keeping word of the approaching encounter from the Richard mansion, but in this he did not count upon David. The planter's son knew that nothing could now intervene to prevent the meeting, and he gave himself the pleasure of acting as the bearer of the evil news to his father and half-sister.

Hearing the Evil News.

Ellen was prostrated. Old Richard became agitated and in his anxiety suffered an attack of his malady. His daughter's distress aggravated his irritability and he denounced Menefee bitterly. He looked upon the duel as an affair directed deliberately against his peace of mind. What was the fellow thinking of to fight almost on the eve of his wedding? He awaited the Kentuckian's daily visit with impatience, but Menefee did not come. Instead he sent a brief note saying that he had been detained on business.

The planter stormed, but Ellen read the message aright. She returned an answer informing her betrothed that she knew of the duel and begging him to meet her at the gate of the Richard house that evening.

There were few abroad in Vicksburg at midnight. A light breeze was stirring. A few frayed clouds drifted athwart the moonlight from time to time. The town had sunk to rest. A tall figure moved slowly with noiseless step, along the road leading past the Richard house. In an open space, where a patch of silver spread to the broken edges of the shadows, the figure was discernible as that of a tall, thin man of middle age. He walked with his hands clasped behind him and his chin sunk upon his breast. He took no heed of his surroundings, following the path mechanically. As he went on one of the ragged strains drew across the moon and he continued in darkness.

A woman's voice, tearful, pleading, broke upon his reverie and he stopped abruptly. His outstretched hand rested upon a fence railing as he stood into the black vacancy ahead. Suddenly the veil above was withdrawn and light shone dimly upon a step of land close beside him where he could look through the bushes. A man was standing there, and the white drawn face was that of Menefee. Kneeling at his feet, with both hands holding one of his and with tear raised, appealing eyes, was Ellen Richard. The hidden witness of this scene reeled and caught the railing again for support. His gaze was fixed wildly upon the woman's face. Once more a film of cloud hid the objects in obscurity. With a strange, strangled cry he staggered back to the path and began to run, unconsciously, in the direction from which he had come.

The duel between Menefee and McClung was fought in the presence of a large crowd of spectators. Concealment was unnecessary. The spirit of the community was wholly in favor of such affairs and privileged persons attended a meeting as they would any other spectacle. When the principals were ready to take their stand it was with difficulty that those present could be forced back to clear the necessary ground.

Rifles at Sixty Yards.

McClung had named Mississippi rifles at sixty yards and since that condition had been made public betting had favored Menefee's chances. Besides the fact that sympathy was with him as against his antagonist, it was believed that he was more familiar with this particular weapon than the duellist. McClung's choice occasioned considerable surprise, since all his previous encounters had been fought with pistols.

McClung was in a savage temper and still further alienated the support of the spectators by his curt answers to his seconds and his belligerent attitude. The Kentuckian, on the other hand, was courteous and genial, quite at ease and showing no change of manner that would indicate fear, nervousness or regret. He returned McClung's angry glare steadily. The rifles were loaded and placed in the hands of the combatants. The seconds stood aside. The crowd watched breathlessly.

"Are you ready?" asked McClung's second sharply.

"Ready," answered both men firmly.

"Fire! One, two"——

At the word "two" Menefee's rifle rang out. It was seen to fly from the trunk of a tree back of McClung and in line with him. The bullet had passed just above his head. To the astonishment of all, McClung's weapon did not answer, and suddenly the duellist, with a furious oath, hurled it from him. It fell in the sand some thirty feet away, burying its muzzle deeply. McClung stamped about, raving. The rifle had hung fire.

The duellist's actions were those of a madman. He could not be calmed. He shook his fists, swearing that a spell had been put upon him.

"I knew it! I knew!" he cried incoherently. "God is fighting for him! She always hated me. But I will get him yet. I demand my shot, my shot!"

After ten minutes his seconds brought him to a show of reason. The rifle was recovered and the sights shaken from the barrel. When the men had taken their positions again McClung had forfeited the good will of all the spectators by his behavior—all but one, for David was there.

Once more the space was cleared and the dance for life. Once more they answered the second.

"Fire"——

The word had scarcely been pronounced when McClung discharged his weapon. Menefee's finger was not yet closed upon his trigger. There was a metallic crash and the Kentuckian, dropping his weapon, sank to the ground, his face covered with blood. Aptly a physician ran to him and lifted him. The wounded man tried to speak, once, twice, then collapsed limply. It was found that the bullet from McClung's rifle had smashed the lock of Menefee's rifle. A jagged fragment had been hurled deep into the young man's brain, killing him almost instantly.

In the Frenzy of Triumph.

McClung held his place after firing. Rising to his full height he peered through the smoke toward his antagonist. He was intensely excited. "Is he dead? Is he dead?" he asked his second, who ran toward him.

"Yes," was the answer. "A splinter from the rifle went through his head."

McClung dropped upon his knees and pressed the rifle affectionately to his bosom, while the crowd watched him in amazement. The duellist handled the weapon as he might a child and kissed it.

"I won," he muttered. "I could not shoot him; kept the bullet from him. But I killed him."

Six months later the planter Richard and his daughter were buried within a few days of each other, the latter having taken her life with her own hand after her father's death. David Richard was left in full possession of the large estate.

McClung never fought another duel, chiefly because of the fear in which he was held. Belief started and gained ground that the man's reason was affected. He served as an officer in the First Mississippi Rifles during the Mexican War under Jefferson Davis. After his return he became morose, shunned company and gave himself up to a solitary and melancholy existence.

One day toward the end of his life he visited the cemetery and asked to be shown the grave of David Richard. When the custodian led him to the little family plot and pointed out two stones bearing the name, asking him whether he meant the mother or the daughter, he became confused and had to be led to his home.

He was found dead in bed one morning, his favorite dueling pistol, with which he had killed a dozen men, still in his hand. He had shot himself through the right temple.

THE CANADIAN FORESTRY ASSOCIATION CONVENTION

Many Important Problems Discussed at the Wetsern Gathering---Papers Read by Eminant men who Have Given Their Attention to This Valuable Study.

The meeting of the Canadian Forestry Association at Regina, September 3 and 4, was the first held further West than Ontario. The city council and Board of Trade of Regina for two years invited the Association to hold a special meeting in their city to discuss features of forestry of special interest to the Prairies Provinces. The meeting was taken up enthusiastically by the citizens of the three provinces and the papers reflect the needs and desires of the country.

Citizens of the West were well represented at the meeting and the interest taken in the subject of prairie forestry by the people of other parts of Canada was evinced by those who came from the East and by the names of those who sent letters of regret at inability to be present. These included: His Excellency, the Governor General, Patron of the Canadian Forestry Association; Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. President; Mr. Thos. Southworth, Toronto, President; Senator Edwards, Ottawa; Vice-president; Hon. Jules Allard, Minister of Crown Lands, Quebec; Hon. Frank Cochrane, Minister of Crown Lands for Ontario, Vice-president for Ontario; Hon. Sydney Fisher, Ottawa; His Grace, the Archibishop of Montreal, Vice-president for Ungava; Hon. R. P. Roblin, Winnipeg, Vice-president for Manitoba; Hon. W. C. H. Grimmer, Vice-president for New Brunswick; Mr. H. M. Price, Quebec, Past President; Mr. E. Stewart, Montreal, Past President; Mr. E. G. Joly de Lotbinere, Quebec; Mr. W. B. Snowball, Chatham, N.B., Past President; Hon. W. A. Charlton, Toronto, director; Dr. B. E. Fernow, Dean of the Faculty of Forestry, University of Toronto; Mr. Gordon E. Edwards, Ottawa; Mr. Ellwood Wilson, Grande Mere, Quebec.

The chief papers read were the following.

"Tree Planting on the Prairies, Eastern Section," Mr. Angus MacKay, Superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Farm, Indian Head.

"Tree planting on the Prairies, Western Section," Mr. A. Mitchell, Assistant in Tree Planting Division.

"Dominion Forest Reserves," Prof. A. H. D. Ross, M.A., M.F., Toronto University.

"Forest Reserves in Relation to Game Preserves," Mr. T. N. Willing, Chief Game Guardian, Saskatchewan; Mr. J. P. Turner, secretary of the Manitoba Game Protective Association.

"Illustrated Talks on Forestry."
Mr. Norman Ross, chief of the Tree Planting Division.

Mr. A. Knetchell, inspector of Dominion Forest Reserves.

DOMINION FORERT RESERVES

Prof. A. H. D. Ross, M.A., M.F., of the University of Toronto, in his paper dealt with the Dominion Forest Reserves. He showed that in 1906 the Parliament of Canada established 21 Forest Reserves. Six are in Manitoba, four in Saskatchewan, three in Alberta and eight in the strip forty miles wide in British Columbia, known as the Railway Belt. These are areas were set aside (1) To provide lumber, fuel, ties, poles, and other forest products required for the settlement of the country and the development of its resources; (2) To protect the headwaters of streams and regulate the flow of water in them for irrigation, transportation and industrial purposes; (3) To afford a natural shelter for the various kinds of birds, fish and game.

These reserves embrace areas as follows, Manitoba, 3,575 square miles; Saskatchewan, 740; Alberta, 185; British Columbia, 890. Total 5,391 square miles. It would require a special act of Parliament to withdraw any of the land from these reserves for settlement or other purposes, so that here is a great opportunity for the Government to protect and improve this property.

In the three prairie provinces the reserves are intended to supply homesteaders with building material, fencing and fuel, rather than to furnish wood for the lumber trade. In these three provinces there is now a population of almost a million, and it will not be many years before it reaches ten millions. In the meantime the consumption of wood for building and industrial purposes will be enormous, and will require al the lumber now growing on the reserves between Lake Winnipeg and the Rockies. There is not nearly enough timber land reserved to supply the needs of this great region. The obvious thing to do is to create more reserves and protect not merely the mature timber but also the young trees as carefully as if they were dollar bills. If the floor of this room were covered with dollar bills, he would be judged insane who would let a fire get started amongst them, yet this is the very kind of a thing that is going on in the case of young tree growth. In Europe they say "It is only Turks and Americans (including Canadians) who burn the forest." In the case of the Dominion Forest Reserves, however, it is the policy of the Forestry Branch of the Department of the Interior in doing everything in its power to protect the timber from fire, to lessen the amount of waste incident to lumbering operations, to stop timber thieving, and to so manage the reserves as to secure continuous crops of timber from them. Other nations have been able to not only secure but actually to improve both the quantity and quality of the crop—so why not Canada? So far the great difficulty has been to secure men with the necessary technical training and administrative ability to take charge of the work. In the United States the technically trained men are snapped up by the Federal and State Governments and the lumber and pulp companies as soon as the are graduated. With the recently established forest schools at the University of Toronto and the University of New Brunswick, it is hoped that men will soon be available for this work.

Upon Mr. R. H. Campbell, superintendent of forestry, Ottawa, falls the heavy responsibility of administering the Dominion Forest Reserves. Each summer he spends considerable time in the field, studying the needs of the localities in which each preserve is situated, familiarising himself with the actual condition of the reserve itself and studying how best to protect and improve it. In this work he is ably assisted by Inspector Knetchel and assistant inspectors Dickson and MacMillan, graduates of the Cornell, Michigan and Yale Forest Schools respectively.

Mr. Ross then took up in detail the different reserves in the three provinces showing the location, size and character of each and mentioning the problems connected with them. He noted, that the rainfall being only about one-third of that of Ontario and the average velocity of the wind almost exactly twice as great, it is a difficult matter to fight in the Western reserves. The only way in which they can be protected is to patrol them summer and winter; to have efficient fireguards and have roads that will enable the rangers to get quickly from part of the reserve to another. Last year 150 miles of roads were made along the boundaries and through different parts of the reserves. This work should be continued. Last year 25 squatters were removed from the Turtle Mountain Reserve in Manitoba and given land elsewhere. The same is true of Riding Mountain Reserve from which 126 squatters have been removed. The removal of these required great tact on the part of the officers of the Forestry Branch but without their removal it would have been folly to attempt to place the reserves under management. The great thing to be done now is to protect the young growth, have the dead timber removed and get tree growth started on the open spots. Citing the case of the Turtle Mountain Reserve where there is a bare patch of 55 square miles, Mr. Ross points out that it would cost $264,000 to plant this with nursery stock so that it will be necessary to let Nature do her own seeding or find some cheaper method than planting. Last year Mr. Knetchel tried the experiment of placing free seeds in the long grass and covering them with sand. The experiment has so far been successful.

On the Spruce Woods Reserve East of Brandon, there have been planted 35,000 Scotch pine grown from seeds at Indian Head Nurscery Station. From the swamps of this reserve thousands of young tamarack seedlings have been obtained and planted at Indian Head and are making remarkable growth. Last year 40 bushels of spruce cones were collected here and used for planting on the different reserves.

The Duck Mountain and Riding Mountain Reserves are important as regulators of streams in Northern Manitoba and as game covers, being the home of the elk, moose, black and cinnamon bears and smaller game.

Referring to the Saskatchewan reserves as a whole, Mr. Ross noted that the area is only 740 square miles, poorly timbered, containing less than 60 million feet of saw timber and about 700,000 cords of wood. This is not much for a population of 350,000. He asked if the people should not begin to agitate for the creation of more forest reserves in the northern part of the province. To creat timber land by planting nursery stock will cost a million dollars for six townships. If Mr. Knetchel's experiments are successful it will cost a million dollars for twenty townships. Would it not be better to reserve the timber land now existing and spend the money in increasing the planting which nature has done?

Mr. Ross calls attention to the watershed known as the Eastern Slope of the Rockies. This contains 8,244 square miles most of which is wholly unsuited for agriculture. He quoted from a report of Inspector MacMillan, who asks if common lumber cost $2 per M. in the prairies now with a million population, what will it cost when there is a population of ten million when most of the forest land will have been cut and burned over? The coal mining industry of Alberta will require 45 billion feet of mine props, the product of nine million acres for sixty years. This says nothing of railways, settlers and other requirements. These facts along with the need of irrigation shows the need for turning the Eastern Slope into a Forest Reserve before it is too late.

FOREST RESERVES AND GANE PROTECTION

Mr. J. P. Turner, secretary of the Manitoba Game Protective Association dealt with the subject of forest reserves in relation to game protection.

He pointed out that in conserving the forest the preservation of the game must not be overlooked, because if you deplete a country of its forests not only will you detract from its productiveness and attractiveness but you destroy its game, which forms a valuable means of recreation.

Some examples exist of what intelligent and systematic game protection will produce not only in providing one of the best forms of outdoor recreation, but also in providing a revenue for the state of no small proportions. Some years ago game was so scarce in the State of Maine that it was hardly worth while organizing outings in its pursuit. Today, not only is Maine provided with game of all kinds in abundance but also one of the largest revenues is derived from game licenses. This wonderful transformation is due to the earnest efforts of a few men who have aroused public opinion and proved to the legislators the value of systematic protection. Game cannot be protected without providing ample tracts of forest as game refuges. Canada is particularly fitted to provide from the Atlantic to the Pacific game preserves which will not interfere with agriculture or other industries but which will on the other hand enhance these. If forest reserves and game refuges are combined Canadians will be able to hunt the wild game existing to-day long after it has disappeared from other parts of the continent. If such refuges are not provided game animals and game birds as well as songsters and insectivorous birds of the greatest value to the country, at the present rate of decrease will all have disappeared in the next fifty years.

While there is yet time it is incumbent upon all interested in the future welfare of Canada to arouse themselves to prevent such a national calamity and to pass on this great heritage to those who come after.

FASHIONS

The apron tunic has become very popular. Other skirts are themselves draped and tied at the back into knots and bows.

Throughout the vogue of the covered and embroidered button, crocheted buttons have never lost their place as the first choice of the particular woman. They are used upon linens, upon chiffon gowns, on cashmere and even upon foulards. On lingerie waists even upon foulards. On lingerie waists, too, they are very popular, for they trim prettily and daintily.

Sometimes these buttons are quite round, again quite flat; but whichever shape they may be, they are effective and improve the garment upon which they appear.

Capes have been growing more popular for months, and now brand-new coats show deep Inverness capes falling to the hips. The front of the coat is finished in the new shield fashion, the cape falling only over the arms and back. With an arrangement of snap buttons the cape may be removed when desired.

HID IN THE CLOCK TOWER

Puy, France, Sept 4.—In May last, a French soldier named Bruno, who was in an infantry regiment here, disappeared suddenly. The most careful search was made, but no trace of him could be found. He was supposed to have left the country or drowned himself. To the astonishment of all he appeared in the barracks recently, and was at once arrested as a deserter.

He explained that he had not deserted, but that for all these months he had hidden in the clock tower of the barracks. Every evening when darkness set in he would leave his retreat and steal out to get food, and he was never detected either leaving or returning to his hiding place.

The cause of the eccentric conduct was, he said, the refusal of a woman to listen to his proposals in marriage. When she assured him that she would not marry him he sought to soften her heart by disappearing completely and suddenly in the hope that absence would make her heart grow fonder of him.

His story has been verified in every detail. The court took a lenient view of the case and sentenced him to three months' imprisonment.

THOUSANDS OF EMPTY HOUSES IN LARGE CITIES OF BRITAIN

London, Sept. 4.—Issued by Mr. John Burns, a parliamentary paper affords an interesting comparison of the numbers of untenanted houses and tenements in the metropolitan boroughs, and in Birmingham, Bristol, Leeds, Liverpool, Manchester, Portsmouth Sheffield, and Glasgow. Mr. Burns points out that in some cases the figures are approximate only. Usually houses and tenements in respect of which the payment of rates is compounded for are not included, as information with regard to them is not available. The following are the figures:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Battersea | 2,064 | Islington | 2,534 |
| Bermondsey | 426 | Kensington | 1,989 |
| Chelsea | 652 | Paddington | 2,000 |
| Deptford | 1090 | Poplar | 1,321 |
| Finsbury | 1,650 | St. Marylebone | 1,324 |
| Fulham | 1,047 | Shoreditch | 1,296 |
| Hackney | 2,017 | Stepney | 2,684 |
| Hammersmith | 1,212 | Stoke Newington | 449 |
| Hampstead | 950 | Westminster | 2,175 |
| Holborn | 789 | Woolwich | 1,276 |

Thus leaving out of consideration the metropolitan boroughs of Southwark and Wandsworth—two of the largest—for which no information is available, there are 39,099 unoccupied houses and tenements in the administrative County of London. The estimated population of London in 1907 was 4,758,218. Setting the estimated population in 1907 for eight of the largest towns in great Britain against the number of occupied houses quoted by Mr. Burns, it will be seen that the number of empty houses varies very considerably.

| | Population | Unoccupied Houses |
|---|---|---|
| Birmingham | 553,155 | 3,467 |
| Bristol | 367,979 | 4,850 |
| Leeds | 470,268 | 6,375 |
| Liverpool | 746,144 | 6,900 |
| Manchester | 648,148 | 3,972 |
| Portsmouth | 208,291 | 1,652 |
| Sheffield | 455,553 | 4,007 |
| Glasgow | 347,584 | 37,000 |

GOLF FOR PAUPERS

London, Sept. 3.—At the meeting of the Guardians of East Steyning Union rece ntlya recommendation which caused considerable amusement, was made that the board accept the offer of Mr. W. Rawson Shaw to provide the inmates of the workhouse with the apparatus necessary for playing ladder golf.

The master explained that the only expense to the public would be in the laying of a small green six yards long and three yards wide. The game, which was played wit hoogl clubs, consisted mostly of putting. Mr. Shaw thought the recreation would amuse the inmates and "divert their minds."

A member of the board suggested that a game of marbles would have the same effect, but the board sanctioned the proposal.

GIGANTIC BATTLESHIP TO BE LAUNCHED SOON

London, Sept. 4.—It is announced that H.M.S. Neptune, the "super-Dreadnought," now being completed at Portsmouth, will be launched on September 30 by the Duchess of Albany. Work upon the gigantic battleship, which is of 20,250 tons of displacement, and both longer and wider than the Dreadnought, is going on by night and day. When complete she will be the most powerful battleship afloat. Her water-line armour will be heavier and wider than that of the Dreadnought and she will have greater protection against submarine mines. Her ten 12 in. guns will be of the new 50-calibre pattern which gives greater power and penetration than that of the older 12 in. guns, and she will also carry 4 in. guns, to repel torpedo attacks.

SARDINE STRIKE

Paris, Sept 2.—The sardine fishermen of Concarneau in Brittany, have been complaining for some time past that the conditions under which their work s carried on are intolerable, and since Sunday not a single smack has gone out.

Their chief complaint is as to the high prices charged for bait and the low prices paid by the canners for the catches. The fishermen assert, in fact, that they are the victims of two "rings" or combinations of capitalists.

One of these rings controls the supply of "rogue" for bait, which is imported from Norway, where it is purchased by middlemen at the rate of 36s. per barrel, and subsequently sold by them to the fishermen for £2 10s. per barrel.

On the other hand, the ring formed by the caners has reduced the price at which they are willing to purchase the newly-caught sardines to as low as 1s 3d per 1,000. The fishermen are now standing out for 1s. 2d to 1s 5d per 1,000, according to quality, and as a first step towards improving prices they are indulging in a series of strikes in order to restrict the supply of sardines as much as possible.

Bakes Perfectly

Because of the special flue construction and because oven is built of nickel steel, the heat is distributed evenly throughout the Pandora ventilated oven. Just look at a batch of bread baked in your neighbor's Pandora. See how uniformly alike is the crust on each and every loaf. Pandora oven is certainly the perfect baker.

Easily Regulated

Pandora is simple in construction—easily regulated. Fire can be made to burn up quickly or checked rapidly—drafts respond immediately. Can be checked down to hold fire for 24 to 36 hours. Thermometer is tested for accuracy before range leaves factory. You'll find it an infallible guide to baking success. 13

SPAINS DISASTROUS WAR

Madrid, Sept. 4.—Opain's troubles in Morocco are not yet over. The events of the past few days indicate all too clearly that there is more grim fighting to be done, and that the Moors are prepared to oppose the enemy to the last ditch. After a long wait pending the arrival of reinforcements, the Spanish forces at Melilla, Morocco, the principal seat of operations, are now reported to have begun a general advance against the Moors, and decisive events are daily expected. The cause of the trouble, which has already led to so much bloodshed both in Spain and Morocco, was the construction of the Spanish Railway from Melilla to some mines in the adjacent mountains. The railway, as our readers will recall, was attacked by the Riff tribesmen, a band of mountaineers armed with modern rifles, and the result of the conflict was that a large number of Spaniards were killed. The endeavors of the Spanish Government to avenge their death set the heather ablaze, and in the fighting that ensued several hundreds of Spaniards were killed. The disaster was followed by violent anti-war riots in Spain, which had the effect of delaying the resumption of operations. The bulk of the Moorish fighting force has gathered in the rocky heights of Mount Gorugu, which overlook Melilla. That Spain is bent on demanding the fullest satisfaction from the Moors is evidenced by its preparations. Altogether the Spanish force numbers some 70,000 men of all arms. The land forces are supported by a number of warships, which have shelled the village of Nador, where a strong force of Moors has gathered. The courage of the Moors is something to marvel at. One Riff, called by the Spaniards "Brother John," daily takes up a position in a ruined village some 400 yards from the port of El Hach, occupied by the Spanish, and with his Mauser rifle fires on everyone approaching or leaving the fort, in spite of the repeated efforts to drive him out. At daybreak the Moors move from the plains of Nador where they live, leaving the women and children in charge of the flocks and herds, and climb Mount Gurugu, occupying the same positions every day they send out small parties of sharpshooters to harass the Spanish garrison and the convoys. At night they feast and revel, and hundreds of them, thus refreshed, return to the neighbourhood of the Spanish fort, carrying musical instruments, singing and shout out insults and taunts at the Spaniards. "Do you want cigarettes, here are some," they cry, and at the same moment they pour in a volley. Never in warfare has there been such a plentiful exchange of opprobrious epithets between combatants, for the Moors, to save ammunition, hurl the most disparaging remarks instead at the Spaniards, who reply with equal vigor.

BUDDHA'S ASHES

Calcutta, Sept. 3.—An eighth part of Buddha's ashes has been discovered on the site of a long-obliterated pagoda and monastery near there in all India. Buddha was cremated, and his ashes divided into eight parts, of whch two have now been found.

The site of the pagoda was absolutely lost until about five years ago, when a French savant drew attention to curious mounds half a mile from Peshawar.. Excavations were made, and Dr. Spooner, of the Indian Archaeological Department discovered an imemnse pagoda. Great plaques were laid bare, containing letters in the Kharoshthi scrips of old Buddhism. Then there was found an immense stone platform, and then at last, after laborious tunnelling, a stone burial chamber.

In this chamber were what are believed to be the ashes of Buddha. They were contained in a beautiful bronze casket, about seven inches by five. On it were finely cut inscriptions, the figure of a seated Buddha, figures of geese chasing each other, decorations, including a figure which is believed to be that of the great Buddhist Emperor Kanishka.

Within the casket was a reliquary of rock crystal, the top stopped with an earthen seal bearing the royal device of an elephant, belonging to the Emperor Kanishka. In it were three pieces of charred bone—part of the remains of the Enlightened One—who has now 400,000,000 followers.

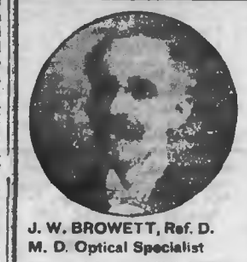
What Are They Worth?



Are the eyes worth at least five hundred dollars per year to any man, woman or child. You would spend five dollars per year upon them, if necessary, would you not? How much do they cost you? How much do you spend on your feet, your hats, your teeth, etc. Some wait until they must see about their eyes and would give hundreds of dollars but find it too late. Many parents bring their children that we may examine their eyes and see whether or not they need glasses. In childhood is the time to both remedy and prevent eye troubles. Again we ask what are your eyes worth to you and what to the child? We devote exclusive attention to the eyeglasses and artificial eyes.

BROAD SPIRIT OF BROTHERHOOD AND HUMANITY IS NEEDED NOW

John Mitchell, the Well Known Labour Worker Gives a a Labour day Message to the Workingman---Should Leave Behind a Reputation of Having Contributed to the Well-Being of Society.

John Mitchell, former President of the United Mine Workers of America, Vice President American Federation of Labour, and Vice President and Member of Executive Committee National Civic Federation, says in a Labour Day address to workingmen.

Labour Day is always an important event, especially to the wage earners; but this year labour's holiday is peculiarly significant, because it marks the dawn of an industrial revival and invites a discussion of the cause and effect of the industrial stagnation from which we are now emerging.

Perhaps the most important lesson and the most practical demonstration of the usefulness and the potency of the trade union movement has been given in these dark days of adversity. Indeed, in industrial affairs, as in all other avenues of human activity, the lessons learned in adversity are the truest and surest lessons of all. It is in times of stress and trial that we reason best from cause to effect, and the chastening influence of the hardships endured in times of industrial depression makes us stronger and saner to meet the obstacles that are to come.

It is perfectly safe to say that every factor in our complex social life suffered from the effect of the panic, but the men and the institutions that suffered most, were those that made least provision in days of prosperity to meet their exigencies in days of adversity. While the organized workmen felt keenly the effect of the depression, their suffering was not so great or so general as was that endured by the unskilled and unorganized workmen; because the organized workers had built up a fund in normal times upon which they could draw to tide them over their most pressing necessities in days of adversity. Another circumstance which proved helpful to the organized workmen was the fact that only in rare instances and in a few trades were wages reduced, whereas the unskilled or unorganized workmen suffered not alone from unemployment, but also from substantial reductions in his wage scale.

The old theiry that wages are regulated by an iron law of supply and demand has been disputed for many years, but it required a great industrial depression to disprove and dissipate the antiquated proposition that wages are governed by a cruel and immutable law of supply and demand. While no doubt wages are influenced by industrial conditions it is nevertheless true that wages are controlled in a large measure by the workmen

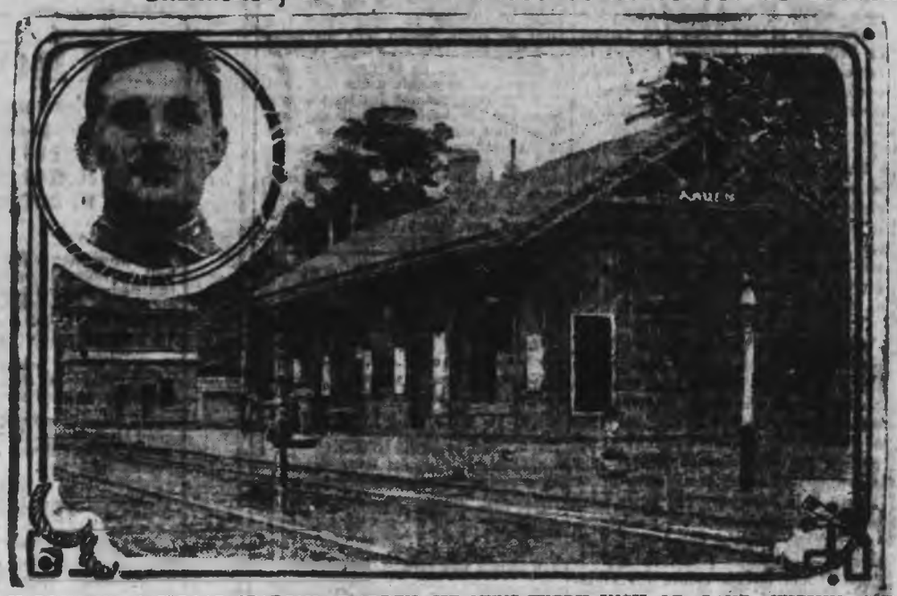
MARY, SCOTCH COOK, WHO ALONE CAN MAKE HARRIMAN EAT BREAKSAST, IS RUSHING ACROSS OCEAN TO OUT DO DOCTORS



HARRIMAN'S RAILROAD STATION AT ARDEN; HE OWNS EVERY INCH OF LAND WITHIN SIX MILES OF THE PLACE. IN THE LEFT HAND CORNER JOS. VINER, WEST POINT CADET WHOM THE WIZARD AIDED.

By W. G. Shepherd

Arden, N. Y., Sept 4.—Mary MacIntosh, E. H. Harriman's cook, whose skill with the pie pans lured him back across the ocean, hasn't come home yet. The Harrimans all are here—Mr. Harriman and Mrs. Harriman and all the children.

But folks out Arden way, who live in the few houses around the little railroad station and who know the Harrimans, say that things will not be right up at the big castle on the hill until Mary comes.

For the first time in 30 years Mary is absent. If Wall-Street missed Harriman half as much as the Harrimans miss Mary, stocks would take a big tumble.

And you needn't think Mary isn't hurrying to the Harrimans. She is. Mary cabled that she would hurry on the first boat that left Scotland. And Harriman paid for the telegram.

The family adores her oatmeal. No one can cook it as she can. Harriman told William McClellan, superintendent of the grounds, that he simply couldn't eat breakfast without Mary's oatmeal.

Harriman, fighting for life, arouses your pity. He has had very many fights. Some day he will lose this one, as we all do; but will he lose, now—soon—with so much work yet to do?

He is trying to get well by the same means that he got sick—strenuously. With his vast wealth, in his new home, high in the sweet fresh air, he has had every aid that money and skill can give him.

His new home is marvellous, though it is not yet completed. Scores of workmen toiled night and day the week before he arrived to get a dozen rooms into shape. Harriman's ideas about the kind of home he wanted were vague. Mrs. Harriman did much of the planning. She planned a home in which they might spend their declining years.

"Put an inclined railroad up that hill," Harriman said one day to Chas. Ford, his master of grounds. The railroad is there.

"I want a well drilled here," said Harriman as he stood on the very peak of the 600-foot hill on which stands his castle.

Down through the great hill the drills went until they reached the level of the lowlands; then down they went 500 feet more before water was reached. That well is a quarter of a mile deep, but Harriman got the sparkling, cold water he wanted.

For 16 miles up and down the Erie railroad and 14 miles back from it, Harriman owns all the land. There isn't a peak of the Ramapo mountains that he can see that isn't his.

John Viner has been superintendent of this big farm for more than 15 years. His two older boys have good jobs with the Union Pacific. Joseph, the third boy, wanted to be either in the navy or the army.

nAd, by the way, here's a pretty little story of how Harriman does things:

The boy's mother heard that if he went to West Point Joe would have only two-and-a-half months vacation in four years.

"Never mind, we'll fix that," said Harriman. In his own way Harriman got the boy into West Point.

The next summer, when the West Pointers took their annual march, they get orders to pass through Arden, about 40 miles from West Point and camp there at night. They camped half a block from Joe Viner's home! This year they did the same thing.

Everybody knows that Harriman gets what he wants for himself. But here in Arden they know that Harriman also can get what his friends want.

All the folks around Arden comment upon Harriman's tremendously busy life.

"He hasn't been interested in his live stock for years," complains Farmer Viner. "He used to pay a lot of attention to the horses and cattle."

"He's forgotten all about his farms, I guess," says Manager McClellan. "Oh, yes; he used to think a lot about them six or eight years ago. But he's been too busy."

"He hasn't paid much attention to the lakes, either, in the past few years He used to have them stocked with fish when he had more time."

"Does he hunt?"

"Hunt?" answers McClellan, sadly. "I should say not. He's been too busy."

Harriman is too weak now to hunt or fish or stroll in the hills. Golden hours that he might have spent out in the sunshine, keeping himself strong, he threw away in Wall Street.

Has he thrown away his last chance? In that small wasted form that is wheeled up and down the vast porches of the mansion above the hills, is the spark of strength strong enough to be coaxed again into a flame?

The hills that he owns have never felt his footsteps. Will they ever? Grim-faced doctors come and go in a silence that seems prophetic.

"Forget Wall Street," the doctors plead.

But across the Ramapo mountains from the Harriman mansion to Wall Street run four private telephone lines, links that have bound Harriman to the almost living death that he has led for the past half dozen years in that cruel, grinding maelstrom. Maybe when Mary, the cook, gets home, Harriman will get well.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR HOWDEN-EASTWOOD CUPS

Events Will Take Place Next Saturday and Promise to Supply Interesting Contests as a Large Number of Local Athletes Will Take Part---Open Events.

The committee in charge of the Eastwood and Howden trophies events met at the Y.M.C.A. last night and completed arrangements for the meet which will be held on Saturday, Sept 11, at the Riverside Park.

Great interest by the competitors was manifested in the meet last year and the competition was keen and brought out the best athletes in the city. This year the competition and the number of entries promises to exceed that of last year.

The winner of the Howden trophy will be the one who scores the highest number of points in the following events:

1—100 yard dash.
2—220 yard dash.
3—1 mile.
4—Putting 12-lb. shot.
5—Running high jump.
6—Running broad jump.

The Eastwood trophy events will be open to all under 18 years of age. The events are as follows:

1—100 yards dash.
2—220 yards dash.
3—One half mile.
4—Putting 8-lb. shot.
5—Running high jump.

In addition to the trophies valuable second and third prizes will be donated.

In addition to the above list two open events 1-8 mile and a 440 yd. race will be put on and good prizes will be offered. Entries close on Friday the 10th.

The present holders of the trophies are:—Eastwood trophy, Mr. Harry Munroe; Howden trophy, Mr. J. E. Crough.

NEW SINGING DIRECTOR AT CONSERVATORY IS FAMOUS

JUDGE ROBT. S. LOVETT.
Heir-apparent to Harriman's railroad rulership; snapshot at Arden.

Mr. Edward Barton, Well-Known Vocalist, Will Have Charge of This Important Department Here

AN ACQUISITION

Mr. Edward Barton, the newly appointed master and director of the vocal department at the Peterborough Conservatory of Music, comes from London, England, and Paris, France, highly recommended by Fred Walker, Esq., and Arthur Thompson, Esq., Professors of Singing, and Examiners in vocal music at the Royal Academy of Music, and Guildhall School of Music, London, England.

Peterborough can well afford to be proud of a singing teacher who has been chosen for such an important work by these examiners, who are acknowledged to be the foremost on the continent. It would be difficult to find a higher standard of efficiency that the one required by such eminent examiners and critics.

Mr. Barton holds the splendid record of having won three open competitions in London, Eng., as a vocalist and singing master, and has held several important positions, including that of Principal Bass Soloist at the American Episcopal Church at Paris, France, for four years, during which period he studied under several of the leading masters and acquired valuable experience in practice with the French, Italian and Latin languages. He also studied for two years under the eminent Mons Eugene Schneider of Metz Conservatoire.

The method taught by Mr. Barton is used largely in London, Paris, and Italy, and the same principles of training can be found in the method used at the present time by such eminent vocalists as Mesdames Melba, Lembrich, Schumann, Helnck, Gadski, De Resszke, Alvarez, Plancon, Bispham, Delmas, and others.

It is Mr. Barton's intention to elevate the standard of vocal music and singing to such as should prove to be the finest in the Dominion, and he will prove to be an important acquisition to the teaching staff of the Conservatory of Music.

Mr. Barton has been successful with the different classes of voices and has the experience of teaching sopranos, altos, tenors, and basses successfully, Several of his pupils are at the present time holding prominent positions both as soloists and choir leaders.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE IS THOROUGHLY RENOVATED

Peterborough's Pretty Play House has Been Re-Decorated and is Ready for the Opening of the Theatrical Season.

A GREAT IMPROVEMENT

When the Grand Opera House throws open its doors to the public one week from to-night, the patrons of Peterborough's popular theatre will hardly recognize the play-house. During the past few weeks a large staff of men have been at work redecorating the interior and the improvement made is wonderful. Every foot of the interior that gave opportunity for artistic work has been taken advantage of and the result is one of the prettiest theatres in Canada.

The walls have been attractively painted in two tints of green, a four foot dado of dark green running around the bottom of the house while the remainder portion of the wall space is in light green, the result being a most artistic combination very pleasing to the eye.

The greatest improvement has been made in the boxes which have been so transformed that they will be hardly recognizable. Formerly the boxes were bare looking pockets, with but little or no decoration. Now, however, they are covered over with mosque-like canopies of a pretty blue shade, with gold decorations while the boxes themselves are painted pure white with a gold strip running around them. Heavy curtains will be hung around the boxes securing privacy to the occupants. The orchestra pit has also been changed in order to give more room to the members of the house orchestra. Four seats on each side at the front have been removed and the pit made that much larger, while a heavy gold rail will run around it.

Every part of the house has been painted and is fresh and inviting.

The dressing rooms have been renovated and a window placed at the end of the corridor providing more light and ventilation.

The work has been done by Messrs. Turner and Sons' own men under the direction of Reg. Turner, to whose unerring good taste the credit for the magnificent interior of the Grand is due. It is safe to say that the public will be delighted with what has been done and Messrs' Turner and Sons, are to be congratulated upon their enterprise in providing Peterborough with one of the prettiest play-houses in Canada.

The Grand will open a week from to-night with "Faust" followed by that evergreen and delightful comic opera "The Burgomaster," on the 16th, and last year's phenomenal musical comedy success, "The Gay Musician," on the 22nd.

FELL FROM LADDER

Young Man Met With Painful Accident on Thursday.

Arthur Doughty, a young man employed at the new factory of the Colonial eWaving Company in the South End of the city, fell about fifteen feet from a ladder on Thursday afternoon, sustaining painful injuries. The young man fell in a peculiar manner, falling through the rounds of the ladder, headlong to the floor. He struck heavily on the side of his face.

He was picked up and taken to his home. Fortunately, he was not seriously injured more than badly shaken up and will be able to resume his duties in a few days.

HEAVY TRAFFIC

Morning C.P.R. Train West in Four Sections To-day.

Four sections of the C. P. R. 5.26 o'clock train were required to handle the Exhibition crowds this morning. This rare occurrence denotes to some extent the magnitude of the crowds whose Mecca at present is Toronto.

Returning visitors state that Canada's National Exhibition will break all its former records this year. The city is crowded and the incoming trains are hourly adding to the throng. It is apparent that the whole Dominion is interested in the Exhibition which gives the visitor an idea of the prosperity and progressiveness of Canada. The Labour Day throng will probably be the greatest of the whole two weeks, although it is expected that from now on the crowds will keep increasing.

THE VALUE OF TURPENTINE
When all else fails the physician recommends his wealthy patient to take a trip to the turpentine groves as a cure for throat and lung troubles. The turpentine of commerce cannot very well be used but by adding linseed Dr. Chase succeeded in getting up the most effective treatment for throat and lung troubles that was ever discovered. It is known as Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

AN EXCITING RUNAWAY

Horse Got Frightened On Hunter Street and Made a Wild Run

An exciting runaway took place last night on Hunter street, east, when a horse driven by an Otonabee farmer took fright and made a wild dash for liberty. The animal was left standing just east of the Hunter St. bridge where it became frightened and started away. It ran along to Mark street, where it turned and went south. When caught it was found that no serious damage had been done.

WELL KNOWN LINDSAY BOY FATALLY INJURED BY BEING SHOT ACCIDENTALLY BY HUNTER

Lindsay, Sept. 3.—A distressing shooting accident took place this afternoon about 1:30 o'clock on the river bank in the John Carew mill yard just opposite the Baker Lumber mill, the victim being Master Dominick Spratt, second youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Spratt, William street.

It seems that Dominick was engaged in loading millwood near a clump of bushes on the river shore. A short distance up the river a local citizen was in a boat looking for water fowl. He was armed with a 32 calibre rifle and in shooting at a mud hen he either shifted his position or the bullet blanced from some object. At any rate, Dominick Spratt received the contents of the rifle.

In the Abdomen.

The unfortunate youth sank to the earth with a groan and the hunter together with several of the yard men, ran to his assistance. He was suffering intense pain, and was moved to a shady position near the bushes, and Dr. McAlpine was summoned.

In conversation with a reporter Dr. McAlpine feared that the bullet had gone through the injured boy's stomach and that his injuries are of a serious character.

Dominick Spratt has a large number of friends in Peterborough, who will be shocked to hear of the accident. He was a member of the Lindsay Collegiate Institute hockey team, which played here last year and his great speed and stick handling made a big hit with local fans.

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO LIVE ON PRINCESS ST.?

It is not a Street itself and you Would Have to Climb two Fences on Sunday and Monday Alike to get out to Aylmer St.—Humble Petition From South End Citizen.

ARE HOPING AGAINST HOPE

While Benson Street citizens feel grieved over the placing of the new cement sidewalk inside the tree line, contrary, so it is said, to the wishes of the ratepayers, whose residence it fronts, there are others in the south end who are making a desperate appeal for the extension of Aylmer Street south to Princess street.

The residents of Princess Street, some seven or eight property holders, consider that under the present conditions, they might as well be out in a country field, better in fact. In the latter case, to reach a highway to come to town they would have at least a gate to pass through, whereas

LABOUR DAY WILL BE QUIET HERE

With fine weather on the holiday it looks as if Peterborough will be rather a deserted city.

The Toronto Exhibition will draw hundreds of Peterborough people, many leaving to-night, while others go to-morrow and more on Monday.

Court Chemong, No. 530, I.O.F. will run an excursion to Stony Lake that will undoubtedly attract a big crowd. The steamer Otonabee will take the excursionists, leaving the Wolfe St. wharf. A stop will be made at South Beach for dinner, and then there will be a delightful sail through the lakes to Burleigh Falls.

A large number will accompany the 57th Regiment on its trip to Perth, leaving for the east on a special C.P.R. train at 11 o'clock to-night.

The only event in Peterborough will be the T. A. S.-Lindsay ball game at Riverside Park, which promises to attract a big crowd of the stay-at-homes.

RAMPANT RASPBERRIES GROWN AT EAGLE MOUNT

Mr. Geo. Cochrane, High County Constable, is as successful in catching the secret of raspberry growing as in catchinga malefactor. At his Eagle Mount cottage, Stony Lake, he has a triangular plot of ground equivalent to three and a half or four feet square in area. This is planted with "black raspberries. From this he has gathered this season 27 quarts of fruit. After one day picking 3 quarts, he picked the next day 7 quarts. The plants are in a basin in the rock filled in with about 2 feet of earth. The plot receives and retains the water from the rains that fall upon the rocks sloping to the basin, and is consequently well watered. This is of interest to fruit growers as perhaps showing that abundance of water, while it certainly stimulates vine growth, probably promotes prolific fruiting.

An Appeal For Funds to Fight Against the Shameful Traffic

Readers of the "Examiner" know something of the heartless traffic in young girls for immoral purposes, carried on by abandoned wretches of both sexes, who do not scruple to traffic in guileless and weak humanity. Hon. E. W. Sims, of Chicago, believes that there are not less than 15,000 foreign girls imported and sold into this traffic annually in the United States and Canada, and probably three or four times as many native born girls find their way into the same hopeless life of vice. And all to line the pockets of wealthy traffickers in women.

Two comparatively poor women have recently sent in each $5, the one to Rev. Dr. Carman, the other to the Rev. Dr. Shearer, President and Secretary respectively of the Moral and Social Reform Council of Canada, which has undertaken the laudable and difficult task of fighting this horrible traffic.

This Council is interdenominational, and represents — The Church of England in Canada, the Methodist Church in Canada, the Congregational Church in Canada, the Trades and Labour Congress of Canada, the Dominion Grange and Farmers' Association, and the Salvation Army.

Are there not countless other women, as well as men, throughout Canada, who would esteem it a privilege to have a similar share in this humane and much needed work? If so, money may be sent to, and will be duly acknowledged by the Treasurer, Mr. Henry Moyle, or the Secretary, Rev. Dr. Shearer, either of whom may be addressed at 435 Confederation Life Building, Toronto. These gentlemen, and those associated with them, are doing this work entirely without remuneration.

BROAD SPIRIT OF BROTHERHOOD AND HUMANITY IS NEEDED NOW

John Mitchell, the Well Known Labour Worker Gives a a Labour day Message to the Workingman---Should Leave Behind a Reputation of Having Contributed to the Well-Being of Society.

John Mitchell, former President of the United Mine Workers of America, Vice President American Federation of Labour, and Vice President and Member of Executive Committee National Civic Federation, says in a Labour Day address to workingmen.

Labour Day is always an important event, especially to the wage earners; but this year labour's holiday is peculiarly significant, because it marks the dawn of an industrial revival and invites a discussion of the cause and effect of the industrial stagnation from which we are now emerging.

Perhaps the most important lesson and the most practical demonstration of the usefulness and the potency of the trade union movement has been given in these dark days of adversity. Indeed, in industrial affairs, as in all other avenues of human activity, the lessons learned in adversity are the truest and surest lessons of all. It is in times of stress and trial that we reason best from cause to effect, and the chastening influence of the hardships endured in times of industrial depression makes us stronger and saner to meet the obstacles that are to come.

It is perfectly safe to say that every factor in our complex social life suffered from the effect of the panic, but the men and the institutions that suffered most, were those that made least provision in days of prosperity to meet their exigencies in days of adversity. While the organized workmen felt keenly the effect of the depression, their suffering was not so great or so general as was that endured by the unskilled and unorganized workmen; because the organized workers had built up a fund in normal times upon which they could draw to tide them over their most pressing necessities in days of adversity. Another circumstance which proved helpful to the organized workmen was the fact that only in rare instances and in a few trades were wages reduced, whereas the unskilled or unorganized workmen suffered not alone from unemployment, but also from substantial reductions in his wage scale.

The old theiry that wages are regulated by an iron law of supply and demand has been disputed for many years, but it required a great industrial depression to disprove and dissipate the antiquated proposition that wages are governed by a cruel and immutable law of supply and demand. While no doubt wages are influenced by industrial conditions it is nevertheless true that wages are controlled in a large measure by the workmen

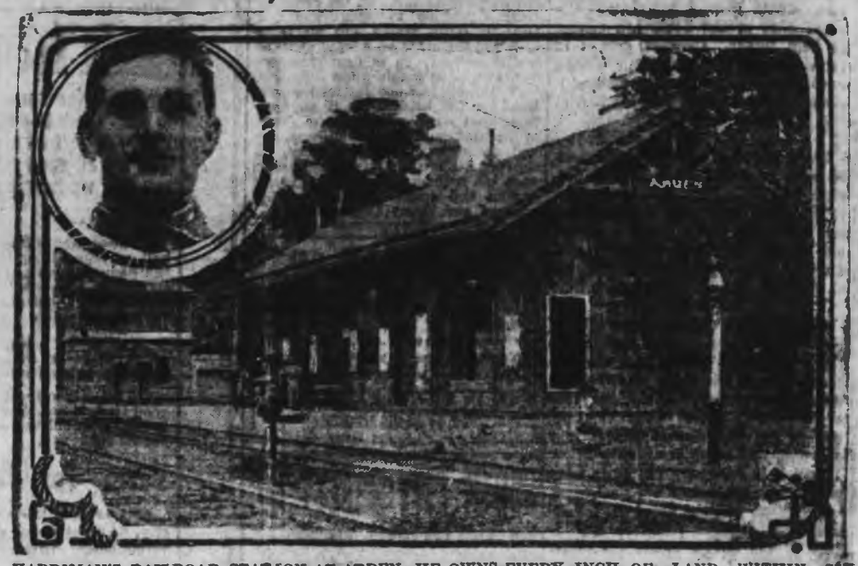
MARY, SCOTCH COOK, WHO ALONE CAN MAKE HARRIMAN EAT BREAKSAST, IS RUSHING ACROSS OCEAN TO BUT DO DOCTORS



HARRIMAN'S RAILROAD STATION AT ARDEN; HE OWNS EVERY INCH OF LAND WITHIN SIX MILES OF THE PLACE. IN THE LEFT HAND CORNER JOS. VINER, WEST POINT CADET WHOM THE WIZARD AIDED.

By W. G. Shepherd

Arden, N. Y., Sept 4.—Mary MacIntosh, E. H. Harriman's cook, whose skill with the pie pans lured him back across the ocean, hasn't come home yet. The Harrimans all are here—Mr. Harriman and Mrs. Harriman and all the children.

But folks out Arden way, who live in the few houses around the little railroad station and who know the Harrimans, say that things will not be right up at the big castle on the hill until Mary comes.

For the first time in 30 years Mary is absent. If Wall-Street missed Harriman half as much as the Harrimans miss Mary, stocks would take a big tumble.

And you needn't think Mary isn't hurrying to the Harrimans. She is. Mary cabled that she would hurry on the first boat that left Scotland. And Harriman paid for the telegram.

The family adores her oatmeal. No one can cook it as she can. Harriman told William McClellan, superintendent of the grounds, that he simply couldn't eat breakfast without Mary's oatmeal.

Harriman, fighting for life, arouses your pity. He has had very many fights. Some day he will lose this one, as we all do; but will he lose, now—soon—with so much work yet to do?

He is trying to get well by the same means that he got sick—strenuously. With his vast wealth, in his new home, high in the sweet fresh air, he has had every aid that money and skill can give him.

His new home is marvellous, though it is not yet completed. Scores of workmen toiled night and day the week before he arrived to get a dozen rooms into shape. Harriman's ideas about the kind of home he wanted were vague. Mrs. Harriman did much of the planning. She planned a home in which they might spend their declining years.

"Put an inclined railroad up that hill," Hawiman said one day to Chas. Ford, his master of grounds. The railroad is there.

"I want a well drilled here," said Harriman as he stood on the very peak of the 600-foot hill on which stands his castle.

Down through the great hill the drills went until they reached the level of the lowlands; then down they went 500 feet more before water was reached. That well is a quarter of a mile deep, but Harriman got the sparkling, cold water he wanted.

For 16 miles up and down the Erie railroad and 14 miles back from it, Harriman owns all the land. There isn't a peak of the Ramapo mountains that he can see that isn't his.

John Viner has been superintendent of this big farm for more than 15 years. His two older boys have good jobs with the Union Pacific. Joseph, the third boy, wanted to be either in the navy or the army.

nAd, by the way, here's a pretty little story of how Harriman does things:

The boy's mother heard that if he went to West Point Joe would have only two-and-a-half months vacation in four years.

"Never mind, we'll fix that," said Harriman. In his own way Harriman got the boy into West Point.

The next summer, when the West Pointers took their annual march, they got orders to pass through Arden, about 40 miles from West Point and camp there at night. They camped half a block from Joe Viner's home! This year they did the same thing.

Everybody knows that Harriman gets what he wants for himself. But here in Arden they know that Harriman also can get what his friends want.

All the folks around Arden comment upon Harriman's tremendously busy life.

"He hasn't been interested in his live stock for years," complains Farmer Viner. "He used to pay a lot of attention to the horses and cattle."

"He's forgotten all about his farms, I guess," says Manager McClellan. "Oh, yes; he used to think a lot about them six or eight years ago. But he's been too busy."

"He hasn't paid much attention to the lakes, either, in the past few years He used to have them stocked with fish when he had more time."

"Does he hunt?"

"Hunt?" answers McClellan, sadly. "I should say not. He's been too busy."

Harriman is too weak now to hunt or fish or stroll in the hills. Golden hours that he might have spent out in the sunshine, keeping himself strong, he threw away in Wall Street.

Has he thrown away his last chance? In that small wasted form that is wheeled up and down the vast porches of the mansion above the hills, is the spark of strength strong enough to be coaxed again into a flame?

The hills that he owns have never felt his footsteps. Will they ever? Grim-faced doctors come and go in a silence that seems prophetic.

"Forget Wall Street," the doctors plead.

But across the Ramapo mountains from the Harriman mansion to Wall Street run four private telephone lines, links that have bound Harriman to the almost living death that he has led for the past half dozen years in that cruel, grinding maelstrom. Maybe when Mary, the cook, gets home, Harriman will get well.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR HOWDEN-EASTWOOD CUPS

Events Will Take Place Next Saturday and Promise to Supply Interesting Contests as a Large Number of Local Athletes Will Take Part---Open Events.

The committee in charge of the Eastwood and Howden trophies events met at the Y.M.C.A. last night and completed arrangements for the meet which will be held on Saturday, Sept 11, at the Riverside Park.

Great interest by the competitors was manifested in the meet last year and the competition was keen and brought out the best athletes in the city. This year the competition and the number of entries promises to exceed that of last year.

The winner of the Howden trophy will be the one who scores the highest number of points in the following events:

1—100 yard dash.
2—220 yard dash.
3—1 mile.
4—Putting 12-lb. shot.
5—Running high jump.
6—Running broad jump.

The Eastwood trophy events will be open to all under 18 years of age. The events are as follows:

1—100 yards dash.
2—220 yards dash.
3—One half mile.
4—Putting 8-lb. shot.
5—Running high jump.

In addition to the trophies valuable second and third prizes will be donated.

In addition to the above list two open events 1-2 mile and a 440 yd. race will be put on and good prizes will be offered. Entries close on Friday the 10th.

The present holders of the trophies are:—Eastwood trophy, Mr. Harry Munroe; Howden trophy, Mr. J. E. Crough.

NEW SINGING DIRECTOR AT CONSERVATORY IS FAMOUS

JUDGE ROBT. S. LOVETT.
Heir-apparent to Harriman's railroad rulership; snapshot at Arden.

Mr. Edward Barton, Well-Known Vocalist, Will Have Charge of This Important Department Here

AN ACQUISITION

Mr. Edward Barton, the newly appointed master and director of the vocal department at the Peterborough Conservatory of Music, comes from London, England, and Paris, France, highly recommended by Fred Walker, Esq., and Arthur Thompson, Esq., Professors of Singing, and Examiners in vocal music at the Royal Academy of Music, and Guildhall School of Music, London, England.

Peterborough can well afford to be proud of a singing teacher who has been chosen for such an important work by these examiners, who are acknowledged to be the foremost on the continent. It would be difficult to find a higher standard of efficiency that the one required by such eminent examiners and critics.

Mr. Barton holds the splendid record of having won three open competitions in London, Eng., as a vocalist and singing master, and has held several important positions, including that of Principal Bass Soloist at the American Episcopal Church at Paris, France, for four years, during which period he studied under several of the leading masters and acquired valuable experience in practice with the French, Italian and Latin languages. He also studied for two years under the eminent Mons Eugene Schneider of Metz Conservatoire.

The method taught by Mr. Barton is used largely in London, Paris, and Italy, and the same principles of training can be found in the method used at the present time by such eminent vocalists as Mesdames Melba, Lembrich, Schumann, Heinck, Gadski, De Reszkes, Alvares, Plancon, Bispham, Delmas, and others.

It is Mr. Barton's intention to elevate the standard of vocal music and singing to such as should prove to be the finest in the Dominion, and he will prove to be an important acquisition to the teaching staff of the Conservatory of Music.

Mr. Barton has been successful with the different classes of voices and has the experience of teaching sopranos, altos, tenors, and basses successfully. Several of his pupils are at the present time holding prominent positions both as soloists and choir leaders.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE IS THOROUGHLY RENOVATED

Peterborough's Pretty Play House has Been Re-Decorated and is Ready for the Opening of the Theatrical Season.

A GREAT IMPROVEMENT

When the Grand Opera House throws open its doors to the public one week from to-night, the patrons of Peterborough's popular theatre will hardly recognize the play-house. During the past few weeks a large staff of men have been at work redecorating the interior and the improvement made is wonderful. Every foot of the interior that gave opportunity for artistic work has been taken advantage of and the result is one of the prettiest theatres in Canada.

The walls have been attractively painted in two tints of green, a four foot dado of dark green running around the bottom of the house while the remainder portion of the wall space is in light green, the result being a most artistic combination very pleasing to the eye.

The greatest improvement has been made in the boxes which have been so transformed that they will be hardly recognizable. Formerly the boxes were bare looking pockets, with but little or no decoration. Now, however, they are covered over with mosque-like canopies of a pretty blue shade, with gold decorations while the boxes themselves are painted pure white with a gold strip running around them. Heavy curtains will be hung around the boxes securing privacy to the occupants. The orchestra pit has also been changed in order to give more room to the members of the house orchestra. Four seats on each side at the front have been removed and the pit made that much larger, while a heavy gold rail will run around it.

Every part of the house has been painted and is fresh and inviting.

The dressing rooms have been renovated and a window placed at the end of the corridor providing more light and ventilation.

The work has been done by Messrs. Turner and Sons' own men under the direction of Reg. Turner, to whose unerring good taste the credit for the magnificent interior of the Grand is due. It is safe to say that the public will be delighted with what has been done and Messrs' Turner and Sons, are to be congratulated upon their enterprise in providing Peterborough with one of the prettiest play-houses in Canada.

The Grand will open a week from to-night with "Faust" followed by that evergreen and delightful comic opera "The Burgomaster," on the 16th, and last year's phenomenal musical comedy success, "The Gay Musician," on the 22nd.

FELL FROM LADDER

Young Man Met With Painful Accident on Thursday.

Arthur Doughty, a young man employed at the new factory of the Colonial eWaving Company in the South End of the city, fell about fifteen feet from a ladder on Thursday afternoon, sustaining painful injuries. The young man fell in a peculiar manner, falling through the rounds of the ladder, headlong to the floor. He struck heavily on the side of his face.

He was picked up and taken to his home. Fortunately, he was not seriously injured more than badly shaken up and will be able to resume his duties in a few days.

HEAVY TRAFFIC

Morning C.P.R. Train Went in Four Sections To-day.

Four sections of the C. P. R. 5.26 o'clock train were required to handle the Exhibition crowds this morning. This rare occurrence denotes to some extent the magnitude of the crowds whose Mecca at present is Toronto.

Returning visitors state that Canada's National Exhibition will break all its former records this year. The city is crowded and the incoming trains are hourly adding to the throng. It is apparent that the whole Dominion is interested in the Exhibition which gives the visitor an idea of the prosperity and progressiveness of Canada. The Labour Day throng will probably be the greatest of the whole two weeks, although it is expected that from now on the crowds will keep increasing.

THE VALUE OF TURPENTINE

The turpentine of commerce cannot very well be used but by adding linseed Dr. Chase succeeded in getting up the most effective treatment for throat and lung troubles that was ever discovered. It is known as Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

AN EXCITING RUNAWAY

Horse Got Frightened On Hunter Street and Made a Wild Run

An exciting runaway took place last night on Hunter street, east, when a horse driven by an Otonabee farmer took fright and made a wild dash for liberty. The animal was left standing just east of the Hunter St. bridge where it became frightened and started away. It ran along to Mark street, where it turned and went south. When caught it was found that no serious damage had been done.

WELL KNOWN LINDSAY BOY FATALLY INJURED BY BEING SHOT ACCIDENTALLY BY HUNTER

Lindsay, Sept. 3.—A distressing shooting accident took place this afternoon about 1:30 o'clock on the river bank in the John Carew mill yard just opposite the Baker Lumber mill, the victim being Master Dominick Spratt, second youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Spratt, William street.

It seems that Dominick was engaged in loading millwood near a clump of bushes on the river shore. A short distance up the river a local citizen was in a boat looking for water fowl. He was armed with a 32 calibre rifle and in shooting at a mud hen he either shifted his position or the bullet blanced from some object. At any rate, Dominick Spratt received the contents of the rifle.

In the Abdomen.

The unfortunate youth sank to the earth with a groan and the hunter together with several of the yard men, ran to his assistance. He was suffering intense pain, and was moved to a shady position near the bushes, and Dr. McAlpine was summoned.

In conversation with a reporter Dr. McAlpine feared that the bullet had gone through the injured boy's stomach and that his injuries are of a serious character.

Dominick Spratt has a large number of friends in Peterborough, who will be shocked to hear of the accident. He was a member of the Lindsay Collegiate Institute hockey team, which played here last year and his great speed and stick handling made a big hit with local fans.

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO LIVE ON PRINCESS ST.?

While Benson Street citizens feel grieved over the placing of the new cement sidewalk inside the tree line, contrary, so it is said, to the wishes of the ratepayers, whose residence it fronts, there are others in the south end who are making a desperate appeal for the extension of Aylmer Street south to Princess street.

The residents of Princess Street, some seven or eight property holders, consider that under the present conditions, they might as well be out in a country field, better in fact. In the latter case, to reach a highway to come to town they would have at least a gate to pass through, whereas

LABOUR DAY WILL BE QUIET HERE

With fine weather on the holiday it looks as if Peterborough will be rather a deserted city.

The Toronto Exhibition will draw hundreds of Peterborough people, many leaving to-night, while others go to-morrow and more on Monday.

Court Chemong, No. 530, I.O.F. will run an excursion to Stony Lake that will undoubtedly attract a big crowd. The steamer Otonabee will take the excursionists, leaving the Wolfe St. wharf. A stop will be made at South Beach for dinner, and then there will be a delightful sail through the lakes to Burleigh Falls.

A large number will accompany the 57th Regiment on its trip to Perth, leaving for the east on a special C.P.R. train at 11 o'clock to-night.

The only event in Peterborough will be the T. A. S.-Lindsay ball game at Riverside Park, which promises to attract a big crowd of the stay-at-homes.

LABOUR DAY.

Monday, September 6th, is Labour Day, a day set apart by the law of the land in recognition of the dignity, and in deference to the interests, of the dominant and indispensable factor in human progress and indeed human existence, Labour. This day is held in Canada and the United States—all over the North American continent, from Mexico, in the south, to Canada's Ultima Thule, the North Pole, Labour in Canada owes Labour Day to a Conservative Government, and it should be, therefor, duly thankful; for it is the only specific article of legislation enacted in the interests of labour by a Conservative Government. It was, however, enacted at a time, when the conditions of trade and national industry suggested a day's work instead of a day's play. By way of contrast Labour owes a thousand thanks to the present Liberal Government of the Dominion, which, in its comparatively short term of office, has placed upon our statute books a splendid volume of useful legislation in the interests of Labour. The most beneficial of the numerous enactments, is the Lemieux Act, mentioned in yesterday's issue of the Examiner. This touches the base of national prosperity and progress, for nothing can be more beneficial to the interests of Labour and consequently of the nation, since it promotes the harmony of relation between employee and employee and employer effectively, guarantees cessation of industrial strikes, which bear a direct relation to all the popular interests affected by the continuous operation of public utilities and industrial establishments. It is probable that no single item of legislation has ever been enacted in the joint interests of Labour and the world dependent upon it. In confirmation of this assumption the declaration of Prof. Eliot, President emeritus of Harvard University that the Lemieux is the best legislation of its kind in the world, is the strongest possible evidence.

To-day's rain gives promise of a good-weather Labour Day on Monday, and the Examiner wishes to all the toilers in Peterborough and Canada and the United States a happy holiday.

WHAT'S THE USE?

The Toronto Star remarks that "What's the use?" is the question which some practical people ask about the discovery of th north pole, and in turn asks if the same question "might not have been put regarding the discovery of the attraction of gravity and the commonly known facts of astronomy." Finding the pole is not quite in the same class as the discovery of the north pole. The law of gravitation affects tangibly all the people in every part of the world every day, every hour of the day, and is an element in a vast number of the every-day activities, and operations of human life. We all know that the North Pole has been where it is now, as long as the North Star to which the pole points in a somewhat wobbly manner, has been under the watch and patrol of the Great Bear. We have known since we knew anything that the North Pole is 46 degrees north or Peterborough, that it is the most northern part of Canada, and we have always known as well as Dr. Cook knows now, that it was not very well adapted to the growth of peaches. The spient Review asserts that Sir Wilfrid Laurier will run a railway to the North Pole. While this statement is not confirmed it is doubtless true, at least as true as most of the political "facts" asserted by our contemporary. From the point of view of the Conservative party such a railway, however, is not necessary. It finds just as cold weather in any part of the Dominion as it would find at the polar axis. The Grand Trunk Pacific has given the Review editor as cold feet as would the Grand Trunk Polaric; he couldn't write any more political rubbish about the polar railway than he has written about the Transcontinental; and he would besides achieve as brilliant a failure to induce farmers to write prize essays, showing how the North Pole railway would lessen the value of their farms, as he did in respect of the Grand Trunk Pacific, on the same "lay".

THE SCORCHED PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS.

Conservative newspapers like the Mail and Empire and News, of Toronto, are viciously criticising the Liberal Government in whose regime the Parliament buildings were erected, under the most honest and economical conditions ever obtained in the construction of a great public building in Canada, or any other country. They try to place the responsibility of the fire upon the Liberal Government, alleging that flimsy construction contributed to the rapid race of the flames. They assert that it should have been built of concrete and steel—before the concrete and steel age came in. They forget their violent denunciation of Liberal Government extravagance in building a new structure at all—the old Parliament buildings were good enough.

The present Conservative Government, if any, is reasonable, apart from the origin of the fire, for the destruction that ensued. Reports tell us that the fire-fighting installation in the buildings was useless, owing to weakness of main pressure. The Liberal Government installed a powerful pumping engine in the crypt of the Parliament buildings, as an auxiliary in case of fire, that under actual test, threw a stream of such force as to require three men to man the nozzle. They maintained it in good order, so that if, at the time, a fire similar to that of Sept. 1st had broken out the engine would probably have quenched it in the beginning. But when the present Government made changes in construction with a singular and criminal lack of prevision, it disconnected the pump from the water mains, so that the hose in the buildings was rendered useless, and, with the delay of the arrival of the city fire apparatus the blaze had its own way for long enough to commit material destruction to the extent of $300,000 or $400,000, aside from the incalculable loss of a splendid library and of documents and records, which cannot be replaced. Kindly put the blame, if any, where it belongs, and don't go to the cemetery to find objects of reproach.

BEAUTIFY THE CITY

With the September stage of the calendar and the first pinch of frost the summer season draws to its end; and we are reminded that the fallen leaves and the faded flowers will anon be ready for the beautiful shroud that will wrap dead nature in its snowy folds. Within the city gates God's beauty will take the place of man-made beauty; of comely streets, of tree shadowed ribbons of boulevard, and of emerald spread of lawn, starred with prismatic constellations of floral loveliness.

Those who have lived long in Peterborough can note with pleasure and even pride, the vast improvement that has been made in the individual beauty of private premises, and their more general distribution. While injunction, advice and entreaty have conjoined to induce such conditions, example has been the chief impelling force. A quarter of a century or so ago in Peterborough one little green house, made of discarded sash from an old shop, served the public demand for glass-grown flower plants. Now three or four large commercial greenhouses, besides several large semi-private or private ones, have all their resources taxed. One citizen began to beautify his premises and his neibhbour, not to be outdone, followed, and, if he could do so, bettered, his example. This splendid rivalry prevailing has spread over the city till we have, as regards private lawns and grounds a beautiful city with long sweeps of beautiful boulevards, a necessary frame to the adjacent private grounds if harmony of beauty is to be attained. Now so prevalent is the spirit that influences these conditions, that the grading and levelling of a lawn is a part of the building plan of the most modest residence; the lawn hose and the lawn mower are considered as necessary adjuncts to a dwelling house as a chimney or a kitchen sink.

The beauty of this beauty is that it costs comparatively little, only a little loving care and a little skill, which a very little practice wil develop. In a few days the judging of the lawns and private premises for the prizes offered by the Horticultural Society will take place, and it will doubtless be found that the prize winning lawns will not be those which have the largest outlay of money—only the largest outlay of intelligent care and attention begot of pure love of successful culture and development of floral and other vegetative beauty.

Gratifyingly contributory as all this is to the general civic beauty, much remains to be done. There are many gaps to be filled and many obstacles to be overcome. A well-laid and well-kept boulevard is as necessary and indispensable a complement of beauty of private premises as clean linen and a clean shave are to constitute, with good clothing, a neatly dressed man.

And then it is to be remarked that the highest conditions of a good boulevard cannot be attained without a line of carbing upon streets where the walk, being laid inside the tree line, does not, in itself, serve the purpose of a curb in the way of protecting the turf it incloses. Upon such streets without a carbing the street edge of the boulevard cannot be kept intact. Careless drivers of vehicles lacerate it with their wheels, weeds grow on the margins and with never so much effort, keeping it trim and tidy is an impossibility.

There are other advantages connected with curbing. With it it is possible, and without it it is impossible, to make and maintain a proper gutter that will insure good drainage, one of the absolutely necessary conditions, expert road-makers tell us, of first-rate-streets or highways.

It is probable that curbing would be cheaper than the present system. In the interests of beauty and neatness of our streets the Board of Works is doing a good thing in having the sides of the streets in the central-western part of the city cleaned and cleared of weeds and other obstructive litter. Where it is necessary the outer margins of the boulevards are straightened. Anyone who has noted the frowsy ragged, rustic and repellant appearance of the streets before the clearing referred to, and compares it with the after appearance, cannot fail to be impressed with the vast improvement in neatness and general cityfied appearance.

So far so good; but this work, to be effective, must be repeated every year. Without knowledge of the actual cost of lines of street curbing, one may venture to assert that the annual cost of keeping the streets clean, as is now being done, will be sufficient to pay the interest—with sinking fund—on the cost of permanent curbing which will, at the same time, provide—as can be done in no other reasonably inexpensive way—permanently efficient gutters and good drainage, a permanent protection to boulevards and generally effective conditions of street beauty. If the city fathers are wise in their generation, they will seriously consider the matter of laying curb lines, on streets where walks are inside the tree line, at the same time new pavements are laid, to be paid for in the same proportion of private and public payment. With curbing generally provided a guiding grade line for satisfactory street making is secured.

Smoothness of surface and neatness of street road beds are at once conditions of the highest usefulness and beauty. It would, perhaps, be too strong a draft on aldermanic aestheticism, to make our street surfaces smooth and tidy for the mere sake of the resulting beauty; but this can easily be justified when, in making the streets, what they are intended to be and must be, to be good streets, smooth and level for comfortable and easy wheel traffic, the conditions of neatness, tidiness and beauty are automatically created.

A most destructive element, in respect of both the appearance and smoothness of our streets, is the vandalism practised in connection with the opening and filling—especially filling—of trenches for water, sewer and gas mains. The "completion" of laying a line of sewer leaves a ragged mound like an elongated grave, an obstruction for months, and, as is to be seen on some streets, even for years. The same applies to services only the obstruction is lateral not longituderal and perhaps more an obstacle to traffic; and, added to this in many instances, the city after the public being subjected to the abomination of bumping streets, have to repair the damage at the expense of ratepayers, who have suffered loss and inconvenience from the conditions permited.

These things are quite inexcusable. The city has a resolution, if not a by-law, upon its books, declaring that no one shall be permitted to open a street without permission, and that, in the event of permission given, the street is to be restored to its condition as when disturbed. This is not carried out in nine cases out of ten, with the result that the money of the public spent on making streets is wasted; for its value in the way of a good street is destroyed and, to add insult to injury the ratepayers have to put up more money to pay for the practically wanton destruction of the smooth and level driving surface of our streets.

Enough money, perhaps, has been wasted in these ways in the past ten or fifteen years, to curb every street in the city that needs curbing.

When will the city and the citizens learn to pull together in the great work of beautifying the City of Peterborough, as it can be beautified at comparatively little expense? It must be admitted that the citizens generally are more willing and care more than the city authorities and it is in their power to bring existing and aspiring aldermen to a sense of duty.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The progress of events in connection with the rebuilding of the Dickson Company's mills and the Smith street bridge, furnishes an interesting illustration of the relative enterprise and energy of the administration of private and public corporations. The destruction of the saw-mills and the passing of the bridge by-law took place on practically the same date. After a day or two of delay on account of insurance adjustment, the company went vigorously to work and has built its mills, which, but for delay in filling the order on needed shafting would probably be in operation now as they will be within a few days. The City Council has not yet let the contract for the bridge. Is it any surprise that some persons have doubt of the wisdom of municipal ownership and operation of public utilities, except by the medium of a commission such as manages our Water Works system and could with advantage manage our Street Department.

ALL THAT LABOUR ASKS OR NEEDS

JUSTICE; the rendering to everyone his due.—Webster.

Were we all born mere animals, the due of the newborn babe would be only that which it could take. The weak of mankind, made so by lack of opportunity or lack of possession, wolud always be at the mercy of the strong, and there could be no such thing as civilization and progress.

But with civilization's birth was born the principle of natural rights, natural dues. The babe of the lowliest pauper comes into the world with the natural right to breathe, live and acquire the good things of earth. That, under our blessed form of government, the pauper's babe has the right to climb to the highest pinnacle, is merely a high demonstration of natural rights.

Look at the crowds in Artist Gruelle's picture. Old and young, men, women and children, climbing, toiling, struggling upward toward the rendering to them of what is their due—justice. Their due is a fair, equitable opportunity to rise. This is all. The world owes no man a living. It does owe every man a fair opportunity to make a living, a living in accord with his capacity, his perseverance and his industry.

What does Mr. Gruelle mean by "Greed" and "Selfishness" which he pencils in his picture? That these qualities are obstacles which the people must combat and surmount before they can attain their just due. It is not alone the greed and selfishness that obsess the rich, the high-stationed, the powerful in other respects, but also the greed and selfishness in the hearts of the common people, the climbing people of the picture.

All that Labour asks is its due—Justice. It is all it needs.

Behind our artist's "Greed" and "Selfishness" are centuries of oppression, centuries of the stealing of opportunities that were the poor man's when he lay in his cradle. Mere birth has given to Thaws, Alfonsos, czars and sultans the natural dues belonging to millions of others. The ravenous greed of those politically or socially powerful, the idolatry of the almighty dollar have snatched from millions that fair chance to make a living of which every man is born the possessor and which the world does owe every man.

It was probably impossible for Artist Gruelle to show that in the mass of his climbing people there are thousands banded together formally—Organized Labour, whose day this is throughout the land.

All that Organized Labour asks is Justice—the rendering to everyone HIS due; not to a Divine Right Baer his due and also the due of a hundred thousand other men.

Organized Labour knows that the people cannot climb that hill without sacrifice, cannot scale the hard rocks of Gruelle's picture with kid gloves on the hands, patent leathers on the feet. It resorts sometimes to strikes. It says that a thousand men had better be temporarily idle in this city than that the God-given principle of justice be crucified by merciless greed in that city overe there.

It says to devouring selfishness and barbarous inhumanity: "The flowers, the green fields, laughter, song, life under God's blue sky are THE DUE of the 10-year-old girl, whose body and soul you are murdering in your factory."

It protests against the proposition that men are simply animals, their labour a mere marketable article withe rates fixed in a "pit" run by soulless corporations and a monied aristocracy created by the divine right of inheritance.

It cries out against a non-division of rights. It demands the natural rights of mankind, and onward and upward it goes, scrambling foolishly sometimes, falling bruised and battered often, but ever moving upward over Gruelle's rough places and rocks toward the rendering to everyone his due—Justice.

HOW COST OF LIVING HAS SHOT UP DURING 13 YEARS

Expert Shows That the General Average is More Than 49 Per Cent, But on Such Luxuries as Newlywed's Little Home the Increased Cost is About 100 Per Cent.

There is nothing above the sea or under the sea that interests—that comes home to the American people to-day—more than the increased cost of living.

This nation has passed through 13 generally fat years; fat crops and fat pocketbooks for the Harrimans, for the Morgans and for all the trusts and monopolies. But they have also been 13 years of fat prices that the every-day city man has had to pay, and 13 years of lean tables for him who couldn't.

With this article the Examiner presents to-day a table prepared by an expert, showing just how prices have advanced during those 13 "fat" years on the commodities that all of us must have. Compare the figures of 1896 with those of 1909, and you find that the increase is 49.1 per cent. In 13 years, which means that the dollar you had in 1896 must be over $1.49 now to go the same distance.

But the average of 49.1 doesn't tell the whole story. Just look over that table for a minute. Newlywed isn't thinking altogether about food and clothing. He wants to build a little house. If he had married 13 years ago, good hemlock lumber for that house would have cost him $11 per 1,000 feet. To-day it costs $20.50—an increase of nearly 100 per cent!

It's a kitchen problem, too—this increased cost of living. There are 48 commodities on this list that are higher now than they were a year ago to-day, and they are what are called CONSUMER'S goods—the kind that the workingman buys the most of. Included in this list are flour, eggs, pork, mutton chops, cheese and other eatables.

In the first column are the figures for 1896. This was just three years after the panic of 1893. Times were piping and things were supposed to be "high" then. But were they? Look at the present prices and you can see that they were not compared with what things cost to-day.

During the second administration of Grover Cleveland a tailor in New York City paid $1.50 a yard for cloth that he now pays $3.75 for. "And it's not worth $1.00," he told a reporter.

The hog was "just a hawg" in 1896. Now he can give a royal grunt, for he is worth nearly THREE TIMES as much as he was then, even before the squeal was taken out of him by the heartless stockyards folks in Chicago. That is all they leave out of the hog, you know, when they get through with him. Everything but the squeal is turned into money.

There is little comfort in what the future holds forth, either, if we believe experts and look at the figures in the Aldrich tariff bill. In the markets there's an impression that there will be further advances in all wholesale lines and that before the end of the year it will cost more to live than ever before in the history of the world.

This is the age of aeroplanes, autos, splendour, and devil-may-care expenditures for clothes and luxuries.

Who pays? Probably YOU do, and you can tell just about how much you pay, and who gets it, by looking at the list which follows:

DO YOU WANT TO REDUCE YOUR COAL BILL AND YET HEAT YOUR HOME BETTER?

ALWAYS INSTAL A

PEASE "ECONOMY" FURNACE

The "Pease" Economy furnace saves coal and yet gives more heat by means of its patentite construction. The "air blast," which is a feature of the "Pease," supplies the additional air necessary to consume the gas that would otherwise go up the chimney wasted. It brings the air in the right proportion at the correct temperature and distributes it over the entire surface of the fire.

Send us the dimensions of your house or building and we will give you correct plans for heating. It will pay you.

Safe Industrial Investment

WHICH WILL PAY AT LEAST

10 PER CENT PER ANNUM 10

THE KEARNS INK CO. of Toronto was organized two years ago to manufacture the new CANADIAN WRITING INKS, invented by J. J. Kearns. The past two years has been spent in experimenting and improving quality and to-day it stands among the top notchers in the ink world. This ink has met with such spontaneous approval from users, and the trade has shown such willingness to buy in quantities, that the managers deem it wise to enlarge their operations and make a big staple business enterprise out of this Company, hence offer to the public. The total capital is only $40,000, so that you can see that this is no inflated and watered wild cat scheme, but the most legitimate investment offered to you—one where a dollar invested to-day will be worth at least two in a year and will pay 10 per cent. income on this.

PROFITS—There is a gross profit in this ink of from 25 per cent. to 300 per cent. This is a clear cut business statement, every word of which we can substantiate.

Some Orders That we Received as to the Sale of Kearns' Ink. We found the demand practically without limit; we receiving orders and inquiries for the ink far beyond our ability to supply the goods. Orders came from such houses as Central Business College, Ontario Government, Separate School Boards of Toronto and Peterborough, The Toronto Railway Co., Consumers Gas Company, National Trust Co. Limited, King Edward Hotel and many other large concerns of the country.

A Safe Management—The entire management is in the hands of a Board of Directors of leading business men—men of executive and financial ability, men of "made reputation," men who can be counted on to capably and honestly direct the affairs of the enlarged Company, and see that each and every shareholder receives every dollar of the earnings of his stock.

Clauses Of The Proposed Agreement Between City And Light And Power Co.

Have Been Considered by the Manufacturers Committee and Will Come Before the Council on Tuesday Night—Something With Which Every Citizen Should be Acquainted.

WHAT THE CITY RECEIVES

The Examiner is able to place before its readers to-day some of the most important clauses in the agreement between the city and the Peterborough Light and Power Co. in regard to the franchise the company is asking. They are as follows:

1. That the said Company will as soon as possible, after the execution hereof by the said Corporation, and before 1st day of June, 1910, remove from George street any poles that can in the opinion of the Engineer, be dispensed with, or are not necessary for the present operation of the Company's business, and will within the said term replace all necessary poles with straight and neat poles in uniform height and size, and of as attractive appearance as possible and place same flush with the curb.

2. That the said Company in replacing any of said poles or placing any additional poles on the streets will replace, place and locate the same in such a manner as not to interefere with the existing poles now or then on the streets, and will do all said work with the approval, under the control, and to the satisfaction of the Engineer, or such other person as may be designated by the Council for that purpose, and in doing said work will not unnecessarily encumber or obstruct any of the said streets, and after any work on same is done will at once restore the said streets to the same condition they were in before such work was commenced, and will not cut, trim, injure, or destroy any shade or ornamental trees without the express consent of the Council, nor will they fasten any guy wires to any shade or ornamental tree, and will remove any guy wires now fastened to such trees.

3. That the said Company will not place any poles on any of the streets without the written consent of the Engineer.

4. That the said Company will, at its own expense, on the written requisition of the Engineer, change the location of any poles now, or hereafter placed on the said streets, provided, however, that the Engineer shall not be entitled to require the Company to remove more than five per cent. of the then existing poles in any year and no poles shall be required to be moved between the first day of December in any year and the first day of April in any succeeding year.

5. That the said Company will permit the said Corporation to use any of its poles that the Corporation may desire for the purpose of stringing wires thereon for street lighting, fire alarm system or other like Corporation purposes. But not for domestic of commercial lighting or power purposes, at such rental as may be mutually agreed on and if said rental cannot be agreed on the same shall be fixed by the said Board.

6. That the said Company will also permit any other Company, which now has or may hereafter obtain the right to the use of the streets for placing poles and wires thereon, the use of its poles to carry the wires of the said other Company at such rental as may be mutually agreed on, and if not mutually agreed on such rental shall be fixed by the said Board, and the said Company will also, if the approval of the said Board is first obtained, allow more than one Company the use of its poles for the purposes and upon the terms and conditions aforesaid.

7. That if the Corporation should construct or allow the construction of conduits on any of the streets within an area bounded on the north by the north side of McDonnel street, on the south by the south side of Sherbrooke street, on the east by the east side of Water street, and on the West by the West side of Aylmer street, and should desire to rent the use of same to the Company, the Company will, after the first day of January, 1914, rent the use of said conduits from the Corporation at a rental and under such terms and conditions as may be mutually agreed on and if said rental and terms and conditions can not be mutually agreed upon the same shall be fixed by the said Board, and the said Company will, on any street or part of street, within said area, on which conduits are constructed, the use of which are leased to it by the Corporation within twelve months from the granting of such use, remove its poles from the said streets or parts of streets, and the Company further agrees that when the population of the City of Peterborough reaches 30,000 that the Company will, if the Board should on application made to it by the Corporation, decide that it is reasonable for the Company to be required to do so, and the Corporation desires to rent the same or any of them to the Company, rent the use of any conduits constructed, or allowed to be constructed by the Corporation on any other streets, at a rental and on the terms and conditions to be agreed on or fixed as above mentioned, and will on said streets or parts of streets within twelve months from the granting of such use remove its poles from said street or parts of streets.

8. That the said Company will, in all street work, use and maintain in good condition the most modern appliances and apparatus designed to secure freedom from danger or accidents to person and property by reason or on account of the operations of the Company or the transmission of electricity over its system, and will keep indemnified and harmless the said Corporation from and against all loss, costs, damages, and expenses, and from and against all actions, proceedings, claims and demands whatsoever occasioned by or arising out of the erection, placing, repairing, operating, or maintaining the poles of the Company, or in any way connected with, relating to or resulting from the same or the operations of the Company, or by reason or on account of any matter or thing done, or omitted to be done by the Company, or its employees, or by reason of any failure, neglect, or omission of the Company or its employees to do or perform anything which the Company is by law or under the provisions of this agreement, or any by-law of the Corporation or otherwise required to do or perform, or because of any negligence or of any omission or commission on the part of the Company, or its employees, in the erection, placing, repairing, operating, or maintenance of such poles or the transmission of electricity thereon, however the same may be caused or occur.

9. That the Compan, will pay for the term of thirty years from the first day of January, 1910, to the Corporation the sum of $1.00 for 200 poles, 75c up to 100; 50c up to 1,000, and per year for each pole erected and maintained by it, and the same shall be paid so long as such poles remain on the streets, whether used or not, provided, however, that the said Company shall pay at least a minimum price of four hundred dollars per year such sum to be payable to the Treasurer of the Corporation in equal quarterly payments on the last days of the months of March, June, September and December in each year, the first payment to be made on the thirty-first day of March, 1914, being the date up to which said rental is payable under the contract between the said Company and Corporation for street lighting.

10. That the said Company at the expiration of the said term of thirty years, for which the said Company is to have the right to use the streets for the purpose aforesaid will, on demand of the Corporation, remove its poles from all or any of the said streets, and will, after such removal, repair and make good any damage or injury to the streets caused by such removal, and at the expiration of the said term of thirty years the right or authority given to the Company to erect or maintain poles on any of the streets shall absolutely cease unless such time is extended by by-law of the Corporation, and in the event of the refusal or neglect of the said Company to remove the said poles the same may be removed by an officer of the Corporation, and the cost of such removal shall be paid by the said Company.

11. That the said Company will, during the said term supply and install meters fre of charge to those customers using same, and will not charge for the use of said meters.

12. That the said Company will, during the said term, charge rates to customers not exceeding the following subject to the provision hereinafter set out.

(a) For domestic or house lighting ten cents per one thousand watts, and will allow a discount of thirty per cent. if payment is made within ten days from the receipt by the customer of the account; provided that the minimum rate per year shall not be less than nine dollars.

(b) For commercial lighting, or lights used for business purposes, twelve and one-half cents per one thousand watts, and will allow a discount of twenty per cent if payment is made within ten days from the receipt by the customer of the account or a flat rate of four dollars per year on the basis of a sixteen candle power lamp, and a proportionate rate for lamps of less or more candle power and will allow in all cases where a flat rate is charged a discount of twenty-five per cent., if payment is made within ten days from the receipt by the customer of the account.

(c) For power purposes with a twenty-four hour service (the Company only to be obliged to supply up to 2,000 horse power.)

For from 1 to 4 horse-power $40.00 per year or at ordinary domesic or house meter rate at the option of the customer.

For from 5 to 9 horse power $30.00 per year or 3 cents per horse power hour.

For from 10 to 19 horse power $25 per year or two cents per horse power hour.

For 20 horse power or over $20 per year or 1½ cents per horse power hour.

The quantity of power to be measured at the point the Company's wires enter the premises of the customer.

There is another clause which is to the effect that should the corporation become dissatisfied with the rates they can at the end of any five years appeal to the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board for a readjustment, but the rate herein stated shall be the maximum during the entire thirty years.

An important point is that the city retains the right to generate, transmit, deliver, etc., electrical power for any purpose, nor does the agreement interfere with the city's control of the streets with regard to the placing of poles, or with regard to the city's right to engage in municipal, domestic and commercial lighting, etc.

BABY'S GREAT DANGER DURING HOT WEATHER

More children die during the hot weather than at any other time of the year. Diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera infantum, and stomach troubles come without warning, and when a medicine is not at hand to give prompt relief, the delay may prove fatal to the child. Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in every home where there are children during the hot weather months. An occasional dose of the Tablets will prevent deadly summer complaints, or cure them if they come unexpectedly. Mrs. O. Moreau, St. Tite, Que., says: "My baby suffered from a severe attack of cholera infantum, but after giving him Baby's Own Tablets the trouble disappeared, and he regained health splendidly." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GENERALLY SPEAKING

Aldermen invariably show a great objection to criticism. They are apt to forget, however, that for the glory of posing in the limelight they must be prepared for the disadvantages accruing from being so placed. Peterborough has for the most part, been blessed with a succession of city fathers who have done their best for the benefit of the city. Sometimes, however, they have failed lamentably to exercise the same foresight in regard to the city's affairs as they have been accustomed to show in the management of their own. Without presuming to condemn, we may ask, is not this true of the way in which the Burleigh Falls Power question has been handled? A short time ago there was considerable talk of the appointment of a commissioner to publish abroad the great advantages that Peterborough possesses as an industrial and manufacturing centre. Where are those advantages at the present time, and how much water power is there available wherewith to tempt prospective industries to locate in this city? It is absolutely certain that the city's future prosperity depends on the possession of more water power than it at present controls, and it is as absolutely certain that the longer the purchase of such is delayed, the stiffer will be the price that will be asked for it.

The serious accident sustained by the young Italian early this week, who in riding recklessly down a steep hill, collided against a telephone pole, is only another example to show the danger of fast wheeling. On a country road fast riding is bad enough, but when it comes to setting a furious pace in a city street, the act is criminal. One would imagine that it is to a cyclist's own interest to preserve a moderate rate of speed along a public thoroughfare, but some young, hot-blooded beings do not seem to look at it from such a point of view. The exhilaration caused by going swiftly through the air, seems to give them a sort of "waltz-me-around again Willie" feeling that renders them absolutely regardless either of their own safety or of other people's. Cycling in Peterborough is beset with dangers above the ordinary. There are in the first place certain portions of the street railway rails, which as Alderman Buller very rightly stated the other day, are so high above the roadway as to be dangerous; there are also motor cars, street cars and all sorts of wheeled conveyances, the latter driven sometimes by individuals who have their wits about them and occasionally by those who haven't; there are wheelmen who ride home to their dinners as if the foul fiend was after them. There are railway trains traversing the very heart of the city, and there are humps and hummocks and stones on all the roadways, that jar the very vitals when ridden over. Under such circumstances, it seems strange that so many bicyclists are to be found who tempt Fortune by furious wheeling.

Compositors are a much-maligned class of men. We say this with perfect confidence, because it happens to a journalist to gain considerable knowledge of the difficulties which they daily encounter. The "copy" that is sometimes handed in to a daily paper for publication is absolutely terrifying, as regards the cacography. It seems as if certain people look upon editors and printers as capable of any feat in the way of deciphering manuscript. Those who have the task of setting up a paper are but human, but it really is marvellous how much they can make intelligible of what at first sight often appears a hopelessly unintelligible jumble of sentences.

Even great men have been woefully deficient in caligraphy. Sydney Smith said of his own handwriting that "it was as if a swarm of ants, escaping from an ink bottle had walked over a sheet of paper without wiping their legs."

Horace Greeley was one of the worst writers on record. He sent a letter once declining an invitation to lecture before the Iowa Press Association. It read as follows:

"I have waited till longer waiting would be discourteous, only to find I cannot attend your Press meeting next June as I would like to do. I find so many cares and duties pressing on me, that with the weight of years, I feel obliged to decline any invitation that takes me away a day's journey from home." The recipients of the letter, after due consultation together, made it out to read as follows:

"I have wondered all along whether any squirt had denied the scandal about the President meeting Jane in the woods on Saturday. I have hominy, carrots and R.R. ties more than I could move with eight steers. If eels are blighted, dig them early. Any insinuation that brick ovens are dangerous to hams gives me the horrors."

J. C. Loudon, the eminent landscape designer once wrote to the Duke of Wellington, asking leave to visit Strathfieldsaye and view the "Waterloo beeches" (trees planted as a memorial of the battle. He wrote badly, and the duke, mistaking his signature for the Bishop of London's replied as follows:

"My Dear Bishop of London, — It will always give me great pleasure to see you at Strathfieldsaye. Pray come whenever it suits your convenience, whether I am at home or not. My servant will receive orders to show you as many pairs of breeches of mine as you wish, but why you should wish to inspect those that I wore at the battle of Waterloo, is quite beyond the comprehension of,

Yours most truly,
WELLINGTON.

Bishop Blomfield, was as may be supposed, much surprised at receiving this communication.

It may be laid down as a pretty sound axiom that the man or woman who is always harping on the backslidings of others, is an acquaintance to be rigidly shunned. Fault-finding within reasonable limits, is an excellent and desirable thing. Without its corrective influence, the tone of public and private life would be envell-defined ones at that, beyond langered. But there are limits and which neither newspaper nor individuals should go. Unfortunately, like scandal-mongering and gossiping fault-finding has a faculty of extending its range. It has much the same effect on our natures as twitch grass has on a farmer's oat-field. But to the observant man this failing in humanity has its humorous side. It really has—Here is a case in point. A few Sundays ago a person was declaiming loudly at the numbers of people to be seen going to church carrying heavy Bibles under their arms. "There's obtrusive Christianity for you," he said. "I'll willingly bet that of all those psalm-singing, canting hypocrites there's not one but will willingly cheat his neighbour to-morrow if he gets a chance." The man who uttered these words prides himself on being "no hypocrite." He is one of those individuals who delight in using such expressions as "I call a spade a spade"; "I don't beat about the bush"; "I pay 100 cents on the dollar every time"; "I don't put frills on everything I say," etc. He is quite right. Often, unfortunately his speech is clothed in such an indecent costume that frills might be useful as a habit rather than an ornament. But where is his straightforwardness? He goes to church as he himself says, 'not because I want to, but because it is a good example for the children." When he gets there, still true to his 'unhypocritical" way of doing things he never kneels at his prayers; not he, not because he doesn't want to make a show of his religion, no, but because, poor fellow, he is afraid of bagging his trousers at the knees.

This is not meant as a sermon. It only serves to show that whilst all men who take their Bibles to church are not necessarily Christians, those who go to Church just because it sets a good example to their children, and abuse others because they carry Bibles to church, are not very far advanced on the road to Beulah either.

DETROIT BECOMING THE GRETNA GREEN

Prestige of Niagara Falls as a Haven for Lovesick Youths and Maids Lost Through Stringent Marriage Laws.

Detroit, Sept. 4.—America's Gretna Green is being removed from Niagara Falls to Detroit.

With all its romantic nooks and the sentimental attraction of the roaring water, which drowns billing and cooing except to those most interested, the city named after America's wonder formerly had the call on clandestine weddings.

New York State's marriage laws were accommodating. All you had to do was to run over the suspension bridge from Canada or get off the excursion train from another State, inquire the way to the nearest sky pilot, say "I do" two or three times, and hie away. No trouble about such annoying things as licenses.

Now, the unfeeling New York State Legislature has changed all this. You have to go to the city or township clerk, answer all kinds of embarrassing questions, and wait five days until the ink is thoroughly dry on the license and the ardour of love has had time to find out whether it is real.

Detroit is reaping the harvest. There be those who say that a honeymoon on Belle Isle has the Cave of the Winds beaten forty ways, and in summer time transportation is cheap. You can get a marriage license for a dollar, and the smiling clerk will call one of four obliging justices of the peace or one of one hundred ministers of almost any denominational stripe. The marriage can be performed in the county building, which makes by no means a bad showing on the souvenir postal card on which you break the news to mother and your friends. In half an hour from the time the boat or train lands you here, it is all over, and you can buy your Pullman tickets for home or go and watch the canoers canoe, and talk about the voyage of life.

In Detroit married life is certainly worth beginning if facility is worth anything.

A Peep at Wall Paper

Artistic Effects

¶ If we could but take a peep into the future of the Wall Paper business we would open our eyes in awe—yes! awe, for there'll be a time when even the present day advanced wall papering, let alone the majority of the styles used for the past ten years (many now are shown inexperienced buyers), would be so obnoxious to our artistic senses that we would feel like "Rip Van Winkle."

¶ We must waken up, and we are, to the rapidly growing wave that is now sweeping our country—the wave of art—artistic furnishing and finishing of the home. Wall Paper treatments are becoming a work of art, not the old grandmother style of "just Wall Paper." Wall decorations are more to-day, and we (Cressman's) are ready with the latest advance styles as well as advanced ideas in wall decorations. The newest effects to make the home beautiful at any cost you like. Come and let us suggest a treatment artistic for that home of yours. Wall Papers and Home Furnishings all conveniently placed on the Third Floor for your easy choosing and comparing.

Make your home bright and attractive for the dreary winter months by redecorating the walls. Beautiful walls make half the house.

FOSTER'S WEATHER FORECAST FOR SEPT.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4.—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross continent 5 to 9, warm wave 4 to 8, cool wave 7 to 11. This disturbance was expected to cause a great rise in temperature, generally dry weather and severe storms in the great central valleys. About Sept. 4. severe storms were expected in and east of the Alleghennies and from the crest of the Rockies to Meridian 90. Light frosts were predicted for middle provinces and extreme northern sections of the U. S. middle northwest about Sept. 5.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about 9, cross Pacific slope by close ofo 10, great central valleys 11 to 13, eastern states and provinces 14. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about 9, great central valleys, longitude 105 to 85, about 11, eastern sections 13. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about 12, great central valleys 13, eastern sections 15. This will be the most important disturbance of the month. A great temperature wave will precede low—commonly called the storm centre—and that low will be followed by a great and severe cool wave. It will probably be a cold wave in some parts of the spring wheat sections of the middle provinces and will carry killing frosts farther south than usual in the states. More general rains than will have fallen during the previous thirty days may be expected from 11 to 16, and the last half of September will average cooler than usual.

Severe storms are scheduled for 13 to 18. These I am not now able to locate except that they will occur on the continent in or near the storm centre which I call the disturbance and the weather bureau calls it the low. A tropical storm off our southern coasts will probably develop not far from September 15. The August drouth in the corn belt was correctly foretold more than a month in advance. That drouth damaged corn more than the speculators seem willing to admit. A conspiracy was developed to run corn down to 50c Chicago prices and it came near being a success.

My advice to farmers is not to sell corn till the new crop reaches 70 cents at Chicago. August weather greatly damaged that crop. The country is short on all kinds ofo old grain and the three great cereals should bring, at Chicago, 40c, 70c and $1.25.

The great speculators are now trying to manipulate prices downward so as to get the farmers' crops at low prices. Old corn is scarce and prices of corn fed hogs and cattle must go up.

SCIENCE SCORES AGAIN.

A Preparation That Will Destroy the Dandruff Germ Discovered.

Finally the scientific student has discovered a certain remedy for dandruff. When it first became known that dandruff is the result of a germ or parasite that digs into the scalp and saps the vitality of hair at the root, causing falling hair and baldness biologists set to work to discover some preparation that will kill the germ. After a year's labour in our laboratory, the dandruff germ destroyer was discovered, and it is now embodied in Newbro's Herpicide. It prevents baldness, stops falling hair and speedily eradicates dandruff. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Sold by McDermid & Jury, Druggists; also Payne's Drug Store. One dollar bottles guaranteed.

This Is Labour Day's Silver Anniversary

Labour day is just 25 years old. In every state save North Dakota the anniversary is celebrated as a legal holiday. It was Sept. 5, 1882, that the day was suggested by a mammoth parade organized by the Central Labour Union of New York, in honour of the delegates to the general assembly of the Knights of Labour.

The following year a parade was held upon the first Monday in September and in 1884 Geo. R. Lloyd of the K. of L. offered a resolution providing that the first Monday of the ninth month should be known as Labour day.

Labour organizations in all sections of the land took up the idea and, in 1887 Colorado blazed the path by declaring the first Monday in September a legal holiday, to be designated Labour day.

In Louisiana the day is celebrated in Orleans parish only and in Wyoming upon proclamation of the governor.

BROAD SPIRIT OF BROTHERHOOD AND HUMANITY IS NEEDED NOW

themselves. Generally speaking, the organized labourers have maintained the scale of wages prevailing prior to the panic, but the unorganized workmen have suffered reductions in their wage scale. And while some employers have sought to destroy the labour unions, it is a satisfaction to know that they have not succeeded in doing so. As a matter of fact, the records of the trade organization show that the unions, on the whole, are numerically stronger now than they were two years ago; and with the return of good times, there promises to be an expansion and growth in trade union membership unprecedented in the industrial history of our country.

The experience of the past two years has emphasized the fact that the best way to minimize the evils of a financial or industrial depression is to maintain at the highest possible point the purchasing and consuming power of the people. It is equally essential to a resumption of commercial and industrial activity that employers and workmen alike shall be patient and forebearing with each other.

But the most valuable lesson that has been taught or learned is one that will cause both labour and capital to recognize and concede each other's rights, obligations, and responsibilities. There is no fundamental necessity for industrial strife; the interests of labour and capital may not be identical but they are reciprocal and interdependent, and when both are intelligently directed, labour and capital can do and work together to their mutual advantage. Indeed, as time passes, and as the real purpose and philosophy of trade unionism as a constructive force is fully understood, opposition to it by employers will decrease correspondingly, and the day will come when progressive employers will insist upon having agreements with their associated workmen as a guarantee against industrial strife, just as they now have insurance to protect them against losses caused by disaster and accidents.

The trade agreement is the most practical solution of the labour question that is within our reach. Men may, on the one side, fume against the labour union, and on the other side they may demand the reconstruction of society, but practical men must recognize conditions as they exist, and they should apply themselves in a rational way towards the settlement of their differences without recourse to the arbitrament of industrial war. Washington well said that "To be prepared for war is one of the most effectual means of preserving peace." So it is in the industrial world; the strong unions, intelligently officered—as they are—and well financed, are able to guarantee peace and protection to their members; employers having contracts with such unions are guaranteed the service of the best workmen and the assurance of uninterrupted development.

What is most needed is a broad spirit of brotherhood and humanity. The span of life is brief; men may not take with them the wealth accumulated in this world; they can and should strive to leave behind them the reputation of having, to the extent of their means and their ability, contributed to the well-being of society, and the happiness of mankind.

JOHN MITCHELL,
Eminent Labour Worker Who Issues Address to Workingmen.

FIGHT TUBERCULOSIS

Millions of leaflets are being circulated among the people of the Empire, informing the masses how to guard against Tuberculosis, of which 100,000 Germans die every year. The time is fast approaching when this disease will be treated like diphtheria and smallpox—the patient being isolated and removed from contact with others.

Meantime it is to be hoped the masses will learn the all-important lesson of guarding against coughs and chest colds, from which tuberculosis always springs. When your throat tickles, your chest feels tight and sore, when you sneeze and feel cold shivers up your back — that should be your warning.

Nerviline Will Assist

The following treatment is known to be very efficient: Give the chest and throat a vigorous hand-rubbing with Nerviline, and take twenty drops of Nerviline in hot, sweetened water. If there is any hoarseness or cough, gargle well with Nerviline and put a Nerviline Porous Plaster over the chest. By following this advice you can keep clear of colds, pneumonia, bronchitis, and preserve uniform good health. This is worth cutting out and preserving.

BAN ON PUBLIC CUP

Kansas Board of Health Stops Its use in all Schools.

Topeka, Kan., Sept. 4.—Upon the orders of the State Board of Health, Superintendent Fairchild, of the State School Department, is sending out instructions to local authorities over the State to abolish the common drinking cup in all school houses. The ban on such cups also applies to all universities and colleges in the State, both public and private.

"Notwithstanding the jibes directed at the board of health for wiping out drinking cups in schools and on trains, I believe it is the most important health measure ever adopted in Kansas," said Dr. Crumbine to-day. "I know of enough cases where loathsome diseases have been communicated to people through these cups to justify the board in issuing the order."

WOMAN IN PARLIAMENT

Copenhagen, Sept. 3.—After the President had announced the Cabinet changes at the commencement of a recent sitting of the Folkething, Mlle. Westenholz forced her way into the Chamber, and, standing in front of the President's chair, made the following speech:

Here you sit, you Danish men, selfishly bargaining and haggling in the lust of power and in selfishness, over the weal and woe of the country; but let it be told you from this spot that Denmark's women disown you, and brand you as a lot of hirelings belonging to no country, who betray the honor of Denmark.

Though the President industriously rang his bell, and the Deputies kept up a fire of interruptions, she managed to conclude her speech, after which she was led out of the house by the attendants.

You Can Defy The SPRING FATIGUE
And nervous exhaustion, if you will make the blood rich and red by using DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

Fatigue and weakness tell of weak, watery and impure blood.

Are you going to go through the usual suffering and discomfort of spring this year or take a hand in the matter of your health and build up the system?

It is for you to decide, for you know that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, by forming new, rich blood, overcomes the fatigue, the weakness, the feelings of depression, and discouragement which come with spring.

The nervous system is almost always exhausted in the spring. Your appetite fails because the nerves which control the appetite are exhausted, and so it is with digestion and the working of the other bodily organs.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the greatest spring medicine because it is the greatest of nerve restoratives. It forms the new, rich, red blood from which vigor, energy and nerve force are created.

If you would restore the healthful glow to the complexion, sharpen the appetite, improve digestion, strengthen the action of the heart, revitalize the wasted brain and nerve cells and round out the wasted form you must use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. No imitation is just as good. There is no substitute but will disappoint.

Mrs. John F. Shannon, Whiteside, N. S., writes: "I used four boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and found it an excellent medicine. It has proved to be a splendid treatment for headache and a run-down system."

SWISS MYSTERY

Berne, Sept. 4.—According to a telegram from Fionnay (Valais), an English lady named Brown, who was staying at the Hotel Carron there, was missed on Monday evening and could not be found, though parties of guides searched high and low for her until late at night. She was discovered the next morning quite near the village in a state of complete exhaustion and injured in several places. In addition to her injuries she suffered from the rain that had fallen during the night. Inquiry is being made in this affair.

FERROZONE CURES
"For years I had been rheumatic. I tried various forms of relief without success. The disease increased, settled in my joints and muscles; these swelled, caused excruciating pains, and kept me from sleeping. My limbs and arms stiffened, my shoulders were lame, and prevented me from working. Week by week I was losing strength, and despaired of finding a cure. It was a happy day I heard of Ferrozone. Every day I took Ferrozone I felt better; it eased the painful joints, gave me energy, and a feeling of new life. Ferrozone cured my rheumatism, cured it so that not an ache has ever returned. Even damp weather no longer affects me."

FEES NOT TO BE LOWERED

The Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—With the reduction in the cost of the Public School Readers have come enquiries whether the pupils' fees will not be reduced.

The reduction in the cost of the Readers will not lessen the expense to the Board until after a year has elapsed, since all pupils, both the Juniors and the Seniors of each grade, will have to be supplied with new books, which means that over twice as many new books will have to be supplied this year, than would have been required had the old readers been continued in use. After the expiration of one year only those pupils in the Senior division of each grade who will be promoted will require new readers and this will lessen the expense to the Board.

Then too, it must be remembered that the readers are but one item of expense. Besides these, the pupils have to be supplied with arithmetics, histories, geographies, grammars, dictionaries, scribblers, exercise books, examination papers, drawing paper, brushes and paints, ink, slates, lead pencils, erasers pens copy books and many other articles required to carry on the work of the schools.

Apart from the income derived from the fees, more than covers the expense of the supplies, a reduction of the fees will not be made.—I.P.S.

School Reopening

The city schools reopen on Tuesday, September 7th when it is hoped there will be a full attendance of pupils after the long vacation.

Parents having young children whom they purpose starting at the Public Schools are requested to read the following regulation of the Board:

"Children under eight years of age who have not previously attended a public school, shall be admitted to the primary division only during the first two weeks of school in January, April and September."

When primary pupils come in late they retard the progress of the whole class and it is very important that they all start together on the first day of school.

Last year Edinburgh St. was made the boundary between the Queen Alexandra and the Central Schools for pupils of the primary grades and Dublin St. for pupils in the 2nd, 3rd and 4th books.

It is requested that pupils will strictly adhere to these boundaries on the opening of the schools, on Tuesday.

Changes may have to be made to avoid overcrowding but these can be determined only after the classes are organized.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

MORRISON'S FAUST.

The presentation of Morrison's "Faust" on tour has proven one of the big surprises of the theatrical year, both in artistic and financial sense. In "Faust," Goethe gave to German literature a production that ranks with any single creation of Shakespeare, and to the world the best passage his mature and prolific genius evolved in a period which included nearly his entire creative career. The old familiar legend of every land, of him who sells his soul to the devil to satisfy the cravings of carnal desires, found in the German mysticism its deepest meaning, and in the German university atmosphere its most refined and sardonic interpretation. The scope of the theme afforded to a mind so subtle and sophisticated as Goethe's it is well nigh impossible to exaggerate. It deals with the deepest problems which can engage the mind of man. The innocence and the fall of Marguerite appeal to every heart; the inward struggle of Faust, like those of Hamlet, and the antagonism of the sensual and more principles, stir of the natures of all alike, since all are similarly constituted. So great was the effect of Goethe's poem that it has been said that it entered as a whole into the mind and thought of modern Germany. Goethe himself said, concerning the wonderful success of "Faust": "The commendation which the poem has received so far and near may be, perhaps, owing to this quality, that it permanently preserves the period of development of a human soul, which is tormented by all that afflicts mankind, shaken also by all that disturbs it, repelled by all that it finds repellent, and made happy by all that it desires." The Morrison version of "Faust" has for its aids the most modern mechanism and stage effects, rendering it perhaps the most spectacular performance before the public. As rendered the present season, the scene on the summit of the Brocken presenting the revels of the demons on Walpurgis night is to the last degree wild and weird. It is as realistic a representation of lost souls in torment as could be conceived.

SENATOR FERGUSON PASSED AWAY AFTER LONG PUBLIC SERVICE

Father of Mr. J. H. Ferguson, Manager of the Local Branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia—Advocate of Confederation

DIED LAST NIGHT

Mr. J. H. Ferguson, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, received word this morning of the death of his father, Hon. Senator Donald Ferguson, last night at 8 o'clock, at his home at Marshfield, Prince Edward Island. The deceased was born at East River, P.E.I., in 1830. He was married to Elizabeth Scott of Charlottetown, in 1873, and is survived by her. He was elected by acclamation to the House of Assembly in 1878, for the Cardigan District, of King's County, on the resignation of the sitting member. On the defeat of the Davis administration in 1879 he entered the Sullivan administration as Commissioner of Public Works, and was again elected by acclamation. In 1880 he became Provincial Secretary and Commissioner of Crown Lands. In 1882 he contested the Fort Augustus District of Queen's County, and was elected, and was re-elected for the same seat in 1886, 1887, and 1890. In 1891 he resigned his place in the Provincial administration and legislature to contest Queen's County for the Commons, and was unsuccessful. He was called to the Senate in 1893 and became a member of the Bowell administration without portfolio in 1894, and continued in the same position in Sir Charles Tupper's administration. Senator Ferguson was in politics a Conservative. He was one of the earliest advocates of Confederation in Prince Edward Island and remained up to his death a firm believer in Canadian and Imperial unity.

FEARED PARALYSIS
Mr. F. A. Kruta, Schwartz, Que., writes, "For one year I was a complete nervous wreck, could not rest or sleep, had indigestion and terrible headaches and constantly feared paralysis. Six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food made me well and strong. There is no treatment in the world so good as this for building up the nervous system."

AUTO CLIMBS THE ALPS

Geneva, Sept. 4.—Our correspondent at Geneva has gleaned from Dr. Douglas Fawcett details of his remarkable ascent of the Montanvert, a mountain 6,267 feet high in the heart of the Mont Blanc range, in his little motor car.

The average gradient is one to five, with frequent portions at a still stiffer angle. The path Dr. Fawcett took is only used as a ride by walkers and those who ride on mules, and parts of it consist of perilous zig-zags. It skirts the precipice for the most parts, and is studded with boulders and rocks presenting in its middle portions extremely difficult zig-zags.

The car used was a one-cylinder De Dion, geared low with large backwheel brakes. Michelin steel-studded tires are fitted to all wheels.

"The easiest part of the climb," said Dr. Fawcett, "was in the forest just after the first turn in the Chemin des Bois, and then came the long rock-strewn ascent to the junction of Chemin des Bois and of Chamonix. Still higher it was very difficult in respect of abrupt and rocky turns and terrific gradients."

The actual time occupied in travelling was less than two and a half hours, but the journey was spread over two days.

In company with a well-known Parisian journalist, Dr. Fawcett proposes shortly to climb up to the Pavillon des Boissons, 4,430 feet, and thence to the higher plateau on the Mont de la Cote, about 5,600 feet.

NEW GOVERNOR OF MALTA

London, Sept. 4.—The appointment was gazetted of Lieut-General Sir Henry Macleod Leslie Rundle to be Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the Island of Malta.

Lieut.-Gen. Rundle served in South Africa in 1879-81, the Egyptian campaign of 1882, the Nile expedition in 1884, in the Soudan and in the last Boer war.

MAKE THESE BRUTES PAY IN FULL

The American Bar Association, in its attempt to offer something in the way of a cure for desertion of family, doesn't go far enough. It proposes to put the deserter in prison for not more than a year and make him pay to the deserted 50 cents a day from his earnings as a convict.

This will be well enough, provided that 50 cents represents his entire earnings per diem.

The theory that convicts should not be turned loose with nothing is very beautiful as a general proposition based on mercy and humaneness, but there are at least two sorts of brutes whom merciful theories don't reach. We refer to wife-beaters and the contemptible wretches who desert their little children. Lock up either of these sorts and the chances are ten to one that the innocent wives and children suffer the most, mentally and physically.

If anything at all can be got out of the deserter of family, get it all. Certain it is that the convict who deserves to be turned loose to a diet of uncut grass is the fellow who has run away and left his own little children to starve for all he cares.

FIVE TIME CHAMPION OF NETS IS LARNED

W. A. LARNED.

For the third time in succession and for the fifth time in his career on the courts, Wm. A. Larned, of Summit, N.J., is national tennis champion.
Larned defended his title against Wm. J. Clothier, of Philadelphia, winner of the twenty-ninth annual all-comers tournament at Newport, R.I., in a whirlwind five-set game, taking the first two sets and the last.

MONDAY'S BALL GAME WILL BE WORTH TRIP TO RIVERSIDE

For the people who are in town on Monday the chief event of importance will be the T. A. S.-Lindsay ball game at Riverside Park, which promises to be one of the best games of the season. Bill Cinnamon has infused his fighting spirit into the team that will represent Scugogville on Monday, and the Lindsayites will have a nine that will give the T. A. S. a hard argument for the honours. A year ago Lindsay won a victory over the Abstainers n Lindsay, and the T. A. S. are bound to get revenge on Monday. They will have the same lineup that has been carrying them triumphantly through the City League, and with Quinlan doing the pitching, think that they can hold the Cinnamon crowd for a while, at least long enough to win.

TO-DAY'S BALL GAME IS OFF

The championship of the City Baseball League will have to remain undecided until next Saturday at least. The weather man took out an injunction against the West End-T. A. S. game to-day, and the result was that at 11 o'clock the League officials decided that there would be no game this afternoon. The two will likely settle their differences next week.

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO LIVE ON PRINCESS STREET?

to get on to Aylmer street, now, they have to climb over two fences, one of them partly wired. They were led to believe that Aylmer street would be extended this year, but the summer has slipped by and the early autumn frosts announce the not far distant winter, and those fences are just as high and just as inconvenient to the women and men who are forced to climb them.

The regular meeting of the Council will be held on Tuesday evening and the Princess street people are looking forward to a decided step in the favour that a decided step in their favour that evening, otherwise they feel that a month later it will not be opportune to build up the desired strip of street. On Sunday morning going to church, the residents were compelled to crawl over the fence, the same as on any other day in the week. They do not consider that they have received fair attention, and to an Examiner reporter voiced their feelings as follows:

Mr. Wm. Hubei.

Wm. Hubei, who has built himself a large new house at what will be the south west corner of Aylmer and Princess street, was found putting the finishing touches to it. "We are getting anxious about Aylmer street," he said. "We waited upon the Council early in the year, but you can see for yourself what they have done. We are tired climbing over and through those fences and we do not think it fair to any citizen who has built in a new part of the city that he should be shut in the way we are. We're not asking that Princess street be built, we only want Aylmer street extended; that will suffice for the present."

Princess street itself is nothing better than a country lane. It is open at the Park Street end and it is only twenty-five feet wide. A fence cuts off the other half, and will until the Council decided to give that part of the city a little attention.

How was it made a street? Was it ever ploughed up, graded, and gravelled? Did the road roller ever pass over it? The lots on the south side of the street were built up and of necessity grocery waggons, milk waggons, wood waggons and furniture drays passed over what will some time be Princess street. The wheels and horses' hoofs slowly wore the semblance of a road. Ornamented with ruts here and there the street if it may be named such, resembles a waggon path between two farm lots

Mr. Fred Rooke

"I've been living down here since April 20th of this year," said Mr Fred Rooke. "There's the school over there and the church, factories not far away and I thought that this was a good location for a home. I like it too, but we have too much trouble from the fact that there is no street to our houses. We cannot go out of our way to Park street in order to get up town and the only alternative is to cut across the field there, where Aylmer street should be extended. We had a turnstile at each fence but the man who had some cows pasturing in there barred it up, saying his cows got out and we have had to climb over it. I do not think it would cost the city much to extend Aylmer street as planned, and I may say that we are looking forward to it this year. We have not lost all hope in the Council, but we do not want them to forget that we are down here and that they promised to give us the street. Another year we will consider Princess street itself."

Mr. Silas Bullied is another who is hoping the south end is going to receive the attention of the Council in this matter. W. Ballantyne is another. Mr. B. Jackson and Mr. A. Mongour are also anxious to see the street provided. Mr. Thos. Briou, who resides in a house owned by Alex. Swenor likewise favours it.

POST CARD COLUMN

Peterborough, Sept 3. '09.

Sir,—You suggest that Canada should have a voice in the Imperial deliberations that may lead to a declaration of war, and in a few years we should be agitating for Home Rule. But are there not two members of the British Government from Canada and quite a few members of the House of Lords? Has not the British taxpayer willingly borne all the weight of the Imperial burden for a hundred years? Of course if Canada in commerce and sentiment were hand in hand with England, without the political prejudices of Col. Denison or Lord Charles Beresford, than there might be political union in the sense you mean.—Yours,

W. A. BAILEY.

IN BASE BALL AND ATHLETICS FOR THE ALMIGHTY DOLLAR

By Tip Wright.

Theoretically, the difference between amateur and professional athletes is vast; but when you come down to copper rivets it isn't. Once the glory hunter regarded himself as the gentleman, and looked upon the pro. as a sort of hired man.

But it's changed now. The shekel hunters are men of a calibre too large for anyone to look down upon, and the distance between the men in sport for sport's sake and those in it for what they can get is not noticeable.

Many who have made good in professional sport have accumulated wealth and have reached a position of prominence because of their ability to command big money for their services.

For 14 years Hans Wagner has been playing ball. His first contract was for $35 a month. Now he gets what he asks for, and it is not less than $10,000 for seven months. He has drawn this for years, and is worth $100,000. A circus he owns is expected to do big business because Hans the idol owns it.

John McGraw of the Giants gets between $12,000 and $15,000 a year. He is advertised every day in the papers, and a billiard hall he opened in New York has been a bonanza from the start. McGraw began baseball where they all begin, and went to the top through sheer ability.

John Kling saved $20,000 from his salary and invested it in Kansas City real estate. Also he opened a pool and billiard hall. The realty sold for $90,000 and the pool room, with Kling as an added attraction, profits him $4000 a year.

Willie Keeler invested in Brooklyn realty, and to-day is reputed to be worth more than $100,000. Hugh Jennings went to Cornell with money earned on the diamond. He coached the varsity nine and graduated in law. He was admitted to the Pennsylvania bar and enjoys a large practice during the off season.

John M. Ward, once a Giant, plays golf for a diversion now, and practises at law in New York. Both he and Jennings owe much of their success to the fact that they were well advertised players. Roger Bresnahan, manager of the Cardinals, and one of the high-priced players, own realty. Roger used to be a sleuth, but he quit it. Joe Tinker and Mike Donlin receive salaries of four figures weekly on the stage. Addie Joss writes newspaper stories in the winter. Christy Mathewson finds it easy to sell insurance to fans and Frank Chance invested his surplus cash in an orange grove in California. Take other sports. Wm. Sherring won the Olympic Marathon at Athens in 1906 and when he returned home his friends gave him a $10,000 purse, a house and lot, and found him a government job.

Johnny Hayes, winner of the last Olympic Marathon, sprang from obscurity in a day and after going on the stage at $1000 a week for a short time, accepted a position with a sporting goods house at a fat salary. Incidentally, he won several thousands for running in Marathons in this country.

Dorando Pietri came over here and defeated not only Hayes, but a lot of other good distance men, and took home something like $25,000. He won't have to work in the bakery any more.

Henri St. Yves was getting $5 or $6 a week in a Paris restaurant before he won fame as a distance runner; he won enough as a professional athlete to retire.

The professional cyclists of wealth are legion. Tom Cooper, Harry Elkes, Eddie Bald, Barney Oldfield, Major Taylor, Bobby Walthour, Floyd McFarland, Frank Kramer and others made from $3000 to $5000 annually with their muscular legs.

Foot ball coaches get the money. "Hurry up" Yost, Prof. A. A. Stagg and Glenn Warner receive from $3,000 to $5,000 for coaching the young idea to gain three yards through the center when called upon.

Chas. Courtney, the wizard, is said to receive $7,000 for coaching the Cornell oarsmen, while his interest in a concern that manufactures racing shells brings him as much more. Ned Hanlan, former coach of the University of California, owned trophies valued at more than $100,000 when he died. He received $4,000 a year as coach. Jim Rice, who handed watermen a surprise this year with his Columbia crews, is paid $3500, and Jim A. Ten Eyck, the Syracuse coach, is reputed to draw $5,000.

Professional hockey, polo, golf, tennis and racquet players, not only earn large sums on the field, but are often in the employ of sporting goods houses, as managers or salesmen, at fat salaries, not because they possess unusual business ability, although they often do, but because they can draw business to the concern that employs them.

UMPIRE COLLECTS FOR STALE EGGS.

Lives of base ball umpires will be safe in Bellevernon, Pa., in future. Two fans took the liberty to heave some ancient eggs at Umpire Geo. E. Smith, of California, who officiated in the game the other day between Bellevernon and Fayette City. Fayette City won by 2 to 1, and it was the general opinion that Smith called a Fayette City runner safe when he was caught two feet from the plate. Smith had the pair arrested. The hearing was to have been held before Justice of the Peace Dickerson of North Bellevernon. When the egg throwers appeared they wanted to effect a compromise. The umpire was magnanimous and said $15 would pay for the damage to his clothes, his feelings, and the time he has lost. The prisoners objected to the size of the cost bill, inasmuch as none of the witnesses wanted pay, but finally they came up with the amount. It cost the pair $11.71 each. Only three eggs hit Smith.

COMMANDER PEARY ANNOUNCES THAT HE TOO HAS REACHED THE NORTH POLE

Expedition Which Left Sydney, N.S., on July 17, 1908, Has Been Crowned With Success—It Is Believed That the Party Sent to Find Him Has Got Into Communication With Him and Sent the Word.

New York Sept. 7.—Peary has reached the North Pole, though the details won't be known until the intrepid explorer reaches Chatham, Nfld., to-day.

The first announcement was flashed from Indian Harbor, Labrador, by wireless via Cape Bay and Port aux Basques, Nfld.; Canso, N.S., and New York, to the Associated Press, being received at 12.30 p.m., saying:

"Stars and Stripes nailed to the pole."

The despatch was duplicated to Reuter's News Agency, London.

The first belief that someone was attempting a hoax was dispelled when Herbert L. Bridgman, secretary of the Arctic Club, New York, received a private cipher message, saying:

"Pole reached. Roosevelt safe."

The Roosevelt was the vessel which the exploring party utilized for the expedition.

Another message to The New York Times said:

"I have the pole, April 9. Expect to arrive Chateau Bay, Sept. 7. Secure control wire for me there and arrange expedite transmission on big story.

A message to his wife at South Harpswell, Maine, said:

"Have made good at last. I have the old pole. Am well. Love. Will wire again from Chateau."

To this she replied: "All well. Best love. God bless you. Hurry home. (Sgd.) Jo."

Peary left Sydney, N. S., July 17, 1908, on the steamer Roosevelt, on his third attempt to reach the North Pole. His last remark as he went on board the steamer was that he expected to accomplish his purpose. He arrived at Cape York, Greenland, July 31. On Aug. 11 the Roosevelt was at Etah, which point he left Sept. 26. He had a good supply of Eskimo dogs and provisions.

The last information concerning Commander Peary indicated that he was on the polar ice north of Cape Thomas Hubbard, about 560 miles from the pole.

Peary's friends have for several weeks past been expressing a belief that he had already reached his goal and that the news was delayed only by the difficulties of transmission. The receipt of the massage at New York is taken to mean that the relief ship Jeannie, which left a month ago, has reached Etah, Greenland, and established communication with Commander Peary at that point. It is possible, however, that Peary sent word by a chance whaler.

In reaching the North Pole, Commander Robert Edwin Peary has achieved the ambition of a lifetime. As a boy his day dreams were of an unexplored land far to the northward and such printed matter concerning the polar regions as fell into his hands was read with absorbed interest. He was born at Cresson, Pa., May 6, 1858, but in his early youth the family removed to Maine. He graduated from Bowdoin College in 1877, and entered the United States navy as civil engineer, Oct. 26, 1881.

Three years later he was appointed an assistant engineer on the board which surveyed the route of the Nicaragua Ship Canal.

In 1886 he was granted leave of absence to visit Greenland, on what proved to be the first of seven expeditions to the north, which challenged the admiration of the world, and brought unstinted fame. In 1906 he attained his farthest north.

Peary's expeditions have had scientific and geographical usefulness. He has won the medals of the American Geographical Society, the Royal Geographical Society of London, and the Scottish Geographical Society. In the navy he won the title of "commander." In 1903 he was made president of the American Geographical Society.

Commander Peary's domestic life has been so happy that absence from his family has been one of his greatest hardships. In 1888, two years after the return from his first visit to Greenland, he married Miss Josephine Diebitsch, who upon different occasions accompanied her husband for a considerable distance northward.

Upon one of these trips a daughter was born to them, who has always been called by her father "The Snow Maiden," and held for a time a notoriety rivalling that of the commander, as the only white child known to have been born within the Arctic circle.

In 1902, after Peary had been absent four years and hope of his arrival had been abandoned by many, Mrs. Peary accompanied a relief expedition which met and brought him home.

When asked if he would try again, he replied: "Undoubtedly, I have made my last attempt. My time is up and I am going back to my work in the navy."

However, the polar lust again gripped him. Funds were forthcoming, and his last and successful expedition may now be anticipated. In fact, it was announced more than a year ago that Peary had planned a national American expedition for the exploration of the south polar regions, but that his interest was only in getting it under way.

Cook Said "I am Glad."

Copenhagen, Sept. 7.—It is doubtful if history furnishes a more dramatic episode than the breaking of the news to Dr. Cook that Peary had realized the goal of his life's ambition and repeated struggles. Dr. Cook was seated at a dinner surrounded by explorers and correspondents in the gilded ballroom of the Tivoli Casina. Around his neck was hung a garland of pink roses, according to the Scandinavian method of honoring heroes, which the explorer wore blushingly and with visible embarrassment. Several speeches acclaiming him, had been given and repeated toasts to him drunk with clamorous cheers.

Amid this scene a whisper went around that Peary had planted the Stars and Stripes at the pole. Cook was perfectly cool and unmoved. He made a striking speech, in which he paid high tribute to the work of Sverdrup, who sat near, to whose discoveries he largely owed his success, to John R. Bradley, who had financed the expedition, to "the intelligence, endurance and faithfulness of the Eskimos who have assisted in the preparations and those who had accompanied him.

The whole story of the expedition, he said, has not shown and will not come out for some time; nor will it come in instalments, but only when it is completed.

Dr. Cook did not permit the whispers which came to his ear of Peary's success to move him in the least, but when he had finished he was surrounded by correspondents who looked for some sign of emotion, but the explorer said, smilingly, "I am glad."

ALLEN LINER LAURENTIAN WRECKED, A COMPLETE LOSS

Big Steamer on its way to Glasgow Went Ashore During a Dense fog off Cape Race and was Broken in two by the Heavy Seas---No Chance of Refloating Her.

St. John's, Nfld., Sept. 7.—The Allan line steamer Laurentian, from Boston, Sept. 3, for Glasgow, is a wreck off Cape Race.

The steamer ran ashore at daylight yesterday, in a dense fog, and Nos. 1 and 2 holds soon filled with water.

The 60 passengers were safely landed.

During the forenoon the steamer broke in two, which renders hopeless a chance of refloating her.

The Laurentian belongs to the Allan Line Steamship Co., Ltd., of Glasgow, and ran regularly between Boston and Glasgow. The steamer was 400 feet long, 42 feet beam and had a tonnage of 2,837. She was built at Greenock in 1872.

She was laden with flour in sacks and corn in bulk.

For the last three or four days the Nova Scotia and Newfoundland coasts have been enveloped in a thick curtain of fog. Her officers being unable to take any observations because of this, the treacherous current that swirl around the southwestern Newfoundland coast swept the steamer away inshore. When Capt. Imrie thought himself miles off the coast, the steamer was right in on the cliffs, and the first thing known of their position was when the vessel's bow crashed into the rocks.

Fortunately the sea was very calm and all the passengers and crew were taken off safely in the ship's own boats. Had there been any sea running, serious loss of life would have attended the wreck, as the cliffs are almost perpendicular, and to land through the surf there is almost impossible.

Originally she was the Polynesia, but some time after her launch she was rebuilt and re-engaged, and then her name was changed to the Laurentian. Originally she was queen of all the Allan Line, and made many fast passages across the Atlantic. In 1900 she conveyed the Royal Canadian Artillery from Halifax to the South Africa war, and made the fastest passage of any troopship between Canada and the Cape.

A WELL KNOWN TORONTO LAWYER IS DROWNED

Toronto, Sept. 7.—Alfred H. Marsh, K.C., of the legal firm of Marsh and Cameron, 23 Toronto street, was drowned whilst bathing at Centre Island yesterday evening. The deceased gentleman, who was well-known throughout the city, resided at 164 Jarvis street, and had a summer residence at 3 Clandeboye avenue, Centre Island, at which latter address he had recently been staying with his family. At 6 o'clock yesterday evening he left home for a swim in the lake at the foot of Clandeboye avenue, a short distance away. Although there were a number of people about at the time and workmen were employed 50 feet away, nothing unusual was noticed until 6.30, when his body was seen floating up right in 12 feet of water, about 25 feet from the shore. A man named McElroy, in the employ of Miller and Cummings, brought the body ashore, and J. M. Whitfield of 104 Lake Front, applied the usual methods to restore animation, for half an hour, but without success. When a doctor arrived he pronounced life extinct. W. Marsh, who was 58 years of age, was a strong swimmer, and knew the water well at the spot where he met his death; in fact, it was a frequent practice of his to bathe there in the evening.

He is survived by his wife (nee Miss Proudfoot, daughter of the late Chief Justice Proudfoot), a sister, Mrs. Frank Roberts of Lake Charles, Louisiana, and five daughters, Miss Marion G., Ottawa; Mrs. Bessie M. Brewery, New York; Miss Jessie K., at home; Miss Louise, at St. Luke's Hospital, N.Y., and Miss Mildred, at home.

Most of the chauffeurs of Washington have organized a "Chauffeurs' Association" and affiliated as a union with the Knights of Labor. The new organization will expel any chauffeur convicted of "joy riding."

Woman Evangelist Drops Dead.

New York, Sept. 7.—An Ocean Grove, N.J., special says that the closing hours of the ten-days' camp meeting there Sunday night were marked by the tragic death of Miss Anna Hughes, aged 30, a well-known evangelist, daughter of the late Rev. George Hughes. In the sight of 2,000 men and women, Miss Hughes while speaking from the platform, suddenly plunged forward dead.

Two Auto Guests Killed.

New York, Sept. 7.—A tire on the automobile of Wm. Hobby, a wealthy resident of Mount Vernon, burst yesterday while the machine was running at high speed, throwing the car over an embankment, killing two musicians employed in a hotel at City Island, whom Hobby was bringing home. Hobby and his chauffeur escaped with bruises.

SPREE ENDS IN SHOOTING.

Thirteen-Year-Old Boy is Probably Fatally Injured.

Toronto, Sept. 7.—Johnny Kelly, a lad of 13 years, of 211 Lansdowne avenue, is lying at the point of death in the Hospital for Sick Children as the result of drunken dare-devilishness on the part of one of his companions. He was shot with a 22-calibre rifle while on a siding near the railway bridge beside the lower end of Lansdowne avenue at 2.30 yesterday afternoon.

The siding is apparently the rendezvous of a number of youths and men who are averse to work. According to boys who were there, eight men secured a keg of beer early yesterday morning and carried it, covered with a bag, to an empty box car on the siding. The crowd of boys went over and some of the oldest were given liquor. Among them were Gus Cullen, aged about 17, of 23 Wyndham street, and John Travers, aged 16, of 38 St. Clarens avenue. Cullen is the owner of a 22 calibre rifle.

At about 2.30 the Kelly boy said he was going home. With several of his boy friends he turned and walked away.

After he had got about fifty feet from the other group, Travers, who had the rifle, called after him, "If you go home, I'll kill you."

Kelly and his companions turned. When he saw Travers point the gun at him he stopped. The other boys ducked. Then Travers pulled the trigger and Kelly dropped.

The boys ran to his assistance and picked him up. They wanted to carry him home when they found he had been shot, but he would not let them.

"No, I don't want to be carried," he said. White-faced, and supported by his friends, he walked home.

Dr. J. H. McConnell of 625 Dundas street, was called in and he administered first aid. After examining the wound, he ordered the boy to be removed to the hospital.

Kelly was put under an anesthetic at the hospital and Dr. Charles B. Shuttlecock of East Bloor street removed the bullet. It was found that it had twice penetrated the small intestine and had finally lodged in the omentum. At first it was feared that it had passed through the kidney, as it entered the back near the kidney.

The doctors think he has but small chance for recovering.

PRIVATE JONES' CHEATING.

He'd Even Cheat the Goats That Would Feed Over His Grave.

By LEO CRANE.

"'E was a coal passer, was Jones, an' 'e slung a shovel on the bloomin' tramp Koolah until his mouth got him inter serious trouble affairs by recklessly slippin' lurid names toward the chief engineer. O' course we men knew 'e didn't mean anythink outer the way by the langwidge, but the chief engineer was a wicious man, an' 'e allowed his turrible anger to become uncontrolled.

"So we men laid Jones away in the free ward o' a leetle horspital that half hid itself shylike behind a row o' scraggy palms. Then we men went off on a boot, eight o' us. Seven got back to the ship in time to sail with her. The eighth man 'e was left on the wharf deserted amid a multichude o' coolies. Hi was that man.

"An' being as Hi wouldn't shift cargo fer a livin' wage, Hi presented meself, body an' soul, to a recruitin' officer who was out after one devn called Juan Torres. This same Juan Torres was up country some'res hidin', an' 'e didn't have no idear o' bein' ketched; hence it needed men, an' Hi was a man.

"Now, on the mornin' afore we marched away who in all the worl' o' rascals should heave in sight but Jones. 'E had a rag about his head, an' 'e wanted to 'list. Now, Hi had never expected to see Jones again in this worl' an', bein' pious inclined, didn't want to meet him in the next. Hi always watched my terbacker when 'e was about. Sam Rawlins had tol' me o' that, an' Sam Rawlins had lost terbacker.

"Well, they needed men, an' Jones was one, so 'e went along. 'E tol' me that the doctors at the leetle horspital had been very confident that 'e would die, but in spite o' it 'e fooled 'em.

"Anyway, up country we goes after Juan Torres, an' the first beastly town we gets inter down goes Jones with the fever. The doctor o' the regiment said 'e would die certain, but Jones didn't. 'E scraped through, s'elp me if 'e didn't. Two weeks after 'e began to creep about the camp mule kicks him a reg'lar smasher in the side, an' away to the leetle horspital they carries him to mend up.

"Hi didn't see Jones no more for near a half year; neither did Hi see Juan Torres. One day when we thought we had 'im spotted at last inter camp Jones walks, smilin' grimly. 'E goes to the colonel an' says, 'Hi'll show ye just where they are,' says 'e. An' in ten minutes out we marches, Jones 'eadin' the way.

"'How have ye been?' asks the colonel, leggin' it 'longside o' Jones.

"'Werry well,' says Jones back to him, pleasant-like. 'Hi ain't been outer the horspital more 'n ten days.'

"'Guns!' cries the colonel. 'Did it take 'em all that time to patch up three broken ribs?'

"'No,' explains Jones. 'They fixed up them ribs in six weeks, but after Hi got discharged from that spell Hi went inter town on a leetle smooch aroun', ye know, an' some William knifes me. In fact, 'e knifed me two or three times afore 'e was satisfied with his contract, an' so they bustles me back to the leetle hospital without any great loss o' time. That were a four month job, but they did it, an' nary a grumble. Oh, this gettin' well is my long suit,' says Jones, proud-like. 'What troubles me most,' says Jones solemnly, "is that maybe when the blow comes again Hi'll be too far up country an' wont reach the horspital in time, but Hi hopes not.'

"'Why, you must like bein' sick,' says the colonel, s'prised.

"'It ain't the bein' sick,' says Jones; 'that's nasty. But the soup—my, the soup! Delicious!' says Jones, smackin' his lips 's if 'e could taste it. 'Hi've been in forty-two horspitals in my time an' have been discharged cured nigh on to sixty-seven times, so Hi know.'

"'Sixty-seven times,' echoed the colonel.

"'Return visits,' explained Jones quickly. 'But Hi don't despair o' betterin' that record, 'cause Hi knows my vitality an' what Hi can stand.'

"On we men went silently. The reports 'll tell ye how we cornered them rats in the center o' a thick forest, but the reports won't tell ye how one Jones carried fire an' sword into the habitation o' Juan Torres.

"It stood in a clearin'. Jones beat us to the inclosure by a good twenty feet, an' Jones was first to show his leg over the top. Some native feller punched a bayonet through the calf o' it, but that native feller troubled no other man. Jones fought like a demon, an' we lost him in the smoke o' battle.

"Late in the day, when the struggle had ceased an' the smell o' rank powder was beginnin' to sieve away through the forest, we started to hunt up our men. We found Jones lyin' across a pile o' severely used natives over again a secluded portion o' the stockade. There he had cornered six desperate men, an' the sight o' his handiwork was exceedin' fair to look upon. We carried Jones tenderly away. The doc, 'e looked at him, an', says doc softly, ''e's dead, poor fellow,' an' there were tears in more eyes than one.

"But that night a man came racin' inter the colonel's hut an' bawls out, ''E ain't dead!'

"'Who ain't dead?' yells the colonel.

"'Jones!' cries the man. ''E's come to life again!'

"Down to the surgeon's hut rushes the colonel, all excited an' puzzled. Doc meets him at the door an' cautions him to be quiet.

"''E's kinder wild in his head,' says the doctor, 'an' he's makin' all sorts o' crazy requests.'

"'What does 'e want?' asks the colonel.

"''E's mumblin' all the time about goin' back to the leetle horspital,' says the doc.

"''E's a hero,' cries the colonel, 'an' 'e shall go.'

"'Why, man,' says the other, ''e's got three bola wounds, shot twice through the body an' has been clouted across the head. 'E can't possibly live till mornin'.'

"But Jones heerd him say it, an' he calls out weakly, does Jones, 'It's a lie,' says he, 'an' Hi'm goin' back to the leetle horspital!'

"Well 'e don't die a bit. At the end o' a week two natives shouldered his bed an' started for the coast. Hi an' five men went along to guard 'em. Five paces in the rear more natives sullenly wrestled with the heavy coffin. Our orders were to plant him decently wherever 'e died, an' we determined to do it. After we had marched a week the town came inter sight. By that time Jones was able to sit up an' take notice, but when 'e saw the town an' the leetle red roof o' the horspital 'e started to wave such a frantic welcome with his hand that a hemorrhage resulted. We ordered the two sullen natives to hustle to the front with their burden. But Jones rallied.

"'It's no use,' says he, gittin' his teeth. 'Ye can't bury me in this worn-out soil. If Hi don't reach the leetle horspital throw me overboard inter clean water.' An' we promised. 'E seemed to be sinkin' again, so we takes the shortest cut to the sea. When we got in view o' the docks we saw a vessel loadin' there. Jones peeked at it, then yelled an' sat bolt upright. 'It's the Koolah,' says he. 'Get me aboard, men; get me aboard! I'll be cured to-onct if ye'll only heave me up the gangway!'

"'What'll cure ye?' Hi queried.

"'Spite,' says Jones, mutterin' a curse.

"So we did. The chief engineer saw us comin' an' nearly had a stroke. But the fun o' all was to see them two sullen natives. They had hustled an' wrestled with that coffin all the way from up country, an' they were all fagged out. With a rich burst o' tropic oaths they cast it ont inter the water an' waved their maledictions at the ring o' expandin' ripples that marked its burial.

"'Was that for Jones?' asked a voice.

"Hi looked up to see Sam Rawlins starin' at him. Hi nodded.

"'It don't s'prise me,' 'e said slowly an' thoughtfully. ''E'd cheat anythink. 'E'd cheat the goats that'd feed over his grave! Hi guess Hi'll go an' lock up my terbacker,' says Sam Rawlins. An' he did it."

DOCTORS ADVISE MEDICATED AIR

It Cures Catarrh, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Throat Troubles, Hoarseness.

For diseases of the lungs, throat and nasal passages mountain air has always been deemed salutary because of its pureness and freedom from disease germs. The air of pine forests, laden with minute particles of volatile germ-destroying principles, has enjoyed an almost unexampled reputation in these diseases also.

A MARVELLOUS DISCOVERY.

After years of exhaustive study a chemist devised a means of supplying right at home a healing balsamic remedy that is even more effective in catarrhal diseases than the air of the pine woods. Of course, this remedy was copyrighted in every civilized country and was at once offered to the public under the name of "Catarrhozone." Its success has been phenomenal.

Just think of it! A healing, soothing substance capable of destroying these noxious organisms which excite and maintain disease. Capable, also, of allaying congestion and of stimulating the healing processes of nature, which are combined in that invaluable compound so well and so favorably known to the medical world as "Catarrhozone."

CATARRHOZONE CURES.

Catarrhozone is simply the concentrated qualities of the air of pine woods. If you breathe it you will derive more benefit in one hour than you could possibly get from the woods in a year.

This great advantage arises from the fact that, in addition to those healing emanations from pine, other ingredients distilled from the vegetable kingdom are so united as to give results that could not possibly be derived in the simple form in which nature supplies medicated air.

20,000 PHYSICIANS ENDORSE IT.

For all diseases of the nose, ear, throat, bronchial tubes and air passages—for catarrh in every form—cure is certain with Catarrhozone, which is not a nostrum, but a high-class scientific treatment. Large size, sufficient for two months' use (guaranteed), price $1.00; smaller size 50c, at all dealers or the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

OPERATION HER ONLY CHANCE

Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lindsay, Ont.—"I think it is no more than right for me to thank Mrs. Pinkham for what her kind advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. When I wrote to her some time ago I was a very sick woman, suffering from female troubles. I had inflammation of the female organs, and could not stand or walk any distance. At last I was confined to my bed, and the doctor said I would have to go through an operation, but this I refused to do. A friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now, after using three bottles of it, I feel like a new woman. I most heartily recommend this medicine to all women who suffer with female troubles. I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills and think they are fine."—Mrs. FRANK EMSLEY, Lindsay, Ontario.

We cannot understand why women will take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, without first trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion, and nervous prostration.

A Scriptural Explanation.

When William Pengilly was a sailor boy, weather bound on the coast of Devonshire, he had his earliest geological experience, and S. Baring-Gould, the author of "Cornish Characters and Strange Events," says he was wont to relate it as is printed below:

I received my first lesson in geology at Lyme Regis very soon after I had entered my teens. A laborer whom I was observing accidentally broke a large stone of blue lias and thus disclosed a fine ammonite—the first fossil I had ever seen or heard of.

"What's that?" I exclaimed.

"If you read your Bible you'd know what 'tis," said the workman, somewhat scornfully.

"I have read my Bible. But what has that to do with it?"

"In the Bible we're told there was once a flood that covered all the world. At that time all the rocks were mud, and the different things that were drowned were buried in it, and there's a snake that was buried that way. There are lots of 'em and other things besides in the rocks and stones hereabouts."

"A snake! But where's his head?"

"You must read the Bible, I tell 'ee, and then you'll find out why 'tis some of the snakes ain't got no heads. We're told there that the seed of the woman shall bruise the serpent's head; that's how 'tis."

The Department of State.

There is an ancient tale of a treaty between two Greek states by which one was to return to the other, as a condition of peace, the half of its captured navy. The implementing of this treaty was accomplished with the sawing of each trireme in two. Whether all the bows or all the sterns were given back does not come down to us in history. Some people probably think this might be done today. But diplomacy is as good as the national conscience.

The welfare of peoples rather than the ambition of rulers is the basis of the diplomacy of modern times. Mediaeval trickery has almost disappeared. What is wanted today is a good case for one's country and an able man to advocate it. It is very surprising, then, that there should linger as a heritage from the days gone forever the superficial and conventional idea that diplomacy is polite dishonesty. That the idea does linger in the minds of persons unfamiliar with the subject is fully shown by the absurd use of the word "diplomatically" as almost synonymous with "disingenuously" and the survival of all such canting and misleading dogmas as the remark that "a diplomat is an honest man sent to lie abroad for his country."—National Magazine.

Insects Have Thousands of Eyes.

The eyes of insects present several peculiarities. Often in the same individual we shall find two sets of eyes, the simple and the compound, these latter having a large number of minute hexagonal facets, each of which is in reality a cornea, and the marvel is that every single facet belongs to a distinct eye, with pupil, iris, lens, all complete. The number of these corneas varies very considerably. While the ant possesses fifty only, the ordinary housefly has 4,000, butterflies have no fewer than 17,000, and some beetles rejoice in as many as 25,000.—London Chronicle.

MOON WAS UNDER A CLOUD.

An Incident of the Theater in the Earlier Days.

Early in the season of 1856-7, said J. M. Barron, the veteran actor, we were in Petersburg, Va., at old Phoenix hall. The business was such that nightly long rows of nile green seats could be seen from the stage.

In those good old times the utility people did not get more than $200 a week. The leading people received due bills on the next good house. We had in the utility contingent a Ute named Moon, and a bright Moon he was, but he was so lazy his shadow would not follow him. He was often late. The star was Charles Couldock, and those old timers who can yet sit up on an even keel may remember that C. C. could do cuss poetry in four colors when riled, even if it were not in his contract.

We were rehearsing "The Willow Copse," and Moon's cue came, but no Moon shone up. The call boy started with a shout, "Mr. Moon!"

The prompter called, "Mr. Moon!"

Three Utes away up stage joined in, "Mr. Moon, this is you; stage is waiting."

No Moon.

Couldock began to pace from tormenter doors to L. 4 E. No Moon.

Finally Couldock bawled out: "Where is that Moon—that utility idiot? Always late and doesn't know his cues when he hears them."

No Moon yet. It appeared that Mistress Moon had presented the old man with a fine daughter—a new Moon. The father Moon went out to celebrate with the boys and later on was wheelbarrowed home a full Moon.

PLAYING THE PIANO.

Rubinstein's Way as a Teacher With His Pupils.

"Once I played a Liszt rhapsody pretty badly. After a few moments he said, 'The way you played this piece would be all right for auntie or mamma.' Then, rising and coming toward me, he would say, 'Now let us see how we play such things.' Then I would begin all over again, but hardly had I played a few measures when he would interrupt and say:

"'Did you start? I thought I hadn't heard right.'

"'Yes, master, I certainly did.' I would reply.

"'Oh,' he would say vaguely, 'I did not notice.'

"'How do you mean?' I would ask.

"'I mean this,' he would answer: 'Before your fingers touch the keys you must begin the piece mentally—that is, you must have settled in your mind the tempo, the manner of touch and, above all, the attack of the first notes before your actual playing begins.'

"On another occasion I asked him for the fingering of a rather complex passage.

"'Play it with your nose,' he replied, 'but make it sound well.'

"Once Rubinstein said:

"'Do you know why piano playing is so difficult? Because it is prone to be either affected or else afflicted with mannerisms, and when these two pitfalls are luckily avoided then it is liable to be—dry! The truth lies between those three mischiefs.'"—"Hofmann's Piano Player."

Taking From the Lake.

Of all the feats of skill, strength or legerdemain accounted impossible by the ancients, sweeping back the sea with a broom was well up in the lead. Persons who tried it came away discouraged after the first few whisks. Behold the modern triumph! Chicago is going to sweep back the sea with its street sweepings and build a mile a year of boulevard over the spot where now play the mad, untamed waves. It is like dropping a nickel into the slot and getting a driveway. At that rate in twenty-five years the lake front should run wholly to driveway, and the city could begin at once to double track it. Street sweepings may be lowly material for pavements, but they beat good intentions at that.

A Constitutional Monarch.

Recipe for making a constitutional monarch: Take a few thousand troops, a good general and ten or eleven machine guns. Turn the latter rapidly until a white flag appears out of the palace window. Sprinkle over the quivering ruler a few threats of what will happen to him if he isn't good. Then, when you take him out, the chances are that you will find a nice, tender, constitutional monarch fit to grace any table.—Syracuse Herald.

Nervous, Tired, Anxious, Thin

What causes nervous collapse? Most people say worry, anxiety, brooding, but these are simply the outcomes of a lowered physical condition. When strong we throw them off, but when run down they hold us if by chains.

The true cause of nervous collapse is in the blood. When thin and watery it contains no nourishment for the nerves, no support for the muscles—result is collapse.

The truest food for the nerves is the nourishing blood that Ferrozone forms. Ferrozone builds up the nervous and depressed, not by stimulation, but by the surer way of adding flesh, blood and sinew. The whole system is vitalized; the nerves are fortified—you can sleep, work hard, and be free from brooding anxiety.

FERROZONE Makes Health

No health winner so certain as Ferrozone, no nerve strengthener more potent, no system tonic so well adapted to the wants of the rundown, nervous, or sleepless. Ferrozone is certain to cure if you give it a chance. 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50 at all dealers.

NORTH WOODS INDIANS.

Natives Who Helped the Whites Across the Upper Wilderness.

It was the North woods Indians who led the white race across the upper wilderness trails and helped that race to get and to hold its footing there. As the lower tribes, such as the Iroquois, were allies of Great Britain in war, so the people north of the great lakes were the allies of that country in industry. Without the sturdy voyagers of the north, half Indian at least, the fur trade could not have been.

If you read the story of Sir George Simpson, of David Thompson, of Sir Alexander Mackenzie, of Harmon, of Hearne, of Alexander Henry the younger—indeed, of any of the early or late explorers of Hudson bay or the old Nor'west company—always you will find that the real man behind the pack and paddle was this northern native. Perhaps he was not full blood. Indeed, for the most part the typical voyager was not. From the time of Groyselon du L'hut on down, wild white blood has merged with wild red blood.

The first fur traders on both sides our territorial line got on very well, for there was much marriage according to the laws of the aboriginal world, and the tendency was for the two races to dwell in harmony. It was firewater, cows and plows that broke up the game.—Emerson Hough in Recreation.

PAID THE DEBT.

The Captain Settled the Account Before His Vessel Sailed.

In Burnaby's "Travels in America in 1750," a book quite popular during the latter part of the eighteenth century, the following incident is related:

The captain of a British man-of-war cruising off the Massachusetts coast left his wife in Boston. On one of his visits to port she came down to the wharf to meet him, and she was saluted as a true and loving sailor's wife deserved. This violation of law was at once reported, and the captain was brought before the magistrate and sentenced to be publicly whipped. There was no getting out of it, and the captain submitted quite gracefully.

Just before the departure of his ship he gave an elaborate entertainment, to which all of the magistrates were invited. After the festivities were over and every one had shaken hands with the captain and was going over the side the magistrates were seized by the arm and stripped to the waist. Each one was led to the gangway, where a vigorous boatswain gave him thirty-nine lashes on the bare back and then hustled him over into a boat amid the cheers of the whole ship's company.

How Tobacco Got Its Name.

The origin of the word tobacco is not definitely settled. Oviedo, one of the early Spanish chroniclers, says it was named after a Y shaped instrument which was commonly used as a snuffing tube. The two prongs were placed in the nose, and fumes of the powdered leaf were inhaled. This was called "tobaco," which was the name given to the plant. On the contrary, one of the islands of the West Indies is said to have furnished the name. It is asserted that tobacco was first taken into Spain in 1558 by Fernandez, a physician, who had been sent by Philip II. of Spain to investigate the products of Mexico. It next reached Portugal, was soon introduced into France by the French ambassador, Jean Nicot, and sent to the Portuguese court in 1559. When he returned to his home he presented some of the seed and leaves to Queen Catherine de' Medici, and the scientific name of the plant was thereafter designated as "nicotine" in his honor.

Balancing an Egg.

All the world knows how Columbus on a historic occasion made an egg stand on end. After many learned theories had been advanced on balancing the egg he set the egg on end by, of course, mashing down hard enough to form a base, but the problem is capable of still another solution. It is an easy matter to set an egg on a plate, for instance, if you know how. The trick is impossible until the egg has been boiled in an upright position. The position of the hardened yoke at the end of the shell lowers the center of gravity until the sphere can be spun or even balanced with ease.

Weight of Brain.

The average weight of the human brain is forty-nine and a half ounces avoirdupois for males and forty-four ounces for females. In males the minimum weight is about thirty-four ounces and the maximum sixty-five ounces. In females the minimum weight is thirty-one ounces and the maximum fifty-six. In newborn infants the brain weighs about 11.65 ounces for the male and ten ounces for the female.

A Beneficent Rule.

"So you are ninety-four years old! To what do you attribute your long life?"

"A good many things have contributed to it, the most important, I think, being the care which I have always taken not to get into a fight with a bigger man than myself."—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Old Habit.

Towne—I suppose you have heard that old Lawyer Sharpe is lying at the point of death? Browne—No. Well, well, the ruling passion strong in death, eh?—Philadelphia Press.

How poor are they that have no patience!—Shakespeare.

A Natural Conclusion.

"Did that fat man fight when they arrested him?"

"Well, naturally he made a stout resistance."—Baltimore American.

Here is a New Kind of Soap

You are now using some soap and naturally think it is good. But here is a kind that is different from any you know—one that has taken us 43 years to perfect.

Try one cake and compare it with what you now use. We welcome such a test as this for we know in advance the result. You will never go back to the other kind. Here is a soap made from vegetable oil pure enough to use on your table. We pay far more for this in France than we might pay. So we get only the best.

Cocoanut oil from the isle of Ceylon is brought over 12,000 miles and mixed with the olive oil. Then both are boiled doubly long.

After this we mill them by our own special process. We have scoured the best factories of England, France and Austria for almost half a century to perfect this process. We have combined the best ideas of foreign lands with our own improvements to attain perfection.

When milled, the soap falls like flakes of snow into enormous bins and is then crushed under a weight of 30 tons to press out the moisture. Then it passes through granite rollers and comes out in miles of silky ribbon.

After being dried eight times it is pressed into cakes and is simply perfect soap. It lathers into a rich creamy foam and wears as thin as a wafer. It leaves the skin rosy and pink like an infant's. So we call it Infants' Delight.

The perfume is dainty and pure—it suggests only the delicate scent of the roses. Use one cake today and see what a wonderful difference there can be in soap.

10 Cents a Cake At All Dealers

How to Shampoo

Place a pint of warm water on the stove and shave up a cake of Infants' Delight. Let it simmer until the soap is dissolved. Then pour into a wide jar to cool into jelly. Clean the hair with a brush, wet it with warm water, and rub the soap jelly into the scalp thoroughly. Rinse off the thick lather and dry the hair by rubbing and fanning with a towel. This will leave the hair soft, shiny and lustrous.

HOW HE LOST OUT.

The Mistake of an Ex-Punster and His Rich Aunts.

He was one of those comic paper funny chaps, not because he was lost to all sense of shame, but because he needed the money.

"No," he said in reply to the query of an acquaintance, "I never make puns any more. The last one I got off cost me a cool $50,000."

"How was that?" queried the other.

"Shortly after my marriage," said the ex-punster, "a couple of my aunts, who were very fat, not very fair and considerable over forty, came to visit us for a few days—so I learned afterward. Well, my wife met me at the door that evening upon my return home and put me wise to their presence, so I liked for the parlor and, making a bow that would have turned Chesterfield pea green with envy, I announced that it afforded me great pleasure to make my obeisance to my obese aunts. That settled it. They were passengers on the first homeward bound train."

"And the $50,000?" queried the one man audience.

"That's where the irony flow is turned on," rejoined the humorous party. "A year later they got mixed up in an earthquake, and when their wills were read it was found that I, their only living relative, had been disinherited, and the $50,000 went to endow a home for friendless cats."—Chicago News.

A GLANCE INTO THE FALL FASHIONS—By Marion Morris

First—Dress of old rose foulard figured and bordered in delicate colors; large hat braided with ostrich plumes.

Second—White dress trimmed with rows of lace. The yoke is embroidered in delft blue. This dress is most simple and girlish. The hat is trimmed with soft silk scarf held in place by garlands of tiny roses.

Third—Dress of white trimmed with cut work embroidery. The yoke and sleeves are of linen corded.

Fourth—Front of No. 1. The yoke is of gold net over chiffon, the shade of gown, while the collar is of old rose satin, as are the little bows on yoke and sleeves. Hat with velvet band and black plumes.

Fifth—Back of No. 3 shows embroidery at sides of skirt, corded back and large linen buttons. Hat trimmed with white and purple lilacs held in place by a lilac ribbon carried across the crown.

As the Summer wanes and Autumn draws near, the question of the waistline becomes more important and more engrossing to the mind feminine.

To have a "figger," or not to have a "figger?" To fly from the extreme of the robe Empire with its waistline tucked up under its arms to the greater extreme of the gown of the Middle Ages, with a waistline unnaturally indicated somewhere about the knees?

Or, it's a very knotty question and one which mere man would never venture to tackle. But let me whisper—lovely woman will settle the question quite to her own sweet will and will wear her waistline anywhere she pleases, from her twinkling toes to her dainty chin!

The women who have gone in for the Moyen Age effect during the Summer have done so with little discretion and surely with no due study of their mirror.

It requires a figure, most youthful, svelte and straight, to successfully wear the trying long lines of this type of costume.

But I am sure that you can call to mind some of the silhouettes that have distressed our eyes during the hot weather. The too, too fat and the too, too lean have about equally divided the honors of being the most appalling spectacle in these long-waisted frocks.

The woman who had a figure painfully suggestive of the wearing of that old-time monstrosity, the bustle, with a dip-in at the waist above, certainly made a mistake when she insisted on having her Middle Age costume carefully pulled and fitted in to the lines of her figure.

But who can deny that the woman with the figure of telegraph pole outline lacked just as much good judgment when she let her gown hang straight and flopping, until it joined the kilted flounce somewhere below her knees—and then it flopped some more!

Truly one needs to be very sure of one's figure and surer of one's dressmaker before ordering a moyen age gown.

Short-waisted effects have been done to death and while charming and graceful worn with trailing skirts were always unsuitable in conjunction with short skirts and worn on the streets.

Therefore is it not logical to hope that at last we may arrive at the happy medium that again the natural waistline may be allowed to make its appearance?

For some time past the leading designers and importers have been displaying gowns with the waistline indicated at its normal position.

But now they come boldly forth and show us frocks of great loveliness and charm with trim waistlines accentuated by undisguised girdles and belts. Not only are the waistlines there, but perceptibly less in circumference.

Let us hope that this will not lead to the old horror of the sixteen-inch waist. In the meantime we must take what the gods—or the modistes—provide and not have grim foreboding for the future.

The air is filled with fashions and rumors of fashions. To pannier or not to pannier is another burning question of the horror.

No, it's not a new game like ping-pong or diabolo—it's merely the adjustment of drapery, more or less skillfully (this usually turns on the important question of how much you can afford to pay your dressmaker), over the feminine hips.

French dressmakers have been for some time tentatively using draperies of filmy stuffs—chiffons and nets—in long sweeping lines from over either hip. These were put on with quite a noticeable amount of fulness, usually of long breadths of material taken down to the hem of the skirt, turned there in graceful folds and brought up again to the waist line.

Frequently these draperies suggested distinctly the old-time draped dresses of the Watteau period, opening over an elaborate petticoat; always they had a picturesque and old-world air. They were used principally on evening gowns, but Autumn models of afternoon and even walking dresses have suggestions of this draping effect.

Carried out to any elaborate extent, this idea of panniers will eliminate the necessity for the hipless figure and will again bring the small waist into vogue.

But lovely and fickle woman—will she? Won't she? Time alone can tell.

In flat contradiction to this amplification of skirt draperies is the rumor that reaches us via Paris that women there are refusing to be parted from their clinging, unadorned skirts.

This fashion of sweeping simplicity of line below the waist, the skirt falling in apparently unstudied but distinctively graceful lines, has been a charming one.

This, of course, refers to the woman who has sufficient good taste not to wear gowns too completely clinging. Unfortunately there are always extremists, in fashion as in all else, who do their best—or worst—to spoil a really good effect.

Sleeves, too, are coming in for a good share of the guessing and speculation which is now raging wherever women who give any thought to their attire, foregather.

The old-fashioned leg o' mutton and puffed sleeve are again said to be winning their way into favor.

The elaborate sleeves which have adorned this Summer's gowns have certainly looked like a step in this direction. Although we again have the extreme of the perfectly plain and tight-fitting little elbow sleeves, possibly ending in picturesque elbow frills, which are the natural accompaniment to the kilted skirt, with pannier overskirt.

Scarfs of chiffon and lace, which have added successfully vivid notes of color and telling lines to many Summer costumes, will remain in high favor during the Winter. They are too distinctively feminine and charming, whether worn as an accessory or as part of the dress to be lightly discarded.

The scarfs made of chiffon, wide and flat, and trimmed with marabout tinted to match the chiffon, will be worn thrown around the shoulders or with ends hanging over the arms in front and dragging low in the back.

As Winter approaches marabout will be discarded for strips of fur put onto the chiffon in even stripes of chiffon and of fur, running lengthwise.

A novelty of the Winter will be fur dyed to match the chiffon on which it is used. Thus a blue chiffon scarf will be formed of stripe of the blue diaphanous material alternating with corresponding stripe of fur, or a violet scarf will be striped with violet fur.

Sounds rather ghastly, doesn't it? Like a purple rose or a green carnation. But anything for novelty or sensation. Of course, only smooth, close-clipped furs are available for this dyeing, and ermine and rabbit skin are most frequently used.

The trimming of scarfs made of lengths of material of which the gown is made, laid carefully around the figure, seen on a few imported dresses of silk this Summer are here again on the Autumn models.

Only materials supple and pliable are susceptible to this use, but when the right kind of material is used and the draping is done by an artistic hand the result is all that can be desired.

Several dresses of walking length seen lately depended entirely on this scarf-draping for their original effect.

One gown had two breadths of silk folded into precise little folds, forming the scarf. This started at the waist line in the back, ran over either shoulder, not, however, extending even an inch over the sleeves, crossed at the waist line in broad, flat lines and fell below either hip, where it was taken around to the back again and knotted low on the skirt.

This illustrates excellently the difference between the tendency of scarfs this year and last.

Gone is the nerve and audacity of the scarf-draping of last Winter, which if it was sometimes rather shocking was always interesting. In its place we now have square lines with a tendency to primness which is not at all alluring.

Is it possible that we are returning to conservatism and demureness in dress?

That would be swinging the pendulum to the other extreme with a vengeance.

But the meek little motoring bonnets and Quaker-like cloaks which modish girls have been wearing this Summer point the finger in that direction and the new flat banding of the hair, the suppression of all coquettish puffs and waves seems like a still further indication.

Fichus, too, suggestive of sedate femininity, are seen on many of the new gowns. Perhaps, after all, this Winter we shall all be playing the part of demure and nun-like simplicity.

Do You Wear Jet Earrings?

The fancy for wearing jet earrings that attacked certain fashionables last Winter has become woefully "common" in every sense of the term. These eccentric and loud ear adornments, which were none too refined even in a ball room, are now seen in shops, elevators, on crowded trains, even in church.

A word of caution is necessary in the wearing of any kind of jet jewelry. It is apt to be conspicuous, particularly when used with white or light colors. The same rule applies to trimming white frocks with jet—a little of it is effective; a lot, cheap and ordinary looking.

GOING FOR THE DOCTOR.

And Also the Reason Why He Was After the Medical Man.

"Yes, your honor," said the man who had been arrested for driving his automobile at an illegal rate of speed, "I admit that I was running thirty miles an hour, but I was going for the doctor."

"Oh, you were going for the doctor, eh? Can you offer any proof to substantiate that statement?"

"Yes. "I can bring in the doctor himself as a witness, if necessary."

"Um! That ought to make a difference. The law is explicit, but we must grant that there may be extenuating circumstances. There have been times when the court would have been glad to run thirty miles an hour if the court could have done so. Certainly a man should not be held too strictly to the provisions of the law if he happens to violate it for the purpose of trying to save a life. The court is very strongly inclined to dismiss the case. Did you explain to the officer who arrested you that you were going for the doctor?"

"Yes, your honor."

"Officer, what have you to say?"

"Well, your honor, I asked him, when he said he was going for the doctor, what he was going for the doctor for."

"Yes. That was very sensible. What was he going for the doctor for?"

"For to take the doctor and two young ladies for a ride, as I found out unbeknownst to him."

"Thirty dollars and costs."

A COLLECTOR'S RUSE.

The Way He Secured a Rare Piece of Dresden Ware.

We should cultivate our fancy for old china as did the late Mr. Wertheimer, the art dealer, concerning whom there is a story that every bargain hunter should take to heart.

Wertheimer was one day passing through Mayfair when he noticed a sale about to take place of the "furniture and household effects of a deceased nobleman." He walked through the rooms where dealers were critically examining choice specimens of undoubtedly genuine Chippendale and Sheraton, interspersed among early Victorian furniture, his eyes apparently dwelling on nothing. But when the sale was about to commence he asked the auctioneer if he would take £5,000 for everything in the house.

The offer was accepted. "Now you can resell everything for me," said Mr. Wertheimer, "except this," and he took down from the mantelpiece a dirty ornament some nine inches high and put it into his pocket. It was a piece of the rarest Dresden, bearing the coveted mark of the wand of Aesculapius, which he afterward sold for £10,000.

How the dealers metaphorically kicked themselves for overlooking it and how they bid against one another in the chance of securing a similar treasure is still a tradition in Bond street.—London Chronicle.

She Makes a Suggestion.

"How beautiful and clean the horizon looks," said Polly as on the second day out she came up on deck and threw herself down in the steamer chair beside me.

"Well it ought to be," said I, looking up from my book. "The captain has been sweeping it with his glass for the past six hours."

"That reminds me," said Polly, turning two very grave brown eyes upon me. "Did you remember to bring that vacuum cleaner along with you, as I suggested?"

"No," said I unwarily. "I remembered to forget it, however. What on earth does anybody want with a vacuum cleaner at sea?"

"It was only for you, dear," said Polly. "I thought you would like to have your brains massaged with it occasionally."—New York Times.

The Minister's Tools.

No workman can do good work without sufficient tools. Books are the minister's tools. He must have them if he is to serve his people well. Yet many a minister's salary is so small that he is unable to provide the commonest necessities for his family and have enough left to supply himself with needed books. The church that makes it impossible for its pastor to buy books, harms itself even more than it harms the minister.—Cumberland Presbyterian.

DIAMOND HEAD.

Uncle Sam's Great Volcano Fortress in the Pacific Ocean.

Since England instituted her vast and mysterious system of defenses in the great rock of Gibraltar the world has witnessed no project of military fortification so important as that which has been undertaken by the United States in the island of Oahu of the Hawaiian group.

In the belief that the Pacific ocean is to be the theater of the next great international struggle for commercial and territorial control, the American government has entered upon a project which is destined to give it an invincible base and outpost in midocean at Hawaii. To that end it has begun to fortify what is known as Diamond head, which is a vast extinct volcano in Oahu, on which Honolulu is built, and when the works are completed the place will be justly entitled to be called "the Gibraltar of the Pacific."

Situated as it is at the lower extremity of the island, with its northern slope forming part of the city of Honolulu, says Edward P. Irwin in the World Today, Diamond head commands the seaward approach from all directions to the city, and the fire of its guns, combined with the cross fire of the Pearl harbor fortifications seven miles away on the other side of Honolulu, is sufficient to render the town safe from attack.

The crater itself is comparatively shallow, being only a couple of hundred feet deep. But the walls are steep and rugged, and it would be practically impossible for a ship at sea to drop a shell into the cavity. This is being taken advantage of to form a safe shelter for the gunners who are to man the battery.

The guns themselves, eight 12-inch mortars of the newest and most powerful type, are not located in the crater itself, but are mounted on the Leahi slope, toward Kaimuki, behind the mountain. Should there be occasion to use them in time of war the gunners would not see the vessel at which they were firing, but would direct their aim according to the telephoned instructions of the range finders stationed at various points on the circumference of the crater's rim.

Such is modern gunnery, a matter of mathematics rather than of accuracy of vision. But to such a degree of perfection has the modern science of gunnery attained that the crews of the Diamond head battery would be able to drop on to the deck of a battleship miles distant and completely out of their range of vision a projectile which would sink the vessel before ever it had a chance to get close enough to the island to use its own less powerful guns.

Through the thick rock walls of the volcano's crater grimy workmen, under the direction of United States military engineers, are driving a tunnel. This is to form a passageway to and from the batteries for the officers and range finders and, should occasion ever arise, for the crews of the mortar battery.

The sides of the volcano are very steep and cannot be scaled except in a few places where narrow paths lead up the precipitous heights. A few riflemen and machine guns could easily defend these passes against a force many times their number.

About the only way the volcanic fortress could be captured would be by starving the defenders out. Water would be the most difficult thing for a defending force to obtain, but it will be no insuperable task to provide a plentiful supply.

When this is finished Hawaii will have the most novel and at the same time one of the strongest fortresses in the world—a fortified volcano.

A Simple Trick.

Here is a magician with a new trick. He takes a duck from under a man's coat collar. Now, don't say that you have seen that done a hundred times. It was a rabbit that you saw taken from under a man's coat collar. This is a duck. It was time for a variation to be introduced in the rabbit trick. It be introduced in the rabbit trick. It is just as easy to do it with a duck as with a rabbit and a little funnier, because the duck can kick as hard as the rabbit and can also quack, which no rabbit can do, no matter how well trained it is. The explanation of the trick is simple. The magician simply does it so quickly that you cannot see how he does it. Nothing easier. Any one who doubts it can get a duck and try it.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Dear and Cheap Meat.

According to Health Commissioner Ritchie of Boston, if meat eaters are looking for nutriment only they might just as well buy the cheaper cuts as the more expensive ones. "The value of different foodstuffs," says Mr. Ritchie, "is largely a question of amount of heat units they contain. According to good authorities, one-half the weight of beef, the most nutritive kind of meat, is water. About 10 per cent is waste. The remainder is fats and proteids. There is no difference between the nutritive values of the better or cheaper grades of beef. The amount of fats and proteids contained in each is about the same."

What Are They Worth?

Are the eyes worth at least five hundred dollars per year to any man, woman or child. You would spend five dollars per year upon them, if necessary, would you not? How much do they cost you? How much do you spend on your feet, your hats, your teeth, etc. Some wait until they must see about their eyes and would give hundreds of dollars but find it too late. Many parents bring their children that we may examine their eyes and see whether or not they need glasses. In childhood is the time to both remedy and prevent eye troubles. Again we ask what are your eyes worth to you and what to the child? We devote exclusive attention to the eyeglasses and artificial eyes.

150,000 at Toronto Fair.

Toronto, September 7.—The exhibition management were careful not to hazard a guess as to the numerical strength of the great army which invaded the Exhibition grounds yesterday, but the public made up for official silence by busily conjecturing all day long on the subject. The surmises covered a wide range, but the consensus of opinion among the more expert calculators was that the attendance was around the 150,000 mark.

That all the former records would be ruthlessly smashed to atoms was apparent early in the day. The disagreeable weather of Saturday, which kept thousands away, made it certain that with reasonably promising skies the human tide flowing toward Dufferin street would be greater than last year, when the Saturday of the opening week was favored with the best of conditions. Even without this circumstance the exhibition's natural growth would have guaranteed a new high record; as it was, a height was attained which will be difficult to surpass in 1910.

Boy Shot In the Thigh.

Toronto, Sept. 7.—Claude Brownscombe, aged 12, son of Albert P. Brownscombe, of 2 Kensington avenue, was shot in the thigh while out near the Humber River yesterday afternoon.

A party of about a dozen boys went into the bush to spend the day. They took with them a 22-calibre rifle. Several of the older boys left the rifle standing against a tree, and one of the smaller boys picked it up. He tried to eject the shell, but operated the wrong mechanism, namely, the trigger. The cartridge exploded and the bullet lodged in Claude's thigh.

He was taken to Grace Hospital, where the x-rays will be put on him and the bullet extracted. It is not thought to be a serious wound.

Fierce Lion Gentle With Innocent Tot

Pittsburg, Sept. 7.—Conah, the most feared lion at the Highland Park zoo caused wild excitement when Lena Meik, three-year-old, placed her hand in the savage monster's cage and he jumped toward the baby. Women screamed and keepers stood stupefied for an instant when they say the lion affectionately licking and pawing the hand of the little girl.

The animal several years ago killed three of his guards and later a woman.

"Ex." Visitor Run Down.

Toronto, Sept. 7.—Mrs. Sarah Gamble of Paris, Ont., an Exhibition visitor, was run down by a rig at College and Terauley streets at 4.30 yesterday afternoon and received a scalp wound.

She alighted from a car and walked in front of the rig, which was going at a fair rate of speed. She was taken to St. Michael's Hospital in the police ambulance.

Ship's Crew Massacred.

Sydney, Australia, Sept. 7.—The captain and crew of the French schooner Qualite, engaged in recruiting laborers, have been murdered by natives of Malloculo Island in the New Hebrides. The vessel was driven ashore by a storm.

Shot Wife For Burglar.

Charleston, S.C., Sept. 7.—Mistaking her for a burglar, William A. Avent, a prominent planter of Georgetown County, Sunday night shot and killed Mrs. C. C. Bigham, who had accompanied her husband, a physician of Harpers, a small town in the same county, on a professional visit to Avant's home, "Sunnyside" plantation; on Murrel's Inlet.

Dr. Bigham and Mr. Avant were sitting on the front porch of Avant's home after supper when they saw in the darkness a figure pass the house and go towards a nearby creek. Not being answered when they hailed, they got a shot gun and followed. They saw the figure apparently crouch near the creek bank and hearing no reply when they called, Avant asked Dr. Bigham what he should do.

"Shoot it," said Bigham, it is alleged, and Avant fired both barrels at close range. Running back to the house they secured a light and returned to the creek bank to find Mrs. Bigham stretched there dead, the contents of both barrels having taken effect in her back.

Keen Railway Rivalry.

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 7.—Engineering parties, representing the Canadian Northern and the Grand Trunk Pacific, are engaged in a neck and neck race to locate their respective routes in the vicinity of the summit, between North Thompson and Fraser River, northern British Columbia. Conditions for securing the minimum grade were found to be excellent.

The elevation at the summit is only 2,886 feet. The Canadian Pacific is very active on the lower Fraser River, having connected the line between Lytton and Yale, comprising the famous canyon. Another party is busy running location along north Thompson between Lytton and Kamloops. The Grand Trunk Pacific has so far done no work on this side of Kamloops.

It is expected that the end of the war will see the Canadian Northern line located between Edmonton and Vancouver, with every likelihood of construction work being started early in the spring.

Tried to Wreck Train.

Springfield, O., Sept. 7.—By being delayed at Washington Court House, a northbound excursion train returning from Jackson to Lima on the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railroad, was probably prevented from being wrecked at Royal Siding, five miles north of here Sunday night. Unidentified persons placed ten ties, a large post and a huge boulder across the tracks. An engineer on a southbound train discovered the obstruction and removed it.

Lynched For Brother's Crime.

Clarksdale, Miss., Sept. 7.—Unable to get their hands upon a negro, McDaniels, who is alleged to have shot and killed a policeman in a raid on a crap game on Saturday night, and who was captured by a posse at Duncan, Miss., a mob of hundreds of citizens caught McDaniel's brother, Hiram, at midnight and lynched him, stringing him up to a telegraph pole on the spot where young Marshall fell dead after being shot.

Murdered Man Identified.

Cobourg, Sept. 7.—The body found on the railway track near Grafton on Sunday has been identified as that of Alex. Bunyon, who was for two weeks an employe of the Provincial Steel Co. of Cobourg. He left Saturday.

Provincial Detective Miller arrived yesterday and, due to his work, a vagrant, who had been arrested on principle, was identified as George Thornley, who escaped from Toronto Asylum several days ago. There are some stains on his clothing which may or may not be from blood. He was remanded until next Monday on the vagrancy charge. Detective Miller, in examining the man's apparel, concluded that he had been an inmate of some institution, and as he was plainly insane, the detective communicated with Supt. Clark of the asylum, and identified the man.

That Bunyon was not killed for robbery is evident as $8 was found in his pocket. A man, said to have been in his company lately will be hunted up.

Coroner Latta of Colborne opened an inquest yesterday which will be resumed next Monday. Meantime a post mortem will be performed to make certain that death was due to a bullet wound. There are some bruises on the man's forehead, and his clothing was still wet with blood when he was found.

Hogs.

Select hogs were quoted at $8.25 per cwt., fed and watered, and $8, f.o.b., cars at country points.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Sept. 6.—(Special.)—The feature of the local export live stock trade during the past week has been the improved demand for ocean freight from Canadian shippers of ranch cattle, owing to the improvement in prices, and in consequence a more active business has been done. All the space for this week to all ports is about booked up, and Liverpool freight for the balance of the month has been in demand, consequently it is now somewhat scarce. The Glasgow space for September is also well booked up. The rate for this week is 25s per head, but for the balance of the month it has been reduced 2s 6d per head, to 22s 6d. Liverpool has been let for this week at 22s 6d to 25s per head, and for the remainder of the month it will be the same as Glasgow. A fair volume of business has been done in London space at 25s to 30s. The Manchester boat for this week has been let at 30s, and it is offering for the balance of the month at the same figure.

At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Sept. 4 were 2050 cattle, 1500 sheep and lambs, 1725 hogs and 675 calves, while the offerings on the market this morning for sale amounted to 1225 cattle, 1023 sheep and lambs, 875 hogs and 400 calves. Altho the supply of cattle was somewhat larger than a week ago, a stronger feeling developed in the market, and prices were fully ¼c per pound higher. The gathering of local butchers was large and there were also some outside buyers and exporters present.

Cable advices from Liverpool on Ontario and ranch cattle were stronger, and prices showed an advance of ¼c per lb. as compared with last week, sales of the former being made at 13c to 13½c, and the latter at 11⅞c to 12⅛c per pound. At these figures exporters stated that they would make some money, and, therefore, they showed a disposition to operate a little more freely here this morning, and several loads were taken at 5⅛c per lb. Choice steers sold at 5c to 6¼c; good at 4⅝c to 4¾c; fair at 4c to 4¼c; medium at 3½c to 3⅝c; common at 3⅛c to 3¼c; inferior bulls at 2¾c to 2⅞c; good bulls at 3¼c to 4c, and canners at 1¼c to 1½c per lb.

Owing to the continued small supplies of hogs coming forward, and the keen demand for the same from packers and dealers, the undertone to the market continues strong, and prices have secured a further advance of 25c per 100 pounds since last Wednesday, making a net rise of 40c to 50c since this day week, and 60c to 75c since the 23rd of August; but the indications are that at present prices supplies will come forward more freely, if they are in the country. An active trade was done to-day, with sales of selected lots at $9 to $9.25 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars. Cable advices from Liverpool and London on Canadian bacon Saturday were very strong, and noted a further advance in prices of 2s to 5s per cwt.

There was a firmer undertone to the market for sheep and lambs on account of the increased demand for local consumption, and prices show an advance of ½c to ¾c per lb., as compared with those realized last Wednesday, but they are unchanged from a week ago. Supplies were larger than they have been of late, and an active trade was done. Sheep sold at 4c, and lambs at 6c per pound. The offerings of calves were fair for the season of the year which met with a good demand at prices ranging from $3 to $15 each, as to size and quality.

LABOUR DAY WAS MARRED BY A FATAL ACCIDENT

CLARENCE E. HICKS PASSES AWAY IN FARM HOUSE SEVEN HOURS AFTER BEING ACCIDENTALLY SHOT IN WOODS

Was Shooting in Tully's Wood, West of Jackson's Park, With His Brother-in-Law, Mr. C. Chapman----Gun Was Discharged in Strange and Inexplicable Manner.

BLED TO DEATH FROM WOUND IN LEFT THIGH

Clarence Hicks, aged 29, sone of Mr. Lorne Hicks, 30 Park street, was accidentally shot in the left thigh yesterday afternoon at 3:50 o'clock by his brother-in-law, Mr. Clifford B. Chapman, who resides at the corner of Park and Romaine street, while they were spending the afternoon with their guns in Tully's woods about two miles from the city on the road running west from Jackson's Park, and after losing a large quantity of blood by an important vein being severed he passed away at 11 o'clock last night at the home of Mr. John Tully, to which he had been carried.

The very sad occurrence was surrounded with circumstances which make it more distressing. In the morning Clarence was to have accompanied the Park St. Baptist Choir and teachers on their annual outing to Chemong Park, but for some reason could not go in the busses that conveyed the party. However, when they arrived at the Park, he was there before them, having wheeled out. He remained until noon enjoying the sports and games and was the catcher on the side of which Rev. Mr. Riddiford was pitching. Having promised his brother-in-law to spend the afternoon with him, Clarence returned to Peterborough and about two o'clock they started out together each carrying a gun.

How It Happened

They strolled past Jackson's Park and entered what is known as Tully's woods on the road running west from he south gate of the park. It is located between the residences of Mr. Tully and Mr. Moore. Chapman saw a squirrel which he cautiously and in an undertone told Clarence he was going to try a shot at. Hicks was standing a few yards away and to the left and while Chapman was taking aim he also saw something probably another squirrel and called to his friend to wait a moment. Chapman lowered his gun and turned slightly towards the left to look in the direction in which Hicks was peering. At that instant Chapman's gun was exploded in a manner that is altogether inexplicable.

Wounded and Alone

Hicks had been standing with one foot forward and the charge of small shot entered the outer side of his left thigh lodging in the fleshy part. The affair had happened so unexpectedly and for the moment Mr. Chapman scarcely realized that his friend had been shot. The wound bled profusely and the amateuish efforts to stop it were unavailing. Doing all he could to relieve Hicks, Chapman started out to get help. He ran about a mile before he reached the home of Mr. Tully only to find no men here. He had to continue on another half mile to the Campbell farm, where a threshing "bee" was at its height. He quickly stated his mission and led a relief party back to the woods where Clarence had lain alone in his pain, his life blood slowly ebbing and staining the grass on which he was lying. He was taken to Mr. Tully's home and Drs. Scott and Greer were called.

Everything possible was done for the injured man but he passed away at 11 o'clock, seven hours after the accident.

When It Happened

A short time before the affair occurred Chapman had asked Hicks the time. Clarence looked at his watch and replied that is was fifteen minutes to four.

"We can hang around another fifteen minutes," Chapman had replied. "And then be able to get home in good time." Five minutes could scarcely have passed before the gun exploded. An hour elapsed before Clarence was received at Tully's house and it was six o'clock before a doctor arrived to attend him.

The affair was hardly known until this morning and was so unexpected that it could scarcely be believed at first. The family have the sympathy of the entire community in this their first bereavement.

The Doctor's Story

Dr. Scott when seen by a reporter this morning stated that he received the telephone message to go to the scene of the accident, shortly before six o'clock. He left immediately and upon his arrival he found the injured man lying on a couch pale and haggard looking. The full charge of the shot gun entered the left leg just below the hip. The flesh was torn away and a gaping wound from three to four inches in diameter was made. The deceased's brother-in-law had tied a strong string around the leg just above the wound which somewhat reduced the flow of blood, but it was not sufficient and when the doctor arrived he found pools of blood around the man, and him lying weak and helpless.

Dr. Scott had him placed in a warm bed and administered hypodermics. The flow of bloodo was stopped and after a few minutes, the wounded man seemed to revive. His father and sister were with him and he spoke a few words, but gradually he became weaker, the shock and loss of blood proving too much for him and he passed away at eleven o'clock.

The Family

The surviving members of the family are the mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Hicks, who reside at 30 Park street, and the following children: Lorne Mich., of Battle Creek, Mich, and Edward, of North Carolina; Mrs. R. G. Hunt, of Battle Creek, Mich.; Mrs. Herbert E. Seeley, of Norwood; Mrs. J. F. Pullyblank, Springville; Mrs. C. B. Chapman, Romaine street. Arrangements for the funeral have not been made yet.

Clarence E. Hicks was a member of the Young Conservative Club, and of the Park St. Church.

Dr. Gray announced that no inquest was necessary.

Bail Granted Man Who Shot Dominic Spratt of Lindsay

Dominick Spratt, of Lindsay, who was accidentally shot by Jake Smith, succumbed to his injuries Saturday at the Ross Hospital. The bullet entered the stomach and pierced both walls. At no time was there a chance to save the boy's life.

Smith was arrested, charged with unlawfully firing firearms, causing death. He was brought before Magistrate Moore and remanded until the 10th inst., being allowed his liberty on bail of $1,000. An inquest was opened and adjourned until the 13th inst.

Mr. Richard P. Spratt, the father of the boy, is a member of the firm of Spratt and Killen, grocers. This firm is the oldest in Lindsay. He is grief-stricken at the accident to his boy, and did not care to make any statements about the matter.

Dominic Spratt was one of the best athletes in Lindsay despite his youth. He was billed for a place on the Junior O. H. A. team that will probably be formed in town the coming winter. He was a crack baseball player and was shortstop for a team that was to play in Port Perry on Labour Day. The boy attended the Collegiate Institute, but was working in the mill yard during the summer months. He has five brothers and one sister.

Grief is expressed on all sides at the sad occurrence, the boy being well known in town, and his father a leading citizen. In religion the boy was a Roman Catholic, and Rev. Archdeacon Casey was at his bedside before his death.

Young Spratt had quite a number of friends in Peterborough. He was the fastest boy on the ice at Brock Street rink last winter when the Lindsay Collegiate Institute team defeated the local Collegiate team. Deepest regret is generally expressed regarding the distressing fatality. Gerhard Maher, Stewart street, who was an intimate friend of the deceased, attended the funeral which was held yesterday. Ald. Phelan, representing the Knights of Columbus, was also present.

TOOK DOSE OF POISON

Mrs. Ed. Carpenter, 52 Robinson Street, East City, Took Corrosive Sublimate Yesterday Afternoon — Ran Into Neighbour's House After Having Taken It.

WILL RECOVER.

Running into the home of Mr. Frank Adams, 50 Robinson street, East City, Mrs. Edward Carpenter, 52 Robinson street stated that she had taken a dose of poison. The woman appeared to be sick and Mr. Adams at once summoned medical aid. Drs. Halliday and Amys were soon on the scene and after temporarily relieving the woman, she was removed in the Dan Spence Ambulance to Nicholls Hospital. This morning she was reported out of danger. Mrs. Carpent took a small dose of corrosive sublimat which is deadly poison. Jealousy is said to have been the motive for the act.

HURT AT MATCH

Mr. Marsland of Warkworth Injured at the Oval Yesterday.

Mr. C. Brooks Marsland of Warkworth met with a painful accident at the Nicholls Oval yesterday afternoon while at bat in the Cricket match between Campbellford and Peterborough. The visiting players could not get sufficient of their men for the day and had to secure four men from Warkworth. Marsland batted a ball which flew up and struck him above one of his eyes. A nasty gash was made which required five stitches. Marsland was taken to Rev. Dr. Langfeldt's residence and had the wound dressed. While in Peterborough Mr. Marsland was the guest of Rev. Dr. Langfeldt.

SHOULD BOIL THE CITY WATER BEFORE USING, SAY AUTHORITIES

Dr. A. W. MacPherson, City Medical Health Officer, has received a report from Dr. Amyot, the Provincial Macterialogist, in connection wih samples of city water sent to him for inspection. He reports that the water is slightly contaminated and that while it is not bad it would be safer to boil the water before using. Dr. MacPherson therefore suggests that the citizens sholud take this warning and boil the city water before drinking it, believing it is better to be on the safe side in so important a matter as health. Water users had therefore better be guided by the advice of the health authorities and see that they remove the source of danger by the simple remedy suggested.

NO POISON WAS FOUND

Prof. Ellis Makes his Report in Connection With the Examination of the Stomach of Thomas G. Willoughby.

THE INQUEST RESUMED

Special to The Examiner.

Norwood, Sept. 7.—The inquest into the cause of the deaths of Thomas G. Willoughby and Stella, his eight-year-old daughter, which took place three weeks ago to-day was resumed this afternoon before Coroner Dr. Gray, of Peterborough. The coroner stated before the session was opened that he had received a report from Professor Ellis, the Provincial Analyst in connection with Willoughby's stomach, and other organs sent to him for examination, to the affect that there was no trace of poison in any of the organs. This makes it seem extremely probable that Willoughby's death was due to heart failure, caused by the shock of accidentally shooting his young daughter. The verdict of the jury will probably be to this effect.

BLACKHANDERS CAUGHT

Received $1,000 From Salvatore Sanzone But Were Pounced Upon By Detectives Immediately After.

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Hamilton, Sept. 7.—Three alleged black-hand men, Ernest. Speranze, Carmelo Solombo, of Hamilton, and Samuel Wolfe, Niagara Falls were arrested this morning by Detectives Sayer, Bleakley and Coulter, on the Dundas road, after Salvatore Sanzone had handed over $1,000 to the trio. Sanzone, who delivers fruit to Dundas regularly had received three threatening letters and a spot was named at wihch he was to deliver the money. The detectives were hiding under the fruit and captured the black-handers after a chase.

Harold Payne, Nineteen-Year Old Warsaw Boy, Meets Tragic Death in Bridgenorth To-day—Caught In a Belt.

WELL KNOWN HERE

Special to The Examiner.

Warsaw, Sept. 7.—Harold Payne, son of S. R. Payne, of Payne and Taylor, the local millers, was instantly killed this morning at Bridgeport, ten miles from Berlin, Ont., word to this effect having just been received by his parents here, who are naturally prostrated with grief.

No particulars of the tragic affair have been received except that the unfortunate man was caught in a belt. He left here a month ago to accept a position in the mill of Shirk and Snider.

The deceased was nineteen years of age and was well known in this district as well as in Peterborough, where he attended the Collegiate Institute. His many friends will be deeply grieved to learn of the accident.

He is survived by his parents and one sister, residing in Warsaw. The funeral will take place on Friday.

PETERBORO RANGERS MADE FINE IMPRESSION DURING A TWO DAYS VISIT IN PERTH

Were Hospitably Received and Entertained and Likewise Looked After Themselves With Result That the Trip Was One of the Best in History of 57th----Incidents of The Two Days.

OFFICERS AND MEN ROYALLY ENTERTAINED

They came, they saw, yes and they conquered the hearts of everybody in the fair town of Perth. From the time the band of the 57th Regiment sounded its entry within the "walls" of the eastern town until the siege was raised on Monday night and the bugle band rolled its farewell rat-a-tat-tat as Colonel Stevenson's red coats entrained for home, the visitors were received everywhere and entertained with wide-armed hospitality. It was a glorious trip in every respect. The weather man joined hands with the people of Perth and with a "Yip-I-Addy-I-Ay" Old Sol burst forth on Sunday morning brilliant and cheery after a threatened rain storm. There was not a dull moment during the two very pleasant days spent in Perth. Parades, and receptions followed each other and with other incidentals hurried the time along all too quickly. The townspeople vied with the officers of the 42nd Regiment in trying to make the visit an enjoyable one and that they succeeded is more than vouched for by the expressions among the men returning this morning. "The best ever." "Wasn't that Mayor a peach?" "That Captain de Hertel is certainly a good one," and such remarks were sufficient testimony that the efforts of the people of Perth were highly successful.

Among those who were untiring in their attentions to the visitors were Mayor Hall and Captain de Hertel, both of whom won the unquestioned esteem of the entire regiment by the many kindnesses which they were responsible for and which were greatly appreciated.

The regiment arrived in Perth at 3:30 o'clock Sunday morning and was escorted to its quarters at the exhibition grounds. There, splendid accommodation and every convenience was found and it was not long before the camp was in slumberland.

Church Parade

The weather in the morning, although disagreeable, showed signs of a change for the better and by the time the companies were given the order to fall in the sun was shining brightly upon the scene below. Shortly after 10:30 the regiment headed by both bands left the grounds and marched to St. James Anglican Church, there to attend Divine service. On the line of the march the citizens were represented in large numbers and the general appearance of the companies and the music of the two bands appeared to meet with their approval. The large edifice was comfortably filled when the service was begun. The morning lesson was read by Rev. Canon Davidson, chaplain of the 57th Regiment, and the rector of the church. Rev. Canon Muckleston, preached a splendid sermon, taking for his subject "A Good Soldier of Jesus Christ." Before proceeding, however, he welcomed the regiment to the church and the city, and stated that he hoped their stay would be a pleasant one. In the discourse which followed he appealed to the men to be manly, and make endeavour to keep their lives pure and clean. In doing this each would be following the example of Christ in whose life purity and manliness held away over everything else even when his friends forsook him. At the conclusion of the service, the regiment marched back to the exhibition grounds and were dismissed for the day.

Band Concert

In the afternoon, at four o'clock, a concert was given by the 57th Band, at the exhibition grounds. A platform had been erected for the use of the members of the band in front of the large grandstand which was filled with a very appreciative audience. Many who were unable to secure a seat in the grandstand promenaded about the grounds and listened to the splendid programme, each number of which they heartily applauded and frequently encores had to be given before the crowd would be quieted. The numbers on the programme were as follows:

March—Semper Fidelis.
Overture—Poet and Peasant.
Scotch Patrol—Wee McGregor.
Song—Sweet and Low.
Euphonium solo by Bandsman Ed. Cronk.
Selection—Old Folks at Home.
March—Religioso No. 2.
Humoresque—Old Settlers on Parade.
Intermezzo—Rainbow.
"God Save the King."

In the evening, the officers of the regiment were the guests of Capt. and Mrs. Matheson.

Address of Welcome.

On arriving at the City Hall, during a parade of the entire regiment Monday morning, an address of welcome was read by Mayor Hall, on behalf of the citizens of the town. It was as follows:

Lieut.-Col. Stevenson, Officers and Men of the 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers:

On behalf of the citizens, it gives me great pleasure to welcome you to our town. On a former occasion we had the honour of your presence and we are pleased to see you here again. We are grateful to think, that the old town of Perth has been again selected for another visit of the Peterborough Rangers. Some people say

OLD CHIEF PAUDASH SAYS INDIAN BATTLE GROUND NEAR LAKE WILL BE PLOUGHED UP

Examiner Special.

Tuesday, Sept. 7.—Will relics of the last Indian engagement at Rice Lake be found when the field on which Indian lore says it was fought is ploughed up within the next few weeks? This question is undoubtedly recurring in the minds of those who heard old Chief Paudash's story of the last battle between the Mohawks and his own tribe, the Missassaugas. It was at Jubilee Point on Saturday night that the question was casually brought up. It seems that the field which stretches back from the Otonabee River and on which the Anglers' cottage is located, is to be ploughed up in a week or so. Mr. Kylie, who is the present owner intends, it is said, to plough the field up to the rear of the cottage and the aged chief states that arrow heads, bones and implements of Indian warfare will undoubtedly be found near the surface. According to his tale, he was a slip of a boy when the affair happened. He is now one of the patriarchs of the settlement at Hiawatha. His recital was very interesting and may be a fact. The brave of a by-gone age was serious in his story and the fact that Indian relics have previously been found on the same property to a certain extent verifies his statements.

Upset While Shooting

Jim Kylie and George Paudash received a wetting on Saturday while hunting for ducks in what is known as the "Blind Channel," near the mouth of the river. Paudash aimed at a mud hen and pulled the trigger. It was a double barrelled gun, and while he pulled but one trigger, both acted and the double explosion "kicked" to such an extent that the canoe was overturned and the two hunters were floundering in about ten feet of water. They could swim well and were looking out for themselves but two Americans in a skiff came to their rescue. Wet though they were, the two men took the matter as a joke, and were laughing over their experience which caused one of the Americans to ask if an upset was an everyday occurrence. "Well no, not every day," one of the two replied. "But it happens so often that we are used to it." Paudash lost his gun, but recovered it yesterday. Kylie clung to his despite its weight. Kylie reported that during the evening there had been a shower of rain, and when he returned home one of Mr. Kylie's family remarked that it must have been raining hard, judging from his experience. Not wishing to create any alarm he replied that it had been raining some, but did not mention the upset.

The season for duck shooting has as might be expected, been a poor one up to the present. The weather is still too warm and the ducks have not arrived from the back country. There is a number though, mostly found up the river.

The Indians say that the wild rice will be ready for harvesting in two weeks and a good crop is assured.

Recent guests registered at Gore's Landing were Hon. J. R. Stratton, Mrs. Stratton and the Misses Gooding; also Misses Marjorie and Bessie Latimer and Miss Lillian Wood.

The tourist season as far as Gore's Landing and Jubilee Point are concerned is practically over. Both places report a good season. Many of the regular vistors spent their holidays at ther favourite resort and not a few faces were noticed. The lake is undoubtedly growing in popularity and the next few years should see marked changes in the number of cottages on the lake and river and also in regard to the resorts.

Messrs. Osborne and Alex. Patterson caught four fine bass near Campbellford yesterday.

The steamer Otonabee brought a big scow load of lumber to Gore's Landing on Saturday. It was from the A. McDonald Co., of Peterborough, and measured 60,000 feet of heavy timbers.

The steamer Monarch yesterday ran her last regular trip of the present season. She will be engaged in towing from now on except on Saturdays when the usual market journey will be run. Captain Harris has had a successful season and under the Otonabee Navigation Co., the boat has been busy all summer and has made its daily trips popular with a great number of people. The fact that it has followed its schedule practically to the minute has been appreciated by the patrons.

Alderman Duncan and party have been camped near the Anglers' cottage for a few days and have been fairly successful on the river and lake.

Messrs. J. McCabe and P. Meagher spent the week end and holiday at the Anglers' cottage.

Mr. John Trombley and family and Mr. Wilfred Fitzgerald spent a few days at Mr. Trombley's cottage, near the lake.

Mr. and Mrs. V. O'Dette were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Kylie over the holiday.

Mr. Fred Hickey came down to the lake yesterday with a party of friends in the Maida Vale.

Mr. Doupe, who is with the Duncan party caught an exceptionally big lunge near Jubilee yesterday. After a rather sharp struggle he landed it in his canoe and not a moment too soon for the wire connecting the hooks with the trawl parted when the fish was squirming around the bottom of the canoe. The advent of one

The Decease Of Mrs. John McClary In Her 70th Year

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

London, Sept. 7.—Mrs. McClary, wife of John McClary, of the McClary Manufacturing Co., died this morning in her 70th year.

Collegiate Institute Is Over Crowded By Many New Pupils

Three hundred and forty pupils presented themselves at the Collegiate Institute this morning when that institution opened its doors for the beginning of the term of 1909 and 1910. This is the greatest number that has ever been in attendance on any day and it is expected that quite a few more will be received before the classes settle down for the term. The Examiner learned to-day that the accommodation of the Collegiate is now overtaxed and particularly in the lower forms the conditions are almost identical with those which the new building sought to relieve in the old.

Inspector Mowat has been exceedingly busy all day looking after the Public School pupils who are present in large numbers. The totals were not received today, not abving been compiled. The Separate Schools saw the introduction of the system of providing text books and supplies adopted by theBoard of Education a few years ago. Peterborough's schools have cost considerable money, according to some ratepayers, but no one can gainsay the fact that they are not used. The population of the schools has grown rapidly of late and it will not likely be long until additions are required.

SCAFFOLD BROKE

Workman Injured in Fall From top of a House.

Harvey Weir, 718 King street, employed as a painter on he new home of Dr. Marshall, that is being built on Hunter street, fell from the top of the building this afternoon and was injured about the right arm and side. The scaffold on which he was working gave way and he came down. He struck the eavestroughing and the brick pier in the verandah.

Drs. Marshall and Gallavin were called and the injured man was removed to his home.

THE PAINS OF THE AGED
Are usually due to the tendency of the kidneys to wear out as age advances, giving rise to the accumulation of poisons in the blood and causing backache, lumbago, aching limbs and rheumatism. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are particularly prized by aged people because they can be relied upon to invigorate the action of the liver, kidneys and bowels, and so remove the cause of pains and aches.

IMPROVING CONDITIONS

If we had any doubt of the pinch of hard times we had about a year ago, having passed away, the evidence would be found in the increased customs collections, indicating increased commercial activity. The statement of he Dominion's revenue for the first five months of the current fiscal year up to August 31, shows total receipts amounting to $38,500,160, an increase of $5,055,589, as compared with the corresponding period of last year. Of the total revenue, customs collections amounted to $25,283,408, an increase of $4,180,-913. The expenditure on consolidated fund account for the period totalled $26,353,179, an increase of $858,999. The expenditure on capital account was $9,245,741, a decrease of $175,638. The net debt at the end of August was $320,488,706, an increase of $148,-794 during the month, and $41,723,-821 during the twelve months. The revenue for last month totalled $8,-469,848, an increase of half a million over August of last year. Expenditures for the month on consolidated fund account were $5,567,753, as against $7,673,074 las year. With the bountiful harvest of the West, and the resultant circulation of money, there is little doubt that the pace of advancement set by the first five months of the fiscal year will be maintained in all departments of national enterprise, and that the average full year of revenue will be realized.

RETALIATION

It looks as if, among ober things, the United States "reformed" tariff were aimed to penalize Canadian pulp and paper, and that his weak reprisal has been aroused by the policy of Ontario and Quebec in the matter of protecting their pulp and paper interests. It goes without saying that that policy was not conceived in a spirit of hostility to the United States but simply to protect and make the most of our own resources. We desired to reap from our pulpwood resources the largest possible advantage in the employment of labour and capital. To this end Ontario prohibited the export in an unmanufactured condition of pine and pulp logs, and Quebec placed a discriminating duty upon pulpwood for export. In face of this naturally protective action taken in our own interests, the American tariff makes mechanically-ground wood pulp subject to a duty of one-twelfth of a cent per pound, with a proviso that it shall be admitted free from any country or province which imposes no restriction upon the exportation of printing paper, wood-pulp or wood used in manufacturing pulp. There can be no doubt that this duty is directly aimed at Quebec and Ontario, with the evident idea of inducing or forcing these provinces to abandon their deliberately adopted polities for he benefit of the American market, or in other words to induce us to injure oruselves to advantage our neighbours. The benefit of the free admission of pulp to the American market and a lower duty on paper, would not, in the opinion of those who pretend to speak with authority on the subject, compensate Ontario and Queebc for the ravaging of their spruce forests to feed pulp and paper mills in the United States. The United States, if it is willing to punish its citizens by compelling them to pay more for their pulp and paper obtained from Canada, an addition to the burden of which they have for some time been complaining, may do so. But Canada can afford to, and will, go on its own way serenely and do its business in its own way. In the matter of pulp resources we have the upper hand and intend in our own interest to take advantage of the situation. We shall indulge in no reprisals, but continue to look after ourselves.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Canada claims the North Pole, but Manitoba sets up a prior claim. Mr. Roblin will demand the extension of Manitoba's boundaries northward, though Dr. Cook has not said anything as to there being sand pits on the top of the world.

That Canada should have her own navy strikes the Little Canadians as silly; but it is no more silly, remarks the Winnipeg Free Press, than that Canada should have her own Parliaments, her own judiciary, her own laws and her own army—should be, in brief, self-governing.

On this continent we are inclined to regard the Old Country as slow, and that we are much more advanced in conditions that favour the mass of people. But it will be a surprise to many to learn that there are thirty elected Representatives of Labour in the British Parliament.

DR. SEATH'S MISSION. ..

(Brantford Expositor.)

A year ago Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education for Ontario, visited Europe, and we were told that he was going there for the purpose of investigating the question of technical education. Premier Whitney, if we mistake not, was also said to be in Europe on a similar errand. Nothing has been heard further of these trips, unless it be found in the bills of expense of the travellers. Now we are told that the Minister of Education has been taking another step in connection with technical education, by instructing Dr. John Seath, superintendent of education ot go to certain centres in Germany, France and other places abroad, as may be deemed necessary, and make a report upon the system of technical schools there. It is further announced that it is intended to make special enquiry into the application of technical instruction in elementary as well as secondary schols, and also into the utility of special courses of study adapted to local industries.

Commenting upon this announcement the Hamilton Spectator, whose devotion to the present Ontario Government will not be questioned, says:

It is some years now since the provincial Government first intimated that it intended doing something for the people in the way of technical education, but up to date the most that has been accomplished has been the passing of cretain annual grants to municipalities that were enterprising enough to nudertake technical education programmes for themselves, and the continuance of the manual training classes in public schools. And while Ontario has been making time in this important matter, Nova Scotia and Quebec have gone ahead, their governments making provision for the establishment of provincial technichal colleges, these institutions now being in working order and turning out trained men.

If the Government intends to handle the question of technical education seriously, we can hardly see what special value there can be in the mission of Dr. Seath to Germany and elsewhere. Dr. Seath is an educationist of considerable note, but we are not aware that his ability is developed along technical education lines. We had rather imagined him to be a past master in academics, the author of a school grammar that made life a burden to us in our younger days, and, generally speaking, not at all the sort of expert one would employ if intimate knowledge as to the best technical education system was desired.

The Spectator, continuing, can see no reason for sending thousands of miles to study this question of technical education, seeing that it has already been thoroughly investigated, and that Nova Scotia and Quebec found it impossible to take decisive stepts forward without sending anyone over to Europe.

The Spectator's criticisms are fully deserved. The Ross Government, in the days when technical education was in its infancy, established manual training and domestic science in connection with the public school system of the province, and aided other forms of technical education in Toronto and elsewhere. The present Government, in five years of office, has added nothing whatever to this record, but has looked helplessly on while progress was being rapidly made in almost every civilized country. It is not a creditable record, and sems to fasten the conviction that the Department of Education, under the present management, is far from being equal to the demands made upon it.

THE BRITISH WAY

(Montreal Witness.)

By the passing of the act creating the United States of South Africa by the British Parliament, the circle of overseas dominions has been completed. That such a union could be brought about so soon after a war, fought to the bitted end by the Boers, is one of the wonders of history. While the final cermony was being enacted there was present in the hall at Westminster a group of men the like of which was never seen before at the capital of any empire in any period of known history. What a splendid subject that scene would make for a historical painting, to show how a wise policy of forbearance, trust and freedom has triumphed over racial enmities, healed the wounds of war and established friendship, loyalty and mutual confidence in place of racial animosity, jealousy and distrust. Of all the victories gained by Britain this is the greatest. The group that watched the passage of the South frican Confederation Act was composed of Dr. Jameson, leader of the Johannesburg rail; General Botha, commander-in-chief of the Boer army; Mr. Steyn, President of the Orange Free State, whose personal ambition to be the George Washingtan of South Africa was one of the causes of the war; Mr. Schreiner, the one-time uncompromising opponent of British domination; Mr. Smuts, the ablest of Kruger's advisers; Mr. Fischer, Mr. Herzog, Mr. Hofmeyer, all famous Boer leaders. Ther were also present governors and judges from the several colonies, representing the restored power of the Empire, the whole forming a group wonderfully suggestive of the beneficence and succes of the Pax Britannica. Well might Mr. Balfour describe the event as the most important in British history. There never was anything lkie it. Who dare say now that imperial unity is an iridescent dream?

If You Rid Poisons

FROM THE BLOOD

By awakening the liver and kidneys, you will be freed of pains, aches and the tired spring feeling.

Poisons only accumulate in the blood. Pains and aches have the same cause.

Poisons only accumulate in the blood when the liver and kidneys get torpid and slow in action and when, as a result, the bowels become constipated.

Get the liver and kidneys working right and away go the poisons. That is their work, to rid the blood of poisons.

When they fail because of the excessive accumulation of poisons in the spring, use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and they will soon resume their natural functions with renewed energy and vigour.

No other organs of the body can filter the poisons from the blood so you must get the liver and kidneys active if you are going to restore healthful digestion, regular bowel action and free the body of pains, aches and feelings of fatigue and depressing.

It is only natural that the liver and kidneys should give out in the spring, when the blood is usually loaded with impurities, but you can quickly and certainly set them right by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

This is the greatest of spring medicines because it is unique in its direct and combined action on the liver and kidneys.

Put it to the test this spring, and you you will be astonished at its wonderful prompt and thorough action on the digestive and excretory systems. You can be certain that it will move the bowels, awaken the action of the liver and kidneys and completely purify the blood. One pill a dose, 25c a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

POST CARD COLUMN.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Will you kindly settle the following question:

Q.—Has Lindsay an Opera House or only a 5c show?" About a year ago the manager of the Academy of Music took out a 5 cent picture license, and called it the "Wonderland." Since that time he has run a permanent 5 cent show, now and then, giving place to road attractions. Now, A claims it is only a 5 cent house, raising prices for extra attractions; B claims it is a regular Opera House for high class attractions, filling in with a 5c show, as Lindsay cannot support a regular theatre.

Kindly decide which is right, A or B, and oblige.

"A TRAVELLER."

Answer.—Would say that B is right. While the Lindsay Opera House may be used as a moving picture show between "shows," as it were, yet it was established as and still is a regular opera house, and is recognized as such. The mere fact that the proprietor has taken out a moving picture license does not indicate that the character of the house has been changed. In order to exhibit moving pictures the town by-law requires a license, hence the proceeding in this case.

A GUARANTEED CURE

For Indigestion and Dyspepsia

There is no hesitation or quibbling about the claims which the Coleman Medicine Company make for their wonderful "Little Digesters". They come out straight with the statement that "Little Digesters" will positively cure even chronic Indigestion or Dyspepsia, as well as Heartburn and Sour Stomach.

They GUARANTEE "Little Digesters" to cure. If they fail, you get your money back promptly, and without question.

Of course they would not make such positive statements, or give such a guarantee, if they had not proved, beyond the shadow of a doubt, that "Little Digesters" WILL CURE.

"Little Digesters" do it simply and naturally, too, by helping out the weakened stomach — supplying just what it needs in the process of digestion, and enabling it to assimilate the food. Soon the whole system regains its vigor, and the stomach needs no further help.

"Little Digesters" are put up in little red boxes, sold for 25c by your druggist, or mailed by the Coleman Medicine Co., of Toronto. 29

T.A.S. WON EXCITING GAME BY A RALLY IN THE TENTH

Quinlan was the Hero of Labour Day Game in Which Cinnamon's Mud-Horses Went Down to Defeat.—Abstainers Heaver Fanned Seventeen and Handed in a Home run and a Three Bagger.—A Fine Game of Ball.

"Bill" Cinnamon, baseball instructor of the Lindsay colony, had another knot tied in his diamond aspirations yesterday at Riverside Park. It was the City T. A. S., City League leader that performed the stunt, but only after a hard ten-innings, up-hill grind. It was a good old-fashioned eleventh-hour finish, in which the locals nosed out 5 runs to 4, and the victory was notched through the puzzling trajectories of one "Ab" Quinlan.

Despite the fact that so many people were out of the city the contest was witnessed by a large crowd, there being nearly 600 in the stand. The game was very exciting all the way, and the fans were kept right on their toes until "Nels" Wettlaufer flashed over the rubber in the tenth with the deciding tally.

The game was chock full of glittering plays, of which "Prunes" Quinlan was the prime mover. He was about as prominent as is Dr. Cook at the present time. The visitors did not mix well with his curves, and if he had injected a couple of wild heaves the game would not have gone beyond nine sessions. "Prunes" set up a strike out for the season in this city when he caused seventeen Lindsayites to fan the air. It was not only his twirling that stood out so conspicuously, but his batting and his daring dash home in the ninth that tied the score and pulled his team once more on an even footing with the foreigners. He projected two hits, one was good for the circuit, while the other entitled him to three cushions.

Hopkins, who was on the mound for Lindsay, acquitted himself well. He started in to be the T. A. S. Nemesis, and he succeeded very well until the final chapters, when the cold water boys got to him in bunches, and corralled enough runs to get the verdict.

The T. A. S. used Shaw, Kendry and Wettlaufer, of the Stratheonas, which materially strengthened their nine.

Dan McCabe handled the indicator and his work was of high order, both teams being perfectly satisfied.

Score by Innings.

Both sides were retired in order in the first session.

"Pony" Workman unlocked the Lindsay half of the second with a two-sacker to over short, and made third on Cahill's fumble, Menzies died Flaherty to O'Brien, and "Pony" beat O'Brien's throw to plate, McGill and H. Hopkins fanned, one run.

For the T. A. S. Kendry missed three. Quinlan hit over the left field fence for a home run. McFadden got life on McGill's slip up, but was out trying to pilfer second, Cinnamon to Workman; Cahill struck out.—One run.

In the third Lindsay went out in order.

In the T. A. S. portion of the innings Derocher flew out to Langdon, Wettlaufer fanned the air, O'Brien singled and stole second; Flaherty hit safely, scoring O'Brien. Shaw followed with another bingle, advancing Flaherty to second. Kendry out on bunt strikes.—One run.

Lindsay tied up the score again in the fourth; Bill Cinnamon laced out a pretty single, stole second, and went to third on a wild pitch. Langdon drove the Spalding to left, sending Cinnamon over the rubber; Workman struck out; Menzies went out via Flaherty to O'Brien, and McGill windmilled.—One run.

The T. A. S. went out one, two, three in their half.

The Invaders assumed the lead in the fifth.

H. Hopkins was called out on strikes; E. Hopkins happened to be a little more fortunate than his brother and reached second when McFadden allowed the third strike to get away from him, and second when Quinlan heaved the ball to the fence. Green and Lennox fell victims to Quinlan's benders.—One run.

The game progressed in classy style and without further scoring until the eighth, when the boys from the Scugog swelled their score with another counter. E. Hopkins was safe when Flaherty dropped his pop fly. McMahon, who replaced Green in right, fanned; Flaherty busted the Lindsay stock by making his second misplay, when he allowed Lennox's easy floater to get away from him, while Hopkins took second; Cinnamon got his second hit of the afternoon, and Hopkins recorded from second; Langdon struck out, and Workman grounded out to O'Brien.—One run.

There was no further run getting until the T. A. S. half of the ninth. Shaw was first up and beat out a bunt. He stole second; Kendry skied to Langdon; Quinlan laced the sphere to left centre for three cushions, sending the Strath captain over the counting station. The excitement was intense. McFadden failed to connect. With two down, one run behind, and Cahill at bat, Quinlan took a long lead off third. Hopkins threw to Langdon and "Prunes" raced for the plate and by a great slide he was able to beat Langdon's throw by inches. Cahill was safe on Workman's fumble and stole second, but Derocher ended the innings by grounding out. Langdon to McGill.—Two runs.

Lindsay went out in the tenth.

For the T. A. S. Wettlaufer hit a slow one at Menzies, and the latter's throw pulled McGill off the bag, the runner being safe; he pilfered the middle station and went to third on O'Brien's single to left. Flaherty grounded out McGill and Wettlaufer, by a fine sprint beat the throw to the pentagon, the game was over and the fans went home joyful.

Sparks from Balldom.

It was a great game.

The fans all went away happy.

Quinlan was about two-thirds of the T. A. S. nine yesterday.

A feature of the game was that short stop Kendry did not have even one chance. It's very seldom a player in that position does not have a few opportunities.

"Bill" Cinnamon had his batting eye with him again and opened the fireworks in the ninth.

Cinnamon is still the same old Bill.

The visitors played a great game, considering the practice they have had.

Wettlauffer's dash for home in the tenth was a La Bobby Kerr.

The T. A. S. outfielders never got a chance to distinguish themselves.

Seventeen strike-outs is going some.

The Lindsay infield reminded one of the old Midland League, a few years past.

IS ART DUNN AN AMATEUR OR AN OUT AND OUT PROFESSIONAL?

Vancouver, Sept. 7.—Under suspension in this Province and with his amateur status so severely questioned that he is practically considered a professional, Art Burns, the well-known Marathon runner, has left for Spokane, where the Spokane Athletic Club will be only too glad to enter him as an amateur in a Marathon race to be held in Seattle next month.

Burn, who was recently suspended by the local branch of the British Columbia Amateur Athletic Union, is in the peculiar position of being practically a professional in Canada, but an amateur in the United States. While his entry for any event on a Canadian track would be refused he is even now training for an amateur race to be run under the auspices of the Pacific Athletic Association, a branch of the American Athletic Union.

The same trouble that arose some time ago regarding Tom Longbat and his connections with both amateur bodies seems unavoidable again, and the trouble all comes through Art Burn, the Calgary runner, who is refused amateur rights by the Mainland branch of the B. C. A. A. U.

The Trouble.

In the Empire Day Marathon held at Vancouver, Burn was one of the competitors, and it is alleged by the Union that he received considerable above his expenses from the promoters of the race. Burn went before the heads of the Union a short time ago and explained that he received expenses from San Francisco to Vancouver, and that every cent he got was used as expenses. However, the Amateur Union withheld his card; and now he is barred from competing in races on Canadian tracks. Now comes the delicate part of the dilemma. The American Amateur Union have told Burn that they were willing to back him up and any time he wants an amateur card he is welcome to it.

It is a known fact that even at present the unions are working in anything but friendly order as has been instanced only recently at the championship meet that was held at Seattle, in which the entry of Palmer, of Revelstoke, was refused. To make matters worse than they are at the present time would be a sad mistake, and something should be done so that the two great controlling bodies would work in harmony.

Clothes of Freedom

Those who are to make beautiful things must work in a beautiful place.

The Semi-ready workshops are the delight of the good workman—well-lighted, splendidly ventilated, on the mountain side, in good, pure air

And the skilled tailors are paid for their artistic creations—paid so that they may live in a decent house with decent surroundings, and maintain a happy home.

Thus do we preserve conditions conducive to the creation of real art in tailoring correct dress for men.

Semi-ready Tailoring appeals to men of culture—nor may we all analyse the reason why—for it is only the trained critic who can by words tell the difference between the rare-found masterpiece and the million daubs.

We see the difference; for the eye intuitively tells the Beautiful Things of the Master Workman.

There is correct form and figure-styling in the Semi-ready suits at $15, $18 and $20. Perhaps you will be surprised when we show you suitings at $25, $30 and $35. Of these we sell many. They are the kind high-priced tailor suits $30 and $35 are.

PETERBOROUGH CRICKET CLUB WON FROM CAMPBELLFORD

Visitors Were Defeated By Forty-Five Runs and Three Wickets Yesterday at the Oval—Hill Carried Out His Bat For a Splendidly Put On "40"—Mr. Marsland Was Injured.

The Peterborough Cricket Club defeated the Campbellford in an interesting two innings match at Nicholls Oval yesterday, winning by three wickets and 45 runs. It was a well played exhibition, played under splendid weather conditions and the small crowd of spectators found the match most enjoyable. Campbellford had a lead at the end of the first innings. Humphrie's Lowling was splendid and the locals with the exception of Hill and Coleman, the first two batsmen at the wicket could not get set and wickets fell rapidly until the side was disposed of for 38. Campbellford had put on 54 in their first effort, thanks to good batting by Henderson and Baderman.

In the second innings, however, Campbellford could do nothing with the bowling of Hill and Ferguson, who mowed them down thick and fast, Ferguson taking five wickets for six runs and Hill four wickets for the same number of counters. Peterborough's last innings was marked by the grand batting of Hill who carried out his bat for a splendid forty which included a number of three's. Moriaty a new comer to Peterborough also turned in a useful eleven and the innings was declared closed at the last of the seventh wicket when the locals had scored 74.

A regrettable accident took place in the first over of Campbellford's first innings when Mr. Marsland was struck between the eyes by a fast breaking ball, delivered by Hughes and received a painful cut which necessitated his removal from the game. A delightful luncheon was served at the Oval by Messrs. Coleman Bros. Following was the score:

A LESSON FROM THE WEST.

(St. Thomas Times.)

After telling the people of his State how glad he was to get home again, Governor Hughes proceeded to give them a lesson that he had brought back from the West. He told them how loyal the Western townsman is to his town; how he "boosts" it on every occasion and in every possible manner; how he lauds its virtues and proclaims its glorious future to everyone that will listen. The Governor said that constantly he found himself in Western communities, reading signs like this: "You'll like this place". Everyone, he said, was an enthusiast for his city or town—an enthusiast, not because of what had been done, but because of the future. That was the lesson the Governor of New York brought back from the West to his people of the East, the lesson of "boosting" the home community.

Sales Doubling Every Six Months

Wonderful Demand for a Wonderful Remedy.

During the past few years, the sales of "Fruit-a-tives" have doubled every six months. For the six months from January to July of this year, the sales of this popular medicine were more than twice greater than for any similar period since "Fruit-a-tives" was introduced to the public.

The National Drug & Chemical Company of Canada Limited, the largest wholesale drug house in the world—Lymans Limited of Montreal — and Lymans Brothers of Toronto — are buying "Fruit-a-tives" in 100 gross lots. 100 gross mean 14,400 boxes, which retail for $7,200.00. This gives some idea of the steady demand for these wonderful fruit liver tablets.

It is safe to say that "Fruit-a-tives" is on sale in every drug store and in departmental stores and general stores carrying medicines throughout the Dominion. Nor is the sale of "Fruit-a-tives" confined to Canada. In many parts of the United States, "Fruit-a-tives" is the standard family medicine and hardly a day passes that the Fruit-a-tives Company does not receive prepaid orders from our neighbors over the line.

The many testimonials, which have been published in the leading papers, are the most convincing evidence of the great value of "Fruit-a-tives".

THE DOCKED TAIL

A Protest Against the Cruelty Inflicted on the Horse by That Operation.

For those who imagine it is necessary to dock horses' tails and mutilate their manes in order to be fashionable the action of her Majesty Queen Alexandra in refusing a gift of horses thus mutilated, is commendable for consideration. The suggestion of docking nearly always proceeds from a veterinary. It is a veterinary's business to cut and blister. He likes to encourage the cutting. It means money to him. Docking a horse's tail is a surgical operation. Many people imagine it merely involves the cutting of the hair. But that is not all. Several joints of the tail bone are removed. The tail has to be skinned. It is a horribly cruel and cowardly operation. The horse is strapped and tied so that he cannot move. He is not given any anaesthetic. The work of cutting out the bone and sewing up the wound is done while the poor animal is in full possession of his senses. His sufferings are exquisite. The operation is just about the same as that of cutting off a man's leg at the ankle joint without anaesthetics. After the poor animal has been thus maltreated he must be kept blanketed in all sorts of weather to protect him from flies, otherwise he suffers the torments of Gehenna. Sometimes the wound is a long time healing. In warm weather it is liable to suppurate. Flies get into it, parasites breed in it and the only result is to spoil the horse's appearance. A horse with a docked tail is a travelling, living illustration of some man's meanness and cowardice. Real horse lovers all over the world will more than ever honour and respect Queen Alexandra for her womanly and courageous stand against the inhuman practice. The argument that it must be done because it is fashionable no longer has a leg to stand on. If the first stable in the British Empire says it is not fashionable, who is there to say it is? The practice should be prohibited by law, in order that those who will not profit by her Majesty's gentle example, might be compelled to desist from this cruel and useless mutilation.—Vancouver Sunset.

MR. BAILEY CONSIDERS HOLIDAYS TOO MANY

Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, has instructed Dr. John Seath, Superintendent of Education, to go to Germany, France, and other countries and make a report upon the system of technical schools there.

It is intended to make special inquiry into the application of technical instruction in elementary as well as secondary schools, and also into the utility of special courses of study adapted to local industries. The financial support of such schools will likewise be carefully considered.

Peterborough, Sept 7, 1909.

Sir,—Why this expense? It is clear to all that our schools are not educating the children because they are so rarely used. Too many holidays at a time of the year most suited for attending school. Canada has representatives in Europe, and our officials and members of the Government have plenty to do in Ontario.

Yours,
W. A. BAILEY.

that Perth is an old town. We claim it to be even older than Ottawa, the present seat of the Government. I trust that the officers and men will thoroughly enjoy themselves during their visit here and I assure you all that the citizens of Perth appreciate the high honour the regiment has conferred upon them in making this town the object of a second visit. I again welcome you and in doing so extend to you the freedom of the town.

Reception to Officers.

Probably the most important affair of the trip from a social standpoint was the reception which was tendered the officers of the 57th. Mayor Hall and about three hundred and fifty guests assembled at 4 o'clock upon the spacious lawn of the Mayor's fine residence. Nothing had been apparently forgotten, and a very enjoyable evening was spent until it was time for departure for Peterborough. The band was present and rendered a delightful programme. The elite of the citizens of Perth were present and joined in welcoming the visiting officers. Dancing was a part of the entertainment. Mayor Hall is a son-in-law of Senator McLaren, probably Perth's wealthiest citizen, who, on the previous visit of the 57th, entertained the officers at his residence. The grounds were opened to the visitors yesterday.

An Accident.

A regrettable accident occurred to Mr. Geo. Kerr, of Perth, by which he will lose the sight of an eye, and which might have resulted in his head being blown off, as one of the men who witnessed it, said. He is a South African veteran, and was helping to load a cannon that was in use yesterday. After a discharge it was not swabbed, and when reloaded the after spark which remained from the first discharge exploded the powder. Kerr was severely burned and loceratted about the face and hands. He was hurried to Dr. Hanna's office, where it was found that he would very likely lose the sight of his left eye.

The two bands of the 57th made themselves favourites with the people of Perth and the whole Regiment behaved in a creditable manner. The band concerts under the direction of Mr. R. Gliddon were rendered in the best form and were greatly appreciated.

Fred Miles and Robert Beach with the bugle band in fine fettle, were heard all over Perth and certainly made some of the natives open their eyes.

Mr. W. T. Dockrill, Travelling Passenger Agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway, accompanied the regiment to Perth. Mr. Dockrill has gone with the Regiment on each visit for the past twenty years, when the C. P. R. line was used.

The Commanding Officer of the 42nd Regiment is Lieut. Col. Balderson, and the officers who reside in Perth are Capt. J. E. de Hertel, Capt. F. W. Hall and Lieut. W. W. Walker.

Capt. De Hertel was a visitor in the city at the opening of the new armoury.

Rev. Canon Davidson received and accepted an invitation to preach at St. James' Anglican Church, Sunday night.

There were only five members of the 57th Band at Perth over the holiday who accompanied the Regiment to that place sixteen years ago. They are Robert Mein, P. C. Miller, Richard Shelton, George Chambers, and R. M. Beach. Mr. Miller was the leader at that time.

MR. BENNETT HONOURED BY PETERBOROUGH FRIENDS

Mr. Joseph Bennett, who was in Peterborough for two years as superintendent of the Cordage Department of the Canadian Cordage Works, has retired from that position to accept charge of a cordage works east of New York city. While he has been in charge of the works here he has given effective service. He has also been active in promoting the mental improvement and educational interests of the young men with whom he has been brought into contact. It is no surprise, therefore, that his departure should be learned of with regret by many persons and it was natural that he should receive some parting evidence of the esteem in which he is held. A large gathering, including many business men met at his residence and a very pleasant evening was spent.

Mr. Bennett has been connected with the Cordage Works for two years and under his management the quality of the cordage has reached so fine a grade it commands the approval of rope merchants and the Montreal Harbour Commissioners and orders for it have been received from the Dominion Government. Mr. Bennett has been successful as a maker of hard and soft fibre products, for the past thirty years—in Scotland, India, Cuba and the United States, having started the first mill in Chicago, the Deering Twine factory.

OBITUARY.

DAVID LE MAY.

Last evening David Le May died at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. H. Le Brun, 366 Simcoe street, at the age of 77 years. Mr. Le May, was among our best remembered and most esteemed citizens, though he was absent from Peterborough for several years. He entered into the confectionery business here about 1860, coming here from Montreal, where he was born. About 25 years ago he disposed of his business in Peterborough and resumed business in Watertown, N. Y., where he spent 20 years. For the past five years he has lived a retired life, making his home with Mr. Le Brun. Mr. Le May has been in ill health for seven or eight years, having suffered from paralysis. Recently he suffered a second seizure and passed away last night.

Mrs. Le May passed away four years ago. He is survived by two sons and five daughters. The sons are Mr. L. N. Le May, Rochester, N.Y., and Mr. Albert Le May of Cleveland. The daughters are Mrs. H. Le Brun, city; Mrs. R. P. Gough, Toronto; Mrs. F. Telson, Toronto, Miss Heloise Le May, Montreal, and Sister Leliose, Congregation de Notre Dame, Montreal.

The funeral will be held from 366 Simcoe street to-morow (Wednesday) morning at 9 o'clock, to St. Peter's Cathedral, and thence to St. Peter's cemetery.

MRS. JOHN MOLONEY

The death occurred at St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday of Mrs. John Moloney, of Ennismore, after an illness of a little less than a week. The deceased was forty-three years of age and had been a resident of Ennismore for a number of years. Her maiden name was Celia Moher. She was well and very highly respected and her many friends will learn with deep regret her death. Her husband, four daughters and three sons are left to mourn her loss.

The funeral will take place to-morrow morning, at nine o'clock, from the family residence, Concession 5 Lot 5, Ennismore, to St. Martin's Church and thence to St. Martin's cemetery.

HENRY SHERWOOD.

Word was received in the city yesterday of the death at Maple Creek Saskatchewan, of a former well-known resident of Peterborough. Mr. Henry Sherwood, who died at the home of his son-in-law, Mr. Hiram Lethkrow. Mr. Sherwood was in the neighbourhood of eighty years of age, and was perhaps during his residence here the oldest stone mason in the city. He worked with the late Joseph Spenceley on the construction of the Phelan House building, Simcoe street, and also upon the stone residence at the corner of Hunter and Stewart streets, now occupied by Mr. Travers, manager of the Bank of Montreal, and upon the residense of Mr. J. E. Belcher, Edinburgh street. These were erected in 1847, sixty-two years ago—built of stone taken from the quarry at Jackson Park, by the late Henry Cowan. And there are hundreds of buildings in Peterborough that have the late Mr. Sherwood's handiwork built into them. Mrs. Sherwood, whose maiden name was Ellen Brown, a sister of Mr. Geo. Brown, died several years ago, and when Mr. Sherwood retired from active work he went to Maple Creek to live with his daughter, Mrs. Hiram Lithgow. The remains will be brought to Peterborough for interment. The date of the funeral will be announced later.

WILLIAM DONNELLY.

The death occurred last night after a long illness of William Donnelly, for many years a resident of this district. The deceased formerly lived in North Monghan just south of the city, but some years ago moved into Peterborough, where he had since resided. He had been ill for some months with a complication of diseases. He was well known in the district and his death will be regretted by a large circle of acquaintances.

OUTING OF I. O. F.

Pleasant Outing Yesterday to Clear Lake

The Sixth Annual Excursion of Court Chemong, I.O.F., was held yesterday to South Beach. As in previous years the attendance was large and with the fine weather that was provided the day was enjoyably spent. Dinner was taken at South Beach and in the afternoon the Otonabee, which carried the excursionists, proceeded on to Viamede and Mount Julian. Dancing was one of the main features of the day. The crew of the Otonabee won the favour of the crowd by their courtesy. The committe in charge of the picnic was as follows: Messrs. P. Wallace, W. G. McKee, J. W. Buyers, G. W. Powell, Geo. Metcalf. The return was made in good time, everyone pleased with the outing.

Dr. Marsh Explains Utility Of Discovery Of North Pole

A good deal of inquiry is heard as to the scientific and practical value of Dr. Cook's alleged discovery of the North Pole. As the most conversant and best informed authority on the subject the Examiner sought an interview with Dr. Marsh, F.R.A.S., Springville, and in the course of the interview he stated the reasons why the discovery is to be regarded as important.

Dr. Marsh said that the mathematical curves, the lines of longitude, which were formerly theoratical, can now be practically completed and proved to be existent, in fact as well as in proposition.

The magnetic condition of the whole earth will be much better understood and as soon as the South Pole shall have been reached material will be available for a complete magnetic chart of the earth, such as is now available for the magnetic charting of the northern hemisphere. Such a chart will be of inestimable value to sailors, while fishers and others who go up to the sea in ships, and will be compiled, providing Dr. Cook took the proper necessary observations. Such a charting will correct magnetic variations, and permit of navigation with greater surety and confidence.

Again, if Dr. Cook was able to take proper observations the flattened condition of the earth at the poles, as claimed by scientists, can be demonstrated.

The discovery will be of important advantage from a geographical point of view, as the northern part of the hemisphere, which now exists on our maps as a blank, can now be mapped. In regard to geological advantages, the claims of scientists, correct, or otherwise, that the north regions were once under tropical conditions, and that it was the first seat of human existence and occupation can now be verified or disproved, and geologists will be aided in their researches by the discovery made.

It can also be shown that bodies will weigh more at the poles, and clocks run faster, owing to the pole if the flattening exists, being near the centre of gravity.

Regarding Dr. Cook's report of travelling over glacial ice to reach the pole Dr. Marsh says, he would expect to find such ice. The lessened centrifugal motion at the pole would have a tendency to create a sliding motion.

He also regards the winter as the best time to make an attempt to reach the pole. In the spring the centrifugal force acting upon the softened ice will have a tendency to pile up hummocks.

Dr. Marsh criticizes Dr. Cook's method of measuring the distance travelled by the pedometer, which registers lateral movements—side-tracking—as well as direct progress. The only proper way to record the distance covered is by astronomical observation.

Dr. Marsh, in conclusion, expressed his belief in Dr. Cook having actually reached the pole, for he was well equipped to take the necessary observations to determine the fact.

How Is Your Watch Running?

Watch Repairing Always Has Been a Hobby of Ours to do the Best Work Possible.

Is it always fast or slow; never quite on time? Perhaps the watch is capable of very accurate running, but it is not in perfect order. You know the tiny mechanism of a watch absolutely demands that each of the dozens of little parts—jewels, springs, wheels, etc.—be just right, or good timing is out of the question.

ROYAL THEATRE

"The Sword and the King"

This is a "High Art" film, and one of the best produced by The Vitagraph Co. The story is from mediæval history and is most interesting, showing the wickedness of a tyrant king, and his punishment for the same. It is a picture that should not be missed.

Getting Even With Everybody

One of Pathe Frere's latest and most up-to-date comedies, it is brimful of fun from start to finish and shows how the young lover gets even all around with all who gave him trouble.

"Caught In His Own Trap"

A very comical production of Pathe's showing how a jealous husband lays a trap to catch his wife and is himself caught.

Mr. Loftus will sing one of the latest up-to-date songs entitled:—"On a Monkey Honeymoon."

SPECIAL NOTICE—The improvements at The Royal are now well advanced and our patrons need not fear overcrowding, as we will have lots of room for everyone.

DEAD HERO HONOURED

Body of Wireless Telegraph Operator Was Brought For Burial to His Native Home—By Sticking to His Post on Sinking Steamer Near Alaska He Succeeded In Getting Assistance—Saved 200.

Almonte, Sept. 8.—George T. Eccles, the wireless operator, who sacrificed his life for others near Alaska, on August 27 last, was buried here, at his native place yesterday afternoon.

Eccles it was who stuck to his post during the sinking of the steamer Ohio, sending out wireless messages for assistance while the steamer was going to pieces. As a result other vessels came to the rescue in time, and nearly 200 were saved from drowning.

An incident never before published was learned yesterday from H. E. Malsaac, a very near friend of Eccles, that at the last moment Eccles went down a stairway on the sinking vessel to try and save "Doc" Hughes, a Seattle soldier, but was too late. Both he and Hughes were drowned.

Yesterday afternoon all places of business were closed, the bells of St. Paul's Anglican Church tolled solemnly, and the church was crowded during the impressive service. Rev. E. Saddington, Almonte; Canon Elliott, Carleton Place, and Rev. Farley, Clayton, Ont., conducted the service, the keynote of which was that "greater love hath no man than that he lay down his own life for his friends."

Mayor Metcalf and the members of the council attended. Flags were half-masted at the Town Hall and on many public buildings. The chief mourners included his wife and his children, aged 6 and 4; two sisters, the Misses Elizabeth and Mary Ann Eccles, Almonte; four brothers, Jas. and Arthur of Almonte, Marion of Ottawa, and William of Dakota; and his father-in-law, Mr. Barry of Winnipeg. There is a fifth brother living in Dakota, who was not at the funeral. The floral tokens were numerous and included a floral Maltese Cross from the Ottawa members of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America (also represented at the funeral by J. P. Kavanagh and P. A. Casey); two large pillars from the wireless operators of the Pacific coast, made of carnations and roses, and of which the words "S.O.S." and "30" appeared; wreath of lilies of the valley and roses from the telegraph operators at Winnipeg. A costly monument to Eccles will be erected in one of the parks at Seattle. Already both the Wireless Telegraph Co. and numerous companies there have subscribed $500 each towards it.

The Citizens' Band headed the funeral.

Quebec Bridge Plans.

Montreal, Sept. 8.—Paul Wolfel of Philadelphia and P. Johnston of Montreal, consulting engineers, met the Quebec bridge committee yesterday and decided that tenders should be asked for a cantilever and suspension bridge, the class of structure to be definitely decided upon later on.

The bridge will be 150 feet above high tide, and 600 feet in length. The main bridge will be 25 feet wide, against 61 feet. The centre span will be reduced from 1,800 to 1,715 feet, this being made possible by the erection of a main pier 100 feet further from the north shore than the present pier. The old pier will also be reduced and strengthened.

Work will begin at once.

Was Whirled to His Death.

Berlin, Sept. 8.—A fatal accident occurred at Bridgeport yesterday, in the flour mills of Shirk and Sonyder, the victim being Arnold Payne, aged 19, who came here from Peterboro. He was drawn into the shafting by a belt making 200 revolutions a minute. The body was horribly mangled, the legs being severed below the hips.

Found Dead In Machinery.

Oil Springs, Sept. 8.—Harvey Wilkinson of Oil Springs, who was running the pumping rig on the Molson Bank property, became caught in the machinery yesterday. He was found dead with his head badly crushed.

Politician's Death.

Newburgh, N.Y., Sept. 8.—Col. Fox of New York City, for many years a prominent figure in the Republican politics of New York State, was killed here yesterday afternoon by falling from his automobile.

Soldiers Leave Glace Bay.

Glace Bay, N.S., Sept. 8.—One hundred and fifty soldiers are leaving to-day and two hundred will remain here, it is said, until the close of the strike.

RUNAWAY ACCIDENT

All the Occupants Were Thrown Out and ex-Mayor of Vernon, B.C., Who Was Driving Had His Leg Broken—Strathcona Escaped With a Badly Bruised Arm—Horses Frightened Going Down Hill.

Vancouver, Sept. 8.—Lord Strathcona narrowly escaped serious injury in an accident near Vernon. Accompanied by Sir Edward Clouston, C. C. Chipman and Mr. Pollard, he drove out from Vernon to visit Lord Aberdeen's celebrated fruit farm, Coldstream Ranch. They were driven by W. R. Megaw, who is a prominent merchant and ex-mayor of the city.

On a steep hill near Long Lake, about three miles from town, the team became unmanageable and bolted down towards the lake. Megaw is one of the best whips in the country, but could do nothing to stop the animals, which were frightened by the whiffletrees striking their legs. At the foot of the hill is a sharp turn of road. The bank of the lake at this place is about twenty feet high. Seeing he could not make the turn, Megaw pulled the horses into a wire fence.

The carriage was overturned and all were thrown to the ground. Fortunately all escaped without serious injury except Megaw, who had a leg broken.

Lord Strathcona's right arm was bruised, but he made light of it. A telephone message to town brought out an automobile at once, and the party were conveyed to their car.

Typhoid Rampant In Cobalt.

Cobalt, Sept. 8.—The epidemic of typhoid in Cobalt has not been improving during the past few days, and if anything, has been getting worse. A poster just issued by the Cobalt Red Cross Hospital gives a clear idea of the hold that this dreaded disease has on Cobalt.

The number of new cases which have developed in the last few days is alarming, and the situation is very serious. For humanity's sake please take the following precautions:

1. Do not drink any water until it has been boiled.
2. Remove at once all garbage about your premises.
3. Use chloride of lime freely by scattering in places where there are bad odors.
4. Every building should be scrubbed inside with strong soap suds with small quantity of concentrated lye added.

All cases should be reported at once and help will be given.

Market In Newfoundland.

Ottawa, Sept. 8.—Canada's trade commissioner at St. John's, Nfld., J. E. Ray, is in Ottawa.

He states there have been some changes in the Newfoundland tariff. A reduction from 45 to 20 per cent. has been made on metal roofing and shingles. The rate on soap is changed from 40 per cent. ad valorem to 1 1-2 cents a pound.

There is an excellent market in Newfoundland for cordage. Agriculture is developing in Newfoundland, and there is a growing demand for Canadian agricultural implements. There is a growing demand also for cement.

EARL GREY AND ROOSEVELT.

His Excellency Expresses Views Similar to Those of Ex-President.

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 8.—That Earl Grey is a hearty supporter of ex-President Roosevelt in his anti-race suicide views is shown by an address he gave yesterday while inaugurating the Women's Canadian Club of Vancouver.

"Let your influence be ever on the side of fair play. You can never raise a great nation when the boys, for instance, do not play fair at their games," he said.

"I would close those few remarks by reminding you that the woman is rendering the greatest service of all to the state who rears the largest number of happy, healthy, righteous and God-fearing children."

Thrilling Scenes In Wreck.

St. John's, Nfld., Sept. 8.—Thrilling scenes attended the loss of the Allan Line steamer Laurentian, bound from Boston for Glasgow, which piled up on the rocks near Cape Race during a dense fog at 6 o'clock Monday morning. When the ship struck she rebounded heavily, the shock throwing most of the sleeping passengers from their berths. They stampeded for the deck, without stopping to dress, and for an hour excitement prevailed. Capt. Imrie and his officers, however, succeeded in quieting all hands and persuaded every one to return to quarters and dress.

A stiff northwest wind banged the ship about and at 7 o'clock orders were given to put the boats overboard. Twenty-five of the passengers, mostly women and children, were placed in the first boat, but the bow tackle collapsed and several persons were thrown into the sea. Others were injured by the thumping of the small craft against the sides of the collapsing liner. Within 15 minutes those thrown into the water were drawn to the deck and the passengers in the disabled boats were rescued.

Six more lifeboats were put over, but the passengers say that some of the seamen of the Laurentian did not know how to row and that they were obliged to handle the oars themselves. Along the iron-bound coast cliffs rise to a height of 50 feet.

WANDERED IN WOODS

Was Found by a Foreman on the C.P.R. Between Fort William and Winnipeg—Hair and Beard Unkempt and Frightfully Scarred He Made a Pitiable Sight—He Was Sent to a Hospital.

Winnipeg, Sept. 8.—A man, frightfully scarred about the face, hands, arms and legs, sat in the Tecumseh House yesterday morning and told a story of his adventures while he was lost for 15 days in a wild tangle of bush, muskeg and rocks north of the C.P.R. line, between Fort William and Winnipeg. He reached the C.P.R. track at 11 o'clock Monday morning, and was given a square meal for the first time in half a month by one of the foremen employed on the double-tracking.

During the time he was lost he subsisted, he says, solely on berries, which were bitter and, for all he knew, poisonous, but he took the chance.

The man, according to his story, was panic-stricken in his anxiety to reach human society, and states that he rarely ate more than one meal a day, drinking whatever water came handiest, whether it was from muskeg or lake. As he staggered on, day after day, he thought he would go insane. Yesterday morning, in the dead silence of the bush his heart leaped when there was faintly borne upon his ears the long-drawn whistle of a locomotive.

The man, who gives his name as Joseph Sherreh of Leamington, Ont., is 69 years of age, and his unkempt hair and beard, framing a gaunt hollow-cheeked face, which is bronzed and marked with red scars of healing wounds, gave him a pitiable appearance yesterday morning. He called upon Relief Officer Kerr at the City Hall and was sent to the hospital.

He is a widower and has two sons and a daughter living at Leamington. These have been communicated with. He says he was drunk when he got lost.

Quebec Wants a Cobalt.

Montreal, Sept. 8.—Wanted a Quebec Cobalt. Such was the gist of Sir Lomer Gouin's speech at St. Johns, Que., Monday evening. To secure this he is sending expert engineers into the Chiboloms district, where prospectors have been going for years, and where it is claimed that the deposits of silver, gold and asbestos are extremely rich. If the experts bear out the claims of the prospectors the Government will build a railway into the camp. The nearest road now is a hundred miles away, and the hills are so bad that though two or three companies have had ore piled for years, none has been taken out, and many of the companies have failed. Over three hundred claims have been staked for the past few years in anticipation of a railway. The G.T.P. will run about 70 miles from Lake Dore, the centre of the district.

Another announcement of the Premier was that the Government would build huge reservoirs on the St. Maurice River, so that the spring freshet water could be collected and the height of the river maintained at normal during the hot months by using the reservoir water.

Aldermen Demanded Money.

Montreal, Sept. 8.—Ald. Lesperance, who has figured prominently in the proceedings of the royal commission, was mentioned yesterday when evidence was brought out that he had demanded $1,000 from a firm of contractors as the price of getting a contract. After some dickering, this was reduced to $600. The firm got the contract all right, but not having come to time the alderman is declared to have threatened that he would interfere with the contract unless he was paid. Another contractor claimed that he did not compete for a civic contract because he was given to understand that 5 per cent. would have to be paid to certain aldermen

Three Thousand Perished.

Mexico City, Sept. 8.—It is believed by the authorities that the total casualties in northern Mexico from recent floods, will reach a total of not less than 3,000, making the record of deaths at Monterey and other points second only to the Johnstown disaster.

President Brown of the National Railway says the damage wrought is the worst in the history of the republic. One-third of the damaged section has not yet been heard from. The monetary loss to the residents is placed at $2,000,000, and this figure may be doubled when all the sections are published.

Mr. Reville Declined.

Brantford, Sept. 8.—A surprise was caused here yesterday when the announcement was made that F. D. Reville, recently appointed sheriff of this county, had declined the position, and that W. W. Ross, a local insurance underwriter, had been appointed. Mr. Reville will continue as editor of The Brantford Courier. The new appointee came here a few years ago from Hamilton.

Montreal, Sept. 8.—Montreal is planning to have a National Exhibition next year, and steps are being taken to secure the necessary funds. The City Council yesterday voted $10,000 towards the project, and a deputation waited upon Sir Lomer Gouin, from whom they expect an equal sum.

Boy's Eye Was Put Out.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Sept. 8.—Playing in a barn yesterday afternoon, Leslie, the 13-year-old son of Edward Mears, found a cartridge and to test it he hammered it with an axe. The cartridge exploded and so severely injured the boy about the eyes, that it is thought he will lose the sight of one eye. He also sustained several wounds on the face and body. He was taken to Buffalo last night to an eye specialist.

Faith Cure Failed.

Welland, Ont., Sept. 8.—Ruth, the five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bechen, Crowland, is dead.

The child was taken ill, and last Tuesday Dr. Colbreck was called to diagnose the case, which he pronounced a bad case of diphtheria. The parents are members of a sect known as "Saints," and believe in prayer instead of medicine. They refused to have medicine or antitoxine for the child.

Auto Passed Funeral.

Port Hope, Ont., Sept. 8.—For failing to stop their automobile while passing a funeral, F. G. Kay of Pittsburg and A. E. Hamilton, his chauffeur, were fined $5 and $4.25 costs each in the Police Court.

The law requires that in the country the machine must stop and turn down a side street and the auto in question passed the funeral very slowly.

Little Boy Shot Himself.

Kenora, Sept. 8.—While playing with a small 22-calibre rifle here on Monday morning, Edwin Swanson, aged 7, was shot in the right temple and died shortly afterwards. A party of boys had been out shooting hawks and had just arrived home when, thinking the rifle was unloaded, one of them began playing with the gun.

A DOUBLE EVENT.

Story of Two People Struggling For Literary Fame.

By AMELIA PAIN.

The first letter fell out of a blue sky, signed "John Giddens," on to unprepared soil, addressed to "E. F. Cornish, Esq., Care of the Editor," and ran as follows:

Dear Sir—I have just read your story, "The Carbuncle." May I refer you to a sketch of mine, entitled "The Ruby," published in Stoner's Magazine for April last? I am naturally much flattered at being found worthy of imitation—an imitation so frank and obvious as to leave no room for question of chance or coincidence. At the same time, as I hope some day to republish my story in book form, I should consider it both honest and courteous on your part if you would insert in the next number of the magazine an acknowledgment that your story was founded on mine. I am, of course, only a beginner in the field of literature, but I had hoped that this need not absolve my colleagues from ordinary fair play. Faithfully yours, JOHN GIDDENS.

The answer came three days later:

Dear Sir—Your letter of the 4th has been forwarded to me. I had not read your story, "The Ruby," until this morning. I had never, as it happens, heard of it or seen Stoner's Magazine for April last. Of course I cannot prove this statement. I can and do here swear to the truth of it, but am aware that it still rests with you to believe or disbelieve it and that disbelief is the more probable. The resemblance between the two stories is extraordinary. It is a most amazing coincidence, nothing more. Faithfully yours, E. F. CORNISH.

John Giddens immediately wrote again, declaring himself perfectly satisfied with the explanation, apologizing for his indignation and flippantly suggesting that in future they should revise each other's proofs to avoid further risks.

Will you accept the small volume which I send herewith as a peace offering? It is my first attempt at a novel, just published. My excuses must be, first, that it is short; second, that I naturally have a feeling of fellowship with the author of "The Carbuncle," and, third, that, with the above notable exception, I so genuinely admire your work and would value your criticism accordingly. The qualities which I enjoy most in your writing—the extreme delicacy and subtlety—have led me to guess that your masculine title is assumed. If I am mistaken it will be my first error in judging the sex of a writer, and I should be apologetically yours, JOHN GIDDENS.

E. F. Cornish allowed the lapse of a week before returning thanks for the book. "I waited to read it, contrary to my general rule," was the reason given, borne out by a most careful criticism and most uncommon praise. "The book has appealed to me more strongly perhaps than any other modern novel. I hardly dare or care to tell you (after what has already passed between us) that the plot is almost identical with one which I have been secretly nursing in my mind for years. But so it is. It gave me the oddest sensation—as if my thoughts had somehow escaped my brain or had been stolen from me. I had a moment of senseless rage." And toward the end of the letter: "Of course you are right about my name and sex being assumed, but you are the first who has unmasked me. I trust to your discretion. I am sure that I safely may. There are reasons why this should be of importance to me. As to your feeling of fellowship, how should one not feel drawn toward an intellectual twin? I, for my part, am frankly curious to know more of yourself as well as of your work. Will you let me? Remember that I know nothing of your personal history beyond your address and that I am no less curious than the rest of my sex."

Whereon John Giddens showed himself no less flatterable than the rest of his sex by replying with a long letter, delicately personal, a trifle sentimental in parts, but with high lights of humor that must have appealed particularly to E. F. Cornish if sympathy in humor goes for anything. And of course there was a counter petition for personal information. "There is always a satisfaction," he ended, "in seeing a portrait of any one of whom we have vividly imagined. May I not see a portrait of you—a sketch, a photograph—anything that can give me the faintest clew? I intend faithfully to return it. If you refuse you must, of course, bear my inferences."

"I haven't got one photograph of myself that I would show to a stuffed cat," answered E. F. Cornish, "but to stifle inferences I must tell you that there will be at least two portraits of me in next year's exhibitions (I am a victim of painters), and those you shall see and know. Tell me meanwhile what your imagination has painted me. Describe me. I will describe you by way of encouragement. You are of medium height; a trifle sallow; short, brown beard and, I think, grayish eyes; a sensitive mouth—almost femininely so—and very white hands. You are not strong physically, and you are thin and stoop a little. You are emotional and a bad sleeper. There! Send exhaustive corrections and forgiveness as soon as you like." A short and whimsical lament on the "abysmal difficulties" that beset the work of a young girl who is writing entirely in secret closed the letter.

"Dark," John Giddens painted her in his reply, "with straight brows and full lips, a strong, self reliant face and upright figure; large and rather restless eyes, with a bit of the devil in them; age about twenty-five, but sometimes three; a little bit too wealthy for your own happiness as an artist, a little bit spoiled by worldly admiration. Heavens, how I shall tremble before your next letter!"

The next letter was already a certainty. From now they wrote constantly, letters that slipped gradually into intimacy, letters full of kindred humor, often frankly personal.

It was John Giddens who at last, after two months of this correspondence, approached the question of meeting, till then carefully avoided. "Why should we remain mere paper friends when fate so clearly intended more? Think of all we may be foregoing, or better still, think not at all, but send me a simple, trustful 'Yes.'"

And she did send by return a colossal "Yes" that occupied the whole of the first page. On the second came instructions: "Let it be at the British museum (for respectability) by the Elgin marbles (for inspiration) next Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock. And, to avoid assaulting the wrong people, let each wear a yellow orchid—I in my dress, you in your coat. Bob (of John Giddens' novel) has decided me. I was rereading last night, 'Those whom a common humor hath joined together let no man put asunder.'"

Tuesday was a pouring wet day, but at five minutes to 5 a tall, gaunt woman, large footed, with a yellow orchid in her dress, entered the Elgin marble room, wiped some spots of rain off her gloves and cape, tweaked nervously at her veil and looked about her with furtive, shortsighted eyes that gleamed excitedly behind her glasses. She must have been forty if a minute, but had the originality to face it squarely in her soberly expensive garments, her unchallenging—almost apologetic—bonnet and her hygienic boots. A certain broad humanity in the mouth and a decided glint of humor in the eye saved the face from downright ugliness, or—well, nearly saved it.

At three minutes to 5 a young man of about twenty-two, very short, very fair and bloodless, with a stoop, and a yellow orchid in his buttonhole, entered the same room from the other side. He, too, looked about him with quick, light eyes, wherein a corresponding glint of humor fought with an impassive mouth.

They did not appear to see one another at once, these two, although the room held no more than its usual half dozen people. But they moved toward each other, from statue to statue, with slow, casual steps and a deep interest apparently in the antique till they met. Then they glanced hurriedly over one another and passed on in opposite directions. Both continued this slow prowl around the room until they necessarily met again. This time the woman stopped, fastened her shortsighted eyes on the man's buttonhole and said with a rush, "I am John Giddens."

He looked fixedly at the orchid in her cape and said, "And I am E. F. Cornish."

She held out her hand, their eyes met squarely, the glints struck, and they stood there laughing hysterically, two ill shaped, civilization soiled moderns among the cold glories of the ancients.

Questions and explanations followed in quick alternation. Why had John Giddens masqueraded as a man in a private correspondence?

"Don't you see that I thought you were a woman?" she explained frantically. "Don't you see what a sublime situation I was going to bring about—to work up to the point of romance, almost of love, and then meet bonnet to bonnet and watch the effect? Tableau! How I should have scored! And what a valuable experience—to find out how another woman would really write to a man, and—oh, it would have been perfect! But why you should pretend to be a woman!"

And E. F. Cornish had to explain how the idea, once given to him, had seemed irresistibly suggestive; how he, too, had determined to represent himself as a young and beautiful girl that he might wallow in the moment of disillusionment. "Again the same idea, you see," he ended.

But after one hour's talk, sitting face to face in that silent company, each had said and heard enough to realize that theirs was indeed an unprecedented intellectual sympathy. It was extraordinary. No two friends of half a century's standing could have played better into each other's hands, taken each other's allusions with quicker grasp, enjoyed each other's utterances with more unjealous admiration.

It was almost unconsciously that she told him such fragments of her life as could interest him—how sheer boredom and social reaction had started her pen in middle life and how her age and her wealth made her fearful of ridicule and determined her to conceal her identity.

And, equally unconsciously, he gave her glimpses of his lower middle class setting in Hampstead—his attacks of literary despair, his sister, who painted screens and bellows, his struggles against ill health.

Yes, there was the intellectual affinity in its finest flower—spontaneous, beautiful, urging eternal union. Only—there were likewise the facts of his twenty-two and her forty years, his five feet four and her five feet eleven, his probable consumption and her certain mother, and, far above all, the fact of their common humor, illuminating all these and holding them to their tacit pact of mere friendship—a friendship which lasted them their time.

PROBLEMATIC.

When the girl of today dons her bathing array,
Do you for a moment suppose
The hipless idea will prevail even here,
With a skimpy skirt down to the toes?

Will the blouse be cut short in directoire style,
With a waist line as high as you please,
Or will it be lengthened and modishly made,
With a cute little frill at the knees?

Will the sleeves be tucked down to the finger tips,
The collar boned up to the ears,
And will a peach basket or beehive replace
The kerchief and cap of past years?

Oh, banish the fancy and banish the fear
That a new Aphrodite may rise,
Sans curves and sans dimples, straight fronted, severe,
With the look of the sphinx in her eyes!

When the girl of today dons a bathing suit gay
Perchance we shall finally see
If she's really the strange work of art she now seems
Or what nature ordained her to be.
—Ella Randall Pearce in Puck.

But Funeral Preferred.

The Disappointed Tragedian—It's a comfortable reflection. I shall certainly attend yours.

Neglectful.

With mingled awe and astonishment we have been watching the gentleman at the next table eating spaghetti. He has a way of catching it on his fork, winding it around and around and tossing it in with a free firm movement akin to that of a hired hand pitching hay into a mow.

"Yes," he says to his friend, who has been watching him with as much interest as we have, "I'm an expert on spaghetti."

"I believe it," remarks his friend.

"You bet! Why, I know forty different ways of cooking it."

"And do you know but the one way of eating it?" asks his friend.

For the moment we are inclined to send a good cigar to the friend.—Chicago Post.

A Clever Turn.

An eminent lawyer was once cross examining a very clever woman, mother of the plaintiff in a breach of promise action, and was completely worsted in the encounter of wits. At the close, however, he turned to the jury and exclaimed: "You saw, gentlemen, that even I was but a child in her hands What must my client have been?" By this adroit stroke of advocacy he turned his failure into a success.—London Mail.

A Slam at Bridge.

Hostess—How do you like your coffee, Mr. Bridge-Fiend?

Mr. Bridge-Fiend—Simple honors in sugar and a chicane in cream, please. —Puck.

Starvation Treatment a Failure

The Sensible Cure for Indigestion is "Little Digesters"

Probably because the taking of food causes such intense discomfort, many dyspeptics think that by abstaining from this and that—practically starving themselves—they can cure the trouble.

Of course, where Indigestion is caused by sheer gluttony, cutting down the food would no doubt do good. But in most cases Indigestion is caused, not by overeating, but by lack of physical exercise, and consequent lack of vigor in the organs of digestion. Partial starvation still further impairs the bodily vigor, and makes the trouble worse.

The dispeptic needs plenty of good, wholesome food. He can eat it, and DIGEST IT, TOO, if he takes a "Little Digester" after each meal. "Little Digesters" help the weakened stomach to do properly that which it cannot do alone—digest and assimilate the food needed to build up the system.

Expectations More Than Fulfilled.

Lucille, a carefully brought up little girl of five years, returned from her first party in glee. "I was a good girl, mamma," she announced, "and talked nice all the time."

"Did you remember to say something pleasant to Mrs. Appleby just before leaving?" her mother asked.

"Oh, yes, I did." was the enthusiastic reply. "I smiled and said, 'I enjoyed myself very much, Mrs. Applegate. I had lots more to eat than I spected.'"—Woman's Home Companion.

Something Just as Good.

Said the young man to the old man,
"I want your daughter's hand."
Said the old man to the young man,
"Of daughters I've a band."
Said the young man to the old man,
"I meant your daughter Sue."
Said the old man to the young man,
"Take Polly, Jane or Prue."
Said the young man to the old man,

A Never Failing Supply.

The fond husband was seeing his wife off with the children for their vacation in the country. As she got into the train he said, "But, my dear, won't you take some fiction to read?"

"Oh, no!" she responded sweetly. "I shall depend upon your letters from home."—London Tatler.

Influenza Coughs—

Influenza seems to seek out the same victims year after year, and if the disorder is once contracted, one is ever after prone to catch it again. No remedy is so sure to cure, so certain to prevent the dangerous after-effects, as "Nerviline." The germ-killing, soothing, pain-relieving power of Nerviline is the marvel of every doctor. Ten times stronger than ordinary remedies. No wonder it breaks up Coughs, Colds, and Influenza in one day.

Nerviline

"Last Winter," writes J. E. Hemmingway, of Woodstock, "I was stricken down with Influenza. Every bone in my body ached. My chest was tight and sore, breathing was hard, stabbing pains shot through my lungs and made me wince. My head swam with dizziness, and fever and high pulse dragged down my strength. Nothing but Nerviline helped, and it cured me quickly. For all Winter ills I urge every family to use Polson's Nerviline."

All dealers sell Nerviline, large bottles 25 cents.

THE 3,000 POUND COW OF QUEBEC

From Farm and Dairy.

J. C. Chapais, Assistant Dairy Commissioner, St. Denis, Que.

The report of the Chief Dairy Instructor of Eastern Ontario for 1908, showed an average milk yield per cow of only 2,700 pounds in the six months, May to October. Allowing for home use and after-season milk, the return would be little, if any, over the disheartening 3,000 pounds limit. The situation concerning dairy cows of Eastern Ontario as stated, is pretty much that of the Province of Quebec. Its causes are also for Quebec what they are assigned to be for eastern Ontario, viz., too much importance attributed to the external point of the cow and too little to its alimentation.

Many were undoubtedly surprised when they were told that in a large section of Ontario, there are more cows giving yearly only 3,000 pounds of milk than there are of those giving a larger yield. We generally find in the columns of the agricultural press records of cows giving from 7,000 to 15,000 and even 20,000 lbs. of milk yearly. We do not entertain any doubt about the truthfulness of such assertions. We know what are the wonderful performances of some Holstein and Ayrshire cows. It is very seldom that any mention of cows yielding only 4,000 lbs. or less is printed, consequently some readers come to the conclusion that the majority of the cows of the province are all phenomena, whose average yearly yield of milk is at least, 6,000 lbs. Many are in fact induced to scorn their own common cows and to get, through great money sacrifices, some offspring of those extraordinary cows, believing that this is sufficient to insure the improvement of their herd.

WHERE THE MISTAKE COMES IN

This is a great mistake. In fact many don't know what amount of in and in breeding has been required in order to make of such large yields the standing character of a family, which differs as much from the common families of its own breed as do the various breeds of cattle between themselves. They are not aware that those animals must be very highly fed. They further forget that those marvellous milkers have very delicate constitutions on account of their high in and in breeding. This fact puts their owners under the obligation of keeping them in the most comfortable lodgings and of bestowing upon them the best and most constant care. For these various reasons, we may imagine what is the disappointment of the ordinary farmer who buys one of those cows, keeps her in a poor stable, feeds her insufficiently with coarse feed and finally soon sees that costly animal take on the poorest of appearance and give but a scanty yield of milk.

SIMPLE WAYS OF IMPROVEMENT

It is only after such unlucky experiments that the farmer comes to think that there are other ways of improving his herd and those ways are simple. Let him buy a well bred bull of the Ayrshire or French Canadian breeds of cattle, raised under the severe climate of eastern Ontario or Quebec and practise the selection of the offspring of that bull mated with his best common cows. Then, by taking good care of those well selected animals, feeding them with substantial and liberally supplied food, he will obtain, not extraordinary yields, but an average of 5,000 to 6,000 lbs. of good, rich milk, yearly, and he will not incur the risk of introducing in his herd and locality such diseases as tuberculosis, which readily prey on the very highly bred animals, which on account of too frequent in and in breeding, excessive production of milk and want of acclimatisation, are not hardy enough to do well with only ordinary care and food.

PROFIT FROM EGG PRODUCTION

From Farm and Dairy.

A. P. Hillhouse, Brome Co., Que.

In looking up our list of poultry producers we find two instances of success from egg-production alone. The first is on a small dairy farm, where 12 or 14 milch cows are kept, as well as 50 laying hens. The hens are under the entire charge of the farmer's wife and two daughters. Our books show that they have brought their eggs to us continually for the past five years, and, in taking the year 1908 as an example, that their delivery was from five to fifteen dozen a week. They were paid for these eggs from 17 to 35 cents a doz., and received in cash $114.40 for eggs alone during the year. An accurate account of cost of feed for the hens was not kept, but we find that where a flock of from 25 to 50 hens are kept on free range on a farm, the outlay seldom exceeds $1 a hen.

A PAYING BRANCH

This leaves a profit of $64.40 from eggs alone, over and above keeping the home in eggs, and 12 or 15 dozen for hatching chickens, as they aim to rear 50 or 60 chickens each year, that they may have 25 pullets to replace all but yearling hens in their flock. This leaves them with the revenue from the disposal of the 25 hens, and surplus cockerels. In questioning them, with regard to farm poultry paying, they say that it is far the most profitable branch on their farm, and that if they could only get their cows, hogs, etc., to pay them the same percentage of profit, they would be more than satisfied.

The second is rather a peculiar case, where the farmer and his wife attribute their success entirely to breed. It is quite true that they were not very successful until the last two years, when they made the change and established the breed that they have at present, which is a straight crossbred Rhode Island Red and Brown Leghorn. This was done by breeding a pure-bred Red Cock on a flock of Brown Leghorns, and keeping the pullets for layers. This gave them such wonderful results that they will not keep any others, only straight cross-birds, going to the trouble each year of breeding a pure Red cock on pure Brown Leghorn females to get their laying stock.

A FINE FLOCK

I must say that they have a very fine flock of hens, beautiful in appearance and plumage, laying a considerably larger-sized egg than either of the breeds does as a pure-bred. We have been able to grade all the eggs from this flock No. 1, weighing, on an average, several ounces more than one and a half pounds a dozen, which is seldom the case with Leghorns. Theirs is a large dairy farm, and they also bring their eggs in to us weekly, the net proceeds from this flock, in eggs, being considerably in advance of the first named, per hen. They also state that the poultry branch is the most profitable on their farm, which speaks well for the poultry, as they have an up-to-date, well-managed farm in all lines.

Now, I do not say that a cross from those breeds is the only and best laying hen to be produced, as there are other pure breeds, and crosses of pure breeds, that will give equally good results, but these people have intelligently worked out something that is giving them results, and, rightly or wrongly, give all praise to the ship that carried them over.

WELCOME ADDITIONS FOR THE COLLEGE GIRL'S TRUNK

SERGE OR LINEN WITH LINGERIE COLLAR AND CUFFS

SWAGGER COAT SUITT FOR PLAIN OR ROUGH CLOTHS & MOIRE COLLAR

BECOMING ADAPTATION OF THE MOYEN AGE FOR SILK CLOTH OR COTTON

NEGLIGE OF ALBATROSS COTTON CREPE OR FIDELITY FLANNEL

By Marjorie

HOME SEWING rooms are in a state of feverish haste where the finishing touches are being bestowed upon a college girl's trunk. All colleges and boarding schools do not open for the fall term at the same time, but the last week of this month is very sure to find classes in full swing.

The illustrations on this page have been especially designed for her practical wants. The stunning coat suit for example is typical of the very latest styles. It is simple and conservative and admirably adapted for the fashionable cloths seen on shop counters.

Very attractive are the mannish looking mixtures. Self-colored stripes prevail in this line of worsteds, occasionally a bit of bright color is very discreetly introduced.

The suitings are of the rough and unfinished quality. Homespun cloths are much in demand in plain and two-toned effects. Hopsack and basket weaves in solid and melange designs are very serviceable and decidedly smart in appearance.

Besides these there are coverts, diagonals, whipcords and zibelines, and our old reliable standbys serge and cheviot in a most attractive assortment.

Undoubtedly the favorite choice of the college girls will be the long coat, from 34 to 45 inches.

Buttons are either a good distance apart or close together. Three seems to be the preferred number. These may be set above or below the waistline, below is decidedly newer, but one of the extremes that I do not think advisable for the girl who cannot afford to take up with whims. Belts are likewise drawn below the waistline.

The sketch shown here displays a typically fitted garment, neither loose nor tight. The mannish collar and cuffs are of black moire silk. You will notice that the top of the coat is cut rather low, as are many of the newer models, which permits the frilly neckwear or blouse ruffle to disport itself gracefully.

The sides of the coat are laid back diagonally and may, if fancy dictates, be lined with moire silk. This turning of the revers is quite new and pleasing.

The skirt has its deep circular yoke attached to a plaited skirt.

The batiste blouse is trimmed with tucks and fine beading with jabot directly on the blouse. This is an innovation that will doubtless be favored.

The hat is large, with ample crown. Straw, moire, shantung and felt appear in this style. The trimming consists of a crown band and large bow at the back of the crown in moire ribbon, matching the quality used for facing the collar.

For general wear, when a skirt and separate blouse are not worn, is this frock of blue, made severely plain, but attractive withal. A daughter and heiress of one of the richest men in New York chooses quite the simplest styles for wear at college. The cut and fit are perfect, and the materials the very best, but there is a certain Quaker simplicity about her clothes that distinguishes her from many of her companions.

Serge would be a good choice in this case, and the trimming of moire silk or a finely ribbed silk. Challis, linen, mohair or silk are other desirable materials, and the trimming easily elaborated upon if desired. The deep yoke could be outlined several times instead of once, and carried much higher. The sleeves could be full length.

The cuff and collar set are of fine handkerchief linen, hand-embroidered in dime dots and daintily scolloped on the edge, outlined with a narrow frill of the same material. Many of the newer sets do not have even a hint of lace trimming, and the reaction is quite a relief from the ornate ones we have seen.

MOYEN AGE SIMPLICITY.

For dinner wear and the impromptu entertainments is the pale coral pink frock to the extreme right. In some colleges at least a showing of the low neck is required, and in this case the chemisette and collar may be omitted.

This little frock is a charming adoption of the fashioned moyen age style suitable for either plain or figured materials. For evening it is preferably light in color. The trimming consists of satin bands, self-color, and narrow braid of the same or contrasting hue.

Wool, silk or cotton voile, cotton crepe, cashmere, serge, foulard or linen suggest themselves, and for thinner materials, batiste, silk muslin or net. The chemisette and sleeves are of a becoming material, batiste, satin, chiffon or fancy net.

For study hours and those hilariously informal moments, just previous to "lights outs," when pop visits along the corridors are in order, the full length neglige becomes an important possession. Fortunately expense has little to do with its beauty, for charming ones may be made quite reasonably at home.

Silk or cotton crepe are favorites, so also are challis, nun's veiling and flowered voiles. Plain materials are trimmed with ribbon borders. Various editions of the kimono, fitted and belted, are very satisfactory. China silk in well covered grounds is serviceable, as it does not show soil.

French flannel and flannelette in good patterns and eiderdown are cosy and warm. Plain French flannels in white or color embroidered in white color have scollops through the centre and around the edge of the garment, the sleeves are also trimmed.

Barred and figured muslins are pretty for either the full length or half-length negliges, trimmed with Cluny or German Valenciennes laces. Most college bed rooms are over-heated and for that reason muslin negligee are more practical than heavier ones, though one of heavier material should be included in the wardrobe.

A college girl who has a keen appreciation of bargains recently completed for herself a very attractive full length neglige of cell blue nun's veiling. The original price had been 50 cents a yard, reduced to one-half. It was made quite simply in the short waisted Empire with a low square neck trimmed with bands of Cluny lace.

Another was a Japanese design in cotton crepe with cunning Madame Butterflies holding fans and parasols, all developed in a soft, though characteristic color scheme. The background was a pale gray and the figures came up in dull blue, pink, green and black for the outline of the figure and the hair.

Combination lingerie is finding much sale among college girls. It is a saving of time which is very precious in the early morning, as two garments are slipped over the head at a time instead of one. These sets range in price from $1 to $5; in fact, are available as high as one wants to go.

Royalty's Great-Great Grandmother

THE birth of a son to the youthful Duke and Duchess of Sudermania gives to royal Europe what it has not had for more than ten years, namely, a great-great grandmother. The lady to whom this honor has come is the Grand Duchess Constantine Nicolaievitch, who was before her marriage Princess Alexandra of Saxe Altenburg.

She was 79 on June 26. Her daughter, the Queen of Greece, became a great grandmother at an unusually early age, for she is just 56 years of age.

The dignity of great-great-grandmotherhood is very rarely attained. Queen Victoria never had it, nor did the redoubtable Princess Clementine, though she lived to be nearly 90. The last case of a royal great-great-grandmother occurred in 1896. In April of that year the birth of a daughter to the Duke of Calabria conferred the distinction on Maria Antonietta, Grand Duchess Dowager of Tuscany.

She had the satisfaction of seeing a descendant in the fifth generation bearing the same name and title she had borne in babyhood, Princess Maria Antonietta of the Two Sicilies. Also all five generations were living, the connecting links being supplied by the Grand Duchess's daughter the Countess of Trapani; her grand-daughter, the Countess of Caserta, and the Duke of Calabria, her great-grandson. In the case of the new little Swedish baby the chain of five is broken, the Duchess of Sudermania having lost her mother, the Grand Duchess Paul, who died in 1904.

HURT BY A FLYING COW

Pontiac, Mich.—Louis Barton lies in a critical condition as the result of a most unusual accident. While driving cows across the Northwestern Railroad tracks, one of the cows was struck by a train and thrown three rods. During its flight through the air, the cow struck Mr. Barton, who is now suffering from concussion of the brain.

It is the unexpected that happens. Mrs. R. C. Small of Ottawa, Ont., says: "I suffered from Rheumatism for years and did not expect to be free from pain, but I tried "Fruit-a-tives" and they cured me".

Hundreds of others write similar stories. After suffering for years, paying heavy doctor's bills, and trying all sorts of remedies without benefit, they are cured by "Fruit-a-tives".

For Stomach, Liver and Bowel Troubles, Headaches and Backaches, Neuralgia and Rheumatism "Fruit-a-tives" may be depended upon to effect a speedy and permanent cure.

TAKING IT EASY.

From Farm and Dairy.

W. M. Hanby, Lennox Co., Ont.

Ten years ago two farmers sold their farms and moved to town. They were both strong men and good farmers, and when they used to swap work often raced to see which was the best and swiftest worker. The victories were about evenly divided.

But there is a great change now. I have been comparing the two men.

One comes down to the post office every morning on a cane. His muscles sag, his face is flabby and his eyes are dull. He mopes around in the sun, sitting on steps and drygoods boxes until noon, then creeps back to the house for dinner. He is not sick—just "no account," as he expresses it.

He is sixty, and since he came to town has been "taking it easy."

The other old fellow bought five acres of ground at the edge of the town, tends a big truck patch, milks five cows, cares for two hundred chickens and delivers milk to thirty customers in town every morning.

To see him rattling along in his wagon, to hear his bright, cheery "Good morning! Fine weather we are having," and to watch him hop out of the wagon and trot spryly down the walk with his pail of milk, one would think him barely forty-five.

He is seventy, but he has not been "taking it easy" in the sense we usually mean by that term.

KILLING TIME.

All over the country, especially in the small towns, are an increasingly large number of middle-aged and old men who have sold their farms or business, and are "taking it easy."

They sit around the post office, the courthouse, telling long, dull yarns that none of them are interested in. Their faces are deeply furrowed, and they are tired and dissatisfied. Their muscles are flabby and their bodies prey to a great variety of aches and pains they never noticed before they quit work. Time, with most of these fellows, drags on like a sawlog pulled through stiff clay. They are dully unhappy, and attribute it all to approaching age—and disease.

This Sodom's apple of "taking it easy" is one of the biggest humbugs in life. It kills two ways: While trying to get to it, and in eating it after one does.

Wherever people are found "taking it easy," they are found on a rapid trot down hill, or to the grave—often both.

There are two paces that kill, the one that knows no stopping, and the one that knows no going.

Usually, when a man is burning the candle at both ends and all around the side by working at a killing pace sixteen hours a day, if you ask him why, he will answer: "Oh, I want to save up something so I can 'take it easy' after a while."

But his very effort defeats its own end. He works his muscles at such a tension for so many years that he cannot stop without a rapid deterioration. He literally trains himself into a running machine, whose springs are the very springs of his life, and he will never be able to really rest until he comes to where all the weary are at rest.

Moreover, he is shutting himself out of all present recreation and mental interests, so that when he gets ready financially to "take it easy" he will not be able to enjoy either mentally or spiritually the rest he has purchased at such fearful cost.

Man was never made to take it easy in the sense of quitting work indefinitely, and just loafing around "as he durn please." That mandate about the sweat of the brow applies to health and happiness, as well as bread.

A FOOLISH IDEA.

The idea that a man should quit work at forty-five, fifty, or even sixty, and do nothing, is exceeding foolishness. The fancy that, by and by, after we have "made our pile" we can lay down the burden of work, and life will be one glad picnic, is a delusion and a snare.

All the happiness and genuine rest we get we must get as we go along—all in the day's work.

A man should work so he can live, and live so he can work. The day ought not to be too full of toil for some pleasure and mental development to find a place. The mind should not be so full of figures and schemes there is no blood left for the heart, no taste for the joy of the hour. Every day should know its rest, every month its holiday, every year its vacation, for change of activities and change of scene.

A man owes it to himself to so work that while he gains skill and wealth, at the same time he gains knowledge and heart interest. His spirit should keep such pace with his work that he can find each day the higher meaning, the unseen force, in the matter his hand has found to do.

In this way the mind rests the body, and the body keeps clean and sane the mind, and, barring accidents, one will be able to work far into age.

THE IDEAL STATE.

The ideal state would be for a man to work with zest up to 2 o'clock of his last day, allow himself two hours to put on his Sunday clothes and bid his family good-by, then die at four.

Accidents and disease often shut a man out from his work, and how miserable he is, if he has been only a working machine. But if he has lived as he went on there will always be compensations; and through intellectual and heart interests he may get a fair measure of enjoyment out of life, instead of querulously awaiting the end.

Yes, it is a good thing—a necessary thing, for us to have something to do, something necessary for us to do. And if we are to get the best from life we should do it so that instead of racing madly toward a mythical time when it will be all rest, we can guard our strength, and freshness, so the time will never come when we are deprived of the joy of the day's work.

PROTRUDING PILES

Read the evidence that this distressing ailment is cured by DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Some people find it hard to believe that anything short of a surgical operation will cure protruding piles. The doctors have brought about this belief. There is any amount of proof that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a positive cure for this as well as all other forms of piles.

Captain Wm. Smith, Revelstoke, B. C., writes:

"It is with much pleasure I state that I have used Dr. Chase's Ointment for itching, protruding piles of many years standing, and it has completely cured me I had previously tried many other remedies but they did me no good. I would strongly recommend this Ointment to those suffering from this complaint, for it is a good and genuine cure."

Mrs. Captain Climansmith, Salvation Army, Essex, Ont., writes:

"It is with pleasure that I write to you in praise of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Two years ago I was taken with a severe attack of protruding piles and became so bad that I had to keep my bed and could lie in no position except on my stomach Doctors could give me no help and the various oils and ointments used proved of no avail.

"One Saturday night when I was suffering untold agony my husband went to the drug store for a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, which I had heard of as a cure for piles. Although I had almost given up hope, to the wonder of those around me, I was able to be up on Monday and have had no difficulty from piles since. As a treatment for all kinds of sores and burns, Dr. Chase's Ointment works like magic."

KEEP ONLY THE GOOD COWS

From Farm and Dairy.

Cessation of demand for a good cow is not within measurable distance, her place is too well established in the daily economy of the civilized world. The supply of this demand is being studied by too few men in Canada. The vital importance of the good cow to the average dairy farmer is a question that has not up to the present had enough publicity or study. The average factory patron is the one man of all farmers who can afford only to keep the good cow. His time can be well enough occupied on the farm without the additional pleasure of feeding the average or poor cow that continues to absorb, and take in, and consume, without giving out that which can be turned into a satisfactory profit.

Such remarks as the following, from a dairy farmer near Peterboro significantly indicate of what advantage the cow testing associations really are: "Although we knew in a general way that some cows were low milkers, yet we never realised it until it was brought home to us by weighing and sampling. We are discarding two cows that would have been kept but for the scales showing them up. Many farmers near, on account of such object lessons, are getting rid of their poor cows and buying good milkers and pure bred bulls."

Our factory patrons all over Canada need to realize that time is saved when time is spent in weighing and sampling so as to rid themselves of the poor cow. Definite knowledge of individual performance paves the way for keeping only the good cow: acquire that knowledge by means of individual cow records.

SUNBURNT PIGS

From Farm and Dairy.

A fine lot of healthy fat pigs eight weeks old, that had been fed skim milk, shorts and cut clover and weeds pulled from the garden, after being turned out though fed practically the same feed, would drop down on their bellies on the ground with a sort of jerk. Their backs were sore and covered with scabs. They would eat but would not move around more than they could help. If touched, they would squeal. What has caused this trouble, or is it some contagious disease that has broken out among them?—E. D., Victoria Co., Ont.

The trouble is not the fault of the feed, and is not contagious, nor can it be called a disease. Your pigs were sunburnt after being turned out of a pen where the sun did not get to them. Oil or grease with 5 per cent. carbolic acid added, rubbed on their backs will soon cure them.—H.G.

CANADIAN APPLES WANTED

From Farm and Dairy.

W. A. McKinnon, Canadian Trade Commissioner, Birmingham, England.

The time of year comes round when British fruit firms are anxiously looking for first-class supplies of Canadian apples. As usual, what they most desire is trial shipments from such parts as wish eventually to inaugurate a direct trade with them, after having first established mutual confidence.

Naturally, co-operative fruit-growers' associations merit high consideration, and it would pay some of them who are in a position to ship high-class stuff and maintain the grades, to test some markets on commission first, even though they may thus violate the cash sale principles on which they hope eventually to do business. The services of this office are always at the disposal of the exporters.

Wives and Mothers Suffer With Backache

Constantly on their feet, attending to the wants of a large and exacting family, women often break down with nervous exhaustion.

In the stores, factories, and on a farm are weak, ailing women, dragged down with torturing backache and bearing down pains.

Such suffering isn't natural, but it's dangerous, because due to diseased kidneys.

The dizziness, insomnia, deranged menses, and other symptoms of kidney complaint can't cure themselves, they require the assistance of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which go direct to the seat of the trouble.

DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS CURE ALL WOMAN'S ILLS

To give vitality and power to the kidneys, to lend aid to the bladder and liver, to free the blood of poisons, probably there is no remedy so successful as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. For all womanly irregularities their merit is well known. Recommended for girls and women of all ages. 25 cents per box at all dealers. Refuse any substitute for Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

PICKING APPLES

From Farm and Dairy.

Elmer Lick, Ontario Co., Ont.

The time to pick is important. The object is to have the apples at the very best of color, quality, appearance and keeping quality. The final decision as to exact time depends on the weather and weather probabilities, the labor available, the variety, and to some extent on the market.

All things being equal, it is desirable to pick apples when weather is cool. This is not always possible, but is best for keeping quality. The probability of high winds or heavy frosts will often lead to earlier picking than otherwise would be the case. When labor is scarce some of the apples will have to be picked somewhat earlier. Some varieties hang to trees in spite of heavy winds, others fall readily, even before well colored. A heavily loaded tree will not blow off nearly as easy as where the crop is light. Sometimes early market, other times late market would seem best. A difference of a few days in picking under varying market conditions would be in interest of fruit grower.

Have plenty of light ladders of suitable lengths, and at least two baskets for each picker. There are several kinds of baskets in use. My preference is for the half-bushel round splint basket made with leather strip inside and as smooth as possible with a heavy iron wire bale and iron hook attached to each basket. This basket is smooth on inside and cannot be dropped and caught. The long oval basket is most largely used. This requires a lining on sides of the basket, has a stiff handle; is liable in careless hand to spill cut apples, and is too frequently dropped and caught, thus bruising apples often very seriously. The long oval willow basket is also used. This basket will last longer than any other, but must be lined with heavy material, otherwise serious bruising is liable to result. For high trees use a rope or strap to lower baskets.

Remember to handle apples like eggs, not like stones or turnips.

Do not allow an apple to fall more than two inches, do not mix windfalls or dropped apples with picked fruit.

The whole operation of picking apples is one requiring carefulness, combined with good judgment, founded on accurate information, and a direct personal interest in the work.—Extract from a pamphlet issued by Ontario Department of Agriculture.

OF TORONTO

Safe Industrial Investment

WHICH WILL PAY AT LEAST

10 PER CENT PER ANNUM 10

THE KEARNS INK CO. of Toronto was organized two years ago to manufacture the new CANADIAN WRITING INKS, invented by J. J. Kearns. The past two years has been spent in experimenting and improving quality and to-day it stands among the top notchers in the Ink world. This Ink has met with such spontaneous approval from users, and the trade has shown such willingness to buy in quantities, that the managers deem it wise to enlarge their operations and make a big staple business enterprise out of this Company, hence offer to the public. The total capital is only $40,000, so that you can see that this is no inflated and watered wild cat scheme, but a first-class legitimate investment offered to you—one where a dollar invested today will be worth at least two in a year and will pay 10 per cent. income on this.

PROFITS—There is a gross profit in this Ink of from 25 per cent. to 300 per cent. This is a clear cut business statement, every word of which we can substantiate.

Some Orders That we Received as to the Sale of Kearns' Ink. We found the demand practically without limit; we receiving orders and inquiries for the Ink far beyond our ability to supply the goods. Orders came from such houses as Central Business College, Ontario Government, Separate School Boards of Toronto and Peterborough, The Toronto Railway Co., Consumers Gas Company, National Trust Co. Limited, King Edward Hotel and many other large concerns of the country.

A Safe Management—The entire management is in the hands of a Board of Directors of leading business men—men of executive and financial ability, men of "made reputation," men who can be counted on to capably and honestly direct the affairs of the enlarged Company, and see that each and every shareholder receives every dollar of the earnings of his stock.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

The body of the young woman found in a creek near Detroit has been identified.

E. H. Harriman is said to be in a very serious condition at his home at Arden.

Lefebvre, the French aviator, was killed while flying his aeroplane near Juvisy.

The members of Commander Peary's party declare Dr. Cook never reached the pole.

A question regarding the ownership of the North Pole will come up in the British Commons.

William Nichols of London, Ont., was bound and gagged and severely beaten by burglars.

Rev. S. D. Johnson of Newbury was elected moderator of the presbytery of London yesterday.

The Grand Trunk Pacific service from Winnipeg west has been extended to Wainwright, Alberta.

James Gorman, who was shot by an Italian named Polli at Plaster Rock, N.B., died yesterday.

Rev. P. W. Anderson was unanimously elected moderator of the Ottawa presbytery yesterday, succeeding Rev. J. H. Turnbull.

Mrs. Hattie Winders, the heiress to the fortune of Wm. H. Anderson, sr., of London, Eng., has been found. She knew nothing about the bequest.

A Race With the News.

London, Sept. 8.—Sir George Nares, who commanded an Arctic expedition in 1875, in an interview finds difficulty in avoiding the conclusion that Peary's Eskimos at Etah must know that Cook crossed Smith's Sound and Etah last winter, and says: "Isn't it a peculiar fact that this coincidence occurs, in view of the possibility of the news having reached Etah of the success of one man, or the other? Wouldn't it be just possible that Dr. Cook has learned of Peary's success and was making an effort to reach civilization first with the prior claim of having discovered the pole?"

The Daily Telegraph, in an editorial, says: "Cook managed to get home a few days ahead. He has to bear the first brunt of scientific and amateur scepticism. On the other hand he enjoys the earliest taste of popularity, but though just beaten by a head, Peary is coming home assured of an unusually warm and enthusiastic welcome and doubtless is equally prepared to run the gauntlet of intelligent and unintelligent criticism."

The Graphic says: "What a pity the explorers did not meet. Chance is evidently a blundering artist. There will be but one opinion of Peary's achievement. It is a splendid reward for a life spent with rare intelligence and interpredity and already rich in stirring adventures and epoch-making discoveries."

The Standard says: "Happily, both are Americans, and one possible reason for bitterness does not exist."

Live Stock at Exhibition.

Toronto, Aug. 8.—The Exhibition grounds yesterday by comparison with Labor Day had almost a cathedral calm, although 68,600 people or thereabouts passed through the turnstiles. But if the 82,000 folks who were about on fruit growers and stock breeders' day, detracted from the busy animation of the scene, there were compensating advantages. It was possible to go through any of the buildings in comfort, and from a sight-seeing view-point, it was a satisfactory day. At the same time as the paid attendance was 6,000 above that of last year, the directors had no occasion for gloom.

Stock breeders from all over Ontario and no small number from beyond its boundaries were there, sun-tanned men who would give an off-hand calculation within a pound or so of the weight of a Hereford or Galloway. They saw everything that was to be seen, but the cattle pens claimed most of their time. The consensus of opinion seemed to be that the live stock this year is much above that of 1908, especially in the Jerseys, and that with the standard constantly rising as it does, exhibitors who carry off awards, in 1910 will have reason to congratulate themselves.

Suffragettes Persue Premier.

Hythe, England, Sept. 8.—The militant suffragettes have pursued Mr. Asquith, the Premier, into his vacation privacy.

They climbed the windows of Lympne Castle Sunday while the Premier and his family were at dinner, throwing stones through the windows and shouting suffragist messages. Then they made their escape in the darkness.

The same afternoon while the Premier and Mr. Herbert Gladstone were engaged at golf in the neighborhood, suffragettes accosted and pestered them until, according to some accounts, a scuffle occurred and the ministers fled to their motor car.

Climbed Mount Robson.

Calgary, Alta., Sept. 8.—Mount Robson, the highest and hitherto unassailed peak of the Rockies, has been conquered by a Canadian, Rev. George Kinney, Methodist minister of Victoria. Kinney wires that he accomplished this remarkable feat, unaided, on Aug. 13, and that he has authentic proofs of the ascent.

Kinney started three months ago to climb the mountain. Prof. Coleman of Toronto University tried it twice—once in 1907 and once in 1908—but failed both times.

Workmen Win Strike.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 8.—Peace and quiet will again reign in McKee's Rocks. The costly strike, which has been in progress 53 days at the Pressed Steel Car Co., is over. The workmen, numbering over 5,000, have won a complete victory.

Break of Dam Floods Valley.

Montrose, Col., Sept. 8.—Reports from Telluride tell of the breaking of the Trout Lake dam Sunday, resulting in damage along the San Miguel River Valley estimated at between $500,000 and $750,000. Sawpit, a little mining hamlet, is said to have been washed away by the 18 feet wall of water.

G.T.R. Board In Canada.

London, Eng., Sept. 8.—The appointment of an advisory board in Canada for the G.T.R. is continually being discussed here, not perhaps with any antagonistic spirit to London directors. It is admitted that opinion appears to be moving in favor of this course.

Captures Big Sword Fish.

Avalon, Cal., Sept. 8.—While fishing off San Clement's Island, L. C. Murphy of Converse, Ind., landed a swordfish 9 feet 7 inches long, that weighed 163 pounds and was armed with a 2 1-2 foot sword.

Telegraph Superintendent Arrested.

Philadelphia, Sept. 8.—Altberger, superintendent of the Philadelphia district of the Western Union Co., was arrested here last night and held in $5,000 bail on charge of diverting private information from the Western Union Co.'s wires.

Postmasters Meet.

Toronto, Sept. 8.—At the annual meeting of the Ontario Postmasters' Association, at the Temple Building yesterday, a flourishing condition of affairs was reported. The membership now numbers over 1,300, and the finances are very satisfactory, a deficit of $500 being converted into a balance on the right side. The receipts amounted to $2,177.

Officers were elected as follows: Hon. president, Thos. Farrow, Brussels; president, G. W. H. Burger, Welland; first vice-president, James Scott, Clinton; second vice-president, William Hamilton, Uxbridge; third vice-president, Wm. Forbes, Grimsby; executive committee, Robert Paxton, Otterville; A. B. Foran, Wenona; Mr. Cummings, Cummings' Bridge; H. S. Moore, Norwich; Morrison, Kincardine; H. Sinclair, Beamsville, and L. V. Cote, Oakville. Representatives to Canadian Association: The president, secretary and A. B. Foran. Auditors: W. Vance, Milbrook, and J. W. Howden, Whitby. Secretary-treasurer, H. E. Proctor, Aurora.

Canada's Claim Good.

Ottawa, Sept. 7.—In official circles the view is expressed that even Peary's performance in again planting the Star and Stripes at the North Pole does not affect Canada's claim to all land lying to the north of the Dominion and east of Greenland. The idea was expressed by an eminent European authority the other day that the islands to the north constitute the Canadian Hinterland, and that is the argument advanced in support of Canada's claims.

Conductor Killed.

Kingston, Sept. 8.—Percy Treherne, aged 25, a street railway conductor, died yesterday from a fracture of the skull, sustained by a fall from his car Monday night.

An Uncommon Carrier.

"What is a 'common carrier,' ma?"

"Your father isn't one. He will carry a letter an uncommonly long time before mailing it."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Saving Expense.

I don't make love to the summer girls,
But listen; there's a reason—
I wait till fall,
For things are all
Cheaper when out of season.
—Cleveland Leader.

Sisterly.

Jane—I see that small waists are no longer the fashion.

Anna Matilda—How glad you must be!—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

So What's the Use.

"Yes, I went fishing yesterday," began the man who tries to be original "Luck? Well, some. I caught two fish. One was three and a half inches long and the other two inches."

But was he believed? Not much. After he had passed on some one commented:

"Bet he didn't even get a bite."—Kansas City Times.

A Good Provider.

"Have you ever noticed the kindly providence of nature?"

"What's on your mind?"

"I was thinking of the thoughtfulness of covering the trees with foliage so the cunning little caterpillars would have something to eat."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Etiquette.

In our republican atmosphere old fashioned etiquette has ceased to be necessary, out the word "etiquette" is suggested whenever one hears the phrase "that's the ticket," for "etiquette" is French for "ticket," and its present English signification sprang from the old custom of distributing tickets or etiquettes which contained the ceremonies, etc., to be observed at any formal event, exactly like our word "program."

WIRELESS STATION

City Receives Communication From Lepel Wireless System With a View to Having a Station Equipped Here.

POINTS IN ITS FAVOUR

The Council has received a communication from the Lepel Wireless Telegraph Co., asking the city to consider the installation of a wireless telegraph and telephone system in Peterborough, the city to bear the cost of establishing the local station.

Some predominant features in favour of the Lepel Wireless System are:

A low tariff rate for messages, they being able to supply service to any point in the Dominion and to a large number of stations in the United States at a rate of one cent a word up to 25 words, and one cent for every two words above that number, this rate being general and applying to service between two stations of the company irespective of distance.

Lepel wireless service is absolutely free from interference on account of weather or atmospheric conditions, there being no wires or poles to maintain and service being equally efficient under disturbed conditions of atmospheric as well as on clear days.

On the point of cost, the cost of installing the Lepel Wireless station capable of sending and receiving 20,000 words per day of 12 hours, will be from $1,800 to $2,500.

The company stated that if the city was prepared to spend that amount of money they would install the station at once.

TAKEN TO LONDON

Mr. P. Butler Received in Home for Incurables at City's Expense.

Mr. Pierce Butler, Perry street, has been received into the Victoria Home for Incurables, London, Ont., where he was taken on Monday. His case has been under consideration by the Charity Board, who arranged for his reception. Mr. F. W. Miller, who accompanied him, carefully looked after him on the journey. The maintenance of Mr. Butler of $5.00 a week is paid by the city.

FORMAL OPENING

Gibbon Business College Commenced Yesterday Morning.

Yesterday morning the Gibbon Business College was formally opened with a fair number of students in attendance. Mr. Gibbon arived in the city just a week ago and his marvellous energy was amply demonstrated by the opening of the college in so short a time. He will have a competent staff of teachers to assist him in his work and it is his intention to make the college one of the best in the Province. There is no doubt that Mr. Gibbon will meet with success in Peterborough. He should prove a valuable citizen to Peterborough as he is a public-spirited man and takes an interest in public works.

ANOTHER AUTO

Drummond & Duffus Sell Ford Touring Car to Franklin Merchant.

Messrs. Drummond and Duffus have sold another Model T 1910 Ford touring car. Messrs. H. E. Trip and son, merchants of Franklin, were the purchasers. Ald. Duffus came down from Toronto last night, unloaded it and delivered it to-day. He returned this afternoon motoring in his own car to Toronto, where he is assisting in displaying Ford cars at the Exhibition.

START AT 9 O'CLOCK

Pupils at the Collegiate Go Back to the Old Schedule of Time Again.

The school hours at the Collegiate Institute have again been changed back to the old time table. This morning the schools opened at nine o'clock and not at half-past eight, as during the months of April, May and June. The new way, it was pointed out at last night's meeting of the Board of Education, had proved an inconvenience to many, especially the pupils going home to dinner at half-past eleven.

NORWOOD DOUBLE TRAGEDY ACCIDENTAL, SAYS JURY

Coroner's Jury Yesterday Brought in Verdict to the Effect That Willoughby Accidentally Shot and Killed His Daughter and Then Died From Paralysis of the Heart

Norwood, Sept. 7.—"We, the coroner's jury, after considering the evidnece,find that StellaMay Willoughby came to her death from being shot by Thomas George Willoughby accidentally and that Thomas George Willoughby died from paralysis of the heart, caused from the shock of said shooting."

The above is the verdict arrived at this afternoon by the coroner's jury at the adjourned inquest into the double tragedy which occurred at the Willoughby home, in the Township of Dummer, about one and a half miles from this place, on the afternoon of August 17th. The proceedings to-day were of a very brief and formal character, less than twenty persons, beside Coroner Gray, County Crown Attorney Wood, Constable Johnston, the two physicians, Drs. Sutton and Pettigrew, who conducted the post-mortem examination, and the jurymen being present.

Dr. Sutton read the report of the analyst in Toronto, who is acting for Dr. Ellis during the latter's absence in England, which was as follows: "I have made a chemical examination of the stomach, liver and other contents of the two jars you sent, according to your letter of the 18th inst., being from George Willoughby, and find no indication of any poison."

Dr Sutton stated that the examination made by Dr. Pettigrew and himself revealed a condition of paralysis of the heart resulting from the shock, which they considered to be the cause of Willoughby's death. The case was then given to the jury, who returned in about fifteen minutes with the verdict as above.

Kilties Develop Another Toronto Flag Incident

Toronto, Sept. 7.—Magistrate Denison disposed of a "flag episode" in some seconds under a minute in the Police Court this morning.

Last Thursday night William Carson and Jas. Mahoney, two braw Highland laddies, were wending their way home from the Exhibition, arrayde in the full splendour of their Gaelic costumes. On Simcoe street they met an American, one P. W. Benner by name, who scoffed at their naked legs and cast contumely on their Highland skirts.

It should be stated that the two soldiers encountered Mr. Benner while he was drawing attention to the beauty of an American flag which was hanging from the Alexandra Royal Apartments on Simcoe street. The patriotism of the Kilties rose to uch a pitch that they felt compelled to inform Mr. Benner that there was a possibility of the flag's being taken down. Thereupon, it is said, Mr. Benner replied with great heat that such an action on their part would result in the perforation of their bodies with an indefinite number of bullets. Feeling such remarks were little short of a deliberate challenge of an almost international character, the Highlanders formed pairs, advanced at the double, scaled the verandah, and, seizing the miniature "Old Glory" by the stripes, wrenched it from its staff, and cast it down into the dust and ashes.

This piece of natural history explains why they appeared in the Police Court this morning on the charge of "stealing one American flag."

T. C. Robinette,, K.C., in appearing for them, made a double-barrelled plea, the light barrel of which was loaded with Latin slugs.

"Absence of animus furandi," said he, "and also excess of patriotism."

Colonel Denison looked very hard at the culprits for six seconds, and then began to smile.

"What did they have an American flag stuck up there for, anyway?" he enquired.

No one answered.

"There are too many of them flying around anyway," remarked Mr. Robinette.

"Where is the complainant?" asked his Worship, looking very hard at the back of the court. The complainant did not appear.

"This case is dismissed," decided his Worship, cheerfully.

Cavan People Still After Help For Road Through Swamp

Although the City Council turned a deaf ear on the request from Cavan for financial assistance towards the construction of a road through the Long Swamp, the farmers in that section have not given up hope entirely. The Council practically said "We can't hear you, and besides we need the money just now." Mr. Chas. McNeil, has been one of the foremost in representing the Cavan Township Council, and who has frequently pointed out to the city that the new road which is not yet finished and which is being retarded by a lack of funds, will be of greatest benefit to Peterborough, as it will form a short cut which will undoubtedly divert the trade of that section to this city instead of to Lindsay, as at present.

The letter read at the Council meeting last nigtt was as follows:

Cavan, Sept. 2nd, 1909.

To the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—I have learned with the deepest regret that you have decided not to make an appropriation to assist in the construction of the 14th Concession road of Cavan. The Council of the Township of Cavan have spent a large amount of money to make this work feasible and that too, with the assurences of assistance from your city. You cannot form an idea of the benefits your city will derive without seeing for yourselves. What I would suggest is that the Mayor and Council fix a time to visit the work and notify the Cavan Council and representatives of that body will meet you at Dunlop's Corner and show you what has been done already in the swamp. I feel sure that such a visit will be of interest to your honourable body as well as enabling you to form a more correct dea of the benefits the city will derive from the work. The Cavan Council will, I feel sure, defray the expense of such a visit. Trusting that you will consider this matter favourably, I remain,

Yours truly,

CHAS. McNEIL.

FUNERAL THIS MORNING

The Late David LeMay Laid to Rest in St. Peter's Cemetery.

The funeral of the late David Le May, who passed away on Monday night, took place this morning at nine o'clock from the residence of Mr. H. Le Brun to St. Peter's Cathedral, and thence to St. Peter's cemetery. The funeral was largely attended. At the Cathedral, requiem High Mass was sung by Rev. Father Kelly, Rev. Father McColl acting as deacon and Rev. Father McFadden as sub-deacon. Rev. Father McColl officiated at the grave.

The pall bearers were Messrs. D. O'Connel, Geo. Giroux, H. Phelan N. T. LaPlante, Thos. McNamara and B. Morrow.

LOGS ON ROAD

Pile of Thirteen Near Springville on Sunday Night.

Through mischief or malice 13 logs were piled across the main highway south of Springville on Sunday night, but were discovered before any harm had been done. The farmers are incensed over the affair which is believed to have been the work of young men. They are cautioned not to repeat it or trouble will be in store for them.

IS RECOVERING

Mr. R. N. Jolliffe is Getting Better—Was Hurt During a Baseball Game

The friends of Mr. R. Norman Jolliffe will be pleased to know that he is recovering from an injury received recently at Grimsby Park in a ball game and which for a time threatened serious consequences.

A week ago Saturday he was catching behind the bat for the team representing Grimsby Park, where Mr. Jolliffe's family spends the summer. A foul tip struck him on one side of the nose knocking him unconscious. He recovered a short time afterwards and returned after the week end to Toronto. During the week bleeding commenced at the nose and continued during an entire night and part of the next day. One doctor was called in, but did not seem to understand the case, and another was summoned who stemmed the flow, but not before Mr. Jolliffe had lost a large quantity of blood. He was weakened from the experience and was confined to his room for several days.

ROOMS ARE CROWDED

Principal Kenner of the Collegiate Institute Presented Report at Board of Education Meeting Held Last Night.

SCHOLARSHIP WINNERS

Principal H. R. H. Kenner, of the Collegiate Institute presented a report to the Board of Education last evening on the record attendance at school yesterday and pointing out certain matters in connection with the Collegiate that required the Board's immediate consideration.

The report is as follows:

To the Chairman and members of the Board of Education:

Gentlemen,—I wish to present as briefly as possible the following facts: We had a record first day's attendance this morning of 340. We are overcrowded in the first forms. In IB we had 44 and in IC 50, and we will have more during the next few weeks. This congestion can be relieved only by the opening up of another room. Section 18, sub-section 4C of the new regulations reads as follows: "Schools in which any of the forms or classes are so large as to interfere with the efficiency of the teaching shall not be approved. In schools with 5 or more teachers the total number on the roll at any one time should not exceed an average of 30 to each teacher." The very first day we have an average of 34.

II. According to the Departmental Text Book Regulations,the editions of text-books no longer authorized, which were in use before, July 1st, 1909, and the continued use of which is recommended by resolution of the Board of Trustees, on or before the reopening of the schools in September, shall be deemed authorized for such school until their authorization is cancelled by the minister of Education. I wish the Board to recommend the continued use of the Primary Latin book in the middle school and the High School arithmetic in Form II., and Form III.A. This will save the pupils the cost of the new book on these subjects in the rooms.

III. The same regulations say that Board of Trustees shall provide in the Chemistry Manual sufficient for class use by the pupils, who shall not be required to buy it. Forty copies will be required. They cost twenty cents each.

IV. We had last year 150 boys in the Cadet Corps. We have only 50 rifles. These are supplied by the Government, but racks will be necessary for them.

V. Arthur Rosborough won the Nicholls scholarship in the Honour Matriculation examination, securing 7400 marks, on 10 papers, an average of 74 per cent. Margaret Anderson won the Nicholls scholarship in the Junior Matriculation examination, obtaining 1,009 marks, on 14 papers, an average of 72 per cent. The winners of the other two scholarships have not yet been announced by the department.

VI. I should like the use of the Armouries for the Boys' Physical Culture classes during September and October, as we have no suitable room in the Collegiate building.

I would also direct the attention of the Board to the following note in the new regulations 30,2: "After August, 1911, a Collegiate Institute which has not provided a gymnasium satisfactory to the Minister of Education shall forfeit its status." Would it not be possible to arrange with the Y. M. C. A. authorities for the use of their gymnasium from November to April in the meantime?

Your obedient servant,

H. R. H. KENNER.

Upon motion of Mr. Hill and Dr. Burnham, the Board authorized the continued use of the Primary Latin Book in the middle school and High School arithmetic in Forms II and III.A, as suggested by Mr. Kenner in clause two and that the balance of the report be referred to the Supervision Committee.

TWO DAY EXCURSION TO FENELON FALLS—The farmers of Dummer and Douro will run an excursion from Lakefield to Fenelon Falls on Sept. 10 and 11. The Steamer Stony Lake will leave Lakefield on the arrival of the morning train from Peterborough on Friday, Sept. 10, arriving in Fenelon Falls about 5 o'clock p. m. Returning will arrive in Lakefield to connect with the afternoon train on Saturday for Peterborough. Music on board. Return Fare $1.00.

NEED SINGLE BED AT THE SHELTER

There are thirteen children in the Shelter, taxing its accommodation almost to the limit. A single bed is needed, and any person having one which they do not need, or which they feel like presenting to the Society, will help in the work by so doing. Word can be telephoned to the Shelter or to the Secretary, Mr. E. L. Goodwill.

CHIEF HOWARD'S ADDRESS AT MEETING OF ASSOCIATION

Head of Local Fire Department Reads Paper Before the Fire Chiefs of Ontario at Toronto Gathering—The Organization Promises to be Great Success—Prospects Are Decidedly Bright.

Fire Chief Howard has returned from Toronto, where he attended the first meeting of the Fire Chiefs' Association of Ontario, which was a most successful gathering. Twenty-five fire chiefs were present, and the prospects are very bright.

The meeting was held in the Lombard street fire station and was presided over by Chief Ten Eyck, of Hamilton, and Secretary Chief Howard took the minutes. The delegates were given a royal welcome by Controller Graham, Chairman of the Reception Committee, and Ald. Church, Chief Thompson, and the firemen of the city. The chief entertained the guests to an automobile ride around the city and presented them all with tickets for the exhibition.

The first business was the president's address and the opening ceremonies and then followed an address by Chief Howard, which was as follows:

There are a number of important matters to be dealt with that each and every fire chief should take a keen interest in. It is a duty we owe the municipalities we represent.

One of the reasons for organizing a Provincial Association of Fire Chiefs, is to enable us to give more attention to local conditions that cannot be given the required attention at the international meetings. At the present time there is no uniform rule for the equipping of fire departments with the necessary appliances and the required number of men to man the apparatus.

We find some cities and towns spend a great deal of money on their fire departments while other places neglect this important part of municipal government until they are visited by a disastrous fire. When that time comes the municipality is crippled financially to such an extent that they are unable to provide ways and means, even though they have the desire.

If sufficient pressure could be brought to bear upon the government, legislation may be enacted to overcome these difficulties, and thereby relieve members of municipal councils of a great deal of responsibility, and so avoid the stern opposition that is so often forthcoming from people who are opposed to advancement.

The matter of insurance rates is something that might be taken up by this association. We find some places that pay very little attention to their fire department, have as good a rating as other places that keep pace with the times. In my opinion this all important matter should be under the control of the Dominion Government. These are subjects for much thought, and I trust the gentlemen who have assembled here to-day will give these matters due consideration, so that in time these obstacles may be overcome.

This association, as a fraternal society, will undoubtedly in due time, become a power for good. I have merely thrown out these hints for the purpose of bringing out discussion. It may be that my ideas are not feasible, but if such a thing as government legislation in these matters is possible, I feel confident we will receive the support and co-operation of every municipal council in the Province.

There was considerable discussion on the address and it was sent on to the next meeting for further consideration.

The convention then drafted a constitution and a set of by-laws and ordered the secretary to have them printed.

Votes of thanks were extended to Chief Thompson of Toronto, Capt. Dunn and the firemen of the Lombard street station for the many courtesies shown and for the valuable assistance rendered. The first convention was then adjourned and the organization will be continued throughout the year, and it is expected that there will be a hundred or more chiefs present next year.

Prospects For Peterboro's Big Fair Are Very Rosy

September 16, 17 and 18.

Peterborough's big fair commences just one week from to-morrow.

As the circus bills say, "Bigger, Grander and Greater than ever."

Entries are coming in fast and there will be a record number of exhibits.

Peterborough's Midway wil give the "Pay Streak" at Seattle a close run for the honours.

Watch for the drill of the 24th Field Battery on Friday night, it's your first chance to see the crack artillery men perform.

The performance in front of the grand stand will be the best in years. Large expense has been incurred in arranging for the attractions.

The Directors will be busy for the next ten days but they are already wearing a broad smile. The prospects are bright, hence the glow of satisfaction.

The full band of the 57th Regiment will give concert programmes on Friday afternon and evening and on Saturday afternoon.

Several excursions from out of town points will swell the attendance.

Single fare prices prevail on all transportation lines.

It's up to the local people to do their share towards boosting the attendance above the highest previous notch.

There will be more to see and do at the Peterborough Industrial this year than ever before.

The good purses hung up for the trotting events are a guarantee that the harness horses races will be class throughout. Many prominent horsemen will be here for the exhibition.

Ex-Mayor Yelland's Dog Race prize money may be money "going to the dogs," but the canines are sure to provide a bushel of amusement.

That expressman's race will be a corker. Keep your eye on some of the delivery "Hambourg Belles" or "Uhlans" who are in training for the event.

The grounds will be brilliantly illuminated for the night performance on Friday evening.

CHANCE FOR SOCCER TEAMS AT PETERBOROUGH INDUSTRIAL

An opportunity is at hand for the exponents of association football or "soccer" to show their interest in the game, and to have the pleasure of competing for a splendid trophy. At the Peterborough Industrial exhibition there is the prospect of a football tournament for the championship of the County of Peterborough with the R. R. Hall cup as the emblem of that honour. This competition is open to teams composed of players resident in this county and it matters not whether they are Midland Leaguers or not, they are all welcome.

The last competition for the R. R. Hall trophy was in 1907, when it was won by the Peterborough Quakers, who at that time annexed all the silverware that came into view. In 1908 there was no contest and as the present holders are not in the football business they will not be contenders this year. In order to lift the cup there must be two entries, and there must be a competition with a deciding score. It cannot be won by default, but the team which wins it by actual contest two years in succession gains permanent possession.

Here now is a good chance for some of the faithful ones to get up a team and make a bid for something really worth while. Of course this has nothing to do with the Midland League and hence signed players and residence rules are not under consideration, and the only requisite is that the players composing the teams are residents of this county.

Entries for this competion must be forwarded to Mr. F. J. Hall, Secretary of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, on or before September 14, and those entering should state whether they wish to play on September 17th or 18th. It has been learned from the best of authority that twelve passes to the exhibition on the afternon of the contest will be given to each team taking part. Thus it will be seen that the management is willing to do its share and the football artists should be there with the goods. There are at least a dozen good soccer teams in this county, and if they have any desire to get fame and silverware in the form of the County Championship and the R. R. Hall trophy, the opportunity is coming their way now.

AT THE COUNCIL MEETING

Let the contract for the new Smith St. bridge to the Geo. A. Bery Co., of St. Catharines.

Sent the proposed agreement with Peterborough Light & Power Co. back to Manufacturers' Committee for further consideration.

Decided to get specifications for the Isolation Hospital.

Did nothing in regard to Aylmer St. extension.

Decided that cheques paying for work done on Public Library must be signed by Alderman Bradburn as well as architect.

PEARY'S ATTACK

In Cablegram to United Press Explorer Says That Dr. Cook's Message Should Not Be Taken Seriously—Did Not Go North

SO THE ESKIMOS SAY

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

New York, Sept. 8, 1909.—The United Press is to-day in receipt of the following signed cablegram from Commander Robert E. Peary, dated Indian Harbour, via Cape Ray, September 8th:

"To the United Press, New York. "Cook's story should not be taken too seriously. The two Eskimos who accompanied him say he went no distance north and not out of sight of land. Other men of the tribe corroborate their statements.—Signed, Peary."

Cook Refuses to Answer.

Copenhagen, Sept. 8.—"I won't degrade myself by answering Peary's charges until the accusation is made upon scientific data," said Dr. Cook to-day.

Pressed for a more explicit statement, Cook remained silent. He was clearly angered by Commander Peary's assault. Cook's statement is taken to mean that he will wait until the data obtained by himself and Peary is put to the test of a scientific analysis before entering a more formal denial to the Commander's charges.

Commander Peary's message created the greatest sensation here since the initialed news of Cook's discovery.

A LIBERAL CONVENTION

Ontario Reform Association Decides Upon This Important Step at a Meeting Held To-day

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Toronto, Sept. 8.—The holding of a great Liberal convention for the purpose of laying down a platform for the party was unanimously decided upon at the annual general meeting of the Ontario General Reform Association this morning. The date of the convention was fixed for June, 1910. The officers elected were H. M. Mowat, President; W. B. Calvert, N. A. Belcourt, and Michael Ames, Vice Presidents; P. C. Larkin, Treasurer; Hugh Blain, Auditor.

APPEARED IN TIME

P. C. Newhall Prevented Blacklisted Man From Taking a Drink.

A local man, who is on the "Indian list" was charged at the police court this morning with having been found with liquor in his possession. It is said that a man purchased a flask for the accused and the latter was about to take a drink when P. C. Newhall saw him and took the liquor from him. The case will be heard on Friday.

WAS ALLOWED TO GO

Young Man Started to Walk to Toronto —Had no Money.

Edward Lorning was enjoying a peaceful sleep on the verandah of the Y.M.C.A. yesterday afternoon when P. C. Newhall happened along and took him to the police station where he was given a more comfortable bed on the soft side of a plank.

This morning he appeared before City Clerk Armstrong who was acting magistrate. He pleaded guilty to being drunk, but promised to leave the city on being allowed to go. He was so glad to know that he was free that he decided to drop any actions that, yesterday afternoon, he said he would take against the police for locking him in such a "beastly" place. He said he would walk to Toronto, but judging from the way he started out it would be some time before he reached that city.

BACK TO WORK

Satisfactory Understanding Reported at The New Public Library.

The union masons and bricklayers who quit work at the Public Library yesterday because a non-union bricklayer was taken on and because some of the union men on pay day did not receive the union rate of wages, 40 cents an hour, went back to work this afternoon. The money demanded was paid by the contractor and further satisfactory arrangements were reported.

FLAG INCIDENTS.

Flag incidents are plentiful these days. We have two exploratory "Amurrican" citizens boasting of having nailed the flag of the United States,—described in part, in the language applied to convict costume, as the "Stars and Stripes"—to the "North Pole," thereby trespassing on Canadian soil and outraging the conventions of international amity. We had in Toronto recently the spectacle of a party of United States tourists dragging the Canadian flag in the dirt of the streets from the axle of the van in which they were riding. Now, we have the incident of a file of the 48th Highlanders, Toronto, taking down a United States flag placed conspicuously upon the Royal Alexandra apartments building, on Simcoe street. The Highland flag rievers were haled to the police court, under the charge of "stealing one 'American' flag," an absurd indictment, since there is no such thing as an "American" flag. When the "culprits" appeared before Police Magistrate Denison we have him pertinently asking, "What did they have that flag stuck up there for anyway?" and when no reply was forthcoming, making the equally appropriate remark: "There are too many of them flying around any way." Toronto is extremely tolerant of the bad-taste presence of United States flags in the provincial capital. With the rural idea of more easily annexing the "nickels" of Yankee tourists the Torontonians—press, pulpit, bun-purveyors, saloons, et hoc genus omne—toady to the visitors and tolerate the lavish display of foreign flags and exercise and defend the abuse of the hospitality of Canada. Because Canada is a free country, where exists the spirit of true liberty—British liberty—where one may speak the thing he thinks and do the thing he likes, within the limits of reason and decency, and within the laws, there is abuse of this liberty in the shape of the too frequent flaunting of a foreign emblem, in extremely bad taste, which instead of being an assertion of independence, is an assertion of impudence. Display of the United States flag in Canada, except in connection with, and in decent subordination to, the flag of Canada, is as improper as would be the action of a Canadian in offensively displaying his flag in the United States. The tendency to abuse the flag of a nation, to debase it by prostituting its essential national and patriotic symbolism to unworthy purposes, to banalize it, is to impair its significant value. Flag-waving, except in justified connections, is not needed to show one's loyalty and patriotism, qualities that are within us—principles to be felt and practised, not flaunted without meaning. A good citizen does not, to show his loyalty, need to flash a flag in the face of the world, any more than an honest man needs to go about bearing a label "I am an honest man," or a virtuous woman, the placard "I am a virtuous woman." We should be and not seem to be what we are; no profession can take the place of possession, and its necessary concurrent, practice.

WHEN REAL GROWTH BEGAN.

There is a difference between a statesman and a mere politician. This difference is illustrated by a comparison of the results in our past history of the terms of office of Conservatives and Liberals, respectively. Contrast the conditions and progress of the last twelve years of the Conservatives and the first twelve years of the Liberals.

In her history Canada has had statesmen of great ability belonging to both parties. The foundation of Confederation were firmly laid, but it was only during the past twelve or fifteen years that Canada really began to grow. Its tremendous impulse forward on the road of development and expansion began with the rule of the present Liberal Government, thirteen years ago. It would be tedious to review the whole filed of the triumphs achieved in the past dozen years, but the most striking feature of Canada's progress under a Liberal Government has been the phenomenal settlement of the plains of the West. The primary cause for success in this connection has been two-fold.

First the inauguration by Hon. Clifford Sifton, then Minister of the Interior, of an energetic up-to-date immigration policy assisted by generous advertising. Second, the repeal of oppressive legislation which bore heavily on the settler, and the enactment of laws calculated to help the settler along and make everything as convenient and easy for him as possible.

Under the Conservatives, not only was imigration work neglected, but absolute indifference was shown with respect to those immigrants who did come to Canada. Moreover, Canadians from Eastern Canada found conditions of settlement in the West so difficult that they, in common with arrivals from foreign countries, left the Canadian West, and its wealth of natural resources, for the United States. In the words of a Western Conservative paper, which was describing corruptions as they then existed:

> "The trails from Manitoba to the States were beaten bare and brown by the waggon wheels of departing settlers."

This is a true picture of the West as it was in Conservative days. Under the enlightened Liberal policy the West looms big in the eyes of the world. Its wheat is the standard and its crops materially affect the world's markets. To-day thousands of native Canadians from the East, and thousands of immigrants from other countries are moving into the West and making for themselves permanent homes. New towns are springing up on the prairies, new districts are being settled by the latest arrivals and in every direction there are growth and activity. The people are happy, being prosperous, and have an abiding faith in the country and its future. Upon all sides there is buoyancy and confidence. From the States the best class of settlers, men with experience and money, are pouring into the West, and they are staying, taking up homesteads and buying land as well. These men become buyers at once, and producers shortly afterwards with the result that the railways have been unable to handle all the traffic offered. This phenomenal expansion began with the inauguration of Liberal rule. The same land was there during the Conservative regime, grain might have been raised as easily then as now, but the country made no progress. Just as soon as the Liberal Government commenced an energetic immigration policy and enacted reasonable legislation regarding homesteading and settlement, a change took place. The only conditions which exist to-day which did not exist in Conservative days, are those of legislation and administration, and to these may be attributed the great advance which the West has experienced.

The Liberal Government was quick to grasp the idea, that to develop the country and make available its vast resources, increased population was necessary, and they at once instituted a vigorous imigration policy in Great Britain, Europe, and the United States which has been steadily, and with unflagging zeal, pursued throughout the years, with the most gratifying results.

The old Conservative Government had no immigration policy worthy the name, and what was far worse, they were not successful in retaining the few immigrants who came to our shores. Their policy and administration were not sufficiently attractive to retain the native born. It is estimated that not less than one million souls left for the United States during the last twelve years of Tory rule. The Liberal Government sowed generously and wisely, and is reaping abundantly. The following is the latest estimate of this year's crops from the three western provinces, Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan:

| | |
|---|---|
| Wheat | 118,270,000 bushels |
| Oats | 163(998,000 bushels |
| Barley | 30,542,000 bushels |
| Totals | 312,810,000 bushels |

Compare this with the few struggling bushels of grain that came from the West previous to 1896. The new provinces were not created then, and the settlers dotted here and there were doing their best to make enough to live, now they raise grain by the millions of bushels and are accumulating a surplus in money every year.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Lethbridge is not all engrossed in the race for money and the cult of "boost." The town is to vote on a by-law to raise money to provide for the purchase of 300 acres for a park.

Uncle Sam's chances to gobble Canada's territory circumjacent to the North Pole are about as slim as his prospect of forcing this country to surrender its pulp resources by imposing a tariff tax. The alleged planting of the "stars and stripes" by Cook and Peary does not constitute possession. In official circles, at Ottawa, the view is expressed that even Peary's alleged performance in agan planting the Stars and Stripes at the North Pole does not affect Canada's claim to all land lying to the north of the Dominion and west of Greeland. The idea was expressed by an eminent European authority the other day that the islands to the north constitute the Canadian Hinterland, and that is the argument advanced in support of Canada's claims.

Your foods are in two classes: Foods that please you by their taste, and foods that you depend on because of what they do for you. Quaker Oats has all the good qualities of both classes.

CRITIC WINTER'S HONORABLE DISCHARGE

The news dispatches recently carried information to the effect that "Willie" Winter had quit the New York Tribune. The item was of great interest to all newspaper men, and the facts behind "Willie's" quiet should have been noted by all readers of newspapers.

"Willie," a gray-haired man beyond the sixties, is about the oldest and ablest of the critics on theatrical matters, and had been with the Tribune for years. He roasted some plays that he thought were indecent, and he got a letter from the Tribune's managers to the effect that "Willie's" policy of roasting theatres advertising in the Tribune was to stop. The manager who directly notified "Willie" said he didn't know whether or not there was justification for the campaign against indecency. Anyhow, "Willie's" hot stuff was running alongside theatre advs. in the Sunday edition, and the theatres didn't like it.

The matter is interesting to the newspaper boys, because, thank God! the vast majority of them can't be bribed, and a public demonstration by one of them of the fact that principle is higher and dearer than "business reasons" is like a cooling shower in a hot August.

The matter is interesting to newspaper readers because the New York Tribune has been a great newspaper. Mighty was its influence before and during the rebellion and during the reconstruction period after that war. Horace Greeley almost moulded the national government with it. Its mighty championship of principle regardless of party almost swept all parties off their feet. Its circulation was tremendous, its advertising patronage enormous.

But its editors went into politics. Its management went into the policy of squelching unpaid thought in behalf of paid reading matter ads. And to-day, about all, save regular dividends perhaps, that is left of that grand old structure of principle and usefulness is Horace Greeley's bronze statue, sitting at the doors of the Tribune building, gazing out upon City Hall square.

When "Willie" Winter quit for telling the truth and passed by that bronze effigy of moral strength and fearless principle, he should have taken off his hat, shaken hands, as one honest hand with another, and said: "We are dead in the counting room inside there, Horace, but what we did lives eternally throughout the profession and throughout the land!"

Mr. Publow is superintendent of the Eastern Dairy School and Chief Dairy Instructor for Eastern Ontario. His efforts in seeking to uplift the dairy industry are meeting with much success.

FALL CARE OF YOUNG GEESE

From Farm and Dairy.

T. R. James, Middlesex Co., Ont.

As fall approaches and grass becomes short, dry, or begins to fail, corn and oats may be fed to the young geese so as to maintain constant growth. As the selling season approaches the geese should be fed about all they will eat of grain—a mixture of corn and oats at first and corn alone later—for in fitting geese for market it is hardly possible to make them too fat. In great cities, like Chicago, New York and other places where there are a large number of Hebrews it is said that the fattest geese bring the highest price. These people are forbidden by their religion to use lard, and so they substitute goose grease for this important adjunct to cooking. This leads them to select the fattest geese when buying for table use, and they buy large numbers of geese, because by so doing they procure meat food and shortening at the same time. It is a lucky circumstance that a fat goose is better than one that is in a leaner condition, extreme fatness being no disadvantage to the table qualities.

In many markets the heavier the goose the more it brings per pound, so it is an object to make them as heavy as possible. Geese should be grown to large size first and finished for market in the shortest possible time as a goose fed as much as it can be induced to eat will soon get in condition for market, and if fed much longer it is likely to lose its appetite and lose rather than gain in weight. It is a good plan to shut them in a limited enclosure and feed them to the limit for about two weeks, selling them as soon as possible after this.

NOTICE

NEXT WASHINGTON MANAGER

Joe Cantillon, now manager of the Washington American league team, will be superseded at the close of the 1909 baseball season, it is said, and Harry Davis, the crack first baseman and captain of the Athletes, will succeed him. Davis will probably play first as well as direct the affairs of the capital players.

HARRY DAVIS.

TO FORM NATIONAL BODY FOR PROFESSIONAL HOCKEY PLAYERS

New York, Sept. 4.—The great amount of trouble experienced by the promoters of professional hockey last season through players jumping contracts has set the minds of these men to working. And their endeavours are along a line which promises to do more good for the great winter sport than anything that has been undertaken since the Canadian game was first put on a really solid footing. The players themselves cannot really be blamed for the part they have played in the deplorable doings. The hockey season is comparatively a very short one and, while it pays well while it lasts, the remuneration gained must be made to go a long way by the recipients.

When a stick wielder once enters the game for the stipend he can command he naturally is anxious and ready to play with the team offering the best inducements. Thus, it will readily be seen that if a player is performing for a club in Pittsburg and a club in Canada offers him more money he will "clear out" for the district producing the most medium of exchange. Since there is no national or international body to govern the play the player's contract amounts to little more than a moral bond, except when it comes to holding the club for money.

With such the case the various promoters have conceived the idea that a body with much the same functions as the National Commission has to professional baseball in this country should be formed. This has been talked of in other years, but it has never assumed the proportions that are evidenced even at this early time. To those who follow hockey closely it appears that such a body may become a reality next winter.

At the same time the report of a professional hockey league in this country, or probably two professional organizations, one in the East and one in the West, has been revived.

John T. McNamara, of Houghton, Mich., manager of the old Portage Lake hockey champions, has for several weeks been in communication with Thomas W. Prior, manager of the ice rink company, of Chicago, who is becoming deeply interested in hockey, and who plans to introduce the sport to Chicago the coming winter. Mr. Prior favours the formation of an Eastern and a Western League, made up of such cities in the West as Chicago, Cleveland, Duluth, St. Paul or Minneapolis and Houghton, and in the East of New York, Boston, Pittsburg, Philadelphia and others, with a series of world's championship games at the close of a season, to determine the superiority of the two organizations.

While those leagues may not be formed for the coming winter, it is not improbable the preliminary steps toward the organization of the proposed governing board or commission will be taken before next year, and that when another hockey season comes along every detail toward the government of the players and the conducting of the sport will have been perfected. It will then only be a question of a short time before professional hockey is introduced in the leading cities of the United States.

As to professional hockey being supported in this city next season, there does not appear to be even a remote chance of it. In the first place, the financial backers of the game here in town realize that it could not be conducted on a paying basis and that's the strongest possible argument which can be brought to bear by the negative on the subject. The local rink has not a large enough seating capacity to permit of popular prices being charged, and until such conditions are provided the masses will not support the sport. Clermont Rink, of Brooklyn will reopen as an ice emporium next season. If such should prove the case a decided impetus will be given the amateur game in this city.

GOOD PRIZES OFFERED FOR ATHLETIC CONTESTS SATURDAY

The contests for the Howden and Eastwood trophies which will take place at Riverside Park at two o'clock on Saturday afternoon promise to provide an interesting afternoon's sport, and no doubt a big crowd will wend its way to the pretty park across the river. There will be a good entry list in both events, while the open contests will also be well filled. A number of promising athletes will take part and in some of the events there promises to be especially keen competition especially in the sprints.

Good prizes are being offered. In the Howden competition, which is the senior event, the winner holds the Howden trophy for one year, while the second prize is a Gillette safety razor, and the third man gets a watch fob.

The prizes for the Eastwood contest are the Eastwood trophy for one year for the winner, a fountain pen for second and a sweater for third prize.

In the men's open halfmile, the first prize will be a coat sweater and the second a pair of military brushes. The prizes in the boys' quarter-mile consist of a pair of skates for first, and a pair of running shoes for second.

The two trophies are on exhibition just now, the Howden trophy in the window of W. A. Sanderson and Company, and the Eastwood Cup in the Peterborough Hardware Company's window.

There should be a big crowd on hand Saturday afternoon.

FRED SIMPSON WAS BEATEN ON MONDAY BY RED HAWK

Fred Simpson hooked up with Red Hawk (Henry, Jackson), the Midland Indian in a ten-mile race that was a feature of the programme of sports at Penetang on Labour Day, and the Peterborough galloper was defeated, thus reversing the result when the two met at Christian Island a few weeks ago. Simpson was not in the best of condition, but stuck at his task gamely, being beaten by a quarter of a mile. The race was run on the road and he local Indian was unattended, making the feat of covering ten miles in any kind of time almost impossible. So far each has won a race and the rubber contest may be pulled off at Parry Sound in the near future.

In the meantime Simpson has signed a contract to meet Tom Longboat in a five-mile race at the Merrickville Fair a week from to-morrow. The Fair people have hung up a good purse and the race should be an interesting one.

Simpson will commence active training right away for the Marathon Derbies that are likely to be pulled off in New York this autumn.

LINDSAY IMPRESSIONS OF MONDAY'S GREAT BALL GAME

The Lindsay Post says of Monday's Ball game:

St. Peter's T.A.S. ball team, of Peterborough, received a bad scare Monday, when a scratch team from Lindsay played that organization a friendly game on Riverside Park, when the temperance advocates had to go ten innings to pull out a victory, the score being 5-4.

Lindsay, you know, has been out of ball this season. The town has no team. This is the first season in many moons that a ball game has not been played within its borders.

When Bill Cinnamon got word from Peterborough to bring a team down on Monday he went out into the highways and byways in search of players. The old veteran had a hard time of it, and when the team representing Lindsay walked out on the diamond before a big crowd of fans it was seen that Bill had resurrected some of the old veterans who had figured in Midland league games in years back. Mr. Herb. Workman sprung a surprise on the Lindsayites when he turned out. He held down second bag, and although he has been out of the game for some time, he played classy ball, and showed the spectators that he was still familiar with the tricks of the diamond.

The T.A.S. team are champions of the city league and the members dish up a fair quality of ball. Quinlan, their slab artist is the pick of the outfit. He pitches pretty good ball, but had the locals been in shape they would have been pounding him yet.

"Yebby" Flaherty held down second bag and was warmly greeted by his Lindsay friends.

Lindsay had the game safely pocketed from the start, and the spectators began to look blue and did not relish the possibility of the locals defeating the abstainers. However, a couple of juicy errors turned the tide, and the joy in the T.A.S. camp knew no bounds.

It was fortunate for the winners that the locals were not in shape or the slaughter among the "water waggon advocates" would have been terrible. Lindsay can pick up a team any time that can trim the electric city bunch to the veins of nicety. Peterborough may not think so, but we can do it, nevertheless.

The boys were treated handsomely by the T.A.S. The crowd at the game treated the boys fairly, and while they would like to have pulled out a victory, still they were satisfied in having given their opponents a pretty stiff argument.

THE GOLF CLUB WINS TWICE

The Peterborough Golf Club has been successful in two games with outside clubs this week. On Monday they defeated Port Hope by a score of 5 to 1, and yesterday they entertained the High Park Club, of Toronto, beating them by 6 to 3. The scores were as follows:

| Peterborough. | Port Hope. |
|---|---|
| 1, Rev. Henderson | Chisholm, 0. |
| 1, Neill. | Boultbee, 0. |
| 1, Burnett. | Schwartz, 0. |

SPECIAL PRIZES AT GALWAY FAIR

A number of special prizes are being offered in connection with the annual fair of the Galway Agricultural Society which will be held at Kinmount on Friday and Saturday of this week.

They include a prize for the family having the largest number of its members on the grounds on the last day of the fair—a set of dishes, donated by Hon. J. R. Stratton, M. P.; a prize for the best display of home-made bread and buns, donated by Dr. Mason, M.P.P.; a prize for the best 50 pounds of tub butter, given by A. Y. Hopkins, and for the best 5 pounds of butter, in prints, given by J. J. Doherty.

Col. Sam Hughes, M.P., offers a prize for the best collection of ladies' fancy work that has not been shown before.

THE HEART A GREAT WORKER

What a wonder is the heart! Day and night it works away pumping tons of blood through the body and never tires or wears out so long as it is supplied with rich, red blood, such as is formed by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. While sending supplies of nutrition to other parts of the body the heart renews and rebuilds its own wasted cells and so retains health and strength.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

SHEFFIELD CHOIR.

Liverpool, Sept. 4. — In musical circles the greatest interest is being taken in the scheme of the Sheffield Musical Union, whose members, reinforced by affiliated singers from Leeds, Southport, and other festival societies, under the leadership of Dr. Coward and Dr. Harriss, intend to 1911 to tour the whole English-speaking world.

Dr. Harriss has visited all the colonies, and has promises of the warmest support and co-operation.

The present intention is to remain some 40 days in Canada, 35 in New Zealand and Australia, and 21 in South Africa. The chorus will be limited to 200, and the keenest competition is being shown amongst singers to secure places. Over 50 tenors alone up to now have applied and other voices in proportion.

The tour will open in March, 1911, when the chorus will leave Liverpool for Canada. The scheme involves an expenditure of over $250,000.

The works to be performed are: "Messiah," "Elijah," "Hymn of Praise," "The Kingdom," "Golden Legend," Bach's "Mass in B Minor," Berlioz's "Faust," etc. As a rule, eight concerts — six evening and two afternoon—will be given each week.

APPEARED HERE.

Scott Welch and Frances Gordon who were seen at the Grand last season in Cohan's "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway" are appearing in a new Cohan production entitled "The Man Who Owns Broadway". Raymond Hitchcock accepts the title role and Mr. and Mrs. Welch are among the strong supporting cast. The new musical was tried out on the dog in Cleveland, and gives promise of making good.

Will Archer, the pocket edition comedian, who played the part of the stable boy in "Wildfire," Lillian Russel's vehicle, last year, is at the Great Northern in Chicago, in vaudeville.

Professional people, actors, lawyers, doctors and ministers, who frequently suffer from exhaustion and prostration as a result of excessive nervous strain find Ferrovim the invigorating tonic unequalled to strengthen and renew the exhausted tissues of their body. Ferrovim is composed of fresh, lean beef, Citrate of Iron, pure Old Spanish Sherry Wine. $1.00 per bottle.

FAREWELL ADDRESS

A service of special interest will be held in the Charlotte St. Methodist Church this evening when Mr. R. J. Cox who leaves to-morrow morning to take up missionary work in the Northwest will deliver a farewell address. His many friends and well wishers will no doubt avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing him and wishing him God speed.

DRESSY WOMEN WILL CARRY 15 LBS. OF CLOTHES, NOT 5

PETTICOAT MADE WITH SHORT OSTRICH PLUMES SHORT TULLE AND TUCKED
VELVET
MORE ABOVE BANDS WITH DEEP FOLDS
SKIRT PUFFED UP IN FOLDS
ELABORATE GIRDLE WITH MANY FOLDS
FOREL DRAPED PANNIER OR SCARF
VELVET
LAID IN DEEP PLEATS ALL AROUND
BROAD BAND VELVET

Just sit down and figure up how much a new frock like this will cost you. Is it any wonder the merchant and the dressmaker are looking so contented?

And it's all true. The order of the coming fall styles is that we carry 15 pounds of clothes instead of five. The pannier was the first step, and now we have beside the pannier the wide and full pleated skirt, tucked coats on which even the sleeves are laid in deep folds in order to use up material, and girdles that are extravagantly full—all of which takes yards and yards of fabric.

And petticoats! If we wear only one, it must have at least ten full ruffles on it. But to be really fashionable we ought to wear at least three. We do adore frills, and frilling undergarments will be the proper thing hereafter.

The waist, is to be smaller, and hips, and bust larger, which means new fashions in corsets, and that the figure is quite likely to be natural once more.

But, "they say," these short, wide skirts, are easy to walk in, and that, as a consequence, women will be more graceful than they could ever be in the narrow skirts of the past season. And it means, too, that the plump woman has come into her own again.

The above beautiful fall fashion model gives an idea of how extravagant women must be if they are to keep abreast of the styles this fall and winter. This outfit weighs just 15 pounds.

"East Ward Has Got Nothing But Dirt Since The Union," Ald. Morgan Tells Council

Alderman Harry Morgan protesting at the Council meeting last night that the East Ward was not receiving sufficient attention said: "We got nothing but dirt since we joined with the city and it is about time that something was being done."

The question was introduced by Alderman Morgan asking Alderman Phelan why he had not sent the sidewalk gang to Charlotte street.

"At the last Council meeting, if I remember rightly, you were authorized to proceed next to Charlotte street, and then you were to have the entire outfit brought over to East City."

"You are mistaken, Alderman Morgan," the chairman of the Board of Works answered. "That motion was to the effect that the work should be done this year and it will."

"Have you finished at Benson street?"

"Yes," Alderman Phelan replied.

"Where are the men now?"

"On Betnune street."

Alderman Morgan asked the city clerk if his statement re the motion to go to Charlotte street next was not right. Mr. Armstrong said that the report from the committee was "for this summer" and not directly after Benson street.

"I remember Alderman Duncan having held out for the work to be done immediately after Benson avenue, and that's the way I recall it."

Alderman Morgan said Alderman Gillespie was rather quiet about East City, but he had said that if Alderman Phelan did not send the "gang" over soon he would begin to "holler."

"I just want to jog his memory," Mr. Mayor."

Alderman Gillespie's name having been drawn into the little controversy which had all the other members smiling he briefly stated his case. "Alderman Phelan promised me that he was coming over to East City as soon as he had finished the present walk and I trusted that he would do so. I therefore have not said anything since as I was satisfied that we would not be neglected."

Alderman Morgan said that the East Ward had been overlooked before. "We've got nothing but dirt since we united with the city. I kick a little about the treatment and I assure you that it is not an easy matter. However, we'll keep at it till we get what we've been promised."

Alderman Buller concluded the discussion by remarking that Alderman Gillespie was doing all that could be done for East City, was standing up for the rights of the people of that ward and would not see them neglected.

Sheaves On Thousands Of Acres While Farmers Seek Men To Help Stack Them

Late Reports From the West Where Harvest is in Full Swing—Farmers go on Trains to Hire Men—Big Crop in Saskatchewan

MOSQUITOES A GOOD SIGN

Regina, Sept. 4.—The Central West has been rejoicing in ideal harvest weather. The crop is now assured, and it will be a good one. There is still a small chance of damage by frost in the wheat fields that are late in ripening, but each fine day reduces the danger nearer to the vanishing point. The major portion of the wheat crop is practically safe.

In Southern Saskatchewan the wheat was later in ripening than in Manitoba, and in the northern part of this province. This is accounted for by the heavier nature of the soil and by the prolonged rains of July and August.

In my last letter I said the cutting would not be general in the southern part of this province before the 25th of August. Binders were humming by the 19th and 20th, hot weather having advanced many fields quickly, but it was not until the week of the 23rd that operations began in earnest. With two or three binders cutting an eight-foot swath each, eight days have made a wonderful difference in these fields. There is still much cutting to be done, but all the fields are golden with the harvest. The danger point from frost is practically past; it would still do damge if it came, but not as great damage as when the grain was ripening.

No Eight-Hour Day

Following an intensely hot day a thunderstorm developed on the night of the 26th, followed by a cool day on the 27th, with threats o ffrost. There was anxiety in the West that night, but fortunately a good breeze continued to blow. The weather since has been superb. Harvesting operations are being carried on with a rush, and there is no eight-hour day in this industry.

Villagers Impressed

Despite the small arm yof labourers who have poured in from the East, there is a pronounced scarcity of labour. Manitoba has been objecting that this Province obtained the lion's share of the labourer's. However, the Province could easily set to work many more men. At Abernethy everybody available in the village has been pressed into service. Many places are crying out for men.

Between Arcola and Regina, on the Moose Mountain branch of the C.P.R., thousands of acres have been cut down and the sheaves left lying where they are thrown by the binder, owing to the dirth of men to stook them up.

I met a man to-day who has two thousand acres in crop near Tyvan, on this line. He has hired every man he can get to leave the trains and was in Regina to-day looking for more.

Young men who have come West on the harvest excursions, will find abundance of work at good wages, and for a considerable period of time. When the grain is cut and stooked the steam threshing machines with their gangs of eighteen or twenty men and several teams pull into the fields and begin to thresh the grain. In some districts the wheat is stacked, but this is seldom done on the large farms on the open plains.

Proper Stacking Saves

Admittedly proper stacking improves the sample of grain and prevents much waste, but on these large farms the advantage has to be foregone, as there is neither time nor labour for this work. The harvest hands will be kept busy following the threshing mills and at other work until Christmas, in some cases later, if they will remain. Wages run as high as $2 and $2.50 per day, and from $4 to $5 for teams at the threshing.

Threshing is not yet general in this province, but it will be started shortly. The actual threshing returns give the best tests of the out-turn. Those best capable of judging will be disappointed sorely if the out-turn this year does not prove to be an excellent one, both as to yield per acre and the quality of the grain. It is confidently expected that Saskatchewan will show an average yield of between seventeen and eighteen bushels per acre. Many fields will yield magnificently, and despite careless farming and occasional damage by storms or by lodgings the average will be good. This Province will undoubtedly have over 50,000,000 bushels of wheat. Such a harvest means much in advancing the prosperity of the country.

Mosquitoes Mean Good Wheat

For the first time in fifteen years, remarked a farmer the other day, we have been bothered with mosquitoes when driving the binder. The mosquito crop this year has been wonderfully prolific. Usually this plague disappears in the latter part of July or early in August. This year are alive and healthy at the en August. This fact is accounted by the prevalence of rain late in season. Old-time farmers say th good mosquito year is a good w year. Even at that most people w have been willing to dispense the mosquito.

The effect of the good crop the business world is already ma and it will have a more marked fluence later on. The agricul implement men have had an exce season in their business. A ma improvement in business gener without the boom features of c years, seems assured as a resu the very gratifying crop og 19 M.C.B. in Toronto Sar.

MISERABLE BOY MONARCH

London, Sept. 4.—The twelve-year-old Shah of Persia does not want to be monarch, according to the Court news sent from Teheran. But the new Government, which deposed his father, feels compelled to hold the heir to the accident of birth, and practically, if not literally, to chain him to his throne.

He speaks of himself the most unhappy boy in Persia, and only looks through continued tears at the efforts of his custodians to please him with the luxuries of the palace. He cries to go back to his father, but the Government calmy proceeds to settle his life for him, to get him a royal harem together, and to make preparations for his official marriage within the coming year and the coincident national rejoicings.

But he will not be reconciled. He seeks for escape from his magnificent palace of Sultanatabad. He wept so continuously that his custodians thought it wise to fetch his mother to his side. But his mother, on arriving, only joined her tears and sighs to his. She believes the Government finally murder her boy, and her presence makes him little less persistent in his cries to join his father in exile.

More than once has the boy king endeavoured to fly his palace, in much the same spirit as another urchin might attempt to run away from a hated school. The other day it is related, he proposed a race whilst out riding with his attendants. He took the race in the direction of the Russian Legation, some eight miles away where his father had sought protection and he cleverly managed to get a good lead.

But his courtiers quickly understood the trick, and one overtaking him, and riding neck-and-neck, declared he would have to shoot himself on the spot if His Majesty did not cease the effort to escape him. The boy thereupon was forced to rein up and return, almost within sight of a carriage which his father (whose brain and secret friends engineered the plot) had sent to pick him up.

The ex-Shah, who has gone into exile, had expressed the greatest anxiety for the success of this ruse, and when his empty carriage returned, it is said, he broke down utterly.

SOUTH MONAGHAN AND ITS FALL FAIR

Examiner Special.

Bensfort, Sept 8.—The South Monaghan Agricultural Society will hold their 44th annual exhibition on October 6 and 7th. The officers are putting forth every effort to make this one of the best fairs in the history of the society. A new feature this year will be a prize for school children 14 years and under, for girls, 2 loaves of bread not to be less than 2 lbs. in weight, and for the boys, a sheaf of the best oats to be named and not less than 8 inches in diameter.

There will be foot races, etc., and a general good time is expected.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

Another season is again upon us, and we anticipate a large increase in membership and in the attendance at the different classes.

Miss Nicholls' class, which was so successful last year, will be continued this season. Miss Nicholls teaches the different English subjects in a most interesting way. She will be at the Y.W.C.A. Thursday evening of the week, when she hopes to meet with all girls who would like to join the class, so that the class can be formed at once. There is no fee for this class. It is one of the members' privileges. The gymnasium classes will be formed next week. Watch the paper for further information.

The bible class will meet as usual on Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

Regular Meeting Held Last Night —Property Committee to Proceed With Isolation Hospital— Ald. Hicks Says Fixed Expenditure is Increasing Too Rapidly.

COMMUNICATIONS RECEIVED

The regular meeting of the City Council was held last night with Mayor Rush in the chair and all the aldermen present, excepting Ald. Duncan and Ald. McIntyre. A preliminary meeting was held down stairs, when, in committee the Council considered the whole agreement between the city and the Peterborough Light and Power Co, the terms of which were published in Saturday's issue of the Examiner. Certain clauses were fully discussed, and some of the aldrmen considered that the matter should be very carefully handled since a term of thirty years is involved. On motion it was decided to send it back to the Manufacturers Committee with a view to having certain clauses reconsidered. This discussion occupied an hour and a half, and it was ten o'clock before the aldermen entered the Council Chamber. Several deputations had been waiting from eight o'clock, one of which desired to be heard. A number of the residents of Princess street were desirous of learning what steps were being taken towards extension of Aylmer street. They waited until about ten minutes to eleven o'clock and then started away in a body. Several of them returned and on motion they were given a hearing.

Communications.

The following communications were received:

From R. H. Hunter, asking permission to proceed with the erection of a building on George street, between London and McDonnel streets, with two bricks in the second storey, and three in the first, instead of three all the way up through the two stories, as required by the Fire By-law. He stated that he had been advised by several contractors that three bricks in the walls were not necessary in the second story. On motion, this was referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

Messrs. Dumble & Johnson, representing Thomas Mitchell, lessee of the City farm—the Hilliard property, notified the Council that he had placed a claim of $50.00 against the City for a loss occasioned by placing the small pox tent on his leased premises.—Referred to the City Trust Commissioners.

Statement of Roll.

The following statement was received from Tax Collector Green:

Mr. Thos. Moore, 365 Mark street, wrote asking for the position of janitor of the new public library.—Property Committee.

Geo. W. Wegg, 213 London street, was another applicant for the janitorship of the new library.—Property Committee.

From Weir & O'Brien, coal and wood merchants, complaining about being taxed for street watering on Robinson street, and that street is not watered.

From the Peterborough Cereal Company enclosing the declaration which is required by the city before the fixed assessment is allowed.

From Mrs. John Cadigan notifying the council that the sewer in Ward 5, which empties in the "cess pool" was leaking into her well and the water was not fit to use. If not remedied at once she would come on the city for damages.

From the Board of Railway Commissioners of Canada, notifying the council that their application to construct a sewer near the G. T. R tracks at Reid street had been granted.

It was also recommended that the following petitions for sidewalks as local improvements, be granted, as they are sufficiently signed: Antrim street, north side, from the Grand Trunk Railway track to Bethune St.; Charlotte street, south side, from Park street to Maitland Ave.; Albert street, south side, from Lafayette street to Alfred street; Maitland Ave., east side, from King to Charlotte street; Charlotte street, north side, from Park street to Downie street; Waterford street, east side, from London street to McDonnell street; St. Joseph street, east side, from Charlotte street to Gilmour street; Aberdeen Ave., north side, from Aylmer street to the Grand Trunk Railway.

Some of these have already been laid.

Property Committee.

The Property Committee's report introduced the Isolation Hospital question. It was finally passed, the plans, as submitted, being accepted.

Ald. Hicks said he opposed the Isolation Hospital costing $12,000, on the grounds that the fixed expenditures of the city were increasing too rapidly at this stage of Peterborough's development. Ald. Bradburn replied that the Property Committee had gone into the question thoroughly with Dr. McPherson, and it was agreed that a cheap building would cost practically the same as that which was under consideration.

Dr. McPherson explained that to treat the patients comfortably and properly required a fairly good building. "You would not wish to put up a building to which you would not send your own children. Besides, the better the building the better the class of patients. The cost of maintenance will be practically the same, no matter what is the value of the building. The maintenance is not for the building, but for the patients and the more modern the building the less help will be required."

To Ald. Morrow he said he was satisfied with the plans.

To Ald. Duffus, Dr. McPherson replied that he could not state the cost of the maintenance. It would depend upon the number of patients, and in any case would amount to several thousand dollars. The equipment was included in the total estimated cost of $15,000.

Ald. Morrow considered the Isolation Hospital was necessary if it did cost $15,000.

Alderman Turner stating that he considered the Fair a worthy cause, asked Alderman Morrow if the city's grant of $300 could not be exceeded slightly. The "Finance Minister" replied that $300 was the amount set aside in the appropriations and that was the best that could be done.

COLLEGIATE CADETS CORPS PASS AN EXCELLENT INSPECTION

Report of Lieut.-Col. Hemming Received at Board of Education Meeting Last Evening---First Session Since the Vacation--Much Business Transacted.

The first meeting of the Board of Education since the summer vacation was held last evening when considerable routine business was transacted. The following members were present: Messrs. L. M. Hayes, chairman; D.W. Dumble, B. F. Ackerman, E. F. Mason, W. F. Nelson, John Crane, W. H. Hall and Robert Fair.

The following communications were first dealt with:

An Excellent Cadet Corps

A communication was received from Mr. C. W. James, acting Deputy Minister of Education, enclosing a report of the inspection of the Collegiate Cadet Corps by the inspecting officer, Lt.-Col. T. D. R. Hemming in June last. Every detail of the drill is reported excellent and in the general remarks Lt.-Col. Hemming states that great progress has been made by the local cadet corps. The officers and sec. commanders are well up in their work, have good word of command and lots of control. All ranks are very steady and Col. Hemming speaks particularly of the good work of Lt. J. E. Hodgson, who deserves very great credit for the organization and drill of the corps. The cadets this year are to have a bugle corps. Received.

From the firms of MacGregor and Reid and Adamson and Dobbin, stating their offers to install drinking fountains in the King Edward school. Property Committee.

From Miss S. G. Davidson, teacher in the city kindergartens, asking for a year's leave of absence dating from October the first. It was moved by Dr. Burnham and seconded by Mr. Fair, that owing to the Board's inability to secure a qualified substitute the year's leave of absence be not granted and that any further action be left in the hands of the inspector and chairman of the Committee on Appointments.

From Geo. W. Hofferd, Toronto, accepting appointment on teaching staff of the Collegiate Institute.

From Misses E. H. Emmerson and Ethel Alford, accepting appointments on the teaching staff of the Public schools. Received.

From Prof. Henri Fontaine, asking to be appointed teacher of Conventional French in the city schools or only in the Collegiate, or else that he be given the use of a room free of charge for the purpose of teaching a class in French. Received but no action taken.

Report of Committee on Appointments

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

Gentlemen,—Your Committee on Appointments beg leave to report as follows:

As instructed your committee advertised for applications for the positions on the Collegiate Institute staff rendered vacant by the resignations of Mr. J. H. Adams, and Miss B. T. Bauer. After careful consideration your committee recommend that Geo. W. Hofferd be appointed to teach Junior Science, Physical Culture, and Junior English at a minimum salary of $1,200 with no increase for two years, and afterwards an increase of $50.00 a year as per salary schedule, duties to commence on September 7th. And that Miss Ethel Alford be appointed to teach Art, Calisthenics, and Junior English at a minimum salary of $1,100, duties to start September 7th.

Your committee recommend that owing to the resignation of Miss Carlisle, Miss Minnie Moore be appointed to a position on the Public School staff at a minimum salary of $400, she being the holder of a Second Class Professional Certificate, duties to start September 7th, 1909.

Respectfully submitted,
W. H. HILL, Chairman.

Upon motion the report was adopted.

Property Committee

Mr. W. F. Nelson, chairman of the Property Committee read a report presenting the improvements that were made to the various schools during the summer vacation. The report was adopted.

WEDDING BELLS

THORNTON—DAWE

A very pretty wedding was solemnized this afternoon at half past two, at the residence of Mr. D. D. C. Dawe, 479 Gilmour street, when his only daughter, Miss Nettie Gladys, was united in marriage to Mr. Wilbert Everett Thornton, of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. W. Henderson, of Charlotte Street Methodist Church, in the presence of only the immediate friends and relatives of the contracting parties.

The bride, who was given away by her father, looked very pretty in a dress of cream silk eolienne with trimmings of embroidered chiffon. She carried cream roses. She was unattended. After the ceremony and hearty congratulations had been bestowed upon the young couple, a dainty wedding repast was partaken of.

Mr. and Mrs. Thornton left on the 4:38 C.P.R. train for a trip to Detroit, Mich. On their return they will reside at 266 Rubidge street. Mrs. Thornton travelled in a suit of amethyst cloth with hat to match.

KINGDON—DOUGHTY

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday afternoon, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Doughty, 362 Water street, when her daughter, Miss Florence May, was united in marriage to Mr. Stanley Kingdon, of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Robt. Pogue, of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, in the presence of a large number of invited guests. The bride looked very pretty in a dress of bishop lawn. She wore the conventional bridal veil and carried white roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Stella Doughty, sister of the bride, was attired in a gown of Copenhagen blue. She carried pink roses. The groom was supported by Mr. Nelson Tamblyn.

After the ceremony and hearty congratulations had been bestowed upon the young couple, the guests sat down to a sumptuous wedding repast. A large array of beautiful presents was received by the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Kingdon left on the 4:38 train for Toronto, Niagara and Buffalo, and on their return will reside on Barnardo avenue.. Mrs. Kingdon travelled in a suit of Copenhagen blue with hat to match.

KINGSCOTE—NOYES.

The marriage of Miss Carrie Noyes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Noyes, Munroe Ave., East City, to Mr. Chas. H. Kingscote, of this city, was solemnized this morning at 7.15, at St. John's Church by Rev. Canon Davidson. The young couple were unattended, and the bride was attired in a travelling suit of navy blue with hat to match.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Kingscote left on the 8 o'clock train for Toronto and Niagara. On their return they will reside n Park street.

OBITUARY.

WILLIAM EDWARD COOK

An old resident was lost to Peterborough by the death of Mr. Edward E. Cook, at his late residence, 92 Douro street this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. The deceased has been ill during the past three months and slowly sunk until it seemed to his family and friends that the end could not be far off. The late Mr. Cook was in his 74th year and was born at Cape Rich, Gray County, near Owen Sound. Forty-six years ago he was married at Harwood to Miss Anne Cain, and forty years ago they moved to Peterborough, where they have resided continuously ever since. The surviving family is the wife and the following children, one daughter Mrs. Ed. Wease, Mark street, East City, and the following sons, Edward, Fred and George, all of Peterborough. Other relatives are the late Mr. Cook's brothers and sisters as follows: Samuel, of Vancouver; John, of Harwood; Garrett, of Midland; Mrs. Vanatto, of Midland, and Mrs. Whelan, of Parry Sound. The deceased was a member of the Mark St. Methodist Church and a member of the Orange Order. The funeral will be held on Friday at three o'clock from the family residence, 92 Douro street, to othe Little Lake cemetery.

BASEBALL

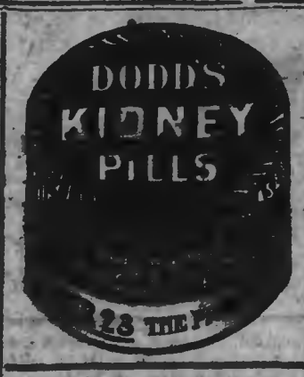
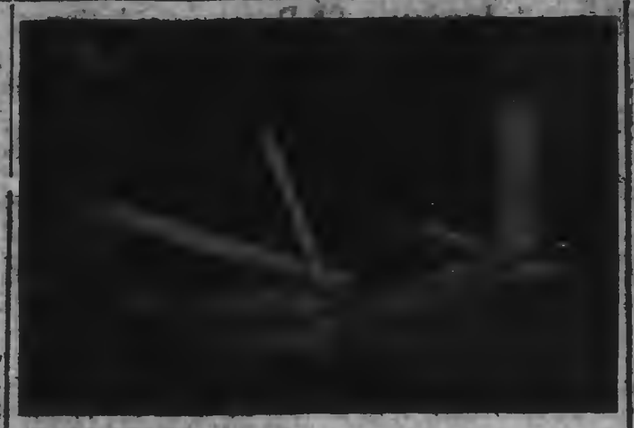
The date for the final game in the City Baseball League, between West Ends and T. A. S. has not yet been decided upon by the League Executive. The game will not be played this week at Riverside Park, which has been secured for the athletic meet on that date.

* * *

Jerry Edmunds, Peterborough's catcher last season, is going "great guns" with the stick for the Winnipeg team of the North Western League. The other day in a double-header he banged out three hits out of four times at bat in the first game, and in the second engagement handed in two singles and a sacrifice out of three times up. He is being played every day by the Maroon manager on account of his demon work with the willow.





The cement tank here shown was erected by Mr. George Martin, of Westlake, Prince Edward County, this year, at an expense of $6 to $8, including labor. The water is pumped into the tank through the pipe shown in the illustration. An overflow pipe carries off the surplus water, while another pipe runs off from the bottom of the tank making it possible to empty it. The cover of the tank is open. When this is closed and the cans are immersed in the water, it makes almost an ideal method of caring for cream and butter. The piping connected with the tank cost about $1. # ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM HAVELOCK

Special to The Examiner.

Havelock, Sept. 7.—Mrs. A E. McGuire and daughter, Miss Maudie, who have spent the past month in Woodstock, the guest of her mother, Mrs. McKenna, returned home Thursday.

Miss Georgina Falkner is spending the week with friends at Toronto.

Mrs. Thos. Deegan, accompanied by her moother, Mrs. Cain, of Montreal, are spending the week with friends at Toronto.

Mrs. Thos. Deegan, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Cain, of Montreal, are spending the week with friends at Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Black and family returned from Kingston Thursday, after three weeks' vacation with friends.

Mr. Richardson, of Norwood, was in town Thursday on business.

Miss Lillian Campbell is spending a few days with friends in Toronto.

The Christie family, who have spent the summer months at their cottage, Trent River, returned to Toronto this week.

Mr. Ed. Williams and children returned home Thursday after a week's vacation with friends at Carleton Place.

Mr. Oscar Hicks is holidaying with friends at Toronto and London.

Mr. Eric West, of Trent Bridge, left last week for Ottawa, where he will spend a short time before going west, where, in future, he will reside.

Mr. Holcombe, of Trenton, is the guest of his son, Mr. Wellington Holsombe of town.

Messrs. Thos. Bennett, Alex. Ross, W. A. McMaster, F. C. McMaster, A. C. Denike, F. J. Squire, Elias Williams, H. Williams and families have all returned from Trent River, where they have spent the warm summer months at their cottages.

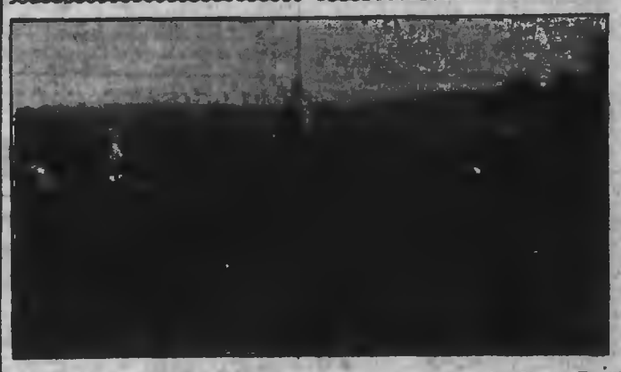
We are sorry to have to report the illness of Dr. Holdcroft, of town, and hope for a speedy recovery.

Miss Clara Major left on Thursday morning for her home at Philadelphia after spending the past two months in town, the guest of her sister Mrs. Thos. Lloyd. On her way back she will spend a short time at Buffalo the guest of friends.

Mrs. Harry Andrews returned home from Creemore on Thursday, where she has been holidaying the past month, the guest of he parents, Mr and Mrs. Reesin.

Miss Stella Voyer was in Peterborough Thursday.

Mr. S. J. Crossett, Omaha Icing Agent, of Buffalo, is in town for a few days, viewing the work done at this point.



Instead of retiring from the farm and going to a town or city, Mr. A. Terrill of Northumberland Co., Ont., finds profitable as well as congenial employment in managing and working the five-acre berry patch on his brother's farm. Mr. Terrill lays great stress on having his work done properly. The clean culture and the vigor of the rows of strawberries in the illustration give evidence of Mr. Terrill's pains in caring for his charge. The girls in the left background are picking blackberries.

ENORMOUS LOSS FROM WEEDS

From Farm and Dairy.

If we could see in figures the enormous loss that is annually sustained through growing weeds, we would be more willing, than many of us are, to spend time and money in better cultivation. The loss is not only in the decreased yield of hay, grain corn or roots, but in the extra labor weeds entail in handling the crop. It takes more power to cut grain where weeds abound, more twine to bind, more labor in stooking, more time to dry the grain, more labor in hauling to the barn, more storage room, more threshing, not to mention the inferior quality of the straw when mixed with weeds. There is no compensation for this extra labor and outlay.

Farms so overrun with weeds that they yield little or no profit to their owners, are not uncommon. Where labor is scarce and hard to get it might be found profitable to concentrate the labor on fewer acres and get more of the land seeded to grass. Weeds that are common in our grain crops are seldom troublesome in hay or pasture fields. The right kind of cows will make profitable use of all the hay and pasture produced.

GINSENG GROWING

From Farm and Dairy.

How large will the roots of ginseng grow?—P. L. E., Lanark Co., Ont.

Roots six years old from the seed, if grown under the best possible conditions, will easily weigh on an average four ounces, when green. Twenty-five such roots will weigh when dry two and a quarter pounds, while the same number if grown under adverse conditions might not yield more than half of the above quantity. It all depends on the care and attention given. I believe that the size of the root can be increased. For instance, large vigorous plants indicate a large root beneath; by going through the garden early in summer and pinching off all the berries from the smaller plants and using no seeds for propagation but those from large vigorous plants, we can produce a larger strain of ginseng.—Wm. Gilgore, Peterboro, Ont.

From Home to Home.

He was afraid to tell her right out and out that he loved her, so he began in a roundabout way, hoping she would catch his drift, then betray, by her confusion, her own feelings. He didn't dream but that she loved him, but thought that she, like himself, was afraid to demonstrate it.

"Heart trouble," she repeated. "Are you sure you've heart trouble, Alfred? You know indigestion is very like it at times."

"Oh, I know I've got heart trouble, all right. I—can't you see it yourself?"

"Why, how silly, Alfred! No one can see heart trouble. They have to feel it. Have you taken anything for it?"

"No, not yet. But I—I want to, don't you know."

"Then why don't you?"

"I—I would—that is, if I could get it."

"Can't you get it, Alfred?"

"I—I don't know."

"Have you tried?"

"No, not yet."

(Silence for two provoking moments.)

"Alfred!" (coldly).

"I-yes."

"Let's have a game of checkers."

Walking.

The ordinary man who is employed indoors throughout the day does not walk enough. He needs the fresh air and sunshine of the outdoors, and, no matter how tired he may be, a short time in the open air will rest him. If he has no opportunity to walk during the evening, he ought to do it in the morning. There is no better tonic than a two mile walk before going to work. Some business men who live some distance from their offices or stores walk down regularly every morning and are greatly benefited thereby. No matter how sluggish they may feel on arising, the morning walk puts them in good trim for the day's work. Exercise in the open air starts the blood to circulating in every artery and vein in the entire system, opens up the pores of the skin, so that the waste matter in the body may be set free, limbers up the joints and muscles and puts one in shape for the duties of the day.—St. Joseph Gazette

Blackmail by Carrier Pigeon.

Blackmail by carrier pigeon is the very latest novelty in Paris. On Sunday night a tradesman received an anonymous letter the writer of which declared that he would disclose certain secrets of the tradesman unless he received £100, to be sent by carrier pigeon. "On Tuesday morning," he was told, "four carrier pigeons will be sent you. Each bird carries under its wing a little case, in which you will place a forty pound note. You will then set the pigeons free, and if they do not return to me by midday I shall know what to do."—Paris Cor. London Express.

A Giant Maine Pine.

A pine stump six feet and seven inches through is a curiosity on a piece of land in Phillips, north of the road leading to Thomas Vining's from the Nehemiah Haines place. Augustus Vining says that his father and uncle felled the tree, sawed and bolted the butt of it and shaved 25,000 shingles and 1,000 feet of boards from it. This pine stump measured more than seven feet across before it rotted around the edges and lost its bark and a part of the wood on the outer edges.—Kennebec Journal.

No Use of Stopping.

Nervous Friend—I—I almost fancy you've run into some one. Hadn't you better stop?

Experienced Driver—What for? The car's running beautifully. I can tell in a minute if anything's damaged.—Bystander.

Against All Tradition.

"That wealthy old fellow is a queer chap."

"How so?"

"Never claims he was happier when he was poor. Always says he's happier now."—Kansas City Journal.

Under a Dark Moon.

Dolly—The motorboat is superior to the canoe even if we do have to carry a chaperon.

Dick—I should say so. The "chug-chug" makes such a racket she couldn't hear a smack to save herself.—Chicago News.

Now at It.

"I heard there were some startling developments in the Bangs family."

"Dear me! What is the matter?"

"The eldest boy has just become an amateur photographer." — Baltimore American.

Kills the Bugs Feeds the Plant with Bug Death

NON-POISONOUS

Recommended by Ontario Agricultural College Guelph, Ontario

They report Bug Death has made an excellent record in each of the past two years. The potatoes on which the Bug Death was applied were more vigorous in growth and greener in appearance throughout each of the seasons than those on which other applications were made.

DO YOU WANT BETTER CROPS?

Of course you do. Well, the way is clear. Use Bug Death and you'll not only have a heavier crop, but larger potatoes of better quality.

Write or call and we'll tell you some more good things of this celebrated Bug Killer and Fertilizer, both in one.

ROYAL THEATRE

FOR HER SWEETHEART'S SAKE

A most beautiful drama which is up-to-date. It tells a story of the love of "Mollie", the niece of the wealthy man, for "Philip" his clerk, and the troubles they have and the exciting adventures they go through, and how they get married in June and live happy ever afterward.

PRINCESS NICOTINE, OR THE SMOKE FAIRY.

This is one of the best trick photographic pictures ever seen at the Royal. It portrays a gentleman going to sleep while having a smoke, and how the Fairy gets into his pipe and the many tricks she plays for him. No one should miss seeing Miss Nicotine.

THE SWORD AND THE KING

This is a "High Art" film, and one of the best produced by The Vitagraph Co. The story is from mediaeval history and is most interesting, showing the wickedness of a tyrant king, and his punishment for the same. It is a picture that should not be missed.

Mr. Loftus will sing one of the latest up-to-date songs entitled:—"On a Monkey Honeymoon."

FARMS ARE GOING BACK

Majority of Ontario Farmers, Mr. Drury Said, Were Not Making a Dividend Equal to Four or Five Per Cent. on the Capital Invested — Weeds Were Increasing While Men Are Scarce.

Toronto, Sept. 9.—That Ontario is yearly losing ground as an agricultural province because farming does not receive the consideration given by the Government to other industries, was the somewhat jarring note struck by E. C. Drury, master of the Dominion Grange at the Farmers' Day directors' luncheon at the Exhibition yesterday. The guests included Hon. James Duff, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, and G. C. Creelman, president of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. Vice-President J. G. Kent was chairman.

E. C. Drury, master of the Dominion Grange, said that while agriculture was a basic industry and the agricultural college was doing great work, he felt pessimistic over the outlook. Farming conditions in Ontario were not what they should be. General farming industry was not prospering as it ought. The majority of Ontario farms were not making a dividend equal to four or five per cent. on the capital invested. The majority of farmers were going back despite the excellent instruction. Weeds were increasing, while the number of men to cope with the conditions was growing less. It might be a surprise to many people to know that the agricultural population of the province was decreasing at the rate of 6,000 a year. This was not due to farming machinery, but because farmers were not able to hold their own in competition with other industries. In the interests of the country, it was time that the farmer should be given a square deal. Urban industries were protected by tariff and bonuses given iron and steel mines, and the farmer had to bear the burden. The great papers were not in touch with the farmer and the urban population took no interest.

DOCTOR BELIEVED TO HAVE DISMEMBERED GIRL'S BODY

Head and Limbs Found in Marsh—Young Canadian Supposed to be Involved in Death of Mabel Millman is Sought by Authorities.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 9.—At eleven o'clock last night detectives arrested Dr. George A. Fritch, No. 655 Trumbell avenue, charged with the murder of Mabel Millman, whose dismembered body was found in the Marsh on Monday.

He is a Canadian, his old home being at Drumbo, Ont., where his relatives still reside. He is considered wealthy.

The arrest was based on a story told the police by Martha Henning, and was only obtained after a gruelling inquisition.

The case may yet possess further peculiar Canadian interest, owing to the fact the the police are looking earnestly for William Desmond, a 19-year-old boy, whose home is in Toronto, and who disappeared at identically the same time as did Miss Millman.

Desmond, according to a story told the police by his brother-in-law yesterday, was deeply enamored of an Ann Arbor girl, and this girl left her home on this same day as Miss Millman, and started for Detroit to meet Desmond. Her name is not known.

By concealing the real purpose of her visit to Detroit, and deceiving her mother and intimate friends, Mabel Millman unwitting shielded her murderers. The Detroit authorities expect that the receipt for the registered letter she received at her home in Ann Arbor, will definitely disclose the identity of the person and persons responsible for her death.

During the two weeks that Miss Millman roomed with her chum, Martha Henning, in this city, she did not mention the secret trouble that is believed to have brought her to her death. Miss Millman and Miss Henning had been very close friends in Ann Arbor, and Miss Millman told her mother the day she started to Detroit, August 13, that Miss Henning had sent her the money to make the visit. This Miss Henning absolutely denies.

Dr. W. S. Grimes, county physician, who made the postmortem, says that the body was dismembered by a surgeon or an advanced medical student. The head was cut off evenly at the shoulders, at a slight slant and the arms were removed at the sockets. The body was then cut in two, an inch and a half below the ribs. The legs were amputated an inch below the knees and a saw was used to sever the bones. The cuts were sharp and clean.

The distorted features and the clenched hands indicate that the girls died either after a desperate struggle or in great agony. Dr. Grimes believed the girl died while under an operation.

WAS LOCKED UP FOR HOURS IN A VAULT IN CEMETERY

William Lawson, Elginburg, Justice of the Peace, Had a Terrifying Experience—Cries Were Unheard and He Was in a Terrible Condition of Mind When Finally Rescued by Chance.

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Kingston, Sept. 9.—Wm. Lawson, Justice of the Peace of Elginburg, was accidentally locked in a vault in Sydenham cemetery while making an examination of the place. For more than twenty-four hours he endured his terrible imprisonment, his cries for assistance being unheard, and it was only when the vault was opened to admit of the deposit of a body that he was released in a terrible condition of mind and nearly famished.

WHITNEY NOT IN SYMPATHY WITH ANTI-TUBERCULOSIS PLANS

Deputation Was Told That Finances Had to be Considered —Not a Case for the Government to Handle—Trust Medical Science.

Toronto, Sept. 9.—Sir James Whitney did not give an enormous amount of encouragement to a deputation of about forty representing the Association of Ontario Municipalities for the Betterment of Consumptives which waited upon him yesterday, asking that the Government establish two or more sanitaria where indigent patients could receive proper treatment.

Dr. Lockhart, Hespeler, introduced the deputation. He said that state sanitaria formed the best means for fighting the disease. They were anxious for the Government to take hold of the question, and if it did not think the suggestion of the association best, to adopt what it (the Government), was assured would be the best method of procedure. He thought there was wisdom in not acting too hastily. The difficulty appeared to him to be in the fact that indigent cases did not reach the physician until an advanced stage had been reached, and hospitals did not care to received advanced cases.

"There is no room for argument for the need of some improvement in the treatment of the disease," declared Sir James Whitney in reply, "but I think we can trust medical science to keep pace with the times. There is nothing easier for men or municipalities to say 'Let us get the Government to take hold of this thing'." He thought there was a limit to the powers of any Governments. The Government must face the question from the standpoint of an ordinary business transaction. The Government is a trustee for the people and must not fritter away their money. Within the last five years many heavy responsibilities had been placed upon them.

"Supposing we have the means, where are we to stop? Why not open a sanitaria for smallpox?" the Premier continued.

A voice: "That is not a parallel case."

The Premier was in favor of withdrawing the grant from any hospital that refused to take in a tuberculosis patient.

"It has been suggested," observed Sir James, "that when a doctor finds tubercular in the system of a patient, he should notify the Government, which would send down—not to him—but to the patient, a mass of papers to be read by the women in the post-offices, that he may be boycotted in the neighborhood. It is monstrous, gentlemen!"

In promising consideration to the argument, the Premier concluded by saying that it would not do for them or the people of the country to run away with the idea that the Government had only to look at the disease, and then spend money without considering the finances of the province.

TO ARBITRATE PEARY-COOK CONTROVERSY IF SO DESIRED

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Washington, Sept. 9.—The United States Coast and Geodetic Survey will undertake to arbitrate the Peary-Cook North Pole controversy, providing Dr. Cook requests that it should do so. In view of the fact that Peary has been operating under the direction of the Survey, it will become the duty of that institution to compute the commander's notes without request from any one and Acting Superintendent Perkins said to-day, that if Cook should so desire the Survey would go over his papers also.

A FOUNDATIONLESS FALLACY.

It has often been charged against the Laurier Government that taxes and duties are higher now than formerly—that the increased revenue is derived from exactions taken from the people, and other misleading and incorrect statements of this character are circulated by the Conservative press. What are the facts? In 1896, under the Conservative tariff, $18.28 was charged by the customs for every $100 worth of goods imported into the country. During the fiscal year of 1908, only $15.66 was so charged. If, since the Liberals came into power the Conservative average rate of taxation in 1896 had ben levied upon all the imports, nearly fifty million dollars more duties would have been collected. The fact is, then, that the Liberals have not only decreased the rate of duty ,but incidentlly saved the people fifty millions of dollars in taxation.

THE GROWING WEST

The Edmonton Board of Trade appreciates the importance of publicity. It has issued an "information bulletin"—a little slip 3 x 5 inches—to be attached to the correspondence of citisens indcating a desire to use every means to make the resources and develompent of the city known. This bulletin shows a remarkable growth in the Albertan capital. The growth is reflected in the statement that the customs collections show an increase from $18,008 in August, 1908, to $25,480, in August, 1909, or 42 per cent; the bank clearings were $3,032,454 in August, 1908, and $4,500,161 in the corresponding month of this year, or an increase of 48 per cent. The post office returns show an increase of 21 per cent., from $4,700 to $5,700. The greatest growth is shown in the value of the building permits taken out, an increase of 102 per cent. or from $103,252 in August, 1908, to $208,700 in August, 1909, and to cap the climax it is stated that Edmonton district is harvesting the best all-round crop in its history. The enterprise of the Edmonton Board of Trade might furnish an example to our own Board of Trade.

AN INFAMOUS TRAFFIC

Readers of the Examiner are somewhat familiar with the traffic in young girls for immoral purposes conducted by conscienceless wretches of both sexes, who take advantage of rural innocence and guileless ambition to ruin young girls body and soul, selling them into the most hopeless and horrible of white slavery. Hon. E. W. Sims, of Chicago, believes that there are not less than 15,000 foreign girls imported and sold into this traffic annually in the United States and Canada and probably three or four times as many native born girls find ther way into the same hopeless life of vice. And all to line the pockets of wealthy traffickers in women. It is no wonder that philanthropic attention is called to the necessity of checking if not destroying this infamous traffic. The poor and persons of moderate means are more likely to furnish prey to the wily degneerates, who hold out the tempting lure to poor girls of profitable employment in distant cities, with only one result, ruin and debauching. Two comparatively poor women have recently sent in each $5.00, the one to Rev. Dr. Carman, the other to the Rev. Dr. Shearer, president and secretary, respectively, of the Moral and Social Reform Council of Canada, which has undertaken the laudable and difficult task of fighting this horrible traffic. This is interdenominational, and represents—The Church of England in Canada, the Methodist Church in Canada, the Presbyterian Church in Canada, the Baptist Church in Canada, the Congregational Church in Canada, the Trades and Labour Congress of Canada, the Dominion Grange and Farmers' Association, and the Salvation Army. An appeal for funds in aid of this organization is now being sent out, and ought to meet with an encouraging response.

HELPING THE FARMERS

The Liberal Government at Ottawa, in promoting the interest of the farming community and in supplying aid to increase the products of farm dairy and orchard have benefitted the entire community. The prosperity of the farmer is the basis of general national prosperity. Banks and financial corporations and commercial interests gauge the prospects of profitable business by the outlook for the crops. Good crops to have the highest value must have the best facilities for reaching market in the best condition so that the activities of governments are concerned as much with the problem of facilitating marketing of products as with that of increasing yield and quality. The Liberal Government at Ottawa has certainly found a market for Canadian farming produce, in proportion to the opening of the northwest and the consequent increase in production. The following figures are interesting as showing the exports:

| Year. | Animal Produce. | Agricul'l Produce. | Total. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1896 | $35,507,641 | $14,083,361 | $54,591,002 |
| 1908 | 55,101,260 | 66,069,939 | 121,171,199 |
| | | Cattle | Cheese |
| 1896 | | $7,092,542 | $12,956,471 |
| 1908 | | 9,301,184 | 22,887,237 |
| | | Wheat | Value |
| 1896 | | 9,919,542 bus. | $ 5,771,521 |
| 1908 | | 43,654,668 bus. | 40,004,723 |
| | | Oats. | Value. |
| 1896 | | 968,137 bus. | $ 273,861 |
| 1908 | | 7,173,291 bus. | 3,171,509 |

Thus it is seen that the value of exports of farm products has more than doubled within the past twelve or thirteen years.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Dominion Government has named Monday, October 25th, as Thanksgiving Day. Formerly the observance fell on a Thursday, but the cliams of the commercial travellers that Monday is a more convenient day for them has prevailed. The only objection to this change is that it tends to the entire commecialisation of what was intended to serve a religious purpose. This does not seem to be justified. As well claim that religious services are secularised because they are held, as a rule, on Sundays, because the employment of this day permits of, if, it does not produce more general attendance of the people. Commercial travellers have souls to save and gratitude to be expressed. The national prosperity recognised by a Thanksgiving Day makes their business exertions successful, and if the selection of Monday will bring them to the church services, properly incidental to Thanksgiving Day, so much the better.

"BYSTANDER" CONTINUES.

"Bystander," Mr. Goldwin Smith, Toronto, who makes the Weekly Sun his medium of expression, in its last number returns to the persistent criticism of the confiscating legislation of the Whitney Government, in the following terms:

The Bystander feels sure that in dealing with the Cobalt case he said not a word at which a Government desirous of acting constitutionally could take umbrage. The Dominion Minister of Justice said that there had been an act of confiscation without compensation. A Provincial Judge showed plainly that in his opinion the gate of justice had been wrongfully closed. No explanation came from the Ontario Government in a case in which the promptest and fullest explanation would at once have been made by a British Minister. An independent journalist had surely a duty to perform. Nor, it would seem, could that duty have been more fitly or more respectfull performed than, as it was, by the submission of the case to a jurist of the highest reputation. Sir James Whitney must surely see that such questions as the right of private property and that of access to justice cannot in any community be safely left unsettled. A journal friendly to the Government frankly admits that "in the case of the power by-laws a contract is made legal which differs materially from the by-law which the people passed." This shows beyond question that there is an assumption on the part of Government which cannot be allowed to pass unchallenged, and calls for strenuous protest on the part of the independent press. What has been done, be it remembered, is not a simple Act, but one which makes a precedent."

"That the Premier of Ontario when he over-rides the law, as he unquestionably has done, and disregards private rights, believes that he is doing his best for "the people," need not be disputed. "The people," whose majesty in such cases is invoked, are a multitude without individual responsibility, without special knowledge, without concert, without forecast; easily led away by professions of devotion to them and desire to assert their supremacy. If the form of Government is arbitrary, you must be content to obey the ruler, only praying that his rule may be just. But, of populas institutions and interests held under them, the only safeguard is universal respect for law. If the law needs amendment, amended in a constitutional way let it be. But the politician who breaks through it or over-rides it on pretence of doing the will of "the people," is the people's worst enemy."

"The Sun is independent. It was brought out on that line, and it is hoped it will never swerve from it. There was a clear case in which an independent journal had to do its duty; and its duty, to the best of The Sun's ability, has been done."

—A BYSTANDER.

DESTROY THE CAUSE.

You Cannot Cure Dandruff Without Destroying the Cause of it.

Many people wash their scalps Saturday night or Sunday to try to keep the dandruff down for the week, but on Monday night the scalp has begun to itch, and Tuesday morning will find a good supply of dandruff when the hair is brushed. There is but one real scientific way of curing dandruff, and that is to kill the germ that causes it, and falling hair, and finally baldness. There is only one preparation that will destroy the germ,, and that is Newbro's Herpicide. It is an entirely new discovery and the only hair preparation that is based on the new scientific principle. In addition Herpicide is a very refreshing hair dressing for regular toilet use. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

A CRITICISM OF PREFERENTIAL TARIFFS.

(London Advertiser.)

The subject of preferential tariffs was illuminatingly discussed by Prof. Clark before the economics section of the British Association at Winnipeg, last week. Prof. Clark's address has the more significance because he is about to assume the chair of economics in the University of Manitobs.
